Marin Plan For Medical Care Going Before AMA Parley

By CHAPIN A. DAY

A Marin County plan for financing the cost of medical care on a nationwide basis goes before the American Medical Assn. convention which opens this weekend in Los Angeles.

The plan, developed by a committee of Marin doctors, was presented to the California Medical Assn. last August. Since then it has received the approval of Council of the CMA and the CMA itself. It will be introduced before the AMA convention in a series of resolutions aimed at getting approval for its basic policies. It would then be reassembled into proposed legislation for presentation to the Congress.

Basicly the Marin plan would provide a minimum of 75 per cent insurance coverage for all costs of medical illness, including doctor, hospital and other expenses. It would not include dental work.

County, state, even federal, aid would be possible through assistance with premium payments. In other words, government would provide financial aids for those not able to pay the cost of the insurance.

In the case of indigents or those with very low incomes, the government would pay the entire premium. For those with lower and medium incomes, a partial premium would be paid.

The plan proposes that the individual's gross net income, as reflected on his income tax return, be used to determine what proportion of the premium the government would pay.

Major advantage of such a plan, the Marin doctors point out, is that it completely retains a free choice by the patient of both his doctor and his insurance company.

The use of tax monies, from whatever level, implies, the doctors admit, that government will set regulations, requirements for the insurance companies and even a fee schedule for the doctors. This may cause some objections not only from some doctors but the insurance companies too. However, details can be worked out to make the proposed operation practical, they believe.

The Marin plan envisions:

1. Insurance which would cover indemnities as well as service and which would be available to individuals of all ages and income levels.

2. Insurance coverage would be by firms licensed by individual state governments.

3. At least a minimum of 75 per cent of total medical expenses incurred by an individual or his family would be covered; a higher percentage would be available.

4. The insured would be expected to pay for some portion of the medical costs whenever he is financially able. But indigents and very low income groups could get total medical coverage through their governmental agencies through existing health facilities or the purchase of additional insurance for them by the agencies.

5. A sliding scale of premium for the individual would be determined by his income; indigents pay nothing, families with adequate incomes

AIR RESERVISTS GIVING SPECIAL THANKS TODAY

Men of the 349th Troop Carrier Wing, Air Force Reserve, had special reason for thanksgiving today: they've been "deactivated."

The wing, known as the Golden Gate Wing, was called to active duty Oct. 28 as President John F. Kennedy demanded that Soviet missiles be removed from Cuba. Its 1,200 Bay Area members abandoned civilian pursuits to report immediately to Hamilton Air Force Base. Some arrived before they could even be reached with official notification.

Yesterday, the word came through from Headquarters, Tactical Air Command, to return the wing to its reserve status.

Deactivation is to be completed by Nov. 30, said Brig. Gen. Rollin B. Moore Jr., wing commander. But many of the 1,200 were already off the base, granted leave for Thanksgiving Day in advance of yesterday's order because of lessening tension over Cuba.

Army Alert Is Still On In Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nuclear bomber crews shifted to normal duty after a month on special alert. Destroyers, cruisers, carriers steamed home from the blockade. Air Force reservists prepared to become civilians again.

The United States was gradually uncoiling the buildup of its armed might which at one point in the crisis had appeared on the verge of being launched against Communist Cuba.

But in the southeastern United States, Florida in particular, there was no relaxation yet.

Thousands of Army troops, including tank forces, and hundreds of fast, rocket-armed jet fighters and powerful bombers stood ready—just in case.

Radar searched the skies in the direction of Cuba and anti-aircraft missiles were poised—the Soviets still have not pulled out their IL28 jet bombers.

U.S. reconnaissance planes kept watch—the need for this surveillance underscored by the recent discovery of 25-mile range Soviet bombardment missiles the United States had not known were in Cuba.

India May Not Accept Red China Cease-Fire

All Shooting Stops In Himalayan Area

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Shooting has stopped along the Himalayan frontier but informed sources said today India is not planning to accept Red China's terms for settlement of the month-old undeclared border war.

Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament: "So far as we know there has been an effective ceasefire." He made no mention of the Indian reaction but informants said the Indian army has been ordered to withhold its fire against Chinese troops who are observing a self-imposed cease-fire.

The lull left open the prospect of more fighting, informed observers in New Delhi said.

Nehru has not formally replied to Peking's declaration of a cease-fire to be followed by a Chinese withdrawal from their conquests during the last month.

The Indian government reportedly remains determined to drive out the Chinese rather than agree to their offer of a partial withdrawal that would leave the Communists in the strategic region of Ladakh.

A Defense Ministry spokesman was vague in his daily briefing on the fighting front.

While informed sources said Indian troops had been directed to fire only when fired upon, the spokesman said orders were a military secret and refused to disclose them.

Earlier Nehru told Parliament the Chinese had silenced their guns but he did not say anything about orders given Indian forces.

Peking, in announcing that Chinese troops put their cease-fire into effect at midnight Wednesday (11 a.m. EST yesterday), warned:

"The border conflict cannot be stopped by China's action alone.

"The cessation of the border conflict depends on the Indian side rather than the Chinese side, and now it depends particularly on whether or not the Indian government responds positively."

Three Hurt In Vehicle Accidents

Two men and a woman were hurt in two separate but almost simultaneous vehicle accidents in Marin County early today.

Major injuries were suffered by Holmes S. Norville of 126 Granada Drive, Corte Madera, a tool engineer employed in Berkeley, when his pick-up truck rammed a pole and fence on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 2:35 a.m.

Norville was returning home west-bound and after crossing the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge was 500 feet east of the east gate of San Quentin Prison

Solution On Bridge Is Sought

The Mill Valley City Council last night voted to instruct city engineer Stanley M. Bala to start plans and specifications for the most economic and permanent solution to the problem of the now closed Ethel Avenue bridge.

The bridge was ordered closed Oct. 17 by council after Bala declared it unsafe.

Vote on the motion, made by Councilman Michael Wornum, was 3-1, Councilman William E. Secor voting "no" and Councilman George D. Monardo absent.

Wornum said replacement might be a retaining wall or a bridge. "In the meantime," he said. "The council must find a way to see where funds for replacement will come from." Bala estimated cost of replacement last month at $7,000.

Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks announced that the "B streets report," linked by a number of citizens to the closing of Ethel, had been received last night by council from Bala. Too voluminous to take up at the meeting, Sheeks appointed Wornum, chairman, Councilman Secor, and city manager A. E. Almcrants as a subcommittee to go over the report. They are also to study other than "B" streets and, on completion, the council may hold a special meeting on it. Meeting date is to be set Dec. 5.

Almcrants said copies of the 76-page report will be available for citizens to see at both the city hall and public library.

Forty people attended the meeting. In the audience George V. Griffets called the barricaded road a "death trap."

Nation's Traffic Deaths Mount

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths mounted steadily today in the first hours of the long Thanksgiving holiday, with 10 persons killed in two violent crashes in Texas.

The number killed in motor vehicle accidents since 6 p.m. yesterday was 48. The count will continue until midnight Sunday.

Five persons were killed in one head-on crash of two cars early today near Livingston, Tex. The dead included three 19-year-old sailors stationed at Memphis, Tenn.

Five persons were fatally injured late last night near Weslaco, Tex., in the crash of a car and an ambulance carrying five injured persons. The five, injured in a two-car crash, were being taken to a hospital in Weslaco. One of the dead was Weldon Martin Weslaco mortuary owner who was driving the ambulance.

Highway 50 Traffic To Be Detoured

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The threat of huge boulders rolling onto the highway has forced the state to detour traffic on U.S. 50's Echo Summit beginning next week.

The detour over one and a half miles of the old Meyers Grade on the old highway will begin Nov. 28 or 29, depending on weather conditions, the Division of Highways said Wednesday. The detour is now being resurfaced.

The division said it will take up to four days to remove rock from above the regular highway.

Chief U.S. Marshal Surrenders

OXFORD, Miss (UPI)—Chief U.S. Marshal James P. McShane today surrendered on a warrant returned by a local grand jury charging him with "inciting" the riots that occurred last month at the University of Mississippi.

The burly federal law officer gave himself up to Lafayette County Sheriff Joe Ford.

He was to be brought before Judge Claude Clayton later today for a hearing.

Sticky Traffic

REDDING (UPI) — It was a sticky situation any way you look at it.

It happened when a truck-trailer rig lost its load — three huge bags of plywood glue—as it turned a corner at a major intersection in the middle of town yesterday.

One of the bags broke—spreading 2,000 gallons of glue "all over everything," said the city police report.

It took the city fire department three hours to clean up the mess. The truck was taking the glue from Santa Clara to Pacific Plywood Co., Dillard, Ore.

Ike's Winter Plans

PALM DESERT (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife plan to spend another winter in the desert.

The Eisenhowers are expected to arrive the day after Christmas, a Chamber of Commerce official said, and will occupy a cottage at Eldorado Country Club.

They have spent the last two winters here.

Germans Escape

BERLIN (UPI) — More than 13,000 East Germans have fled to the west since the Communists built their Berlin wall 16 months ago, it was reported today.

Ernst Lemmer, West German minister for All-German (Soviet Zone) affairs, said in a speech 13,000 refugees fled from Aug. 13, 1961 when the wall went up to last Oct. 1.

In July, 1961, the month before the wall was built, 30,000 left East Germany.

De Gaulle Is 72

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle marked his 72nd birthday today, quietly confident his political followers will smash the communists and emerge as France's leading party in Sunday's second round of national elections.

No birthday celebration was planned, because De Gaulle does not like them. Staff members were told it was to be a day like any other day, with business as usual.

Novato Country Club Plan Told

A plan that might save Novato's Silver Hills Country Club from voluntary bankruptcy was outlined Tuesday night to member-stockholders at a meeting at Cloud Five restaurant in Novato

Douglas Hertz of San Francisco, outlined his own plan for salvaging the club from voluntary bankruptcy, said Boris N. Ivanovsky, who was chairman of the meeting.

All members present were given the outline to study, said Ivanovsky. A vote on the plan is to be taken later.

Hertz has not been retained or hired by the club, but has done this on his own, Ivanovsky said. He would not disclose details of the plan.

Hub School District How Many Years Old?

The San Anselmo School District will celebrate the anniversary of its founding next month although nobody seems to know just how old the district is.

Trustees last night set Jan. 22 as the anniversary date for the district's 100th year—or maybe its 70th year, according to which records you prefer.

"We have minutes going back to Jan. 22, 1893," said Supt. Stephen L. Parodi, "but we understand there is a report of district business in an old Marin Journal for 1863."

Mrs. Paul Talbot, a district volunteer librarian, was appointed to investigate the history of the district to determine what anniversary should be celebrated.

Travel Data Request Written In Braille

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The request for Maryland travel information came from a little blind girl in Houston, Tex., who had written her letter in Braille.

Mrs. Betty Caldwell, mailroom clerk in the State Economic Development Commission, spent all weekend learning elementary Braille so the official reply to the little girl might be dispatched in her own mode of communication.

Edmond C. Kagi reported to Mill Valley police Tuesday that someone had stolen a spare tire from the trunk of his car while it was parked at his home at 92 Elinor Avenue.

College To Teach Adults In Novato

The College of Marin will start teaching adult education classes in Novato High School with the spring semester.

Dr. Stephen Epler, president of the college, said this would be the start toward a North Marin campus of the college.

The college would offer from two to six courses, depending on the demand for them, he said. These would include American history, English, geology, American institutions, psychology, and group counseling.

All except group counseling could be taken either for college credit for or for noncredit, he said.

Novato High School also offers adult evening classes.

Later Life Should Be More Attractive

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Dr. Edward Bortz, senior consultant of Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, urged that "persons in their maturity make their lives attractive to young people." He spoke at an East Tennessee Conference on Aging.

"How," he asked, "can they look forward to growing old if they don't like the senior citizens with whom they come in contact? It's worse to have hardening of the heart and the mind than of the arteries."

Unification Committee Postpones Meeting

Meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization to discuss the future of the West Marin School District and set a date for the study of the San Rafael and Novato School districts has been postponed from last night until Wednesday night.

Not enough members were able to attend last night, Edwin L. Blackmore, coordinator of rural education for the county schools office, said.

The committee meeting will be held after a meeting of the Marin County Augmented Committee on School District Organization, studying re-organization in the Tamalpais High School District, concludes its meeting. This begins at 8 p.m. in San Clemente School, 330 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera.

The augmented committee will hear a report from Reed School District trustees recommending formation of a separate unified school district on the Tiburon Peninsula.

New York State has the largest Negro population of any state in the nation.

Lagunitas School Funds To Be Cut

Lagunitas School District trustees learned Tuesday night that the district can expect about $10,000 less next year from state funds.

Supt. Clifford L. Frye said the reduction in state money is the result of higher property appraisals in the San Geronimo Valley. The state assumes there is more money available locally due to increased property values.

"Most of our meetings from now until next year's budget decision will be concerned with financing," Frye said. "Our needs are great, and it appears we will get less and less from state funds."

Wife Files $150,000 Damage Suit In Death Of Husband

A San Francisco housewife, whose husband was killed in a head-on accident near Alto last June, filed a $150,000 damage claim in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Angelina Barretta of 520 Victoria Street, San Francisco, and her three children filed the suit for the death of Andrew H. Barretta, 49, a water company worker.

Both drivers died in the crash on June 11, on Highway 101 south of Alto intersection. The other driver was Mrs. La Rita S. Koenig, wife of A. A. (Dutch) Koenig of San Rafael.

Mrs. Barretta is suing for $150,000 general damages and $2,000 funeral expenses from Koenig and several John Does.

Enlists In Navy

Gordon Thomas Campbell, 20, a son of Mrs. Juanita Campbell, 25 Main Drive, San Rafael, and Edward Joseph Comes, 17, a son of John Comes, 25 Washington Street, Novato, enlisted this week in the Navy's Polaris Field electronics program and were sent to San Diego for 10 weeks of basic training.

Miller's Staff Still On Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The legislative assistant and the field representative of the late Rep. Clem Miller are still on the federal payroll although they have been campaigning on the West Coast for several weeks, the congressman's office said here yesterday.

William J. Duddleson, the legislative assistant, left Washington weeks before the November election and took a major part in the campaign for Miller's posthumous election. Miller was killed in an airplane accident Oct. 7.

William F. Grader, the field representative, participated actively in the campaign and now has become a candidate to succeed Miller. He was endorsed last Saturday at the First Congressional District's Democratic endorsing convention in Santa Rosa.

The last payroll of Miller's office available to newsmen here shows that Duddleson receives $1,142 per month; Grader $1,084 per month. Others on the congressional office payroll include Phyliss I. Hinman, $625; Mary Margaret Burke $497; Marjorie N. Levitan, $375; Diana Bruce Eskin, $223; Murial S. Appenzeller, $200; Delyte A. Haule, $200; Ashley Hinman, $69 and Edward R. Harris, $69.

Hub City School Parents To Be Asked About Language

Parents in the San Anselmo School District may be asked soon what they think about the district's foreign language program in upper elementary grades.

Supt. Stephen L. Parodi suggested Tuesday night to trustees that a citizen committee be set up to survey parents' opinions on which languages should be taught in which grades. "French is taught in the seventh grade now," Parodi said, "and we would like to know how the community feels about the program."

Trustees will consider formation of the committee at the next regular meeting, Dec. 18.

Also scheduled for the next meeting is consideration of coordination of the libraries in four schools and possible hiring of a professional librarian or part-time clerks.

The board adjourned to Dec. 11, when bids will be opened for removal of five old houses on the district property for the new addition at the Wade Thomas School.

Fairfax School Ride Payments Out

Fairfax School District trustees declared Tuesday night that the district will not pay for the school transportation of children who live out of the way of school bus routes.

Trustees agreed there are too many homes in Fairfax more than a mile from bus stops for the district to pay for transportation in lieu of the bus.

Mrs. Mildred Kenny of Bolinas Road asked payment to transport her children. She said the way is too steep and long for them to walk to the bus stop.

A report from the League of Women Voters on unification of schools in the Tamalpais High School District was postponed to Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in Central School.

Redwood Song Leaders Named

Seven song leaders were elected from 28 candidates: Belinda Sifford, Donna Schneider, Sue French, Sue Bagley, Marcia MacMillan, Lynne Keeler and Ann Rowland.

Twin Cities Jr. High Plan Dispute

About 150 Larkspur and Corte Madera residents at Tuesday night's Larkspur School District board meeting proved about equally divided as to whether all seventh and eighth grades should be put in a new junior high-type school.

Seventh and eighth grades are now at Neil Cummins, Larkspur-Corte Madera, and Henry C. Hall schools. The district's newest school, San Clemente, runs only through sixth grade.

Some citizens opposing a separate seventh-eighth grade school feared putting about 410 of the 12-and-13-year-olds in a single school would create more juvenile delinquency. Some Larkspur residents said they would not like their children to have to go to Corte Madera to school.

Reports by principals and teachers of the district favored the single school plan.

PROMOTED—Paul T. Quarneri of 335 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, has been made assistant manager at Crocker-Anglo National Bank's Mission office in San Francisco, a promotion from operations supervisor at another office.

Anyone searching for one more blessing to count this Thanksgiving Day might consider the absence of confusion which has attended the date of the observance through the years.

Thanksgiving was observed by Americans as a day of feasting, worshiping and family reunions on dates from January to December before becoming an annual fourth Thursday in November observance.

Popular tradition assigns the origin of the observance to the Pilgrims' harvest in Plymouth, Mass., in 1621. In 1789, President George Washington proclaimed the last Thursday of November as a day of general thanksgiving.

Since then, presidents have proclaimed Thanksgiving observances using dates in eight of the 12 months.

Washington allowed five years to lapse before he issued a second proclamation for a day of thanksgiving.

Andrew Jackson refrained for the sake of separation of church and state. Zachary Taylor left the matter up to the judgment of state governors.

February was the month Washington chose for his third proclamation in 1795.

April was singled out for Thanksgiving Day by President John Adams in 1799, by Madison in 1815, and by Lincoln in 1862. Adams chose May 9 in 1798.

In 1812, President Madison picked the third Thursday in August for the holiday. September had a Thanksgiving Day proclaimed by Madison to fall on the second Thursday of the month in 1813.

Madison designated Jan. 12 as Thanksgiving Day in 1814, and said the holiday should be a time of "public humiliation and fasting and prayer in appreciation of the abundant fruits of the season and other blessings."

A woman editor, Sarah Josepha Hale, waged a forceful 25-year campaign that finally caused Thanksgiving to become a regular recurring holiday.

Sarah, as editor of Lady's Magazine, wrote in 1827:

"We have too few holidays. Thanksgiving like the Fourth of July should be a national festival observed by all our people as an exponent of our Republican institutions."

President Lincoln proclaimed an August Thanksgiving in 1862, but came back three months later with another one in November—the month in which the holiday generally has been observed since.

President Johnson, taking over the White House after Lincoln's death, delayed Thanksgiving until the first Thursday of December 1865.

General Grant, in the first year of his presidency, appointed Nov. 18 for the Thanksgiving festival, but for the rest of his term followed the Lincoln tradition of setting it on the fourth Thursday in November.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt experimented by choosing the next-to-the- last Thursday in November for the holiday. But Congress decided in 1941 that Thanksgiving should be celebrated on the fourth Thursday—and its been that way since.

JOHN NANCE GARNER
A dry climate

Cactus Jack Hearty, Hale At 94

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Crusty John Nance Garner — Cactus Jack to thousands of cronies—received best wishes from the great, the near great and just folks today on his 94th birthday.

As birthday gifts, the former vice president got two new titles—those of admiral and colonel.

A few friends arranged to drop by the old white house where Garner lives to say hello.

Scores of others across the nation, including former President Harry S. Truman and many governors, sent greetings to the spry elder statesman.

Gov. Price Daniel commissioned Garner an admiral in the Texas Navy, and Gov. Bert T. Combs made him an honorary Kentucky colonel.

From Truman came a hope that "I will be in as good shape at 94 as you are today."

Reminiscing about his 46 years in public office, Garner said "I understand what it means to have the confidence" of the people.

"I'm proud of one record I set. I was speaker of the House at noon one day and vice president—presiding officer of the Senate—that same afternoon," he said.

After leaving the Texas Legislature he served 30 years in the House of Representatives, then won election as vice president:

Garner begins his 95th year in a house built in 1879 as servant quarters for the Garner mansion. Along with much of his fortune he has given the mansion away. It is now a city museum.

It was 72 years ago when he came to Uvalde to die. He was born in Texas' Red River County in 1868, three years after and he sought a dry climate when he learned he had tuberculosis.

Writer Of Worthless Checks Due Sentence

An unemployed salesman from Southern California, who wrote two worthless checks to buy a Cadillac and a Sprite in Marin last month, will be sentenced on Dec. 10.

He is Gerald Douglas Farrand, 34, who posed as "Capt. Edward Wynn" of the Air Force to buy one car from a San Anselmo man and another from a San Rafael auto firm.

Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. of Marin Superior Court yesterday found Farrand guilty of felony check passing after a court trial. The judge set 11:45 a.m. Dec. 10 as the time for a probation report and sentencing.

Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo arrested Farrand on Oct. 25.

Marin Bay Homes Off On Flying Start

A helicopter will land on the roof of a new home in Marin Bay at 10 a.m. tomorrow to introduce an "open house" tour.

Two hillside homes in the development, near Peacock Gap golf course, will be opened to the public for a tour to benefit Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Dante Bagnani, president of MARC, will land by 'copter on the steel-supported roof of the Harrison House. After the tour, the helicopter will take McCarthy to San Francisco Airport to catch a plane for Southern California.

The Harrison House, designed by architect David Thorne, is a steel-frame structure sponsored by Bethlehem Steel Co. and named for the company's late chief executive on the Pacific Coast.

Also to be open for inspection will be the Hanging Garden house designed by Richard Zahn and sponsored by the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn.

Front Windows Broken By Rocks

Rocks last night smashed plate glass front windows at the San Rafael homes of Clifford Bartlett, 19 Olive Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Mario Ferrario, 235 Belle Avenue, police said.

Bartlett told officers he heard a noise like a gunshot just before the rock smashed his window. Then he heard a car speeding away.

A few minutes later a rock crashed through the window of the Ferrario home, missing Mrs. Ferrario by inches and spraying her with glass fragments.

Roofer Falls 30 Feet, Breaks Arm

A Santa Venetia roofer fell 30 feet from the roof of the new Novato High School gymnasium Tuesday, suffering a broken left arm and other injuries.

Robert L. Johnson of 30 Vendola Drive was reported in fair condition today at Novato Hospital, where attendants said results of X-ray examination were not complete.

Hub Uncovers Shoplift Ring

San Anselmo police have broken a shoplifting ring of at least 10 teen-age girls and have recovered an estimated $500 worth of clothing stolen from Marin County stores, Chief Raymond Buchignani said today.

Patrolman Chester Orr, the department's juvenile officer, has traced stolen clothing to at least a dozen stores. Buchignani said it is not known yet for how long the girls have been stealing the goods.

The girls, ranging in age from 14 to 16, were not in custody today but will be issued juvenile citations. Orr is still investigating and expects to recover more stolen goods.

Marin Unions Defer Congress Endorsement

Marin County unionized labor has deferred endorsement of any candidate in the special Jan. 22 First Congressional District election after lengthy discussion of the present situation, according to an announcement by the Marin County Labor Council.

Its committee on political decisions decided to await a session of the equivalent body covering the whole congressional district, due to convene the first weekend in December.

100 per cent of the cost of the insurance.

6. With maximum participation, it would be possible to keep the premium at the lowest possible rate.

7. All premiums paid would be deductible for income tax purposes.

The plan envisions individual selection of his own insurance plan from approved private, competitive insurance companies; federal reimbursement to state governments on a matching basis; tax money should come from general funds, although studies of the plan in operation may point the way to other tax sources; local medical review committees would insure high quality medical care; regional boards would act to set the economic values of medical services provided in their own areas; federal aid to states would be determined on basis of need.

It is the hope of the Marin medics that such a program would eventually completely eliminate the numerous and overlapping categorical aid programs such as aid to the blind, to needy children, welfare medical aid, and the like.

There would be no "charity" patients for doctors would not know whether the patient paid all his premium himself or whether the government paid it for him.

The plan was organized by a committee of the Marin Medical Society headed by President Joseph J. Arons. It was presented to the CMA Council by Dr. Arthur R. Ablin.

Other members of the society who made up the committee are Drs. C. Ray Leininger, Calvin Plumhof, William A. Galeno, Warren L. Bostick, who as a delegate to the AMA may have some say on its eventual adoption, Duval B. Jaros, Robert L. Mills and Robert F. Schell.

At least one portion of this program is being considered in Marin County at present. The Board of Supervisors is conferring with the California Physicians Service on possibility of putting all types of categorical aids provided by the county under one insurance policy.

when he evidently attempted to take a curve too fast.

His truck skidded 21 feet to the left road shoulder, struck a power pole glancingly and rammed along 36 feet of fence with a pipe top which virtually scraped the cab off the vehicle and inflicted extensive face cuts and bone fractures on the driver.

Frederick Swain of 26 Chevy Chase Court, Larkspur, drove by a few minutes later and saw the truck balanced precariously with only the damaged fence holding it from a steep bank.

Norville stumbled out saying "I goofed on the curve."

The California Highway Patrol took Norville to the Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco where his condition was fair this morning.

Two cars leaving the northbound Highway 101 connector ramp for San Pedro Road collided at the foot of the ramp at 2:15 a.m. The patrol said preliminary investigation indicated that a sedan driven by Harry E. Finnerty of 401 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, struck another sedan driven by Harold F. Potter of 7 Hacienda Court, San Rafael.

Potter and a passenger, Jeannette Trenchard of 99 Octavia Street, San Rafael, suffered minor cuts and bruises but both declined hospitalization.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Kennedys Gather

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)— Twenty-seven Kennedys reaching through three generations gathered for a tradition-tinged Thanksgiving today at the family compound on Cape Cod.

Every year at this time the Kennedy clan gathers here for Thanksgiving and a turkey-with-trimmings dinner. And for the day President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy have to take second place.

Still chief of the clan is ailing Joseph P. Kennedy. It is he and the president's mother who preside.

Riot In Africa

PAARL, South Africa (UPI) — A vengeance riot by more than 100 African natives wielding cane-handled machetes killed seven persons and turned this showpiece wine-growing center into an armed camp today.

The natives stormed into the city late last night, hacked to death two young Europeans, stoned business establishments and surrounded the police station in a night of terror which ended when police gunfire killed five demonstrators.

The mob sought to free seven natives jailed for a wave of machete murders in their territory over the past eight months, police commission spokesman said.

Rene Coty Dies

LE HAVRE, France (AP) — Rene Coty, former president of France, died last night of heart complications following an attack of the flu. He was 80.

Coty served as president of the French Republic from December 1953 until January 1959, when he was succeeded by Charles de Gaulle.

Coty was the last president of the Fourth Republic and was instrumental in bringing De Gaulle back to power after the May 1958 uprising of Europeans in Algiers.

Under the Fourth Republic, the post of president was largely honorary.

Coty, born in this channel port city, was a lawyer before he entered public life and became a deputy in the National Assembly in 1923. He was a minister of reconstruction and urbane affairs in three governments in 1947 and 1948.

One Convict In Slaying Due Trial

One of two San Quentin convicts convicted of a Dec. 12 prison slaying will get a new trial, but the second man lost his plea and faces death in the gas chamber.

Alfred J. Jimenez, 25, Los Angeles robber, got another chance yesterday when Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court granted a new trial. Robert B. Dorado, 26, a Los Angeles drug offender, was denied a new trial.

On Oct. 2, a jury found both men guilty. Jiminez was convicted of first degree murder. Dorado was found guilty of fatal assault by a life termer, which means automatic death.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarion contended that the two had killed Abel A. Neveraz, 26, a Los Angeles drug offender.

Yesterday, Howard K. Morehouse and David J. Costamagna, pleaded for a new trial for Jimenez, arguing that the evidence was not sufficient to convict Jimenez of first degree murder. The lawyers contended that an alleged "confession" by Dorado was introduced into evidence by prosecutor Vallarino. No confession of any kind was made by Jimenez, but the jury would have been influenced by Dorado's "confession," the defense lawyers contended.

Both men are scheduled to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday morning. A new trial date will be set for Jimenez, and Dorado will be sentenced at that time.

Cash Balance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State controller Alan Cranston today said the state general fund held a cash balance of $12,900,061 at the end of the first four months of the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Cranston said the cash balance at the same time last year totaled only $3,027,056.

General fund revenues through October totaled $476,154,270, an increase of 15 per cent. Government expenditures amounted to $603,494,488, up 11 per cent.

State sales taxes accounted for most of the income, totaling $234,389,012 during the period, an increase of 7.25 per cent.

Pastor, Friend Found

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. Daniels, pastor of the Christal Farms Baptist church in Tatum, Tex., disappeared Nov. 2. He was found yesterday in Wichita where he had been living since Nov. 3 with Flora Jean Cole, 16, of Tatum.

A former honor student at Tatum High School, Flora Jean had been the lead singer in the choir at Daniels' church.

Daniels, 27, was arrested on a Texas charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He waived extradition. Officials said Daniels had been married four months at the time of his disappearance.

Daniels has been working as clerk in a liquor wholesale house since Nov. 9.

Collision In Subway

LONDON (UPI) — Two subway trains collided in central London today, injuring at least six persons and blocking traffic on the line affected.

The accident occurred when one train ran into the rear of another on the section between Victoria Railway Station and the St. James's Park subway station. The scene is within a few blocks of Buckingham Palace and the houses of parliament.

Blast Kills Brothers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A 55-foot fish boat carrying five tons of dynamite for a seismological survey operation blew up in Cook Inlet late Tuesday and two brothers were "blown to smithereens."

Dead were Robert and Allen Roehl, Homer, Alaska. They were setting dynamite charges from the vessel Ketovia, under charter by the United Geophysical Corp. of Pasadena.

An eyewitness said that apparently the brothers got their signals mixed and set off a charge prematurely as it was just beyond the berth of the vessel.

"They must have been blown to smithereens," the eyewitness said.

Chavez Buried

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)— Sen. Dennis Chavez, was buried yesterday following services attended by thousands of persons whose votes kept him in Congress for more than a quarter of a century. He was 74.

The Democratic senator died Sunday at Washington of a heart attack after a long battle with cancer.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, one among many national dignitaries at graveside, called Chavez "the champion of the least among us."

"Sen. Chavez was concerned with unity of the hemisphere, and he became the outstanding spokesman for unity and progress in the Western Hemisphere," Johnson said.

Cubans Indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three Cubans were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for conspiring to sabotage U.S. defense installations. The government announced the case would be presented to the Organization of American States as a "typical example" of Castro-sponsored disorder and terror in the western hemisphere.

Mill Valley Treasurer Gets Secretary Fund

Mill Valley city treasurer William G. Rutherford was allocated $50 per month for the remainder of fiscal 1962-63 by city council last night for secretarial help. The money is to be disbursed by city manager A. E. Almcrants.

Additional funds requested from time to time above Rutherford's $300-a-month salary have long been a thorny problem to the council, and the new request was argued back and forth. Councilman George Blackwell suggested the $50 be given to finance director Thomas T. Behnke and that his department handle necessary secretarial help for Rutherford.

Alcrants said all three men in the finance department have full time jobs and were too busy to take the added task, and the council voted 4-0, Councilman George D. Monardo absent.

The council also:

1. Heard second and final reading on an ordinance changing zoning in Enchanted Knolls IV from 10,000 to 15,000 square foot per unit as a minimum.
2. Approved the 1962-63 capital improvement program of $151,800.
3. Authorized a raise in salary from $450 to $550 per month to City Atty. Leland H. Jordan and commended him on doing "an outstanding job."
4. Voted to up sewer connection fees in the city from $100 to $175 and out of city from $800 to $875.
5. Extended many happy returns to Councilman William E. Secor who celebrated his 36th birthday yesterday.
6. Referred to planning commission and Jordan a proposal for acquisition of Ezekiel property, adjacent to city hall on the north, the property being offered for sale at $50,000.
7. Set Jan. 2 for a hearing to amend master plan relating to riding and hiking trails.
8. Decided to leave the membership of parks and recreation commission at seven instead of reducing it to five.
9. Adopted a resolution authorizing a stop sign on Evergreen Avenue at Miller Avenue.
10. Continued to Dec. 5, pending further revision of map by the boundary commission, a request from Doud-Oehler interests to annex 79 acres to the city after hearing that Marin Municipal Water District alleges to own one-half of Fern Canyon Road, thus taking that portion off the annexation.

Sanitary Boundary

Boundaries of a minor annexation to Novato Sanitary District were confirmed at a meeting of the Marin County Boundary Commission yesterday. The area to be annexed is off Tamalpais Avenue. It is to be used for a rest home operated by Lydia Yanke.

Car Hits Stairs

Coro Foundation Intern Finds San Rafael Government Unique

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

A nine-month field trip in public affairs may reshape the career of Mike Dillon, 23-year-old Coro Foundation intern who is in the middle of a three-week study of San Rafael city government.

Dillon, a business administration graduate from Chico State College, had planned to go into business management. Since starting his tour with Coro, however, Dillon has taken an interest in city management or possibly elective public office.

His purpose in coming to the city hall every day is not to learn the work that city employees do, but to watch how they operate in their jobs and with each other, and why.

"San Rafael has a unique form of city government, with the elective offices—which it appears may be changed," said Dillon.

"It's informal; there's a closeness among the departments, and good coordination."

Coro students must be ready for new assignments at any time. They receive these from the foundation staff by mail. On Monday, for example, Dillon and other Coro interns held a discussion in San Francisco on the feasibility of a borough system of government for Marin County.

Since beginning his internship in September, Dillon has spent time with the State Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco, taken a brief tour of State administrative offices in Sacramento and helped in a political campaign.

Although it is non-partisan, Coro considers party political activity good experience for the students. Dillon helped campaign for Assemblyman Phil Burton of the 20th District. (Burton was re-elected.)

Non-profit Coro, which each year divides 24 interns equally between the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas, is devoted to development of responsible future public leaders by helping them to learn better moral and ethical principles of politics, Dillon said.

More than 60 per cent of Coro graduates are in professional public affairs in either elected or appointed positions, according to Dillon. He said that Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Gatov, former U. S. treasurer, is a 1952 Coro graduate.

Dillon comes from Napa and now lives in San Francisco, commuting to San Rafael each day. For the rest of his internship he will be on the move much of the time. He expects next to observe community organizations, then communications media (newspapers, radio, television), the state legislature in session, business management and labor unions.

The students also will engage in a special study project, the nature of which Coro purposely does not disclose very far in advance because this might tend to prejudice the students' thinking.

Coro interns, who are selected from among the more active and promising college graduates, receive scholarships of from $2,250 to $2,750, depending on their marital status.

The program is financed by private contributions from individuals, business, labor and by foundation grants, all of which are administered under a non-profit trust.

Warning Systems To Be Installed At Novato Schools

Novato Unified School District trustees Tuesday night voted to install a bell and light disaster warning system of a type approved by the Federal Office of Civil Defense in schools throughout the district.

The trustees also voted to install a central switchboard at the administration building to handle incoming telephone calls for all schools in the district.

The alert system will cost $125 to install and $5.25 per month to operate, Supt. James Bunker said. Half of this is reimbursable by civil defense.

The trustees adopted a handbook of job regulations and definitions for non-teaching employees.

The teamsters union was denied permission to hold a business meeting in a school building. District policy is against use of school buildings for meetings not open to the public, trustees said.

Mrs. Diane Farley, third grade teacher at Rancho School, was granted maternity leave.

County Makes Good With Deal In Steel

TUCSON, Ariz (AP)—The Pima County Board of Supervisors was offered a real deal when Mrs. Lucy Palermo said she'd sell them 5,000 pounds of steel for just $600.

Mrs. Palermo bought the steel for $100 when the county auctioned it for unpaid taxes.

NEW POST—Perry T. Joy of Larkspur, assistant manager of the California Bankers Assn., has been elected 1963 president of the California Society of Association Executives. Election was at a meeting in San Francisco.

Associated Builders Director Is Named

Ruben Kaehler, San Rafael contractor, is the new Marin member of the board of directors of the Associated Home Builders.

He was elected Tuesday night at the annual meeting at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club.

Re-elected to the board were William Parnow, San Rafael; John L. Novak, Novato, and George Goheen, Mill Valley.

Second Yule Essay Contest Is Slated

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce has announced its second essay contest for school children in the Sausalito School District. Subject of the essay will be: "The Best Christmas I Remember."

Details will be given out by the schools Dec. 7, said Victor E. Hecht, chamber executive secretary. Students from 15 classrooms will have from Dec. 10 to 17 to submit essays of 50 to 100 words. Prizes will be awarded.

The board decided to request the city council to postpone its Nov. 27 public hearing on the proposed new sign ordinance, saying merchants, busy with the holidays, would not have time to study the ordinance nor attend the hearing.

For the first time in this century, the U.S. is growing more wood than is being removed from the forests by harvests, insects, disease and fire combined.

Bank Draft No Breeze

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—A businessman instructed his secretary to write a letter to a South American branch, explaning a bank draft was being inclosed.

The secretary then was to translate the letter to Spanish.

She looked up the Spanish word for draft and got "corriente de aire," or a breeze. The letter came back from South America, asking for a clarification.

Two Mill Valley Boys Find 'Enchanted' Pile Of Money

Enchanted Point proved to be most enchanting for two Mill Valley boys when they stumbled onto a heap of nickels, dimes and quarters there Monday afternoon. Their treasure: $44.30.

The boys, Michael Davi, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Davi of 100 Longfellow Road, and Craig McCauley, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. McCauley of 149 Shelley Drive, spent an hour picking up the money, which had been scattered by a bulldozer, then took it to Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich in paper bags.

They told Terzich the money had apparently been buried, and the bulldozer unearthed it.

"Boy! Were they excited," said Davi's dad.

Terzich said the money will be held, and if no claimant appears, will be given to the boys.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

Way To Dress Up Block Walls: Artistically Designed Mosaics

A new way to dress up the monotony of haydite block walls with mosaic work is the recently adopted business pursuit of Wayne Rawlings of Bayside Acres. Mrs. Nellie A. Rucker of Kentfield is collaborating with him—she does the art work.

Mrs. Rucker sketches in the design; Rawlings applies brownstone aggregate to sand finished haydite with the same type of mastic used to fasten raised traffic markers on surfaced streets and roads.

You can see a display of the work at McNear's haydite and brickyard offices on Point San Pedro Road, but after this week it will be removed to Salinas for installation at the Los Padres High School—their first large scale job.

MORE NEW HOMES OPEN. Recently completed and placed on the market are the Loma Verde homes of Paul W. Trousdale and Associates near the Marin Golf and Country Club. These are on property separate from that which was sold to the Seabreeze Construction Co.

Homes offer three and four bedrooms with two baths, family rooms, large glass areas, outdoor patios—also wall to wall nylon carpeting and all-electric built-in kitchens.

Turn off the Redwood Highway at the Marin Golf and Country Club entrance in Ignacio and follow the directional signs.

NEW CAR SALES in October—728,700—were the highest ever recorded for one month and exceeded output by 30,000. The surge has caused some auto industry analysts who predicted a decline in 1963 to reappraise their estimates.

The month was supposed to have run its course about Oct. 20, but continued heavy sales in the final third shoof forecasts off balance. Orders are still running at a higher rate than expected. On the strength of this, some manufacturers have increased their planned outputs for November and December.

There are still forecasters, however, who believe that the steeper the sales incline, the faster they can roll downhill next year—and require downshifting into low gear.

Strawberry Park Unit Won't Buy Adjoining House

Strawberry Recreation District directors decided Tuesday night not to purchase a three-bedroom house adjoining Strawberry Park on 100 Belvedere Drive, deeming the cost of $15,500 too high.

The State of California had given the district first chance, prior to public auction, to purchase the building and its 5,600-square foot lot. The board had considered it might use the house to hold small community meetings and for equipment storage.

Directors learned the district has been placed on the list for a surplus aircraft by the Alameda Naval Air Station. The plane is to be used at Strawberry Park for youngsters.

A total figure of $59,122 was accepted as cost of the swim facility. Of this, according to secretary Patricia M. Gowen, $1,323 covers other than actual pool costs.

Bombed Out Churches Get New Windows

By DON McKEE

CONYERS, Ga. (AP) — Silent monks, garb and ritual little changed in centuries, have extended brotherly kindness across their monastery walls to span one of the widest gaps in Christendom.

Cistercian monks at a nearby monastery, 25 miles from Atlanta, decided to make stained glass windows for the rebuilding of two Negro Protestant churches burned last summer by arsonists in south Georgia.

The decision by the cloistered monastic community was made before the convening in Rome of the Catholic Ecumenical Council to discuss Christian unity.

"We didn't like what happened and we wanted to make some gesture — not just as Catholics—for this is our part of the country now," said Father Charles, 45, a World War II veteran who left a journalistic career to enter the monastery.

Although they don't get newspapers and only a few are permitted to speak, the monks learned of the church burnings which came as a climax to prolonged racial troubles in Albany, Ga.

"When we heard about this, a number of us felt there should be some kind of expression from us as members of the same community," Father Charles said.

"Our love of our neighbors is very deep rooted," he said.

"And, you see, we took a vow of stability—that is, we will stay here until we die. So we feel very much a part of this area."

The church windows, which haven't been started yet pending completion of architectural design for the church building, will be tediously and meticulously put together in the glass shop of the monastery.

In the glass shop Father Charles pointed to inch-thick pieces of colored glass which the monks will cut and chisel into artistic designs. The windows will go to Mount Mary and Mount Olive Baptist churches near Dawson.

Hundreds of persons from over the country visit the monastery every month. It was completed only three years ago and an open house attracted 70,000 to 100,000 visitors, mostly from the surrounding area.

It wasn't that way when the first 21 monks set up temporary quarters 14 years ago in a huge barn—with the cows on the ground floor — on the 2,000-acre farm that was bought by the religious order.

"When we first came there was actually a grand jury investigation," laughed Father Charles. "Each monk was asked if he was being held against his wishes."

Residents of the area have accepted the monks now and are mostly friendly, Father Charles said.

He Looks In Volcano, Sees Gentle Rain

By JERRY BUCK

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Louis D. Rubin is probably the only man in the world who can look at a fire-spitting volcano and think of a gentle rain or a swirling snowstorm.

To Rubin the awesome energy generated by the more than 500 active volcanoes on earth acts merely as a thermostat to regulate the world's weather.

An eruption on some lonely volcanic isle sets up a chain of events, according to this 67-year-old amateur, that eventually brings snow or rain or cool weather to temperate zones 10,000 miles away.

Rubin theorizes these volcanoes spew ash into the upper atmosphere where it spreads out into invisible continent-size clouds that soak up a fraction of the sun's radiation. This causes the air beneath the clouds to cool and create periods of "unsual weather."

With only limited education and some dreafully complicated calculations he charts the course of the clouds and predicts their locations months ahead of time.

What lifts Rubin and his theory from the thunder machine category is that he publishes his predictions in newspapers far ahead of time—and hits them with an accuracy that both puzzles and irritates professional forecasters.

The professionals and Rubin do agree on one thing: Last winter was an unusually severe one and this winter will likely follow the same pattern.

But there he parts company with the experts. Rubin puts the blame squarely on the 60 days of volcanic eruptions that forced the evacuation of the Isle of Tristan da Cunha in the South Atlantic Ocean.

These eruptions, he says, caused the heavy snows last winter and the Ash Wednesday Atlantic coast storm—which he pinpointed to the day months ahead.

A Japanese eruption in July 1953 brought—as predicted at the time by Rubin—severe cold weather that dumped 15 inches of snow on New York City and seven inches on Richmond.

When an Indonesian volcano erupted on Oct. 29, 1953, Rubin figured the East Coast would have unusual weather on April 1. As an April Fool's gag Richmond had four inches of snow and a severe cold wave staggered the Atlantic seaboard.

Rubin figures the volcanic clouds circle the earth from west to east at speeds between 1,000 and 2,000 miles a month. As they circle they also gradually move toward the north pole.

By calculating when the cloud will be over the East Coast Rubin picks his dates of unusual weather. He gives himself a leeway of 12 hours either way and makes no attempt to say just what this unusual weather will be. It could be rain or snow or a thunderstorm or just a few degrees drop in temperature.

If, as happens with about one out of every eight predictions, the sun shines brightly, he offers no apology. He says his theory could be wrong, but adds he has hit 85 per cent of his predictions over a 10-year period, so he doubts it.

Rubin has been the Cumulo-Nemesis of the Weather Bureau since he first expounded his volcano theory 10 years ago. Forecasters scoff at his predictions but admit volcanoes may effect the weather in some way yet unknown to man.

In another field of weather, however, he is an undisputed authority. His "International Cloud Chart" is reputed to be the only compilation of colored photographs of clouds in existence.

The cloud chart is published in five languages around the world and in this country is used by the U. S. Coast Guard and Navy and various state aviation agencies.

Rubin, who left school in his native Charleston, S.C., while only 13, began his study of the weather in 1931 when he was partially paralyzed. He had nothing to do, he says, but look out the window at the sky.

His casual observations turned into a full-time hobby.

False Vocal Cords Sometimes Get Mixed Up With True In Throat

NEW YORK (UPI) — In addition to true vocal cords there are false ones in every human throat, and when the false gets mixed up with the true it can only cause trouble as in other fields of activity.

Medical science has had its attention called to this fact by Dr. Herbert L. Fred of Baylor University, Houston, Tex. The trouble is a persistent hoarseness which can be mistaken for laryngitis.

Physicians make this mistake often, he said. It is easy to make. He told of one man who had been speaking with his false cords for 20 years and had been hoarse all that time.

The false cords are actually the "ventricular bands" of the throat. They're bands of elastic connective tissue intermingled with a few muscle fibers.

The act of speaking bring them toward one another while it is bringing the true cords together in front of the amplifying sound box, the larynx.

If these bands should come together, they'll vibrate and give off sounds for the larynx to send forth. In this way they can take over from the true vocal cords. When they do the results can be voice-cracking and occasional momentary inability to form words, in addition to hoarseness.

Fred noted that this unhappy condition has been recognized from time to time. It even has a name — "dysphonia plicae ventricularis."

In most cases, he continued in reporting to a technical organ of the American Medical Assn., the cause of this strange switch from the true to the false is unknown.

There must be psychological things at work which permit some people to learn to use these bands to form their words rather than using the cords designed for that purpose, he said. What these are is unknown.

He lumped them under the term, "psychologic stress." Abuse of the voice could do it, too—too much talking at too high a pitch without pause for vocal-cord rest. And a co-existing disorder of the larynx could cause some cases.

He urged physicians to find out if the false was being used for the true when ever they look down the throat of a hoarse person. It can be done with that familiar mirroring medical instrument called the laryngoscope.

With the instrument in place, you have the hoarse person say, E-E-E-E-E-E. Then you can see the false cords come together while the true cords do not meet. In normal speaking it works the other way.

To return the person to the true way of speaking from the false, voice rest may be enough, he said. Retraining in speaking techniques often helps.

HERO WORSHIPPED—Young baseball fans surround Mickey Mantle, named as the 1962 Most Valuable Player in the American League, at a dinner Tuesday in Chelsea, Okla. The dinner honored Mantle's New York Yankee teammate Ralph Terry, a native of Chelsea, but Mantle, who is from Commerce, Okla., not far away, got plenty of attention from the youngsters seeking autographs. He was still just a bystander at the dinner, though, as Terry drew praise and gifts. Mantle called Most Valuable selection the biggest thrill of the three such awards he's won. (AP Wirephoto)

Major Bowl Grid Games Are Virtually Signed And Sealed

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Jan. 1 bowl program is virtually signed, sealed and delivered today in most quarters and, pending official announcements, it shapes up like this:

Rose Bowl—Southern Cal vs. Wisconsin.

Sugar Bowl—Mississippi vs. Arkansas.

Cotton Bowl— Texas vs. L.S.U.

Orange Bowl — Alabama vs. Oklahoma.

The usual routine is to wait until the teams have completed their regular schedules, but this time it has been settled earlier than usual and no less than three of the teams involved in these major contests already have done everything but bank the money.

These eight teams all are in the U.P.I. board of coaches ratings of the nation's top 10 teams. The two who miss the gravy boat are Minnesota, ranked fifth in the UPI rankings, and Penn State, which is rated ninth.

NO RETURN

Minnesota, even if it should win the Western Conference crown, is phecluded from competing in the Rose Bowl because it played there last year, and Big 10 regulations prohibit a team from going two consecutive years.

But Penn State may not have finished out of the money yet.

Officials of the Gotham bowl, to be played in New York's Yankee Stadium on Dec. 15, list Penn State as one of seven teams still under consideration.

Others being eyed for this game are Miami, Oregon, Oregon State, Georgia Tech, Nebraska and Missouri.

BIG GUARANTEE

"We will guarantee each team $100,000," said Gotham Bowl director Bob Curran today.

Nor are the Gotham Bowl promoters dismayed by the fact that Saturday's Army-Pittsburgh contest, even with the hypo of a Cadet corp parade, drew only 23,917 spectators. Or that the game last year, between Baylor and Utah State, attracted a mere 15,000 fans.

"This is for the March of Dimes and will be an all-out effort," Curran said. "A lot of people stayed away from Army-Pittsburgh on the theory that tickets couldn't be had."

Curran would not speculate on what two teams might finally be selected or accept, but there was a feeling that the Gotham Bowl might prefer Penn State vs. Miami.

Meanwhile, the four big New Year's day attractions all looked like winners.

Southern Cal, unbeaten in eight games and ranked first nationally, will face a tartar in Wisconsin, which lost only to Ohio State in eight appearances and is ranked third nationally by the UPI. USC still meets UCLA and Notre Dame while Wisconsin faces Minnesota.

Mississippi, unbeaten in eight and yet to face Mississippi State, is ranked second nationally. Arkansas is rated seventh and takes an 8-1 mark into its finale against Texas Tech.

Texas, tied only by Rice in nine games, is ranked fourth and has only the Texas Aggies left. LSU, rated eighth, is 7-1-1 and can pad that against Tulane in its closing contest.

Alabama, which by one point sustained its only loss in nine games, engages Auburn before it announces its Orange Bowl appearance. The sixth-ranked Tide will get all it can handle from Oklahoma. The 10th ranked Sooners face a chore against Nebraska and then Oklahoma State, but their current 6-2 mark is deceiving. They've won five in a row and pitched four shutouts.

All in all, every game shapes up as a winner.

Cal-Stanford Game Always A Thriller

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Shucks, it seems like only yesterday that a couple of fellows forgot to bring the football to the first "Big Game" and the hostilities between Stanford and California were delayed.

But that was way back in 1892 and since then a lot of water, plus 64 football games, have passed down memory lane.

There have been a lot of thrills in college football but possibly none in the West to compare with the chill that goes down the spine when the huge rooting sections from either school lets loose with that "give 'em the axe" yell. It stuns visitors, shocks the innocent—and inspires the men on the field.

The "Big Game" used to be a chummy little affair featuring the two largest universities in the West. In the early days, the crowds ran from 10,000 to 27,000.

But in 1921 Stanford completed its stadium and for that year and the next the game was played there before 60,000 fans—the limit at the time.

In 1923 Cal finished its big memorial stadium and for the next two years the games were played there before crowds of 73,000 and 77,000. The two schools kept enlarging their stadia until by 1937 they were playing to 90,000 in Stanford stadium and by 1938 there were 82,000 in the California Memorial Stadium.

That has been cut back at Cal now to about 76,000—but it's always a sellout, even when the teams are mediocre, as they are this year beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Since the completion of the two stadiums the average attendance has been 77,000 per game. Through the long history, the attendance has been 3,451,000—and that's enough to pay quite a few doctor's bills.

When old grads get together they talk about the time Jackie Jensen tossed a 100-yard pass (actually it was a 15-yarder to Paul Keckley, who ran 65 yards more) in the 1947 Cal victory; or the year Stanford walloped California 41-0 (1930) just three eyars before the "Vow Boys" came to Stanford and whipped the Old Blues three times in a row.

But actually, scoring has been light in this classic. California has averaged only 12.4 points per tilt against 11.6 for the Indians. And California has been shut out nine times, Stanford 14 times.

However, it's a thriller-diller from the opening whistle.

MANTLE ALL SQUARE WITH MARIS NOW

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — This was last summer and Bob Scheffing, manager of the Detroit Tigers, sat in the dugout at Yankee Stadium discussing the most valuable player award.

"Give me the guy who hits only 30 home runs but goes for the good high average and plays consistently," said Scheffing. "That's why I thought Mickey Mantle deserved the award over Roger Maris."

Well, Mantle is all square today with his third most valuable player award.

Almost traditionally, the award goes to a member of the pennant winner, although this is not truly binding. And there was a feeling in baseball quarters that this time it would go to Bobby Richardson, the little second baseman who made the final putout in the Yankee World Series triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

YANK SPARKPLUG

Richardson was a sparkplug and a workhorse for the Yankees this season. He played in 161 games and hit a consistent .302 with a great deal of his production in what baseball buffs call "the clutch," meaning when it counted most.

But now you have to go back to what Ralph Kiner observed when he was chided once about his depressing batting average during the era in which he was clouting clusters of home runs for the Pirates.

"I don't worry about the average too much," he observed. "It's the home run hitters who ride in Cadillacs."

BIG AVERAGE

A combination of that—plus the big average—gave Mantle the payoff.

He appeared in only 123 games but hit 30 home runs while maintaining a .321 average that was only five points below that with which Pete Runnels of Boston won the league batting championship.

Roger Maris captured the M.V.P. the last two years despite averages of .283 and .269 respectively. In 1960 he led the league with 112 runs batted in and 39 homers. That beat Mantle out on his 94 runs batted in and 40 homers because of Mantle's lowly .275 average.

HOMER BINGE

Maris took it last year because of that 61 homer binge, even though Mantle tied him in runs scored, hit only seven less homers and had an average 48 points higher than that of Maris. There was slight doubt that Maris was the M.V.P. at the box office, anyhow, in those last weeks.

This time around, Maris didn't get a single vote although he played in 34 more games than Mantle, delivered three more home runs and drove in 11 more runs. His .256 average, which was 65 points below Mantle, had to cost him his third award in a row.

"Personally," Mantle observed at season's end when the M.V.P. award was mentioned, "I think Richardson should get it."

In the final analysis, Scheffing—and Kiner—had the answers.

Cal To Seal Doom For Curtice; New Champ In Apostoli Family

With the annual "Prep Panic" coming to a screaching halt with the playing of this morning's final games, we can now turn our attention to somewhat bigger game coming up this weekend—THE Big Game over at Berkeley, Cal vs. Stanford.

Past records would indicate a Stanford victory, but we think Cal's Marv Levy, Craig Morton & Co. will come up with an upset and certify Jack Curtice's death warrant as coach down on the Farm. Let's pick the Bears by 2 points.

Our season record to date is 93 right and 28 wrong, a fair-to-middlin' .769 average.

In other big college games along the coast, here's how we pick'em:

USC over UCLA by 13 and another big step for the great Trojan machine toward the national championship and the Rose Bowl.

Washington over Washington State by 13 as the Huskies continue to come back strong from their loss to USC.

Oregon State over Oregon by 2 in a great individual duel between State's Terry Baker and the Webfoots' Mel Renfro.

On the pro scene, the 49ers should make it two in a row by beating St. Louis by 10 while those poor rag-a-muffin Oakland Raiders should lose their umpteenth straight, this time to the Dallas Texans.

AFTER LIVING in the shadow of his mother's and father's sports accomplishments all his life, 24-year-old Frank Apostoli finally came home a winner last weekend with a glittering trophy to show mom and pop.

Frank won the Berkeley Aquatic Park's speedboat races Sunday in a Rayson-type, Chrysler-powered craft. His average of 84.50 m.p.h. led all competition in the 80-85 m.p.h. class.

Frank's dad is Freddie Apostoli, the former middleweight champion of the world. His mom is Yolanda Apostoli who has won more golf tournaments than you can shake a putter at. Yo once fired a 69 at Peacock Gap. And anyway you look at it 69 is quite a round.

A HAPPY Thanksgiving to all of you. And, you can eat all the white meat, mother, because father's coming home after dark.

Jack Hanley, sports columnist for the Independent-Journal, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco Chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America yesterday.

Harry Jupiter of the San Francisco Examiner was elected chairman and Dick O'Connor of the Palo Alto Times vice president.

Warriors Lose; Wilt Misses Free Throws

The old Wilt Chamberlain bugaboo of missed free throws has the San Francisco Warriors 1½ games off the pace in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division.

Chamberlain poured in 61 points last night but he missed eight of 15 free throw attempts and the Warriors lost to Cincinnati 143-139 in San Francisco.

The loss in the opener of a six-game home stand left the Warriors 8-8, 1½ lengths behind the co-division leaders, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

Cincinnati led at the end of each period, but the score was tied 12 times before Oscar Robertson rattled off five of his 40 points to put the Royals on top to stay.

Chamberlain brought the Warriors within two points with 49 seconds to play, but San Francisco guard Guy Rodgers fouled Adrian Smith twice in a vain effort to get the ball. Smith sank four foul shots and the Royals were out of reach.

San Francisco has now lost five of its last six games.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

Here's A Tip On How To Get Rid Of Gamey, Fishey Taste In Ducks

STEVENS

I'm wondering how many people there are who have had the experience of a lady reader of San Rafael. She sent an SOS to me yesterday. Said her son was lucky and had brought home his limit of ducks. Only trouble was that the birds had such a "gamey" taste that she had to throw them away. By gamey, I assume the good lady meant "fishy." It is true that the birds taken in the upper San Pablo Bay, the Suisun Bay and on the Napa marshes tend to have a gamey or fishy taste. That might spoil some folks' pleasure in eating them.

My correspondent asked if anything could be done to get rid of the bad taste. Well, there is, and I suggest you try it if there is any doubt in your mind. Try the following: Place a small, peeled carrot inside the bird and parboil it before roasting. It is said that will eliminate the fishy taste. Okay?

I HAVE been often asked if there is any way to rid the occasional striped bass from the taste of oil. I wish I could give a recipe on that but, frankly, I have never been able to learn of any method to eliminate the oily taste of some bass — particularly those caught in the upper San Pablo Bay. Personally, I never fry, boil, or roast a striped bass without first testing it for oil. I cut a piece from the belly and test it by taste. If the oiliness is severe you can frequently smell it from the small piece of the belly. If I am not quite sure, I fry that small piece and the odor will usually tell its state.

SO LONG AS WE are on the subject, another hazard in eating freshly caught salmon is that in the inland waters (never in the ocean) an occasional fish will have a disagreeable, muddy taste. It is claimed that if you will soak the salmon you catch in the back country waters in fairly strong SALT WATER over night, most or all of the muddy taste will disappear. You note I said "it is claimed." Personally, I have never tried it, but several of the ranchers in the Delta Region have insisted it works.

SPEAKING OF salmon — while the season in the ocean is closed, if you hook a salmon in the S.F. or San Pablo Bay don't throw it back, it's legal to catch and keep such fish. (To my knowledge, no one has been successful actually fishing for salmon in those waters, most are caught by accident while trolling for bass.)

AS TO chances for a limit of bass, trolling the Racoon Strait, Richardson Bay and California City and Red Rock, or bass fishing in practically any section of the Bay or Delta region are better than fair now that the winds have blown themselves out. You can about pick your spot, locally or in the back country.

ABOUT EATING striped bass—Few people realize that the striped bass is one of the finest tasting fish when eaten raw. Most folks shudder when it is suggested, yet they will eat oysters raw. A piece of striped bass with a bit of Soy sauce, or only salt and pepper is actually as tasty as an oyster. Close your eyes sometime and try a piece, you may discover a mighty fine new way of serving or eating striped bass.

Gilliam Must Pay Support For Wife

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Los Angeles Dodger infielder Jim Gilliam yesterday was ordered to pay his estranged wife, Edwina, $425 monthly support pending her divorce suit.

Superior Court Commissioner Glenn M. Pfau ordered the 32-year-old baseball player to pay $300 for his wife's support and $125 for that of their daughter, Yvette, 22 months.

Mrs. Gilliam said her husband had a violent temper and had threatened to strike her.

Gilliam, charged with extreme mental cruelty, was ordered to move out of the family home in two weeks.

STANFORD LINEBACKERS

Victim Of The Wild Card

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford's Ed Cummings might be called a victim of the wild card in college football.

Termed one of the finest linebackers in the nation by some opposing coaches, Cummings stands little chance of post-season recognition because defense is his forte.

UNIT SYSTEM

He's one of many in the same spot across the nation because of the unit system and wild card substituting prevalent in the collegiate ranks.

The 195-pound senior from Anaconda, Mont., seems least unhappy about the situation, saying, "I prefer defense to offense. I'd much rather be the hunter than the hunted."

Because of Cummings' excellence on defense, Coach Jack Curtice frequently sends in a substitute fullback when the Indians go on the offensive.

That probably will be the case when Cummings winds up his collegiate career Saturday in the Big Game against traditional rival California at Berkeley.

Voted Stanford's most valuable player as junior a year ago, Cummings this season has made 48 unassisted tackles and assisted in 79. He has blocked one pass and intercepted one for 129 defensive points in the rating system here—more than twice the total of the second best man on the team.

ONE LOSS

Offensively, naturally, his statistics aren't so impressive. He's carried the ball 31 times for 107 yards and a 3.45 average. In three years he has gained 248 yards and during his career has been thrown for a loss only once—for one yard.

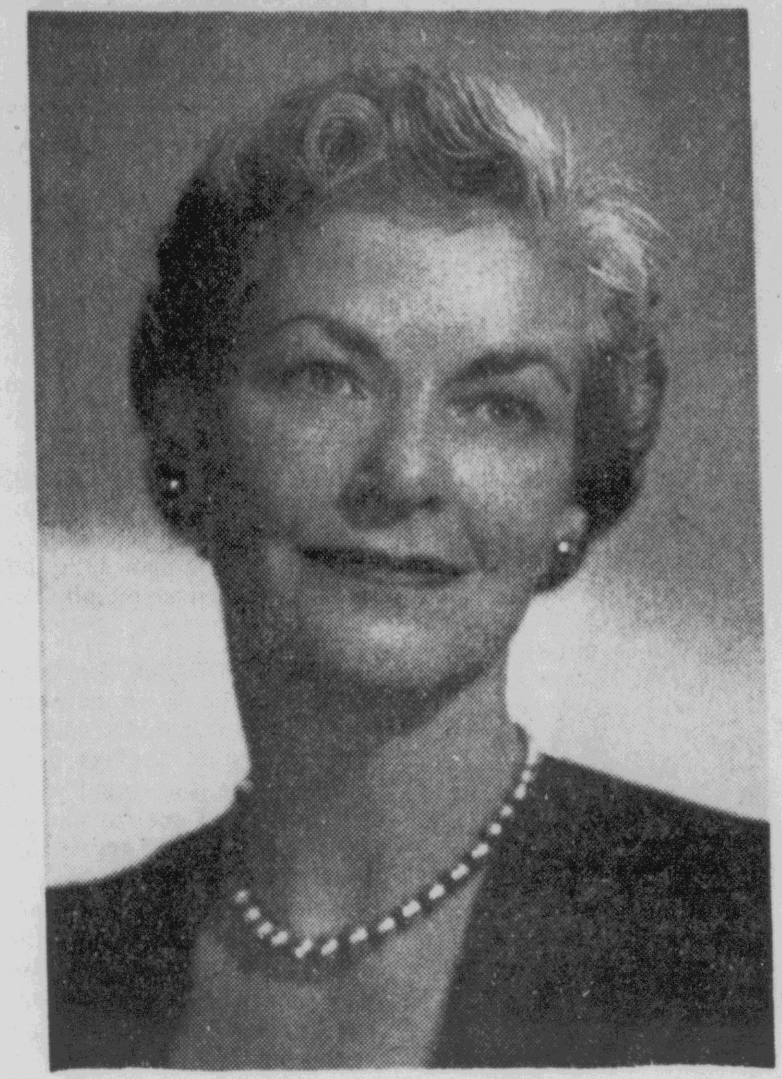
Christmas Lore, Decor Topic For Lawyers' Wives Program



MRS. CARGILL HALL

Christmas lore and holiday decorations will be discussed by Mrs. Cargill Hall when she addresses Lawyers' Wives of Marin on Wednesday, at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.

Members of the Womens' Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society have been invited to join the Lawyers' Wives group at the noon luncheon.

Mrs. Hall, a Kentfield resident, is the mother of five children and grandmother of three. For many years she has been noted for her stories of Christmas traditions and has spoken before a number of groups during the holiday season on "Bringing In Christmas." Mrs. Hall was associated with the Katherine Branson School for several years and is now at Dominican Convent. She studied architecture in college and has worked as an interior decorator.

Fifteen new members will be welcomed into the ranks of Lawyers' Wives. They are Mesdames Joseph Bari Jr., Albert Bianchi, James Blumborg, Jasper De-Dobbeleer, Seymour Ellison, Sterling Hilen, Jay Jackson Jr., Phillip Kennedy, Gilbert Pavlosky, Kenneth Rosenthal, Elliot Seymour, Peter Sloss, Thomas Storer, Gary Thomas and Haskell Titchell.

Standing committee chairmen for 1962-63 announced by president Mrs. William H. MacKay are Mrs. Westerdahl Gudmundson, notices; Mrs. James McKenny, ways and means; Mrs. Roger Garety, publicity and Mrs. Arnt Tjensvold, new member of the Board of Directors.

The Theater Of The Absurd Program At Tennis Club's Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Wayne W. Deatsch, new chairman of women's activities of the Mill Valley Tennis Club, was introduced by outgoing chairman Mrs. Robert Huber at Tuesday's luncheon meeting of women members.

Mrs. Deatsch then announced her appointments to the executive board. They were Mesdames Robert Ryan, vice chairman; Eugene Aureguy, social chairman; Ehrling Carlsen, secretary; Samuel Farber, treasurer; Ralph Tierney, women's tennis on Tuesday; Samuel Farber and Andrew Castle, women's tennis on Wednesday; David Allen, swimming; W. W. Hendricks, publicity; and Mrs. Huber, hospitality.

Co-chairmen for Junior Tennis will be Mesdames Melvin H. Klyce, Warren Hodgdon, Fred Vandyke and William Kennedy, and heading the telephone committee will be Mrs. Castle and Mrs. James Bennett.

General chairman Mrs. Francis Walsh planned the luncheon and Mrs. John Laurie the decor in a "Beatnik-Bistro" theme in keeping with the day's program on "The Theater of the Absurd," which was presented by Mrs. George Pritzker, a club member.

Absurd with reference to the theater of the absurd really means different, Mrs. Pritzker explained, for anything that is different strikes us as absurd or ridiculous.

In avant-garde theater, she said, "Unusual patterns of speech, colorful, poetic language and expressive body movements are combined to give an image of what the playwright experiences inwardly, and the great excitement comes when you feel at one with the playwright. You feel you have discovered something for yourself instead of having it all spelled out for you.

"The theater of the absurd brings a new approach to morals and ethics to replace traditions of the past."

In watching this new kind of theater, she said, there are two things to remember (1) What is happening on the stage is more important than the words of the characters, and (2) The playwright is trying to express reality, but he will not tell a story but give an impression."

Mrs. Pritzker illustrated her points on a simply set stage by reading excerpts from "The Sand Box" by Edward Albee, and impersonating all the characters.

During the meeting that preceded the program, Mrs. Richard Rider was welcomed as a new member and presented with a corsage.

Resek Pupils Hold Social Gathering

A group of vocal students of Mme. Bella Resek had a social gathering Saturday at her home in Mill Valley and entertained each other with singing.

Those present were Cathleen Crain, Sandy Vandyke, Adria Michelsen, John Golden, Barbara Baldridge, Jan McCready, Peggy Freitas, Patricia Young, Raine Priest, Carol Berry and James Hantzsche. Also present was Sally Champlin, who is now attending San Francisco State College.

Virginia Claims First Thanksgiving

Small Band Of Colonists Mark Day At James River In 1619

BERKELEY PLANTATION, Va. (AP)—At about the time the Pilgrims were wondering if the Mayflower was safe to travel in, 39 colonists knelt on the sandy banks of the James River here to offer the first Thanksgiving.

It was Dec. 14, 1619, and the small band had just arrived in the struggling colony of Virginia after a 2½-month journey aboard the ship Margaret from Bristol, England.

WITH BREASTPLATES glinting in the low autumn sun and halberds at the ready, the colonists watched as Capt. John Woodleaf opened the company's charter and read its instructions.

"Impr wee ordaine that the day of our ships arrivall at the place assigned for the plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perputually keept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

This is the view held in Virginia, a state rarely known to be modest about its history.

In proclaiming Thanksgiving this year Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. ignored the long-accepted Plymouth Rock version and said the day would serve as a memorial to the Virginians "who gathered at Berkeley near Richmond in 1619 to observe America's first Thanksgiving ceremony."

VIRGINIA'S claim on the first Thanksgiving has been raised only in recent years, although the landing and the services at Berkeley are documented.

As an annual holiday, the state has celebrated Thanksgiving only for the past 77 years. In the years before and after the Civil War Virginia was only too happy to give all the credit to New England and ignore the whole affair.

Historians believe the settlers at Berkeley Hundred commemorated the landing again in 1620—the year the Pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock—and again in 1621.

CORRESPONDENCE from the parent company in England reminded the colonists in August 1620 that the Thanksgiving was to be observed each year.

Plans for a fourth observance were ended by Chief Opechancanough when he led an Indian uprising on Good Friday in 1623 and slew 350 settlers along the James.

The Virginia General Assembly set aside the date of the colony's deliverance from the "bloudie massaker" for commemoration and it was observed for a number of years.

THEREAFTER followed another series of Thanksgivings in Virginia's history. Between 1692 and 1705 the legislature proclaimed nine days of Thanksgiving for events ranging from survival of a caterpillar plague to English victory at Blenheim.

Essentially, historians noted, Virginia's Thanksgivings were religious in nature and had little of the social overtones found in the Pilgrim holidays.

IN THE LAST century, particularly for a time when Thanksgiving became linked with the abolition of slavery, Virginia rejected the observance completely.

The first Virginia governor to call upon the state to observe Thanksgiving as a national holiday was Gov. Gilbert C. Walker, who served from 1869 to 1874.

The Richmond Dispatch noted at the time "there was with many a feeling of indigination that in the light of then recent events he Gov. Walker was trying to set this New England plant in our sacred soil."

THANKSGIVING was not celebrated in the state again until 1885, when the Dispatch reported that a gubernatorial proclamation was enthusiastically received.

Even without a claim on the first Thanksgiving, the Berkeley plantation has a firm place in the nation's history. Here was born Benjamin Harrison V, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and his son, President William Henry Harrison.

Benedict Arnold sacked the mansion for the British in the Revolutionary War and burned the portraits of the Harrisons on the front lawn.

IN THE Civil War it became the birthplace of Taps and headquarters of Union Gen. George B. McClellan. President Abraham Lincoln came here in 1862 to see McClellan and he landed at approximately the same place as did the 39 colonists 243 years earlier.

And, in one of those quirks of history, it was President Lincoln who set aside the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

If You Don't Believe In God Whom Do You Thank Today?

We often wonder to whom people who don't believe in God offer thanks on Thanksgiving Day.

It must be a strange feeling, unbelievably looking at the bounty of the fields, explaining away in materialistic terms the mystery of life, of love and of birth. Is life the accidental coming together of materials in proper proportion? Then why would not they accidentally also produce bananas on an apple tree or grapes on the roots of a potato?

We who believe in God don't have to answer these questions. If there is a plan, apples will appear on apple trees and grapes will grow on grape vines.

We should acknowledge regularly this miracle which is life. We don't do it daily, at least most of us don't. But taking our cue from the Pilgrim Fathers once each year we set aside a day on which we acknowledge our dependence on our God and offer him thanks for the bounty which he has provided for us.

Often we do not even do this consciously. In some of our homes our laden tables today will be decimated without a vocal word of thanks. But it will be there. Even the name our holiday denotes our appreciation. And no one yet has been able to be thankful without offering that thanks to someone.

Still, the miracles of abundance we know in this country are at least in some small part our own doing. You may recall the story of the Negro farmer who was working his small field of cotton when the minister walked by. "That's certainly a nice field of cotton you and the Lord have there," said the minister. "Yas, suh," said the Negro, "but you ought to have seen the mess it was in when He was working it by Himself."

So as we offer our thanks to God for making all this possible, we might also remember the men who took the riches of our nation, flavored them with freedom, mixed them with hard work, and produced a nation and a culture never before equaled on this earth.

Thank you, God, for all the things you have bestowed upon us, and thank you too, for the men, their vision, their dedication, their energies and their abilities which have made our nation strong. May we be as able to hand on to others the advantages you have given to us.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Republicans Split Wide Apart By Battle Over Assembly Leadership

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

It is strange how much the legislature has changed in the last five years. I'm not referring to the 34 new assemblymen (out of 80) who will make the Assembly floor resemble a game of "What's My Name" next January. Newsmen are thinking of putting district numbers on legislators' backs and selling programs with the names and numbers of all the players.

That wasn't the change I referred to, however.

Just five years ago, or was it six, Marin's Assemblyman Richard McCollister had the job of "Republican floor leader." It was a job so insignificant at the time that McCollister's name and title didn't even appear on the Assembly's publications. He fixed that by having a resolution passed putting the floor leaders' names on all of them.

The reason it was an insignificant job was that there was practically no party politics; legislators worked together as northerners or southerners or as rural or city dwellers, or some other classifications. Seldom did they vote as Democrats and Republicans.

Now this has changed. The party has become of major importance. The floor leader's job is now a major one. Not only that, but the party caucus chairman has become important and even the job of party whip has some stature.

RIGHT NOW the Republicans are infighting over the job of floor leader. There aren't many Republicans to lead, only 28. And there isn't a single one of the party leaders from last session back on the Assembly floor.

Last session Joseph Shell was floor leader; he ran for governor and lost. John Busterud was the caucus chairman; he ran for state treasurer and lost. Bruce Sumner was party whip; he retired.

So a fight shapes up.

And it shapes up on lines similar to those which are rocking the top echelons of the party, that is, whether the conservatives or the moderates will lead.

THERE ARE THREE or four groups involved.

The so-called moderates, which include Marin Assemblyman William T. Bagley, would like to see Robert T. Monagan of Tracy at the GOP helm. Basically they believe the party needs young, progressive leadership if the party is to survive.

The second group favors Charles J. Conrad of Sherman Oaks, one-time speaker pro tem of the Assembly. He has the backing of Joe Shell and is seen as Shell's hope for a wedge to get himself into party leadership.

A third is Howard J. Thelin of Glendale, considered more of a compromise candidate. But Thelin was generally accepted as being Richard Nixon's spokesman in the Assembly and, as such, has lost supporters.

THE FOURTH group is a half dozen veteran legislators, considered uncommitted now but who have voted on occasion with the Democratic majority. Three of them hold committee chairmanships which they preumably would not like to lose when Speaker Jesse Unruh of Los Angeles shuffles the appointments at the start of the 1962 session. Democrat Unruh hasn't indicated his preference for GOP floor leader.

Then there are the newcomers who may well control the party leadership.

A PROBLEM of the moderates is that with Monagan from Tracy, another northerner, Don Mulford of Oakland, a fringe member of their group wants to be caucus chairman. Anyone familiar with operations of the legislature will urge that any two top positions be split between north and south. Two southerners might succeed with difficulty in influencing legislation. Two northerners would raise southern hackles and defeats.

In any even, the battle is as interesting as it is intense.

THE DEMOCRATS? That's no question. Unruh will be speaker again and Jerome Waldie of Antioch floor leader. No contest.

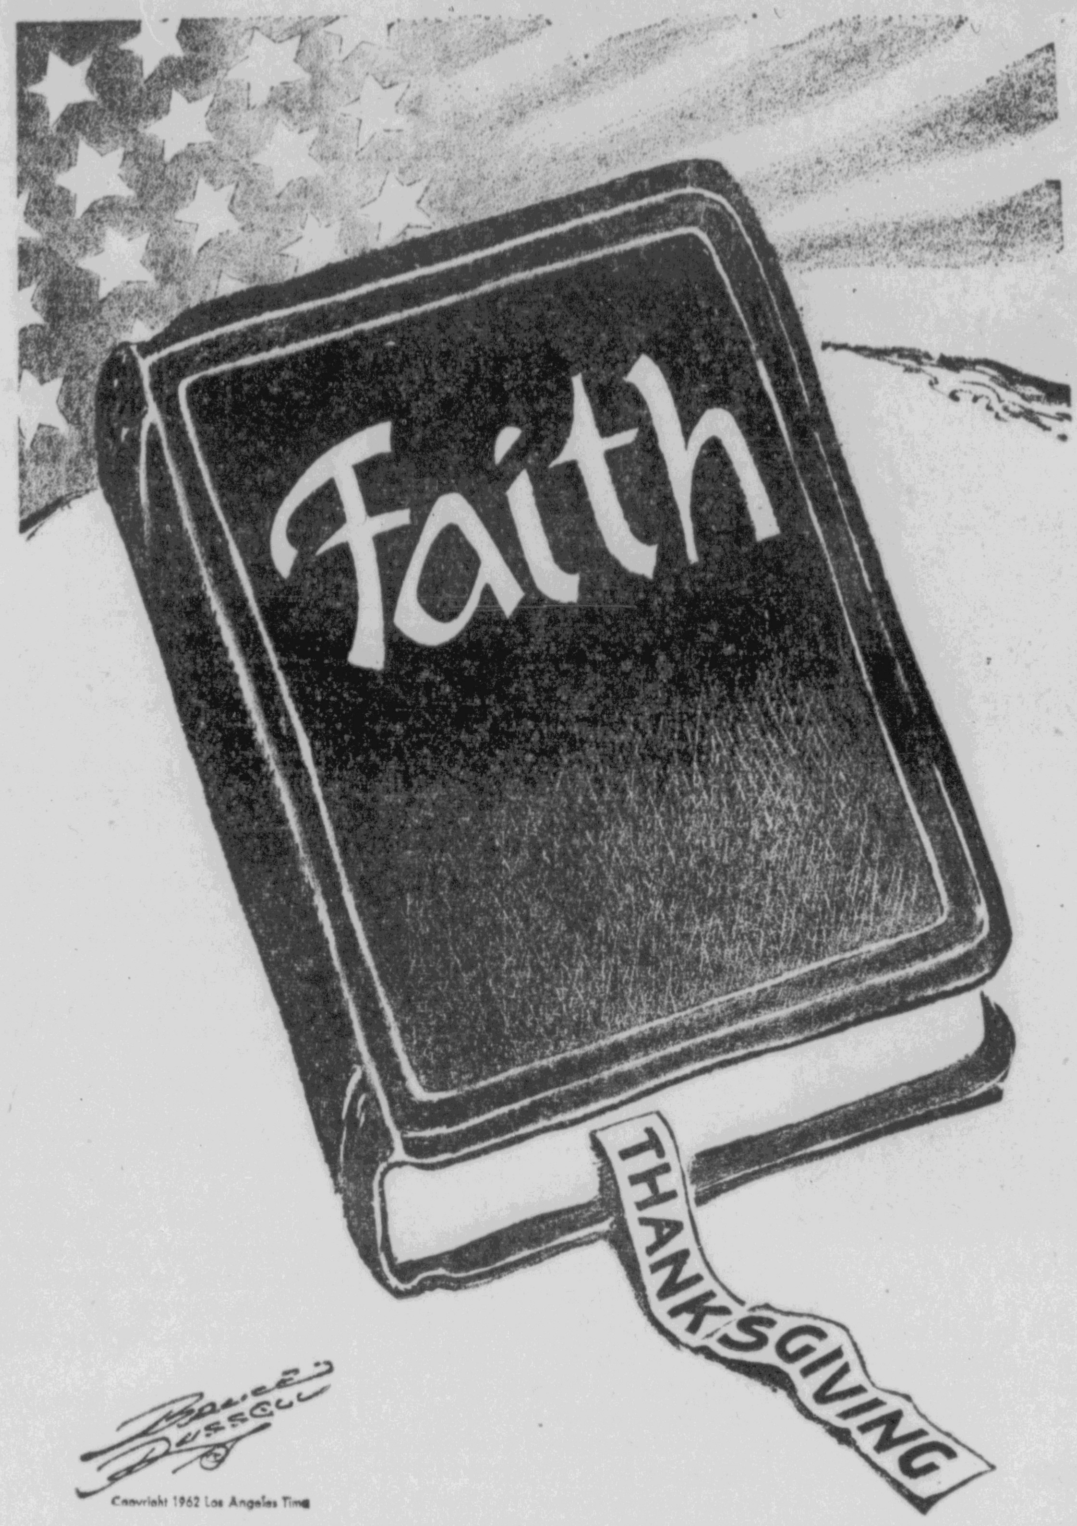
KEEP OUR POWER DRY



THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

A NATION GIVES THANKS

Every President of the United States has set aside one day each year to thank God for blessings on our nation.

On November 8, 1890, President Benjamin Harrison, for instance, officially designated the national observance of Thanksgiving Day with the following proclamation:

"By the grace and favor of Almighty God, the people of this nation have been led to the closing days of the passing year, which has been full of the blessings of peace and comforts of plenty . . .

"Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, 27th day of the present month of November, to be observed as a day of prayer and thanksgiving; and I do invite the people upon that day to cease from their labors, to meet in their accustomed houses of worship, and to join in rendering gratitude to our beneficent Creator for the continuance of His protection and grace for the future."

"In all things give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus regarding you all." (1 Thesalonians 5:18)

Thanks to You, O bountiful Creator, for the blessings of time and eternity.

Council Negates Need For A City

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Following is part of a letter dated Sept. 14, 1962, which was sent to the Mill Valley City Council. To date I have no acknowledgement.

"I was not aware, when I recently bought a home in Mill Valley, that I was attaining Class B citizenship. I refer to the effort of the city council to abandon its maintenance of Janes Street, after many years of bare upkeep.

"My concept of a city is that people form such a unit for their mutual benefit—and not on a selective basis. Hence, I gladly contribute taxes to many community services, e.g., some 40 per cent of the tax money for schools, improving Miller Avenue, and even boxwood trees for downtown. Fine.

"On the other hand, I do not take happily to the notion that the city has no responsibility for MY street—Furthermore, classifying streets with the eventual aim of "A" status does not seem reasonable in this area. I, for one, do not want a 40-foot roadway and concrete curbs in front of my house. A great deal of the charm and pleasure of living here lies in the semi-rural atmosphere—."

It seems to me that in attempting to force the maintenance of some 38 streets in Mill Valley upon individual property owners, with the concommitant formation of some 38 separate assessment districts, and the resulting interminable legal proceedings, that the Mill Valley City Council is effectively negating the need for a City.

Worker Must Go To Court

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have been interested in reading in your paper over the past few months the accounts of the actions taken by the various county authorities in the case of Miss Stella Hughes. As a former civil service (federal) employee, myself, I know only too well what damage the innocent person can sustain when her good name and her professional reputation have been impugned.

In the case of a career civil service worker, such as Miss Hughes, this practically debars her from future employment in any governmental position.

It seems rather strange that three of the county supervisors should disregard consistently the findings of both the County Personnel Commission and the County Grand Jury. Their legal right to do so is not questioned. Their common sense, good judgment and sense of fair play is.

It also seems probably that the two fact-finding bodies mentioned above were in a better position to determine all the facts in the case than the supervisors. Certainly, two of the supervisors thought so.

It seems unfortunate that Miss Hughes must be forced to the expense of action in a court of equity in order to obtain some reparation for the harm done her.

Apparently there is no other recourse for her or for any other county employee, about whom the findings of the Personnel Commission have been disregarded.

Now Smog People Have Full Time Man In Marin Watching For Smoke

These are hard times.

Ross has rats. Fairfax has a parking ordinance. Terra Linda is fighting a losing battle to incorporate. Now the whole county is being threatened by smog.

You may not have noticed, but the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has moved a full-time man into the area to police smog producers.

IT'S AN OMINOUS action, as though he is an advance man for anticipated troubles. There may be anxious days ahead while the smog man keeps a sharp eye for clouds of smudge drifting across the bay.

The advent of a smog officer did not take place without some preparation. His way was paved by an elaborate briefing in the cozy surroundings of Deer Park Villa at a meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

This super council, a quasi-official body, is itself a strange outfit. It supposedly exists as a means of sharing common city council hopes and fears.

THE MEETINGS, always including a large banquet (which is really the central event), seem at a glance to be little more than a collection of city council meetings, all busily violating the Brown Act.

But these gatherings are generally harmless, and of course a reporter is always invited to tag along. The particular event at which smog was discussed provided a convivial atmosphere for the introduction of new pollution control schemes.

As Supervisor William Gnoss, district member for Marin, put it, the metting mollified any hard feelings which may exist between the district and the various city fire departments.

It seems that local firemen want to eliminate smog, but they have never been sure how effective the district can be in preventing the sort of fires that produce smog.

"We are not supposed to be policemen," the firemen say. If all the incinerators in the county are furiously blazing and adding to the haze, the firemen have not the time or maybe even the authority to order a stop.

THE PEOPLE from the district say they have the law on their side, and will be delighted to curb unwanted fires as long as the fire departments cooperate.

"Just let us know when somebody refuses to stop burning," the smog men say.

Regardless of the difficulties of preventing large-scale trash burning, Marin is faced with the questions: How bad is the smog and how much worse will it get?

There seems to be a general assumption that we're not responsible for most of our smog. We just happen to be in the way of polluted air blowing in from the East Bay and San Jose.

BUT ONE VETERAN fire chief, A. T. Henrich of Ross, says all the busy gardeners in Marin probably cause the "biggest collection of debris in the Bay Area." And all those hedge trimmings and lawn cuttings must be burned. And the smog district people say they can't stop a single householder from burning his own trash.

I, for one, will be happy to stop burning leaves as my contribution toward a smog-free county. I've never cared for gardening, and I would just as soon sit and watch the squirrels, gophers and deer carry off whatever remaining vegetation happens to appeal to them.

Khrushchev Securing His Rear So He Can Turn His Wrath On China

WASHINGTON— After the ejection of all possible friends of the Chinese in the Bulgarian Party Congress, there are hints that a similar purge will take place at the Czechoslovakian Party Congress beginning next month. Thus is Nikita Khrushchev striking back at bitter and open denunciation from his Chinese "brothers."

Even the Czech party's durable neo-Stalinist First Secretary Antonin Novotny may be in some danger.

The other Eastern European satellites—except for the odious Walther Ulbricht's East Germany—are already firmly in the hands of Khrushchev's supporters; and East Germany can be dismissed as under effective Russian military occupation.

IF THE CZECH purge occurs on schedule, in sum, Khrushchev's European rear will be fully secured. He can then turn his full wrath against the Chinese without fear of having to fight his intra-party war on two fronts.

How Khrushchev will vent his wrath is anyone's guess. For the first time, the clear possibility of an open, total Chinese-Soviet break, on the pattern of the break between Stalin and Tito, is admitted by the great majority of demonologists. A few think a clean break is downright probable.

KHRUSHCHEV HAS other things he can do to the Chinese if he does not want to go so far as an open break.

At least 35 per cent of all petroleum products consumed in China still come from Russia, for instance. Thus, if petroleum deliveries are withheld, the Chinese Communist army will either be dangerously immobilized at home or crippled in its Tibetan-Indian operational sphere.

What is plain, in any case, is that Khrushchev can hardly avoid making some sort of riposte to the gross provocations he has received from Peking.

BEYOND MUCH doubt, the right kind of riposte will be the topic of excited debate at the crucial meeting of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, which is now on in Moscow.

The Chinese obviously hope that Khrushchev will run into very bad trouble inside the Soviet party, either at this Central Committee meeting or later on. That can never be absolutely ruled out. But if Khrushchev himself does not run into trouble, worse trouble between Russia and China may now be expected.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Abraham Lincoln liked to tell about a pernickety horse owned by a neighbor in Springfield, Ill. The neighbor was riding it down the main street one morning when without warning the nag began kicking vigorously, and got his hind hoof tangled in the left stirrup.

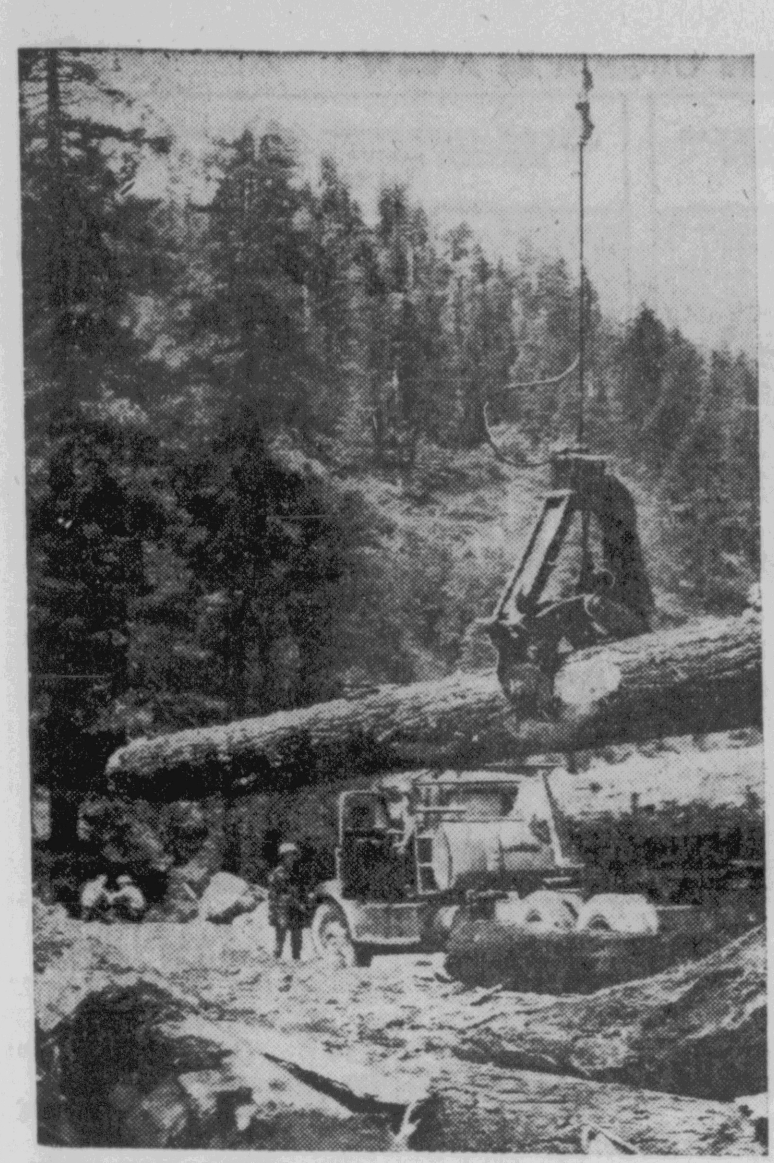
Lincoln's neighbor saw what was happening and hastily declared, "Dawgone, if you're gittin' on, I'm gittin' off!"

When 9-year-old Tricia volunteered to check hats and coats at her parents' anniversary reception, they indulgently accepted her offer. Unobserved, she then sequestered a china saucer from the pantry, put a quarter in it, and left it on a table next to the coat closet.

When the party was over, the parents were astonished to discover their daughter counting the profits — something over 11 dollars!

In New London, Conn., they're telling about the near-sighted whale who fell in love with a U.S. submarine and followed it clear around the world. Every time the sub fired a torpedo, the proud whale passed out cigars.

Mrs. Thompson had a dim opinion of the way her neighbor kept house. "I'll tell you what a mess her place is in," reported Mrs. Thompson to her husband. "While I was having a cup of coffee with her yesterday afternoon, her telephone rang — and she couldn't find it!"



LOGS HARVESTED—Huge logs are harvested near Dunsmuir and hoisted by crane onto a logging truck. About 48,000 board feet of cedar move daily from this stand to a sawmill 12 miles away.

Modern Paul Bunyans Must Use Teamwork On The Job

DUNSMUIR, Siskiyou County (AP)—Teamwork is important to many endeavors but to a logging crew operating in tall and heavy mountain timber, it's not only important, it's a matter of life and death.

That's the experienced judgment of Harland Sattler, a logging supervisor for the Castella, Calif., division of the Kimberly Clark Co.

Once under way, Sattler says, the vastness of the forest, the ruggedness of the terrain and the noise of the bulldozers and saws make it impossible to discuss the next move.

"We not only have to understand each other, we have to like each other," Sattler explained. "Woods safety has made vast strides in the past few years but this is still a dangerous occupation and if a crew member isn't constantly aware of the dangers to himself and his fellow workers, we just have to hire another man before we have to bury one."

Sattler's office is a pickup truck and he must keep in touch with as many as 15 men spread over six square miles of northern California mountains, each man engaged in his own logging specialty.

Kimberly Clark recently closed its lumber mill at Castella but it did not break up its experienced, well-knit Castella logging crew. Now they use Castella as a base of operations for activity in Shasta and neighboring counties.

For example, Sattler's crew harvested a stand of cedar near Dunsmuir, a community north of Castella. Then the crew finished its job by hauling the harvest 12 miles farther north to a plant at Mount Shasta.

"We've gotten so we coordinate without even thinking about it," Sattler said. "After the company forester cruises, that is surveys, a timber stand and the timber itself is evaluated and marked for cutting, we don't require any lengthy conferences. We just move in, with precision born of experience."

It's all done amid a bedlam of noise: the roar of a bulldozer "skidding" a load of logs along a mountain road, hauling them from where they were felled, the whir [illegible]

The screams of the saws, in fact, tell a [illegible] actly what is going on without his having to bother to check. The noise of a chain saw used to fell a tree is different from the sound of a trimmer saw. Each man must atune himself to these sounds.

While all this is in the interest of safety, it is also in the interest of production.

The members of a logging crew know their jobs depend on getting the logs to a mill within a period of time that can be allowed by the market's cost range.

On the slopes above Little Castle Creek near Dunsmuir, that meant a daily objective of moving 48,000 board feet of cedar logs from the tree state to the logging pond.

This operation included cutting the trees, trimming the trees, building roads to reach the logs, skidding or hauling them to the loading areas and having them ready for the four round trips daily of two truck drivers.

West cashed two top clubs and then led the jack of clubs. East discarded the ten of diamonds, and South ruffed.

DREW TWO

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, got back to his hand with the ace of hearts and gave up a trump trick to the queen.

East got out safely with a low heart and waited for his diamond trick to defeat the contract. Down one.

Not much doubt about the criminal, is there? But where did he go wrong?

STARTS EARLY

South was, of course, the criminal since he should have made four spades. He started early on his life of crime.

After ruffing the third club, South should immediately lead out the ace of hearts.

Now South leads a trump to the ace and ruffs a heart. He leads another trump to the king, discovering the bad trump break, and ruffs still another heart.

FINALLY

Finally, South gives up a trump trick to East. With only red cards left in his hand East cannot make a safe return.

If East returns his last heart, South ruffs and gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds to cash the jack of hearts.

And if East returns a diamond, dummy gets a free finesse.

Only a hardened bridge criminal would draw trumps without playing for the hearts as well.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Scientists Are Looking For Clues To Reasons Babies Are Malformed

VAN DELLEN

Scientists are sifting the ashes of the thalidomide tragedy for additional clues relative to congenital abnormalities. There is speculation that some of the fathers may have been responsible in that defect was transmitted through the sperm of those taking the German sedative. This is speculative and difficult to prove.

There are many reasons for congenital defects and the experience with thalidomide is stimulating more research. We know the damage must occur during the early months of pregnancy when the organs are developing. The embryo is extremely sensitive to changes in the oxygen content of the blood, toxins from infections, and certain chemicals.

THESE FACTORS arrest the development of the extremities, heart chambers, bones, brain, eyes, ears, and other structures without bringing about death of the child or sickness in the mother. In other words, the substance must be taken at the right time and in the right amounts.

It is well known that German measles has an adverse effect on the fetus, when the disease occurs during the first three months of pregnancy. Other infections such as syphilis or toxoplasmosis, unsuccessful attempts to induce abortions with drugs, and the use of certain agents to avoid miscarriages may do the same. Smoking during pregnancy is under investigation as a possible cause of oxygen deficit.

AN EXPECTANT mother, from the first indication of her pregnancy, should try to lead as normal a life as possible. She ought to get enough rest, eat properly, and do everything in her power to avoid infections.

These suggestions are made so she can lessen the need for medicines and reduce her chances of getting a disease that might produce abnormalities in the child. But she must not foolishly refuse medications needed to cure serious illnesses.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

POLIO VACCINES

A. C. B. writes: How do you feel about changing from Salk to Sabin?

REPLY

Wonderful because it represents an innovation of historical significance. This is the first time man has been able to become immune to a disease by swallowing a few drops of vaccine. The concept may revolutionize the way vaccines are given, by making the project community-wide. It must prove to be safe, however, before it receives universal acceptance.

DENTAL X-RAYS

G.B.N. writes: My dentist takes X-rays of the mouth every three years. Is this dangerous?

REPLY

No. The amount of radiation is so small there is no need for concern. In addition, it is so far away from the reproductive organs there is no need to worry about creating mutations in future generations.

STIFF GAIT

Mrs. K. writes: A few months ago our 28-month-old child began walking in a stiff manner, particularly after he awakens from a nap. Please advise.

REPLY

There are several bone and joint disorders capable of doing this. Consult your physician so he can pinpoint the cause after X-rays and other tests.

NERVES AND VITAMINS

J.M. writes: Are vitamin B-12 shots helpful in nervous exhaustion?

REPLY

Large doses (1,000 mcg.) are of value in some cases. But physicians are divided in their opinion about the value of the vitamin for this purpose. Is it a true tonic or are the good effects psychological?

RED AS A BEET

R.B.S. writes: I'm extremely fond of garden beets and notice my urine has a reddish color for two days after eating them. Is this due to a kidney disorder?

REPLY

No. Blame the beets.

Today's Health Hint—Faulty eating habits are a common cause of overeating.

CHILDREN'S TEMPERATURE RISE

Mrs. K. writes: Do infants and children normally run a higher temperature when ill than adults?

REPLY

Yes, in general. But much depends upon the nature of the illness. If a boy of three and a man of 33 were to develop a cold of equal severity, the child's temperature would be higher.

ABDOMINAL PAIN

Mrs. A. writes: Do you advise the application of heat or ice packs to relieve the pain of acute diverticulitis?

REPLY

We usually recommend drugs that relieve spasm and sterilize the infected part of the bowel. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on diverticulosis.

HARELIP IN THE FAMILY

S. F. writes: What causes harelip? Is it hereditary?

REPLY

A hereditary background is noted in 20 to 30 per cent. About the end of the third month after conception, the two sides of the upper jaw and hard palate unite. When this fails to happen, and a cleft remains, the child is born with harelip or cleft palate.

Today's Health Hint — Mortality rate is 50 per cent higher among those 25 per cent overweight.

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, by its resolution entitled "Resolution Appointing Engineers", adopted on the date of adoption of this resolution, appointed KENNETH FROST ASSOCIATES, Engineers in Marin County, California, as Engineers to do and perform all engineering work necessary in and for said proceedings, including all preliminary surveying, preparation of plans, profiles, specifications, estimate of costs, diagram, assessment, setting grade stakes and supervision of work; and

WHEREAS, the public interest and convenience require the construction and acquisition of said proposed acquisitions and improvements;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, as follows:

1. The foregoing recitals are true and correct and the Board of Supervisors so finds and determines.

2. The Board of Supervisors hereby finds that said petition has been signed by the owners of all of the property subject to assessment for the proposed acquisitions and improvements hereinafter described and hereby grants said petition and hereby determines that the situation described in clause (3) of Section 2804 of the Streets and Highways Code exists and that Division 4 of the Streets and Highways Code shall not apply to the proceedings hereinafter provided for.

3. The public interest and convenience require the installation and acquisition of the proposed acquisitions and improvements hereinafter described.

4. Description of Work and Improvements

Excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Lyford Drive from the beginning of work at the northerly line of Marinero Residence No. 1, 650 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, engineered fill, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Phyllis Dr. beginning at its intersection with Lyford Drive 400 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Sugar Loaf Drive from its intersection with Lyford Drive 850 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Heathcliff Drive from its intersection with Sugar Loaf Drive 450 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court and St. Gabriele Court for their entire lengths, a combined total of 800 feet more or less, drainage facilities, specifically culverts, catch basins, inlet structures, outlet structures and ditches relating to the improvement of Lyford Drive, Phyllis Drive, Sugar Loaf Drive, Heathcliff Drive, Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court and St. Gabriele Court; water facilities in connection with the improvement of Lyford Drive, Phyllis Drive, Sugar Loaf Drive, Heathcliff Drive, Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court, and St. Gabriele Court, including transmission lines, piping, valves and service connections; sanitary sewer lines and laterals, gas transmission lines, pole risers, underground electrical and telephone ducts and service connection boxes, transformer pads, street signs and survey monuments within and appurtenant to the above mentioned streets; water transmission lines, pumping station, water storage tanks and access road thereto.

Description of Acquisitions

Excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Lyford Drive from a point 800 feet northeasterly of the easterly line of Marinero 700 feet more or less to the beginning of work at the northerly line of Marinero Residence No. 1; offsite water transmission lines, valves and appurtenances. Easements for drainage purposes.

Except as in this resolution otherwise specifically provided, all of said work, acquisitions and improvements shall be made and done pursuant to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913.

5. Notice is hereby given of the fact that in certain cases the work of grading and surfacing of streets will bring the finished surfaces of the improved streets to grades different from the surfaces of such streets as they now exist or as formally established by the Board of Supervisors. Said Board of Supervisors does hereby adopt and establish as the official grades for said work, the grades and elevations shown on the Report of the Engineers hereinafter directed to be made and filed, as hereafter adopted, confirmed and approved by this Board of Supervisors, to which Report reference is hereby made for a description of said grades and elevations.

6. Said Board of Supervisors hereby declares that the territory within the boundaries hereinafter specified and described is the district to be benefited by said work, acquisitions and improvements and to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof; that the expense of said work, acquisitions and improvements is hereby made chargeable upon said district; and that the exterior boundaries of said assessment district are hereby specified and described to be as shown on that certain map now on file in the office of the County Clerk of the County of Marin entitled "Marinero Residence No. 1 Unit 2 Assessment Diagram", which said map indicates by a boundary line the extent of the territory included in said proposed district and shall govern for all details as to the extent of the assessment district. A copy of said map is attached hereto marked "Exhibit A" and made a part hereof.

7. All public streets, alleys, easements and ways and all publicly owned property in said assessment district in use in the performance of a public function shall be omitted from said assessment hereafter to be made to pay the cost and expenses of said work, acquisitions and improvements.

8. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares and notice is hereby given that serial bonds payable to bearer to represent unpaid assessments of $50 or more and to bear interest at a maximum rate of not to exceed 6% a year payable semiannually will be issued hereunder in the manner provided by Division 7 of the Streets and Highways Code, the Improvement Act of 1911, and said bonds shall extend over a period not exceeding fourteen years from the 2nd day of January next succeeding the next September 1st following their date. The Board of Supervisors hereby elects to have the redemption provisions of each of said bonds provide a premium of five (5) per cent of the unpaid principal thereof.

9. The Board of Supervisors hereby finds and determines that if the assessment herein proposed results in a surplus in the improvement fund to be provided in the proceedings hereafter to be taken pursuant to this resolution, after the acquisitions and improvements are completed, said surplus shall be refunded or credited pro rata to the parties assessed, unless the Board of Supervisors of said County hereafter otherwise provides by resolution, all in accordance with the provisions of Section 10427 of the Streets and Highways Code.

10. The Board of Supervisors hereby refers said proposed work, acquisitions and improvements to Kenneth Frost Associates, Engineers in Marin County, California, and hereby directs said Engineers to make and file with the County Clerk of the County of Marin a Report in writing containing the matters specified in Section 10204 of the Streets and Highways Code.

11. It is the intention of the Board of Supervisors of said County that the proposed improvements comprising underground electric distribution facilities, including pole risers, underground electrical conduits, service connection boxes, transformer pads and electrical services for providing electricity and electric service within said district, shall be sold to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company without calling or advertising for bids.

Said improvements for providing electricity and electric service are more particularly set forth in said Engineer's Report to be filed in the office of the County Clerk on the day of the adoption of this Resolution of Intention and prior to the publication of this Resolution of Intention as provided below.

The Board of Supervisors hereby finds and determines as follows: That said improvements for supplying electricity and electric service so proposed to be sold cannot be economically and efficiently operated and maintained by the County of Marin, and the Board of Supervisors proposes to sell the same as aforesaid for the reason that said County has no facilities, personnel or ability for the operation and maintenance of said improvements for providing or supplying such services, or any of them; that said Pacific Gas and Electric Company is the only utility, or person or corporation that has the facilities, personnel and ability for the operation and maintenance of said improvements for providing electricity and electric service; and that calling or advertising for bids prior to said proposed sale, would be futile and useless under the circumstances and would not result in competitive bidding and that the public interest will be furthered by the sale of said improvements as herein provided without first calling or advertising for bids.

Said improvements so proposed to be sold as aforesaid are useful and necessary for the rendition of services to the Marinero Residence No. 1 Unit 2 Improvement District within said County, and the sale thereof shall be conditional upon the purchaser thereof maintaining and operating such improvements for the purpose of providing the service for which it was intended to be used.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Tuesday, the 18th day of December, 1962, at the hour of 4:00 o'clock P.M., in the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, County Courthouse, San Rafael, California, are hereby fixed as the time and place when and where persons objecting to said proposed sale of said improvements may appear before the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin and show cause why said proposed sale shall not be made. At said time and place any owner of property assessed or being assessed to pay for the acquisition, construction or installation of said improvements proposed to be sold may appear before said Board of Supervisors and object to the sale. At any time not later than said time set for hearing objections, any owner of property assessed or being assessed to pay for the acquisition, construction or installation of said improvements proposed to be sold may make and deliver to the County Clerk of said County a written protest against the proposed sale. Failure to object in writing at said time will constitute a waiver of all objections to the proposed sale and a bar to any subsequent attack on the validity of such sale.

The County Clerk of said County is hereby authorized and directed to cause this Resolution of Intention to be published once a week for two (2) successive weeks in the INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, a newspaper of general circulation in the County of Marin.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this 13th day of November, 1962, by the following vote:

AYES: Supervisors William D. Fusselman, Peter H. Behr, George H. Ludy, William A. Gnoss, Walter Castro.

Hunter Gets It Between The Eyes

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Hunting under a special permit, Albert Little of Germantown, Ohio, bagged a raccoon near here. The 'coon also got Little.

The 29-year-old hunter said the raccoon fell from the tree where he cornered it, hitting him right between the eyes.

"I was out like a light for about five minutes, I guess," Little said. "When I came to, my dog was licking my face."

Rare Minnow Found In Pond

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP)—A species of fish never before reported east of Montreal in Canada has been found in a small pond on Newfoundland's west coast.

The find was reported by the biology department of Memorial University here which says attempts are being made to find more of the rare fish.

One specimen of the umbra lima—a species of mud minnow—was found in Noels Pond on the Earnest Harmon United States Air Base by U.S. divers working voluntarily with the university in its marine studies.

Yule Season Takes On International Air At Campus

Joyeux Noel . . . Frohe Weihnachten . . . Feliz Navidad . . . Merrie Christmas.

At Christmas, an air of internationalism floats across the campus of Scripps College in Claremont as the 300 women students stage celebrations in each of the five residence halls to which they invite the families of the college faculty and staff.

For the holiday parties which climax months of planning, one hall maintains a traditional ceremony started 25 years ago while the newest hall on the campus still seeks a "tradition."

Pages, dressed in costumes of medieval England, deliver parchment scrolls which invite guests to enjoy a 16th Century evening at Grace Scripps Residence Hall. The guests are welcomed with wassail and enjoy the arrival of the Yule Log, carried by some rather attractive "druids."

Following the trumpeter's opening of the festivities, guests are led by the squire, his lady and his court to the dining room.

The jester leads the way as a procession of waitresses parade platters of flaming plum pudding, a boar's head resplendent with the traditional bright red apple in his mouth, and other delicacies of Merrie Old England.

During the feast, tumblers and minstrels vie with the jester for the attention of the visitors.

At another residence hall, guests will be welcomed by a Danish Christmas scene as they enter the lobby, for Dorsey Hall celebrates with a traditional Danish party.

St. Lucia, dressed in a long white gown and wearing a crown of burning candles, serves the first dessert, "Lusch Torte," a part of the Danish holiday celebration. The torte promises a special good future to those finding an almond in their serving.

As an added charm for lucky almond recipients, the guests will be asked to float walnut shells with tiny candles blazing in the hall pool. The ones whose candles float the longest are assured a joyous future.

On the door of each girl's room, a cat, a bowl or an elf tells the story of the whimsical brownie, Jule-Nissen, who must be left a bowl of porridge on Christmas Eve as a bribe to control his mischief for another year.

As guests cross the campus to approach Browning Hall, the light coming from hundreds of "Luminarios" placed along the walks and across every part of the rooftop announce that Old Mexico lives again within the walls.

(Luminarios are candles centered in sand placed within common paper bags. The glow of the candle's flame through the paper casts a golden light.)

Senoritas and senors sing gay fiesta songs of the Mexican people and dancers swirl around the floor to the nation's celebration music.

A dramatic matador challenges a somewhat unusual looking bull each year and always succeeds in mastering the animal.

Climaxing the Mexican fiesta, candy cascades from a pottery pinata which is smashed by the guests. The treats are rapidly gathered by the youngsters delightedly attending the Mexican party.

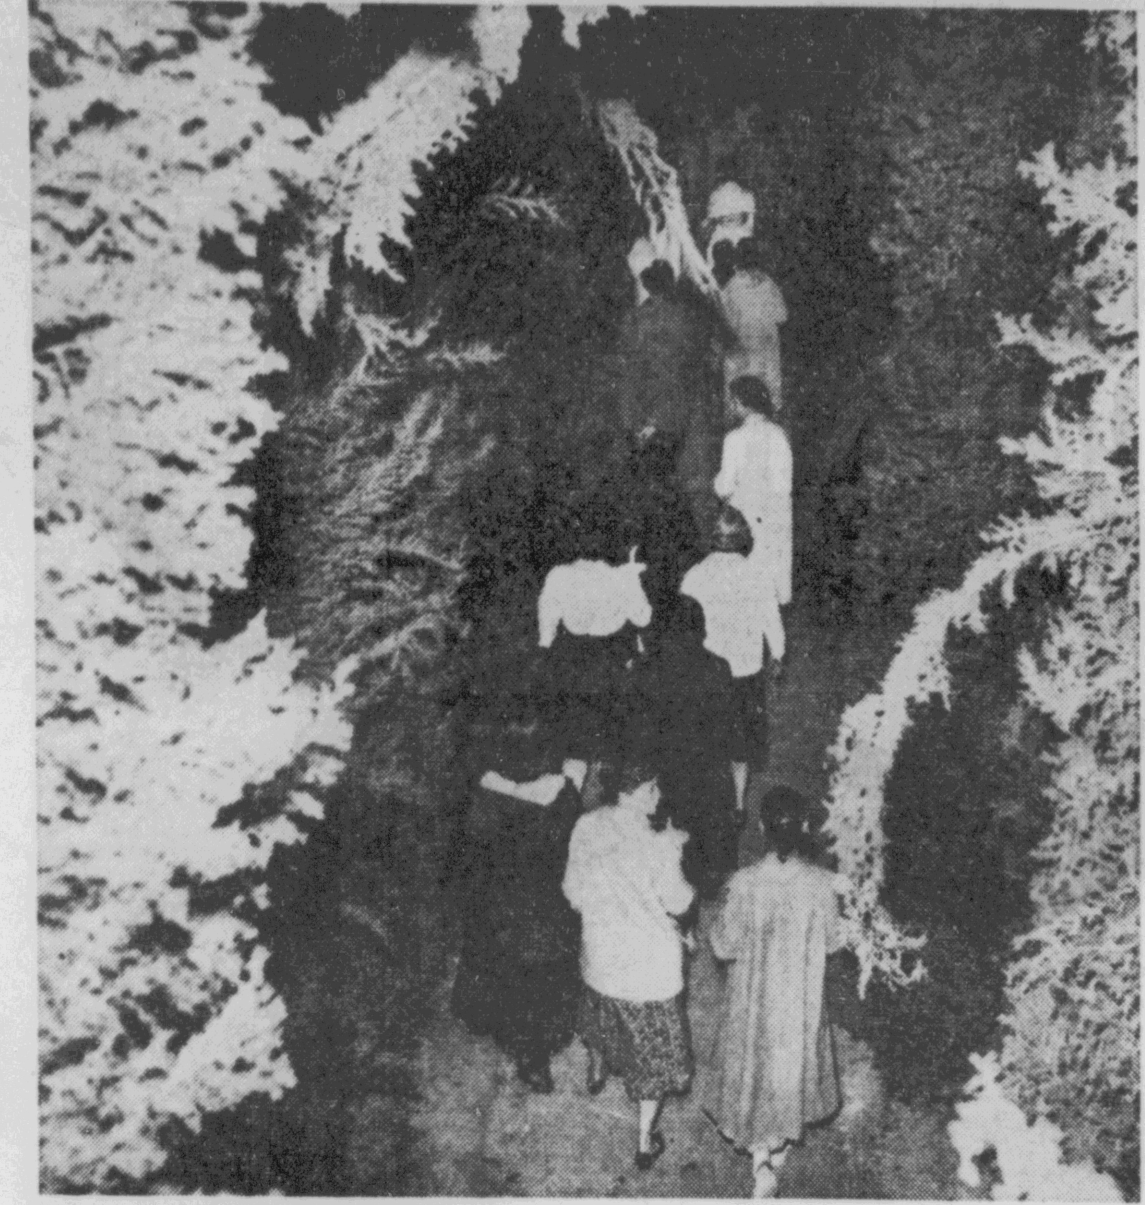
A complete Scandinavian dinner with plum and apple-stuffed turkeys, red cabbage and applecake will be served the members of the Scripps College faculty and staff and their families at another campus hall. Here, singers in the masks of farm animals entertain the guests.

As guests sit in the light of the Christmas tree they will be entertained by traditional Danish dances. Each year, the tree is decorated with strings of popcorn, cranberries and handmade paper ornaments.

In the newest residence hall, Mary Kimberly, the college students have yet to establish a specific holiday party theme. During their first year in the new hall, they presented "The Nutcracker Suite."

As the evening draws to a close, carols sung by the Scripps choir call the guests from each of the halls to join a candlelight procession. They wind their way across the campus, located at the foothills of the majestic San Bernardino Mountains, seeking a Madonna which has been secreted in an appropriate setting on the grounds.

The finding of the Madonna by the more than 500 procession members closes "l'affaire internationale" at Scripps College.



CANDLELIGHT PROCESSION wends its way along a cypress-lined walk on the Scripps College campus in Claremont searching for a Madonna and Christmas tableau. Finding the tableau always is the climax of an evening in which each of the college residence halls has given a traditional Christmas party.

NEW-BORN SAVIOUR

No Treasure Chest Rich As Christmas

By REV. FRANKLIN CLARK FRY
President, Lutheran Church in America

Greetings, in the name of our new-born Saviour, to all who are waiting for the coming King!

He is the One of whom St. Paul spoke in his second epistle to the Corinthians, the eighth chapter and the ninth verse, when he wrote: "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich."

DR. FRANKLIN FRY
World church leader

No treasure chest is so rich and full as Christmas. Peace is in it and joy and hope and love and patience and a true sense of values. Peace is declared between man and God in this King. He was born to reconcile even the rebellious soul, the soul that hates God and actually in its insanity tries to destroy God, who is its Maker.

Joy to the world the Lord is come. Behold, said the angel, I bring you glad tidings of great joy! Hope has its perfect symbol in the new-born child. When God became a baby, he turned away from the past. He entered our life at the stage, infancy, that has only one tense, the future.

The child Jesus draws out our love. The mighty God who so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son compels it. Patience is reasonable and becomes sane in the light of this manger.

God has given us a pledge, a hostage, in His Son. If he had ever intended to desert Him in this world, He would never have permitted His best beloved to be born.

Purity, humility and love are the three virtues that are most typical of Christmas.

When the spotless Son of God was born on Christmas, He was laid in an earthly manger, right in the midst of a sinful and oppressive world. He was so sparkling clean that everybody soon saw the contrast!

The pure Saviour will not live today in human hearts that will not repent and be cleansed.

Christmas is equally the festical of humility. The all-powerful Son of God was so humble that he became a helpless child!

(The center door of the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, His birthplace, is so low that all pilgrims have to bend their backs to enter it.)

In so doing He has given courage and confidence to all other helpless ones since His time. Men who are full of pride can never welcome this new-born King, who stooped to be born.

Above all, the Saviour's birth shows the Father's love. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

We Christians are worthiest of the little Jesus when Christian love for our fellow men makes us resent and resist every injustice which in inflicted upon our fellow men.

As Martin Luther said, in our dealings with our neighbors each of us must become a kind of Christ to them.

MESSAGE OF FAITH FOR YULE

Rev. Franklin Clark Fry, one of the most influential leaders in world Protestanism, is chairman of the policy-making Central Committee of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Fry is president of the new 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America and for 18 years served as president of the United Lutheran Church in America. He also is president of the 50,000,000-member Lutheran World Federation.

He was born Aug. 30, 1900, in Bethlehem, Pa.

Much Romance In Christmas Legend, Myths

There are many charming traditions about love and lovers connected with the Christmas holidays.

In northern England, young maidens place holly under their pillows with the verse, "Good St. Thomas, serve me right, and send me my true love tonight."

In the Swiss Alps, when a young woman accepts a gift of edelweiss, it is traditionally understood that she also accepts the young gentleman who offers it.

And of course the custom of kissing under the mistletoe, as an expression of everlasting love, is one which dates back centuries. Although still a part of our Christmas tradition, it is now more of a "fun" custom rather than a sentimental one.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, "Fear not for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

Christmas At First Rejected Yule Trees

Holly and evergreen come from the Roman Saturnalia. By trimming their homes with this greenery, the Romans believed they could keep out evil spirits.

The Christians at first rejected the custom, but later adopted it reluctantly because an untrimmed house marked them as Christians and next in line for the gladiators.

Creamy Coconut

Fireproof Hair For Santa Claus

Whiskers and wigs make the Santa! And wise Mrs. Santas choose sets made of nylon "hair" which is fireproof—and can be kept fluffy and sanitary by washing in warm suds and rinses.

These sets can even be machine-washed and dried if put in a protective mesh bag.

When dry, brush or comb both wig and whiskers to keep Santa well-groomed.

The kids will never recognize "you know who" in these snowy, fluffy head and chin trimmings.

Diamond Dip For That Gift

Ladies who receive diamonds in their stockings will want to keep their gems sparkling. Using a tea strainer, immerse the gems in sudsy water with ammonia added.

Bring the suds to a boil. Cool under running warm water and drain them on tissue. Finally, dip them into alcohol and let them dry.

Restore Ornaments

Tarnished Christmas tree ornaments will serve once more when painted with colored nail polish.

World Bible-reading Class Started By Marine In War

"The biggest Bible-reading class anywhere," was the Kansis City Star's description of the Thanksgiving-to-Christmas Bible reading program sponsored by the American Bible Society.

The program, which now is worldwide, traces its beginning to a Marine overseas in World War II who suggested that he and his family at home read the same Scripture verses on the same day.

Now bookmarks, listing suggested Bible readings for each day of Advent, are printed for distribution round the world in English, Spanish, Korean, Japanese, Chinese, Thai, Portuguese, Greek, Turkish, German, French, Dutch and Arabic.

The Bible Society (450 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y.) also publishes "Unto You a Savior" to be read at Christmas time. It is the story of the birth and childhood of Jesus as told in the Gospel of Luke, King James version; printed in small booklet form, in large type.

These booklets are distributed free at hospitals, homes for the aged, rescue missions, correctional institutions, YMCAs, YWCAs, hotels, motels and on individual request.

They also are published in German by the Biblemission in Deutschland and in Japanese by the Japan Bible Society.

"Unto You a Savior" also is used by the "biggest Bible-reading class," as the reading for Christmas Eve.

Yule Customs Of Mexico On Display

CLAREMONT (AP)—Christmas customs of the Mexican village are displayed in the United States each year, during the eight-week run of "Las Posadas" on the stage of the Padua Hills Theater in California.

Carolers, representing Mary and Joseph going from door to door in Bethlehem seeking posada (shelter) before the birth of the Christ Child, sing from door to door in Mexican villages for nine evenings before Christmas.

They are denied admission everywhere until Christmas Eve when a prearranged home invites the singers in for a fiesta. At midnight someone announces that the Holy Child is born and the hand-carved image of the Child is discovered, dressed and placed with the other images in the family nacimiento (manger scene).

These customs, and that of the Pinata, are woven into the first scene of the Padua Hills play.

In the play, Ramon, caretaker of the church, has been given the collection from the poor box to take to the padre's room. He lays the money down while he prays and it is stolen. The barefooted thief stops by Ramon's house on his flight into the mountains and Ramon's son gives him his father's shoes. The man decides to leave the money and hides it in the family pinata, an elaborately decorated clay jar full of candy, fruits, nuts and small gifts.

When Ramon's daughter dons a blindfold and gaily breaks the pinata, the padre is present. He sees the coins rain down and believes Ramon had hidden the money.

But Ramon is vindicated when the posada singers come to his home for the fiesta. The beautiful image of the child they find at midnight was obviously left by an image maker who is a notorious ne'er-do-well.

The second half of the play concerns the dream of Ramon's son about the images in the nacimiento. It is a nativity play still done in Mexico—not in Mexican, Spanish or even Holy Land clothes, but in the costumes of medieval central Europe.

Herman Garner, who has been chairman of the board of Padua Institute since its beginning, believes the play was passed from central Europe to France, to Spain, then to Mexico.

The scene begins with an angel telling Mary of the coming birth. Then the angel tells a group of dancing shepherds and shepherdesses to go find the manger at Bethlehem. The devil, portrayed as a dragon, comes out to tempt the shepherds and shepherdesses, but they manage to resist him and arrive at the manger.

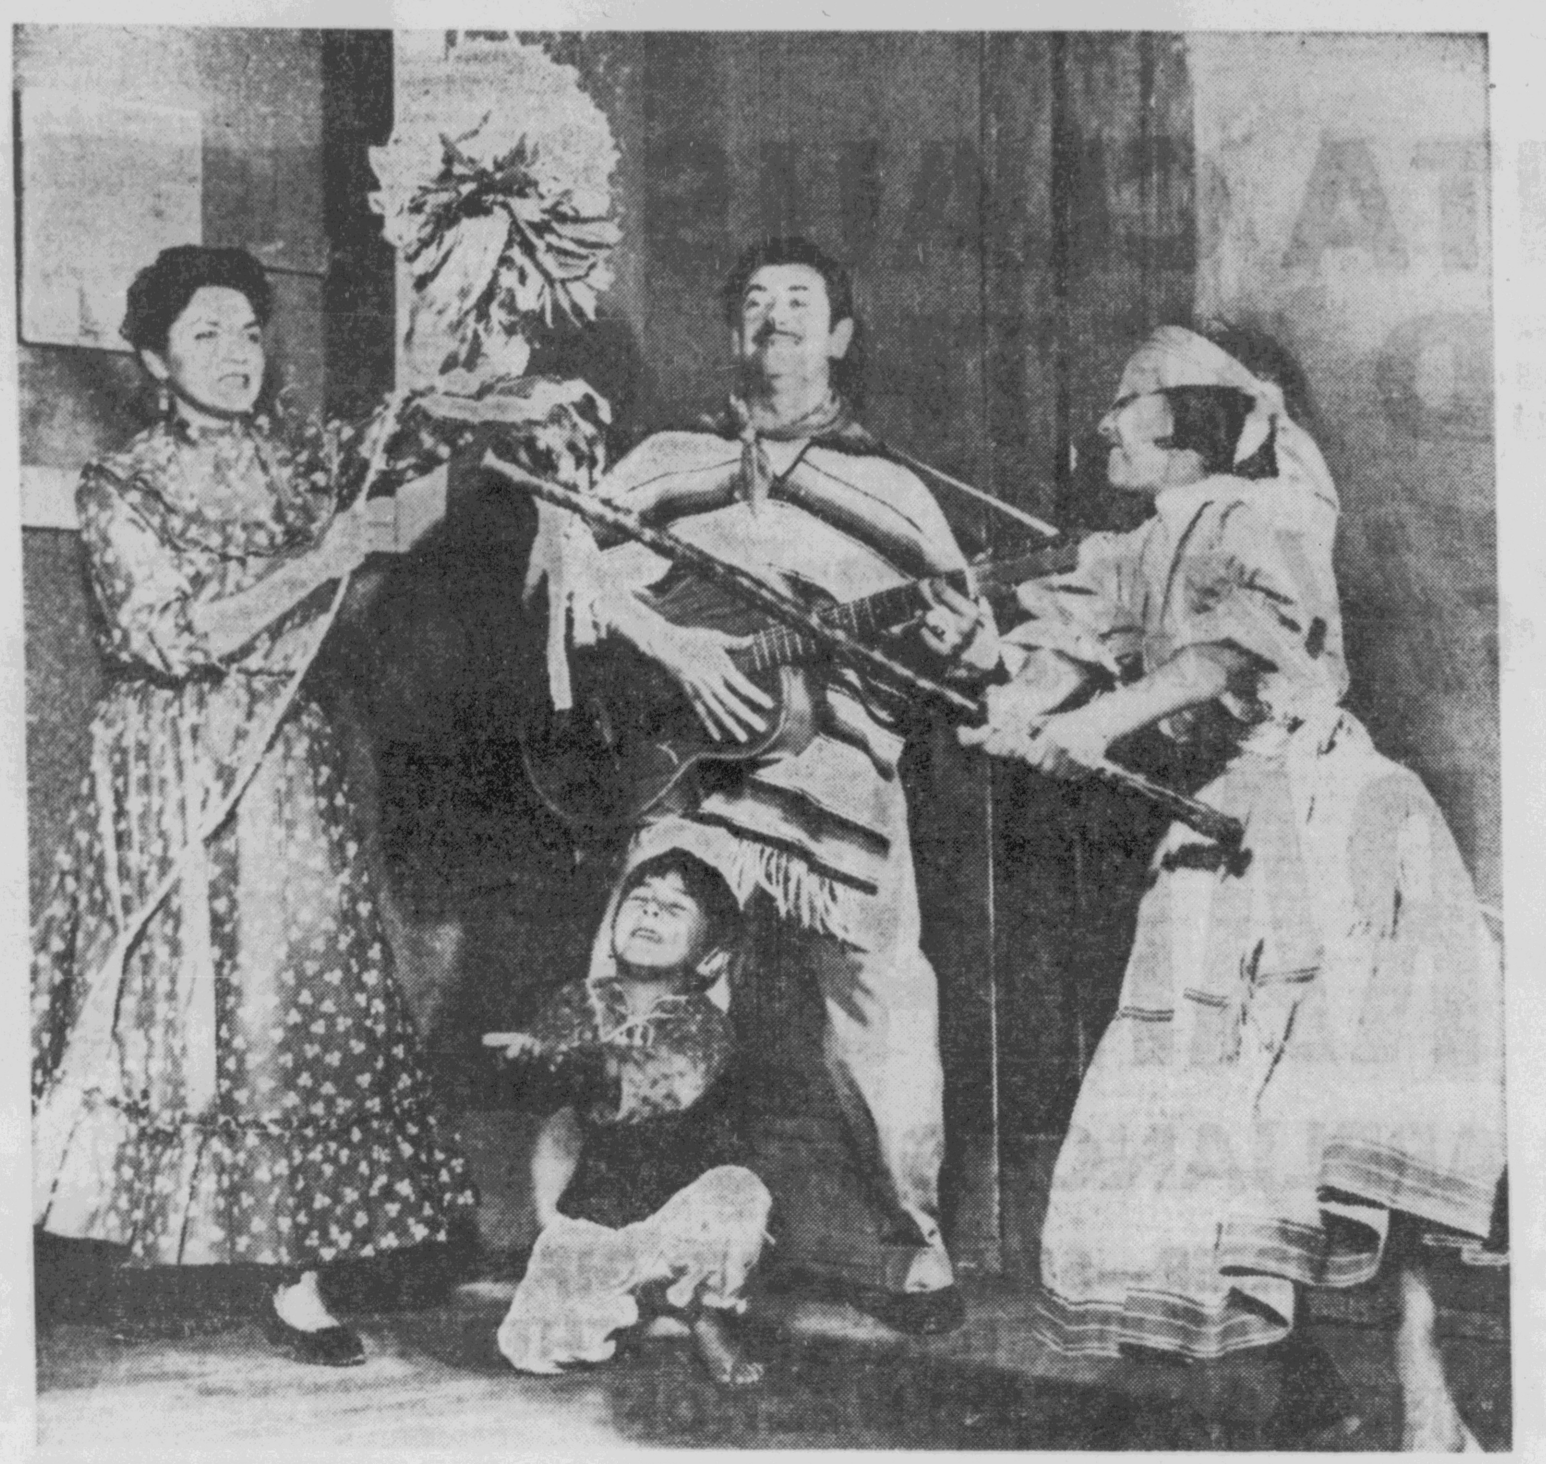
The las posadas songs, which differ somewhat by region, in this play are as sung in La Canada de Caracheo in the state of Guanajuato.

The theater is built on a foothill of the Sierra Madre Mountains, north of Claremont, and has in conjunction with it a dining room and shops where pottery is made, decorated and sold.

Seven plays are given a year, some in English, some in Spanish, but all aimed toward English-speaking audiences. Actors are Mexican, more than half from Mexico, the rest second-generation Americans.

Garner says, "The theater was built in 1930 for the Claremont Community Players, with Mexican entertainment in the dining room. We tried these entertainers out in the theater and found them talented. We also found that people who came here with prejudices discovered a culture that was quite appealing. We found they dropped their prejudices.

"We discovered more by accident than by design that the audiences feel the emotions of the people on stage. And once you've felt that, they never seem so foreign again."



BREAKING THE PINATA — The blindfolded daughter in the Mexican family tries to break the gayly decorated pottery pinata while her mother uses a pulley to try and jerk it out of her reach. Father plays music and brother is ready to catch the Christmas goodies which fall from a broken pinata.

MANGER SCENE comes to life in "Las Posadas," the Christmas play of Mexico given at Padua Hills Theater in California. The nativity play which is part of "Las Posadas" is given yearly in Mexican villages.

Christmas Was Once Time Of Pagan Rites

The season that we now know as Christmas was originally a time of pagan rituals. In ancient times, Dec. 25 was the day of the Sun Festival and the 12 days following were devoted to the expulsion of all evil.

During this time, torches were lighted, bells jangled and kettles clattered in a great hue and cry that rose to ear-splitting proportions in order to drive out all wandering witches, ghosts and demons.

Choose Tree By Its Color

Buying a tree? Select a bright green one. That way you will get a better looking tree and also avoid the fire hazard inherent in one with pale or brown needles.

When you get it home, take a diagonal slice off the butt, an inch or two from the end. This will expose green wood that will absorb water when placed in a pan.

Be sure the stand permits you to set the butt in a water container.

Avoid placing the tree near stoves, fireplaces, hot air ducts, radiators, television sets and other heat sources.

PRETTY BIRDS in rainbow hues pose a difficult decision for these two little boys in search of a singing Christmas present. The more beautiful the color, the more expensive the bird.

Yule Tree Comes In Categories

When the head of the house goes forth to choose a Christmas tree, he is likely to buy one that most closely duplicates the tree of his childhood. And the tree of his childhood probably was a Douglas fir.

Also of appeal to the buyer is the fact that the fir is a good, middle-of-the-road purchase. It's true there are cheaper trees, particularly red cedar and Virginia pine, but for all-round good looks, the fir is more appealing. In the more luxurious price brackets are ranged the blue spruce, the white spruce and the Scotch pine.

Members of the American Christmas Tree Council take a practical approach to tree buying. They suggest that the area where the tree is to be placed is first measured exactly: both ceiling height and width. Guesswork is difficult when the buyer is facing a lot crowded with hundreds of trees.

If the tree is to be tucked into a corner, the buyer can save money by choosing a tree with an imperfect side, since trees are price-tagged primarily according to species, height and quality.

Or if the tree is to be viewed from all sides, he can look for a perfect tree that is shorter than ceiling height, and therefore less expensive.

According to U. S. standard grades for marking Christmas trees, the categories are:

1. U. S. Premium: Fully branched trees, dense and symmetrical.
2. U. S. No. 1 (Select): Fairly dense branching, symmetrical, with three complete faces.
3. U. S. No. 2 (Standard): Sparsely branched, with long clear stem area between whorls of branches, but symmetrical.
4. Culls: Trees with major defects.

Select and standard trees are adequate for a corner location. And any minor defects can be easily hidden by ropes of tinsel and dripping strands of silver foil.

Many Gifts For Man Who Hunts

The latest style rifle would be a major gift. More modest: a cartridge belt designed to hold a large supply of ammunition.

A hunter's clothing is as important as his gun and an alpaca-lined safari jacket with extra large pockets for gear may be just the thing.

Consider Giving Pet When You Are Shopping For Child

Most popular gift under the Christmas tree is likely to be one that can't be wrapped in sparkling paper.

A pet for the children, carefully chosen with due respect to the youngsters' ages and the kind of living the family prefers, is likely to be the star of the holiday.

In the easy-to-care-for category are the pets content to spend most of their time in cages. These may be hamsters, guinea pigs, parakeets or canaries. Undemanding as they are, they seek only an occasional airing, need be fed only once a day, and harbor their food for later meals if they're not hungry.

Tropical fish are another popular selection because their tank takes up little room. Stores selling tropical fish advise, however, that the purchaser begin in a small way with the nearly indestructible guppy, since the more colorful tropical fish are harder to raise. Problems of correct water temperature and tank cleaning may prove too difficult for young children caring for the more delicate fish.

Later, if the hobby catches on and the young naturalist proves equal to the task, angel fish, gold fish, and Zebras can be added.

Handsome as the white rabbit looks in his cage, the gift giver would do well to give his care a bit of thought in advance. Ideally, he belongs outdoors in a large hutch, for he is a notoriously untidy animal. And he must also be protected against marauding dogs when he's given his airing.

Dogs and cats still rank as the most popular animal gifts at Christmas. The pet may be picked up for free from a pound, or may be a highly pedigreed Norwegian elk hound or Siamese cat.

The size and disposition of the dog, as well as local laws concerning leashing, must all be considered in choosing a suitable pet. Large dogs, such as Dalmatians, Great Danes and collies, need a great deal of exercise, and shouldn't be given a second thought in a built-up neighborhood. Cockers, boxers, dachshunds and many other smaller dogs make suitable companions in limited quarters.

Christmas Means Many Invitations For Bachelors

Consider the poor bachelor this Christmas—but don't insist he come to dinner.

Chances are he'll want very much to accept so he won't have to spend the festive day sulking at home over a burned hot dog and warm beer.

Chances are, also, that yours will be one of several invitations he receives — and he'll likely try to keep them all.

This can spell disaster.

Take the case of a young gent last year who was too far from home to consider making the day a family affair. Friends took due note of his plight and invitations were forthcoming.

"Stop by for some Christmas cheer . . ." "Drop up; we're having martinis before dinner . . ." "I think maybe you'll find a little something under the tree."

"You can't spend Christmas alone. Plan to have dinner with us."

"You've got to sample my new egg nog . . ."

Somehow the idea seems prevalent that bachelors and booze are synonymous. Perhaps wedded ones reason the poor soul wants to forget that he has no family of his own to cheer him on this family day.

The bachelor, on the other hand, after cracking his toe on a piece of electric train, playing innumerable games with the host's small fry and recovering from a session of indoor football and a backyard snowball war, might be thinking his lucky stars that such blessings have thus far been denied him.

It may even prove such a trauma that he's afraid to talk with the beautiful young bachelar girl his thoughtful hostess inevitably tries to pair him with.

Going alone to a family affair produces other perplexing moments—the countless questions from the smallest youngsters present:

"Where's your wife?"

"I don't have a wife."

"Why not?"

"Well, I . . . you see, it's . . . how would you like to play a snappy game of electronic baseball?"

Bachelors, having no children of their own, are always the ones to don the Santa suit and distribute gifts to every-one else's little ones. This isn't bad—if only the beard didn't itch and the kids didn't grab.

Often to avoid this reminder of their family-less state, members of the single set will band together in "pot luck" Christmas dinners, with girls supplying their cooking skill and guys their moral support and advice.

These sessions can be friendly and easy-going. But somehow they're just not quite like the good old days at home, with Mom in the kitchen, Dad in front of the fire, toys scattered across the room, and you—at the tender age of 6—asking questions of that funny man sitting alone nursing a cracked toe and muttering something about a backyard snowball war.

ST. NICHOLAS VISIT

The Story Behind Famed Yule Poem

Had a language professor not been sent to the butcher shop on Christmas Eve, 1882, chances are we might not have our best-known and best-loved Christmas poem.

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore wrote "A Visit from St. Nicholas" while picking up the traditional turkey. The sometime poet had been trying to think of a surprise for his six children. A poem was the logical solution.

On the way back from the shop, his mumbling may have been something like this: "On Christmas Eve and everywhere — h m m — On the night before Christmas — ah — Twas the night before Christmas and . . . all through the house!"

Dr. Moore was a well-to-do language professor living in the Chelsea section of New York City early in the 19th Century. He was also, apparently, a speedy writer. By the time he reached his estate in what is now a crowded part of the great city he had composed the entire poem. His children, ranging from 8 months to 7 years, were properly surprised and delighted.

Respectable scholars and translators such as Dr. Moore did not publish such flippery in those days. It took much passing around of copies among relatives before the poem reached the desk of the Sentinel, a Troy, N. Y., newspaper, just in time for the following Christmas.

The Sentinel published the poem with a preface claiming it had no idea who had written it. This was to protect the professor's reputation. Later, other newspapers picked it up, and Dr. Moore's Christmas Eve present was secure in American folklore.

Moore did not invent Santa Claus. Nor did he introduce the jolly figure to this country. Santa Claus had been central in ecclesiastical controversy since Pilgrim days. The Puritans flatly outlawed any celebration of Christmas, solemn or otherwise. Other groups thought otherwise. The Dutch, particularly, would not give up their St. Nicholas, or Sinterklaas, who came originally not on Christmas Eve but on Dec. 5.

By Dr. Moores' time, Santa Claus had been evolved to something not unlike the jolly old elf in the poem.

The St. Nick of "A Visit" had a human model — "a portly, rubicund Dutchman living in the neighborhood of Chelsea," as Dr. Moore wrote a friend. It was typical of Moore to gather all the lore already existing, then add touches of his own, such as the Dutchman, and a sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.

"A Visit from St. Nicholas" has been translated into nearly every language. There are more than 40 editions of the poem in the Library of Congress.

Model Builder Gift Suggestion

An excellent gift for a builder of wooden models is a knife chest.

Such chests come in many sizes and the larger ones include more than 20 different cuttting blades and tools. There are numerous accessories for HO scale railroad enthusiasts such as bridges, tunnels and special type cars.

Popular with the boys are boat and plane kits with motors and propellers. For the girls there are doll and carriage assembling outfits.

How Famed Yule Song Started

"Silent Night" was written for a church that was all too silent.

The church mice had chosen to eat the organ bellows for their Christmas Week feast. There was neither money nor time to repair the bellows, so it looked as if there would be no music for Christmas Day.

The Rev. Joseph Mohr pondered the problem while returning from a sick call on Christmas Eve, 1818.

Striding across the Austrian Tyrol he might have wondered why a priest ordained at the famous Benedictine Abbey of St. Peter's in Salzburg should suddenly find himself in Oberndorf, shepherd of one of the poorest flocks in Austria. He probably did not think of this for long.

For as he looked around, he saw the candles his parishoners carried as they walked to Midnight Mass. He thought they looked like stars, sparkling against the snow on this silent and holiest of nights.

The words of the now-famous carol must have come to Father Mohr at that moment. Struggling with additional lines, he finally reached the church.

Immediately after the service, Father Mohr ran to the house of the village schoolteacher, Franz Gruber. Together they worked through the night, Mohr adding verses to "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht" and Gruber writing the music.

The following morning, the two young men introduced parishoners of St. Nicholas Church to "Silent Night."

Worshipers were treated to the sight of a priestly singer accompanied on an Italian guitar by a bleary-eyed schoolteacher.

A short time after this first performance, enough money was scraped together to pay an organ repairman. Gruber chose to test the newly repaired organ with the new carol. The organ man was entranced with the song and returned to his own village humming it. Soon his village was singing the song and from there it spread throughout Austria.

People from Oberndorf did not travel very much. No one from the village realized that the song had become famous.

It was noted first as an "anonymous folk song" and then "probably written by Michael Haydn." Many years later, a choirmaster decided to find out who had really written the song.

He found Franz Gruber who, quite angry to discover that other hands had changed the key and metre of his composition, immediately wrote out the song and sent it to the Emperor. This manuscript has been preserved.

CHILDREN OF HONOLULU stare through a store window at Christmas toys in coconut snow—the only kind of snow Hawaii knows.

Hobby For Boys Becomes Big Business

Boys Republic, residence of boys from broken homes, will produce more than 30,000 Dellia Robbia wreaths for the doors of family homes this Christmas.

Boys Republic, located on a 250-acre farm near Chino, was organized as a home and school for boy's in 1907. The boys have been in the wreath business since 1947. The enterprise is now large enough to gross about $300,000 each year, paying about half of the school's operating expenses.

The job of making wreaths, once a hobby for the boys, is now such a production that the 140 residents and staff cannot handle it. Now approximately 150 men and women are hired to assemble the wreaths during the three-week production and mailing period.

The list of persons ordering the wreaths from across the nation is like reading "Who's Who." Each year the White House door is hung with a complimentary Della Robbia wreath.

The project of making the wreaths from living materials is a year-long task. Materials for the wreaths are gathered all during the year with the boys collecting foliage and pods throughout the entire Southern California area.

The first step in the production is the making of a heavy wire frame. Redwood foliage shipped from northern California is placed on the frame. Then 15 varieties of seed pods, cones, lemons, apples, other fruit and nuts are attached.

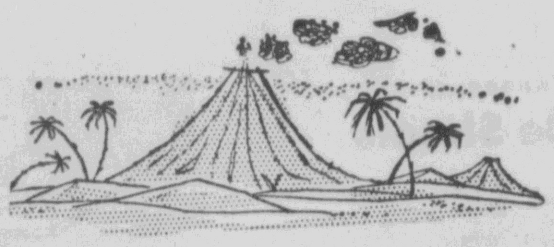
Each wreath is sprayed, touched up with gold, silver and bronze gilt and resprayed with preservative.

When the wreaths are dry, a conveyor belt carries them into a boxing room where they are packaged for shipping from the big tent post office set up temporarily at Boys Republic.

Wreaths are in two sizes, 20-inch and 30-inch.

The Della Robbia wreath gets its name from the ceramic pieces sculptured by the Della Robbia family in Florence, Italy.

Hawaiians Defied Pagan Goddess



By JACK SCHREIBMAN

HONOLULU (AP)—The pagan Hawaiians could not have known that 45 years after killing Capt. James Cook they would embark on the road to the white man's Christ.

Today, the Hawaiian celebration of Christmas is not very different from the way Christians celebrate it elsewhere in America.

Hawaii businessmen hang their Christmas decorations too early, just as is done from California to Maine.

Before Christmas, white-whiskered, jolly fat men, ho, ho, ho-ing in the accepted fashion, distribute free candy to good little keikis (children) in all sections of the city.

Supermarkets are awash in turkeys, as are newspapers in ways to cook them. The Salvation Army suddenly finds itself in the spotlight for feeding the poor, anonymously done the rest of the year.

The department stores are furiously cashing in on the holiday spirit by giving, while churchmen toil to intersperse the heavy commerce with the light of the Christ Child.

They go to the beach in Hawaii on Christmas Day, as temperatures flirt in the mid-80s. Tourists from the north stare glassy-eyed at the sand and sparkling surf, suddenly homesick for the accustomed snowy signs of Christmas.

Jack Frost is forever banned here at the 21st degree of latitude.

Hawaii residents delight in their special place in the American community of states. Their four counties are separated by many miles of open ocean. The 50th state is the most isolated in the union, 2,400 miles from California and at least 4,000 miles from other major land masses.

They are most proud of the intermingled bloods that built Hawaii. They say "Merry Christmas" in many ways in the beautiful green islands:

You're likely to hear "Shuku Kulisimasu" from the Japanese; "Kung Ho Sen Dan" from the Chinese; "Maligayang Pasco" from the Filipino, "Ku Ju Sung Tun Meng Jul" from the Korean and "Mele Kalikimaka" from the Hawaiian.

Their festive Yule boards groan from the usual gobblers—but also kim chee, bucayo, laulau, sukiyaki and mow goo gai.

And when you jump in the island holiday shopping crush, in there pitching with you you'll find the Lees, Gimas, Matsumotos, Hans, Kealohas, Smiths, Mayers and Saguritans. Americans all.

The dawn of Christianity in Hawaii was a monumental and wrenching experience for the Hawaiian savage of 1824.

This naked Polynesian child of the sun lived in a world of kapus (taboos), which to break meant death. He lived in a whirl of pagan gods—Lono of fertility; Anuenue of rainbows; Ku-ula of fishermen; Kane of living water; Kanaloa of the sea.

He lived in constant fear of the wrathful goddess Pele, woman of fire and volcano, womb of all the islands.

Legend and history say it was in this time that high chiefess Kapiolani of Kaawaloa felt moved by white man's learning to lead her people out of the dark ages into the light of Christianity.

On Dec. 22, 1824, four years after the arrival of the first missionaries from Massachussetts, Kapiolani defied the terrible Pele on the rim of the boiling cauldron of Kilauea Volcano, on Hawaii Island.

She camped there all night, determined to prove that the god of the missionaries was stronger than Pele. Kapiolani's subjects trembled, their anguished faces reflecting the glowing red liquid that boiled beneath them.

They waited, certain that an enraged Pele would snuff out their lives with one terrible convulsion of blazing lava. But nothing happened. In the morning, Kapiolani hurled this challenge:

"Jehovah is my God. I fear not Pele. Should I perish by her anger, then you may fear her powers. But if Jehovah saves me, then you must fear and serve Jehovah."

Decorate Tumblers

Inexpensive glass tumblers will lend a gay touch to holiday parties when they are decorated with spray glitter or snow and brightly colored tape. Or you can paint them with red fingernail polish to make Santa Claus faces. Add color-tinted ice cubes for sparkle.

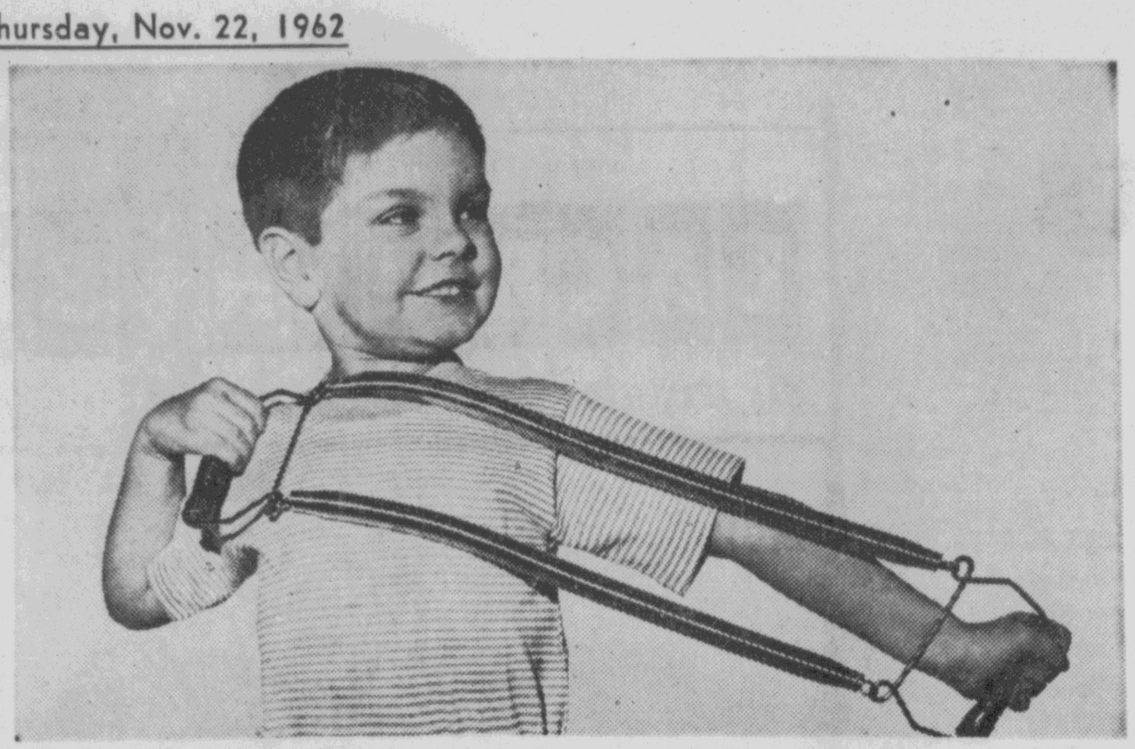
Toyland's Creations Up To Date



GAMES WITH A PURPOSE include this device to build bigger and bigger muscles. This young do-it-yourselfer works out with a chest pull, part of a line of physical fitness inventions scaled for children 6 to 16.

Toy designers have gone to astonishing lengths this Christmas to translate today's fast-paced developments into purposeful play activities for children.

Toyland's creations are painstakingly accurate and up-to-the-minute. Little ones who wish to play store will find a deluxe supermarket giving trading stamps. Junior gardeners can have a hey-day with a kit which provides materials for landscaping an entire lakeside resort.

Most spectacular of all perhaps is an analog computer, which math-minded students construct from scratch. After they have built transsistors, an audio-indicator, oscillators and amplifiers, their mechanical creation will come up with the answer: to a battery of questions.

Thanks to the booming world of electronics, there's almost no end to the projects children can launch in the playroom, says Mel Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council.

There is equipment for orbiting to the moon, a telephone that conducts a conversation and a radio set that makes it possible to transmit voice or code to the home radio without wires.

This season's toys are meant to be put to use, rather than being relegated to the gadget category. A telescope with a camera attachment makes it possible for a young astronomer to photograph the moon. Microscopes are more high-powered than ever, one having a projector attachment for group viewing of specimens. Power tools may be miniatures of Dad's, but they cut plastic "wood" accurately and safely.

Freud points out that toyland's age appeal is significantly broadened this year, because of the heavy increase in science kits, hobby sets and games planned to interest the teenager.

At the same time, he points out, there is increased simplification of building toys, science kits, games and homemaking equipment to fit the capabilities of the small fry.

Name a hobby, and there's an appropriate kit to match. Young children may study shells, rocks or butterflies with the aid of a beginner's kit. Teen-agers with medical leanings can learn anatomy putting a skeleton together, or building a plastic human heart which is equipped with a bulb-popping action to show how the blood circulates.

But despite the purposefulness of such kits, there's fun and whimsy in Christmas, too. More nonsense games than ever before are on the market. Stuffed animals are pleasantly zany, and more likely than not to make appropriate noises when pulled or punched.

All kinds of creative play may be inspired by an animal-equipped plastic barn and a garden in which flourish colorful plastic vegetables.

A SCIENTIFIC VIEW of the world is made possible with this model microscope, which magnifies 750 times. Others may study the findings through an audience viewer, which either projects on a screen or can be used for group

TRANSPORTATION BEAUTIES — past and present, can be built from scratch from the handsome model kits that are bigger and better this Christmas. Demonstrating the best of both worlds, this youngster aims his Mercury capsule heavenward, while his finished clipper ship offers picturesque background.

Wrapping Gifts Takes More Than Paper And String

There's more to Christmas gift wrapping than just paper and string! A little imagination and a wide range of attractive materials go a long way towards making your packages look especially bright and festive.

First of all, start with a gaily colored wrapping paper that is the right size for the package. Too much paper results in bulkiness. Shape the corners neatly and smoothly. Scotch tape, plain or in a holiday design, will help. Add novelty touches with such items as sequins, tinsel and glass beads.

Try a shopping bag for gifts that would require an unusually large container. Decorate it with gilt, tinsel or color and crown the whole creation with a big ribbon bow.

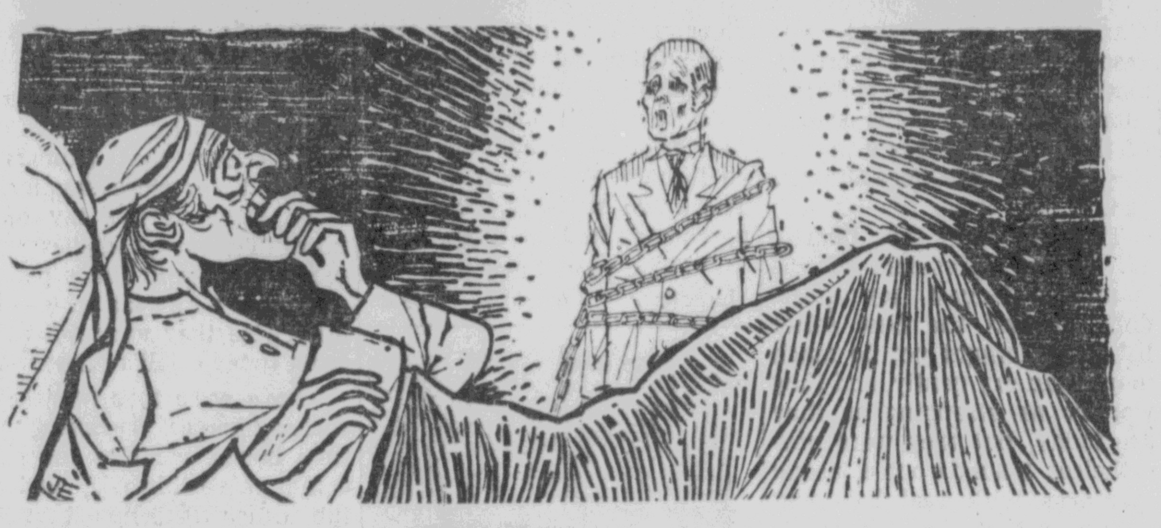
Dickens Believed Christmas Is Time Of Redemption

A time of redemption for all the evils of the year—this was Charles Dickens' Christmas.

Dickens knew the evils firsthand. As the second child in a closely knit nomadic English family of 10, he had gone to work before reaching his teens. His father, an habitually unlucky clerk, had been thrown into Debtor's Prison. While Mrs. Dickens operated a school in Camden Town, the young Charles worked in a warehouse, tying and labeling pots of blacking. His father was finally released, but Charles' formal childhood ended when he went to work. He never returned to it.

Wanderings in search of a career led him to journalism. On assignment, he wrote a series of stories. These were so successful that he stopped reporting. His career as an author was launched.



Dickens became a social critic. Some of his villains were amusing, misguided men, but those drawn from the days of his youth were drawn relentlessly. The Debtor's Prison was the height of absurdity; those men who lived solely for financial gain were completely evil.

Dickens was the champion of the poor and the humane. He believed in Christmas as their season. He fought against the puritan sects in England for the right of the people to their Christmas. The poor, he said, had the right to joy to lift their burdens. And the people had the right to the season.

When he wrote "A Christmas Carol," Dickens was a popular author but, like his father, he had no talent for managing money. The story was written just before the Christmas season of 1843, when he was 31. Soon afterward, Dickens and his family left for Italy, where living was cheaper.

"A Christmas Carol" was the embodiment of all his ideals of Christmas. It marked the end of the venomous young social crusader. Scrooge, certainly, was an inhumane man. But Dickens understood him. Scrooge had taken a wrong turn somewhere along the way. The three spirits of Christmas showed him the wrong turn and the results, both present and future. Scrooge woke on Christmas morning, a new man—redeemed

What made life the marvel it was, was the possibility of redemption. And the redemption came most often at Christmas time. Dickens believed this all of his days, and after "A Christmas Carol," he wrote more of redemption than of sin.

During the years following, "A Christmas Carol" was reprinted countless times. On his lecture tours, especially through the United States, Dickens became used to his reputation as "the man who wrote A Christmas Carol." It was the most requested of all his works.

When he died, at the age of 58, a little English boy cried: "Is Mr. Dickens dead? And will Father Christmas die too?"

Blankets Made For Indians!

HARBOR CITY, Los Angeles County (AP)—There is a lady here who makes blankets for Indians.

"I got my hand in a washing machine ringer 15 years ago," Mrs. Ralph Smith explains, "and I promised God if my hand got well, I'd use it very day of my life to do something for someone less fortunate than I."

As a result of the pledge, Mrs. Smith has been forced to add a room to her house to accommodate the Christmas gifts she stitches year round.

Her first project was to dress dolls for children in the Sister Kenny polio clinic at El Monte, Calif.

"I kept the toy cupboard full," she says. "Then I began to make things for old people at a county home."

Later, she added Indians and TB patients to her Christmas gift list.

Using donated scraps that range from curtains discarded by a Baptist Church to a roll of plastic a disgusted manufacturer dumped in her front yard after his furniture business collapsed, Mrs. Smith makes slippers, baby clothes, head rests, blankets (which are really more like quilts), and many other things.

Most of the slippers are made from heavy, serviceable material, but a few each year are made of bright taffeta and go to girls in a tuberculosis hospital.

Realizing that the spirit as well as the body may need healing, Mrs. Smith also sends 25 beautifully dressed dolls to mothers at a TB hospital who can't Christmas shop but who would like to send presents to their children.

"The dolls," Mrs. Smith says, "are my luxury item. I never start dressing them until last."

Mrs. Smith's husband, a merchant mariner, helps dress the dolls when he's at home. His main contribution is to string beads. Many of the dolls wear necklaces, flowers in their hair or other ornaments.

"The other day," Mrs. Smith says, "I got some fur scraps, so I made stoles."

Mrs. Smith makes an enormous investment of time (from 10 to 14 hours a day) in her work but very little of money.

"People give me dolls for Christmas and my birthday," she says, "because they know I need them to dress."

With the help of a friend who has a station wagon, she delivers almost all her gifts herself (2,000 is her goal for 1962). A missionary whom she's known more than 20 years picks up the gifts for the Indians.

Doesn't Mrs. Smith get tired from so much sewing?

"Well," she says, "when you promise something, you like to do it. God didn't promise me anything. I promised Him. When I'm not working—like right now—I feel funny."

Gifts Of Food Are Inexpensive

If you are looking for inexpensive gifts, why not give food?

A working girl will appreciate quick-breakfast makings — instant coffee, strawberry preserves, a coffee mug. Everyone likes snacks — crackers, cheese, mixed nuts, or a salami and a loaf of rye bread.

For your sweet-tooth friends, there are many varieties of fancy cookies (bake them yourself, or buy them), or fruit cake, or candies.

For those with a spirit of adventure, give a combination of jars or mixes of salad dressings, or a collection of exotic canned spreads and tidbits.

Mistletoe Symbol

In ancient times, mistletoe was regarded as a symbol of hope and peace. When enemies met under the mistletoe, they would drop their arms and embrace. It is thought that the custom of kissing under the mistletoe grew out of this ancient practice.

THESE TOYS ARE LIGHT

Light as a feather are these giant interlocking building blocks. The largest weighs one and one-tenth ounces; the smallest, four-tenths of an ounce. If the walls come tumbling down, there are no hazards with these new plastic foam building materials.

Good Carrying Sack Essential For Hiker

It is essential for a camper or hiker to have a good carrying sack. There are many types, each designed for a special purpose. One of the most useful is the Indian pack board. It is excellent for carrying bulky objects.

Pocket warmers, lanterns and pocket compasses are handy items.

New Toys Are Up To The Minute And Old Standbys Still Popular

Though the toy stores this Christmas are packed with fascinating creations more ingenious and more elaborate than ever before, the staples of the toy world are every bit the same as they were 50 years ago.

Then, as now, says Charles W. Veysey, president of the country's largest toy store, dolls headed the best seller list. They might not do much more than cry gently, and they weren't as strapping as they are today, but they were nevertheless handsome bisque creatures with real hair and blue eyes that closed in sleep.

Referring to a catalogue of the F. A. O. Schwarz Co. 50 years back, Veysey points out standard categories in toys have not changed.

"Costumes popular then are big items for us now," he notes. "Policemen and firemen outfits always star. Toy soldiers always sell well. They were made of lead then. Now they're plastic."

To prove his thesis, row on row of British units march across a counter of the store, the Coldstream Guards and the Camel Corps alike beautifully outfitted.

Veysey points out the do-it-yourselfers had a crystal radio set to assemble 50 years ago. Now they've advanced to nuclear reactors, in keeping with a stepped-up age of science.

Games designed for children today are still based on the four principles which have lasted through the years, he says. There are strategy, dexterity, psychology and spelling.

"Fifty years ago it was bagatelle," he says. "Now there's a new one known as quintelle which is exactly the same."

Nor has the barnyard changed during the half-century, except that animals of earlier times were smaller, as were most of the toy offerings. Tea party dishes were more delicate in times past — and more breakable — but otherwise they vary not at all from today's doll's dinnerware.

There were toys on wheels, rocking horses, "speaking" picture books, vehicles the child could drive himself, and all the other favorites that enchant today's youngsters.

And faithful of all is the Teddy Bear, beloved of all children from the moment he was created in 1902. If his coat is worn from too much loving, and his ears are a little tattered, his replacement waits on the toy shelves, marking him as the greatest stuffed toy ever made.

Some Suitable Gifts For Bird Watchers

A pair of binoculars is a fine gift for the bird watcher; the 7x35 or 7x50 size is suitable.

Also, field guides, birdcalls birdhouses and feeding stations are appropriate.

Peterson's illustrated eastern and western bird guides are often recommended.

Cuff Links Rate High Among Gifts

An exciting, greater-than-ever collection of cuff links is waiting to bring an extra touch of elegance to the discriminating man's wardrobe.

Then, of course, there are tie clasps to match. A visit to a men's store will show you a never-ending variety of jewelry for the man on your list. Look for matching belt buckles, key chains, too.

Portuguese Housewives Exchange Sweet Breads

TRADITIONAL BREAD — Mrs. Ramiro Dutra, who came to America from Portugal, continues to make the traditional Portuguese bread, "massa sovada," for her friends at Christmas.

If you were to visit a friend in Portugal during the Christmas holidays, "massa sovada" and coffee would probably be served.

To carry on the tradition of her native land, attractive young Mrs. Ramiro Dutra, who now lives in Pomona, Calif., has been busy making the delicacy for her friends in Pomona Valley.

Massa sovada is a sweet bread which is as traditional among the Portuguese as turkey at Thanksgiving is here.

In a custom dating back centuries, the housewives in Portugal exchange gifts at Christmas. Usually they exchange loaves of the sweet bread. A similar bread, only with hard-cooked eggs on the top of loaves, is given as gifts at Easter.

Due to its ingredients, the bread will stay fresh at least a week. It is served with coffee or tea at breakfast, lunches or when guests drop in.

Mrs. Dutra's husband is a professor of chemistry at California State Polytechnic College. They both are from Ponta Delgada, Portugal. The couple have a daughter, Grace Helen, who was 2 on Oct. 22.

In discussing other Christmas customs in Portugal, Mrs. Dutra describes the large and elaborate Nativity scene which is constructed in each home.

"Some are so large they fill more than half of the living room," she says.

It is a custom to give beautifully made Nativity scenes as gifts, not just as Christmastime but throughout the year, she explains.

The Portuguese feel that the Christmas tree and Santa are too commercial, and they are rarely seen, she adds.

Other Christmas customs in Portugal, in addition to the sweet bread, are the serving of numerous homemade liqueurs made from fruits and herbs which are collected during the year.

Codfish — which can be served 100 different ways—is also used in traditional holiday dishes.

One of the most important holiday traditions, Mrs. Dutra says, is attending Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve, then having a supper.

To make about eight loaves of massa sovada, sweet bread, Mrs. Dutra tells her recipe. The loaves can be any size or shape, she explains.

Five pounds of flour are sifted into a large pan. Add 10 eggs and 3 cups of sugar. Dissolve 1½ cakes of yeast in 1 cup of warm water and add to flour and egg mixture. To this, add 1 full cup of dry powdered milk and 1 teaspoon of salt.

The doughwill be very sticky. Add 1 cup of margarine or butter (or part each). If dough is still very sticky, add a little warm water until it is plastic enough to knead.

After kneading well, let rise in large pan until it about doubles in volume. Then put into pans and let rise another hour. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

To retain its moisture for a long period of time, coat the top of each loaf with corn syrup while it is still warm. The syrup adds a shiny crust to the loaves.

HOLIDAY PARTIES BLOOM

Plan Floral Scheme For Festivities

Your holiday parties will bloom if a bit of time is taken to plan an over-all floral scheme for the festivities.

It needn't be elaborate. In fact, florists this year recommend several small bouquets using the same flowers throughout the house.

Red carnations, set off by a touch of greens, can stand in small bowls on the buffet table, in the front hall and even on coffee table.

When Christmas dinner makes its appearance, and there's little room for large decorations on the table, attach a single carnation for each guest to a ribbon running to your centerpiece. The guests are free to admire or to wear their flowers.

If Christmas traditional reds and greens clash with your holiday-best china, adjust your flowers to your dinnerware pattern. You may prefer yellow tea roses or fluffy white chrysanthemums as more effective.

Your brightly polished silver candlesticks can be twined with one or two blossoms to add gaiety and grace to the holiday setting.

Whatever kind of flower arrangement you create, be sure to keep it low enough so your guests can talk to each other without an annoying obstruction. Some hostesses float flowers in a low bowl, or use a few blossoms in each of two or three glass fruit dishes, standing them on a tray or mirror.

And since the holiday time often includes overnight guests, the feted ones can later express their pleasure by wiring flowers to their hostess, having first noted her special taste in decorations.

Robin Favored On Yule Cards

The robin, now considered a harbinger of spring, a century ago, was a favorite Christmas motif on cards and for decorative effect.

Legend connected the robin with Christ, and thus with Christmas.

The legend states that the bird, in trying to ease Christ's suffering on His way to the crucifixion, pulled a thorn from the crown. In so doing, a drop of blood fell on the robin's chest and remained there forever.

Comic robins, perky robins and robins in all types of poses were pictured by the thousands on Christmas cards in the late 19th century.

Wide Array Of Gifts For Those Fishermen

There is a wide array of rods, reels, flies, tackle boxes and fresh and salt water accessories. A space saving telescopic spinning rod would make an ideal gift for a traveling man. A six-foot rod made of beryllium copper collapses into a 15-inch cork handle.

A canvas rod roll may be the right thing to solve the equipment-carrying problem.

Electric Trains Full Of Surprises

Electric trains are full of surprises to delight young railroad buffs on Christmas morning.

There is a sheriff-outlaw car. One ducks as the other one bobs up.

Sure to be a conversation sparker, is a Fort Knox car jam-packed with simulated gold bricks, reports the Toy Guidance Council.

Conversation Piece For Yule Decoration

For a Christmas decoration that will be a conversation piece, make some candle lighting pixies. With a darning needle pierce holes in the ends of some peanut shells.

Poke pipe cleaners through for arms and legs. Daub on warm sealing wax for caps, hands, shoes and trousers. Set the pixies to climbing candles, matches in hand.

Deck The Walls With Yule Cards

BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS CARDS are mounted for display. Use plywood pieces, cigar box tops or pieces of cork antiqued in gold or silver for inexpensive mounts.

Christmas Spirit Seen By Guests

Want your drop-in holiday guests to feel a real Christmas spirit in your home even before the tree is up?

Then deck the walls—with framed Christmas cards. And serve snacks on a Christmas tray, advises Mrs. Peggy Gilbert, design studio head at Norcross Gift Wraps.

To frame cards, first collect ¼-inch-thick plywood pieces (about 9 by 12 inches), Christmas cards, a spray can of gold or silver paint, cheese cloth, a wire suede brush, fine sandpaper and gold cord.

(Cigar box tops or flat pieces of cork can be substituted for the plywood.)

Sandpaper plywood pieces all over. Sand edges until smooth and slightly beveled. Spray with gold or silver paint, rubbing excess off with cheese cloth before it gets sticky. Allow to dry thoroughly. Cut picture portion off card and rubber cement it in middle of plaque. Brush surrounding wood with small wire brush (such as a suede brush) to raise grain of wood slightly.

To hang, make a loop of gold cord and tape to back of plaque.

To make the Christmas tray and coaster set, equip yourself with an inexpensive picture frame, a roll of Christmas wrapping paper and shirt cardboards.

Remove the cardboard backing from the frame. Cover with wrapping paper and insert under the glass. Bend clamps into place.

For coasters cut six 3½-inch circles from shirt cardboard. Cut twelve 3½-inch circles from the gift wrap. Center design of paper on each cardboard circle and rubber cement to both sides of cardboard circles.

INEXPENSIVE PICTURE FRAME serves as the base for a Christmas tray. Coasters are cut from shirt cardboard. They're made to match with snowflake-design Christmas wrapping paper.

First Yule Cards

Soft Drinks In Cans Can Save Holiday Space

Space in your refrigerator is at a premium at Christmas time.

That's why smart homemakers do everything possible to conserve storage space. One valuable tip is to buy your soft drinks in cans.

They store much more easily —and if unexpected company arrives and depletes your stock of the canned drinks, you'll find that extra cans popped into the refrigerator will be ready for drinking in a remarkably short time. That's because the canned drinks chill much more quickly.

The fact that the cans won't break and that they don't have to be returned for redemption of a deposit are just two other reasons why women have found the canned drinks to be so convenient.

Birds Remembered

In Sweden and Norway both, birds are given special remembrance. A choice sheaf of grain is placed on a pole or a fence post . . . bits of suet are hung on the trees—for a gala Christmas treat for the birds.

Hang Memories On Your Tree

The Rev. and Mrs. K. L. Engelman of Appleton, Wis., hang their memories on their Christmas tree.

Each year, the Englemans hang a tiny symbol of the year's most treasured experience on the tree. This year they will add their 12th.

"For our first year," says Mrs. Engelman, "there hangs a plain gold wedding ring. This one was found on my parents' farm and so has the added value of reminding us of happy childhood days."

There are, among others, a snapshot of their first church in Kirkland, Ill., a toy car symbolic of the "many hours we spent traveling to and from the seminary," a tiny pottery doll for their first child, Ann, and a toy house for the summer cottage acquired at a nearby lake.

Here's Something For Man Of House

If winter after winter, Dad faces the familiar sidewalk battle of clearing off the snow —the family's gift to him could very well be a deluxe snow thrower.

This time- and labor-saving device has a 3 h.p. engigne, handle-mounted controls and a reversible discharge chute. It'll be a welcome gift for the family's snow shoveler, says the Dura Corporation, makers of Moto Mower equipment.

Market For Records Really Spins This Time Of Year

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is the flood tide in the record business.

On great waves of publicity, the great bulk of any manufacturer's output is floated down stream toward the waiting Christmas market.

Traditionally, record firms save the best works of their best artists for the winter log jam, hoping that their best timber will make a splendid crash among the forest of bewildered customers.

Customer bewilderment stems from the fact that there is so much available to choose from and so much of it is so good.

Already at this early stage in the great winter record deluge there are some splendid albums that are destined to appear on many Christmas lists.

Capitol, just for openers, has packaged the movie sound tracks of three Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway hits into one attractive album that is doubly appealing because one of the selections is "The King and I." This rapturous rendition of a modern classic has the distinction of being one of the few movie sound tracks that is superior to the original Broadway cast version. The other shows, both starring Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones, are "Carousel" and "Oklahoma!"

RCA Victor also has an enticing multiple record album that packs a lot of nostalgia into its micro grooves. "Ten Great Bands," a musical evocation of the Thirties, presents the bands of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw, Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Larry Clinton, Louis Armstrong, Hal Kemp, Lionel Hampton and Benny Goodman in a four-hour concert that encapsulates a lot of musical history. In all, five records or 10 sides of wonderful old standards taken off the original masters and faithfully restored with loving engineering care.

In addition to its excellent "Curtain Up" series, which was the subject of a recent column here, Mercury has a winner in its F:35 Perfect Presence Sound recordings, which feature stunning audio performance taken directly from 35 millimeter tape. One of the best in the series is "African Sounds," with Carl Stevens and his orchestra giving the Afrikaan treatment to a number of exotic tunes against a background of lush sound effects. The brilliantly decorated album liner rates as one of the most artistic of the year.

Verve also is hitting the market with ab ig one: "Ella Fitzgerald Sings the Harold Arlen Song Book." The first lady of blues, backed up by Billy May's arranging and conducting, is at her best with such first-rate material as "Old Black Magic," "Stormy Weather," "Blues in the Night" and "My Shining Hour." The best part of all is that the jacket proclaims this as Volume One, meaning more of the same is in store for Ella fans at some future date.

Aiming solidly at the real hi fi fan, the guy who knows his woofer from his tweeter, MGM is introducing 21 Channel Sound, another technilogical breakthrough done with 21—count 'em—microphones. Among the records employing the new technique, we recommend "Leroy Anderson Concert," recorded in Germany by Kurt Wege and his orchestra. Late Show addicts are already familiar with composer Anderson's delightful Syncopated Clock" and they and everyone else will enjoy the ultra hi-fi renditions of "Fiddle Faddle," "Blue Tango," "Sleigh Ride" and other Anderson sound excursions.

CUGIE AND ABBIE

He Buys Gag Gifts; She Goes Expensive

Christmas shopping for Abbe Lane and Xavier Cugat is a matter of extremes.

Abbe likes to go wild with impractical, extravagant gifts. Her band-leader husband specializes in cheap, comical gifts, adorned by his well-known caricatures of the recipients.

But they think alike when it comes to Christmas cards. Cugat dreams up a comical design, and after it's printed, Abbe fills in with water color and paints the message, usually one of high hilarity.

The cards go to special friends, but presents are confined to members of the family. The Cugats suggest friends contribute to an orphanage in Rome rather than giving them personal gifts.

"You never know what Cugie will think of next," exclaims red-haired Abbe. "I collect carved elephants, and one Christmas when I was in a Broadway show, I came out the stage entrance to find a live baby elephant standing there, with a pink velvet coat saying Merry Christmas. I wanted to take him home, but we couldn't get him in the apartment, and he wouldn't leave the stage entrance. So Cugie phoned for his mother, who led him away.

"Cugie gave me the first animal I ever had, even if it wasn't an elephant. It was a white chihuahua.

But this Christmas Cugie really has his work cut out for him. You know I had six fur coats stolen from the apartment. They weren't insured either. I wonder what he'll do about that?"

Exuberant, wise-cracking Abbe also reveals her more serious feelings about the holiday season. "I always try to be home in New York by Christmas Eve. But I've missed three times. Once when I was in Rome I went to Christmas Mass at the Vatican. That was beautiful. But other times I was in Bangkok and Las Vegas. It was horrible to have Christmas at Las Vegas—all that dice cracking all the time."

As if Christmas excitement was not enough, Abbe's birthday comes on Dec. 14 and her husband's on New Year's Eve. So celebrations combine in a series of open houses from Christmas to New Year's.

Since the Cugats have recently remodeled their apartment in New York to add a terrace, Abbe plans to have her Christmas tree outside this year. Basically, she is traditional. "None of those blue trees for me. I like the kind of decorations everybody else likes. Lots of little balls, and red and green throughout the house."

Abbe has no trouble believing in Santa Claus. "I married him. He's Cugie."

DESIGNING MUSICIANS take pen in hand to create their own Christmas cards. Xavier Cugat, known for his clever caricatures as well as his rhumba beat, annually prepares a fun-poking collection with the aid of his wife, Abbe Lane.

Fantasy, Realism Toyland Trends

Both fantasy and realism are significant trends in the stuffed animal section of Toyland.

Youngsters may fondle replicas of their favored pedigreed pooches or felines, or cuddle up to fantastic animals inspired by cartoon characters or sheer imagination on the part of designers.

Dressy Casuals For Your Man

If you know your man well enough to select a suit for him—look into the new country suits. These usually consist of a coat, vest and trousers, some with two pair of slacks — one to match and one to harmonize.

These smart suits may be in a solid color with a patterned vest, or vice versa.

Animals At Zoo Celebrate Yule

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The animals at Crandon Park Zoo celebrate Christmas, too.

Christmas means an extra large fish for Whitie the polar bear. The monkeys and apes get an extra orange. And the camels, zebras, giraffes, antelope and fallow deer get extra carrots.

YOU CAN BE SANTA WITH PAINT BRUSH

Tenderfoot Santas can work toward their first-class badge with a brush and a little paint.

Look around the house for toys that you can liven up with a coat of paint and either give to a child in a hospital or orphanage or pass down to one in the family.

Remember two things when choosing the paint:

First, that it be non-toxic paint. This cannot be stressed too much for children love to pop things into their mouths. By no means use regular house paint.

Secondly, keep in mind that youngsters love bright colors. Gay reds, yellows, greens and blues are their favorites.

Before painting, give the toys a soap and water scrubbing and let dry.

Wooden toys should be sanded to remove any highly glossy areas on the previously painted surface. If you plan to remove the old paint finish entirely, use paint or varnish remover. Then before applying your new top coat, give the wood a primer of enamel undercoat. If there are any cracks or dents, you can quickly repair them with water putty. Sand the repaired areas smooth with sandpaper.

Before repainting metal toys, first remove any rust by rubbing with steel wool. Then wipe the surface with a clean cloth and prime the bare metal spots with a coat of rust-inhibiting primer. Then apply a top coat of quality enamel.

Bright colored enamel is recommended for repainting children's furniture. However, children love the polka-dot effect, and this can quickly be provided by the attractive multicolor spray paints.

Here Are 10 Suggestions For Christmas

Creches Tribute To Francis Of Assisi

The Christmas creches in homes and yards all over the country this season are a tribute to the good saint, Francis of Assisi.

His efforts ended a centuries old ban on Nativity scenes.

Of all traditional Christmas trappings, the creche may have had the hardest time of it. The first creche was the stable in which the Child was born. As Christianity began to flourish, creches were often part of stage settings for religious plays. The church periodically outlawed anything connected with drama, so the creche had to fight for survival.

Sixteen years before St. Francis constructed history's second most famous creche, Pope Innocent III dispatched a letter scoring liturgical dramas and, by inference, all dramatic props. St. Francis was forced to seek special permission to construct a small creche for his parishioners. He was unhappy at the staleness of religion among the simple folk and he thought a creche might renew the vitality of their faith.

He opened his first creche to the people of Greccio on Christmas Eve, 1223. The life-size structure was simply a sketchy stable with a manger, or trough, and a live ox and ass. Most believe that there were no figures. At that epochal Christmas celebration, the tradition of caroling was begun. St. Francis sang the service.

The good saint accomplished more than he had set out to do. Not only did the peasants accept the creche enthusiastically, but the gentry joined them as well.

Creches became medieval status symbols. Kings tried to outdo each other for the most glorious creche of the continent. Figures were added until during the Renaissance there were so many characters that the stable itself could hardly be seen. St. Francis' wood and straw structure gave way to stables made of gold.

Today there are two types of creches. One emphasizes the main actors in the Christmas drama — Mary, Joseph and the Child. The other type, those who came to worship. The popularity of both types continues to grow.

Basic elements of the creche are those used by St. Francis at Greccio. Figures of the Family can be added, then the wise men and the shepherds. All sorts of worshipers can throng to the scene, animals, carpenters, fisherfolk and tradesmen. Finally, angels can be suspended above, with the star of Bethlehem.

VENEZUELAN FAMILIES have a tradition of constructing creches, called nacimientos, in their homes. The three kings are first placed some distance from the manger. As the days pass, they are moved closer and closer until on Jan. 6 they reach the Christ Child to present their gifts. The Infant Jesus is placed in the manger at midnight on Christmas Eve. The nacimiento often is placed in a front window, visible to passers-by.

Make Fruit Cake Tasty

For a rich, moist fruit cake, baking time and temperature are just as important as the ingredients. Dry, crumbly, flavorless cakes are caused by too-high temperatures or over-baking.

According to Margaret Spader, home service editor for the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association, a 2-lb. fruit cake (baked in a 1-lb. coffee can) should bake at 300 degrees for 2¼ hours in a gas oven.

A one pound cake should bake at 250 degrees for 2½ hours. Individual cakes baked in muffin pans will take 30 minutes at 250 degrees.

Christmas Carols Traced To Assisi

We trace the original Christmas carols to St. Francis of Assisi.

Hymns were a part of the early Christian ceremonies, but St. Francis believed in moderate Christmas gaiety and introduced sprightly carols which were modeled on the chorale, a French form of song and dance.

Candle Holders

Empty thread spools dipped in silver or gold lacquer make perfect holders for tiny Christmas candles. You can sprinkle the spools with sequins before they dry.

How Story Started About Woman Who Brings Gifts

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeature Writer

The old woman was sweeping the dust in front of her cottage when the three men rode down the old caravan road.

At first she watched them indifferently, for many men traveled the caravan road and few found time to speak to an old woman.

But these men were different.

They halted their camels in front of the cottage and dismounted. The old woman noted with interest that they were foreigners.

The men wanted directions, she learned from their gestures. They sought a place called Bethlehem. But the old woman could only shake her head.

The strangers thanked her, nevertheless, and one of them explained through signs that they had been following a star by night to bring gifts to a child who had been born in Bethlehem.

The old woman watched them until they vanished over a hilltop. She felt a curious urge to follow them and beg to be allowed to accompany them.

Later, as night fell over the little cottage, the old woman had another visitor. He was a shepherd boy and he seemed surprised to find the old woman at home.

"Are you not going to Bethlehem?" he asked in astonishment. "Have you not heard what they are saying; that the King, the Son of God, has been born there? Come, old woman, togther we will find the Babe."

But the old woman hesitated. She knew she must go and look upon the new-born King. But it was night and she she didn't like to travel in the dark. She would go in the morning. The shepherd continued on alone.

The night was fliled with strange happenings. At times, the clouds seemed bright as day and, to the old woman they assumed the form of angels. She could not sleep. At last she knew what she must do.

Quickly she gathered up some ancient toys, mementos of another child who had once been hers. They were poor gifts to bring to a King but they were gifts just the same.

The old woman packed her presents with tender care and doused the light and locked her door. As she stood in the road in front of the cottage she was struck with a dismaying thought.

She did not know which way to go!

Desperately, she questioned everyone she could find. But no one had seen the three strangers from the East or the shepherd boy and no one knew the way. The old woman had started too late.

For, according to this tradition, the old woman still wanders the world, entering the bedrooms of children by night and leaving a small gift in the forlorn hope that the child may be the one she missed on that momentous night so many years ago.

Christmas Is Great Feast Day For Alaska

BARROW, Alaska (AP)— The round, brown faces of Alaska's native children shine just as brightly with anticipation as those of youngsters in the South 48 when Santa Claus time rolls around.

In Barrow, the world's largest Eskimo village, Christmas is the third great feast on the Eskimo calendar. The other two are the spring feast of Nalukatuk, the celebration of whale catching, and the feast of Thanksgiving.

Last year's Christmas feast, held the afternoon of Christmas Day, after church services, drew some 700 to 750 persons to Utkeagvik Presbyterian Church alone. As the Rev. Edward G. Holborow, interim pastor, describes the feast:

"There was much whale meat and muktuk. There was frozen fish, hot caribou stew and rice and a rice dish with raisins. There were also breads, rolls, cakes, tea, coffee and cocoa for the children."

SANTA visits a child of Alaska.

Each year, the church also has a Christmas party for the young people and many gifts, received from churches throughout the nation, are passed out.

The school, too, has a Christmas party for the youngsters and the children participate with adults of the village, portraying the story of the Nativity, in native Eskimo dress.

Sometimes, Santa Claus, using only Dancer and Prancer—he is close to his North Pole home and there is little need for additional reindeer power—drives his sled into Barrow across the ice of Elson Lagoon.

Christmas in the other Eskimo villages which ring the Arctic Ocean, the Chukchi Sea and the Bering Sea is celebrated in much the same way.

Artificial trees are substituted for the real item in many areas of the Arctic, where there are no trees to break the broad expanse of northern tundra country.

The Rev. Segundo Llorente, a Jesuit missionary at Alakanuk, near the mouth of the Yukon River on the bleak coast of the Bering Sea, describes a Yukon Delta Christmas this way:

"Yes there is a Santa Claus, of course!

"In the mission schools as well as in the government schools there is a grand Christmas program complete with a fat and jolly Santa Claus who dances and carries a heavy sack of prizes, toys and candy.

"There is also a Christmas tree, either real or artificial.

"A Catholic Eskimo will go to any extreme or sacrifice to attend the midnight Mass on Christmas Day, some traveling a good many miles by dogteam. The Protestants would not miss services on Christmas for anything.

"In some villages, after the midnight Mass, the men fire volleys with their rifles after wild handshaking and greetings of 'Merry Christmas'."

In the mission church at St. Mary's, devout Eskimos, dressed in traditional church robes, act out the story of the birth of the Savior and celebrate His birth in song and prayer.

In Alaska's metropolitan areas, Christmas is observed just as it is in any large American city. Store windows and streets are beautifully decorated and the silver bells of song tinkle away while shoppers hurry along the streets.

Christmas in Alaska, then, is a season of happiness and of thankful prayer—celebrated in parkas and mukluks.

Carol To Those Last-minute Shoppers

By LYDIA BICKFORD

An infinite host of American women face the complexity of holiday preparations with serene countenance and unruffled disposition.

They are the competent ones, bless their hearts, who buy their gifts in September, prepare their fruit cake in October, have their cards addressed by Thanksgiving at the latest, and long before it's time to buy a tree, have thoughtfully checked the light bulbs for performance and the ornaments for adequacy.

I am happy not to be a part of this efficient group.

I belong instead to the helter-skelter clan, always short of sufficient Christmas cards, wrapping paper and party food, but long on spontaneity and high bubbling gaiety.

How can a shopper possibly think of appropriate Christmas gifts when the children have just gone back to school and it's still tennis weather?

What is the point of addressing Christmas cards before you know who's going to send them to you this year? Think of the social agony created by the early arrival of my card in the house of an acquaintance who has finally brought herself to cross me off her list?

The "mail early" devotees never know the joys of those long lines in the post office containing friends you have not seen in months, and with whom you can catch up while the line slowly shuffles forward.

And the infinite delights of last-minute meal planning. The day before Christmas and not a turkey to be found at the butcher's. But the goose is just as fine, bringing forth compliments for the cook and much quoting of Tiny Tim's similar enthusiasms.

The pleasure of Christmas Eve shopping, because the stocking gifts have been forgotten. No agonies of decision over the appropriate for little Susie. The counters have long since been stripped nearly bare. The box of jacks will have to do.

Last-minute shortages pay off in fantastic ingenuity. Not a shred of Christmas paper, so the package wrapper goes wild with aluminum foil, and a bit of a Christmas green.

Some of the balls have no hangers, so they're arranged on snow batting under the tree. Gift cards have long since been used up, so the family sits on the floor creating jingling doggerel on note paper.

Would an efficient Christmas be this much fun?

Candles Derive From An Old Irish Custom

Candles derive from an old Irish custom of putting a lighted candle in the window on Christmas Eve to light the Holy Family's way.

The candles denote a house where the Holy Family would have been welcomed, not turned away as at the inns in Bethlehem.

Cousin Laila Celebrated Yule All Year

Editor's Note: Miriam McGaw Benade, born in India of Presyterian missionary parents, went to live in the city of Lahore in 1923. She was married there to Martin Benade, physics teacher at Forman Christian College. Before the couple retired to Chicago in 1958, Mrs. Benade taught religion, English and domestic science at Forman Girls School, Kinnaird College for Women and Forman Christian College. She writes of one Christmas in Lahore.)

By MIRIAM BENADE

Gentle and petite, Cousin Laila was the first Christmas caller. She came through the door calling out, "Bara Din mubarak ho,"—the Great Day be blessed! The boys deserted the pungent smelling tamarisk Christmas tree and their new tinker toys and rushed to welcome her.

She gave them packages wrapped in colored tissue paper and tied with tinsel gota. There was a toy elephant made of wood lacquered in bright gold, green and red. There was a toy drum cart. Its frame was of bamboo, its wheels of clay, as was the drum covered with a membrane. Artfully attached to this were two small bamboo sticks which beat a delightful tattoo when the cart was pulled across the floor.

Smiling she said, "At Christmas I like to go to Kasera Bazaar and Anarkali to find little, little, things to give children."

She was "little little" herself, but her slight figure always expressed dignity and grace. Her complexion was that of pale gold ripe wheat, the ideal of all women of the Indian sub-continent. Her delicate features were enlivened by glowing dark eyes; her black hair was combed back smoothly off the face. There was always a dainty freshness about her fine white cotton sari.

Cousin Laila was hailed far and wide as a special friend. She took with her not only small objects to cheer those she might visit, but even more importantly, she shared with them the gift of warm friendship.

Of mornings, sitting demurely in her ricksha, she was taken to Hira Mandi, the Diamond Market, really the place of prostitutes and humble sweeper scavengers of the city.

The sweepers were despised as out-castes. It seemed strange and incongruous for Cousin Laila to be in such a neighborhood, but she went regularly and devoted herself to helping folk to rise above the scorn of people. She taught them ways of self respect. Lame old Khair Din, who lived there, was sad because his American friends would not provide him with 'brondy,' but he was glad that Cousin Laila showed his daughter how to knit and how to read her Testament.

Cousin Laila was shepherdess to many in that forlorn community.

She was guide and counselor also in many homes of wealth and prestige. Begum-sahibas, ladies of leisure who spent time pampering their beauty, directing servants of the household or facing personal problems, welcomed her gracious cheer.

Here a lesson in English, there some sewing taught, and always talk, the talk of women, during which she would share some precious comfort with her friend.

Over in the great government hospitals, patients looked forward to the arrival of Cousin Laila with books and magazines and quiet friendliness.

When someone was sick in her neighborhood, Cousin Laila would be there to help change sheets, give baths or interpret doctors orders to distraught mothers of small patients. Frequently she would stay all night to help with the nursing.

In one way or another she brought comfort and cheer. Physically so small, in spirit so stalwart a support. "All the doctors know her," said one. Indeed they knew her and respected her.

Her exquisitely neat little home was a sanctuary of hospitality and peace. Her little garden, her flower arrangements, expressed order and beauty. These were shared always with others. Yesterday she gave you a spray of lady-of-the-night; today you receive a rose and fragrant motia.

Born a Christian, she had inherited many aristocratic Brahman traditions. Her first marriage was arranged by her parents with a man much her senior. "I honored and respected him, but I did not know how to talk with him," she said once. Alas, within two years her husband died. She had to seek work as a teacher, leaving her baby son with her mother-in-law.

After some time another act opened in her life's drama, when she married a girlhood playmate and admirer, who once smuggled little notes to her in church.

For a while there was well being and happiness in her life in Lahore, Pakistan. But death struck again. The young widow, now mother of two more children, struggled to support them.

Work, poverty, death, once more were in her pattern of existence. Just as he was entering young manhood, her elder son died of tuberculosis; a few years later his half sister followed him. She was beautiful and was doing very well in college when she died.

Trouble and sorrow had made Cousin Laila's heart tender with sympathy. Unselfishly she shared her courage and inner happiness with those who had been stricken as she had been. Unobtrusively, to these she went and to many others, rich and poor, Hindu, Muslim and Christian. Often in her hands were "little, little things," carefully selected tokens of love; and always in her heart, good will, something precious, made sacred at Christmas and celebrated by her throughout the year.

Good cheer had doubled after Cousin Laila arrived at the bungalow. The toy elephant and the toy drum were making gay with the tinker toys.

Everyone was talking merrily. Soon came the sound of the church bell, summoning people to Christmas morning service. The church would overflow with folk, children and all, dressed in their best, united in worship and in celebrating the birthday of Jesus. The rhythm of tabla drums and the resonance of sitar strings would lead the singing. The theme of the day would be repeated in the Punjabi gazal:

Aya Isa yar sade pas. . .
Jesus our friend has come,
Showing us his face. . .

Cousin Laila would be there, singing the carol, absorbing into her very being the joy of Christmas, preparing once more to take that joy to share with all whom she would meet in the year ahead.

Straws Are Stars For Christmas

You Can Make These In About Three Hours

Mrs. Joe Webb Jr. finally got around to following directions she had been saving for years.

The result?

She has straws—beg pardon—stars in her eyes.

Mrs. Webb is a shining example of the fact that women eventually do find the time and energy to use all the odds and ends they save.

Years ago she ran across directions for making gigantic decorative stars out of soda straws strung together. The design was based on the lovely natural straw stars that the Swiss delight in stringing together each Christmas.

But the directions were complex. Mrs. Webb was working in the daytime and going to school at night. No time. Then she was busy marrying Mr. Webb, keeping house, having baby Wendi. No time.

How did she finally find time?

"By neglecting other things," she replies.

She has stars all over her house now, in different colors and sizes. They are as lovely as she anticipated.

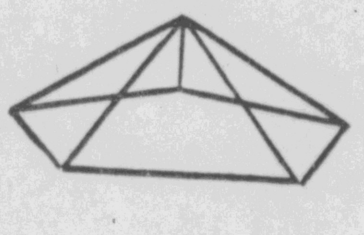
"You need a box of straws for each star. You need matching crochet cord or embroidery thread. And you need a needle made of florist wire, slightly more than twice the length of a straw," she advises.

"To make the needle, bend the wire double; twist the ends together leaving an eye for your thread."

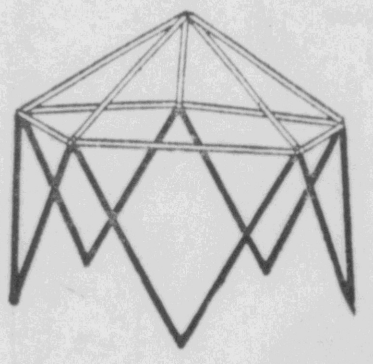
Mrs. Webb already had the embroidery thread in all colors; she'd been saving it since high school. She figured she'd find a use for it some day.

If you want to make stars, too, here's how Mrs. Webb does it.

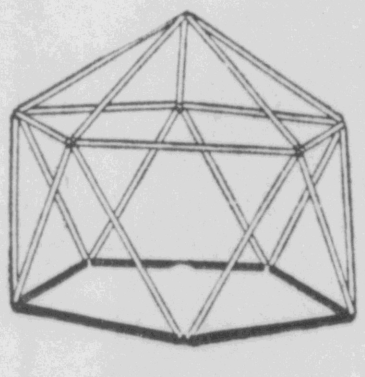
Start with 75 straws. Cut 15 of these in half. Pass needle and thread through three half-straws to make a triangle. Tie thread.



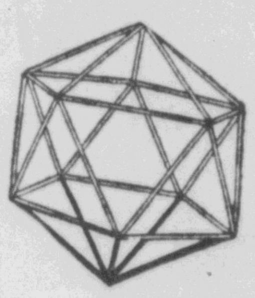
Attach more half-straw triangles by rethreading until the straws form the shape of wedges of a pie. Leave out the last wedge. Pull the structure together and fasten. The resulting five triangles will form a tent-like shape.



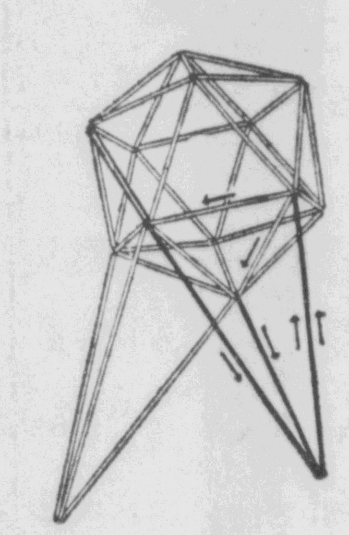
Continue using half-straws. Attach two to each joint around the base of the tent structure. Join the ends of these new straws so that they will form triangles, pointing down. The tent now rests on the points of the new triangles. Thread a half-straw between each of these base points, like a stretcher.



Turn it upside down. You will see that your base straws form the same shape as the base of the original tent. Construct a second tent on these straws, using the rest of the half-straws.



Unless you've goofed, you now have a jewel-like shape consisting of 20 triangles. Each of these gets a long star point made of three full-length straws.



Mrs. Webb says that if you're adept, you can make a star in two and a half to three hours.

STARS IN THEIR EYES—Mrs. Joe Webb Jr. and daughter Wendi of Atlanta admire the Christmas stars Mrs. Webb made from soda straws.

Soap Suds Decoration Quick As Santa's Wink

Unusual centerpieces don't have to be expensive.

For example, you can mix packaged soap or detergent with a little water in a bowl and have yourself a snowy table decoration as quick as Santa's wink.

Beat your mixture with an egg beater or electric mixer until you have a clay-like consistency suitable for molding. There's no exact formula—just add more soap or water as required.

Wet your hands to prevent sticking, then roll the thick suds into snowballs or any size desired. Let them dry until they begin to "jell," then you can sprinkle them with glitter or add a sprig of holly. Inserting a candle makes the no-melt snowball a candleholder. And you can roll a few more snowballs, insert name cards and have placecards to match your centerpiece.

Do-It-Your-Selfers

A power drill with different bits and blades is a must if the hobbyist doesn't have one. A paint sprayer, a portable electric say or any needed tool will do well also.

Christmas Trees Help Save Soil

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Christmas trees live a double life in this erosion-plagued region.

Having served to brighten homes during the Yuletide season, they are trucked out into the country, dumped into arroyos, and packed down to provide traps for soil being washed away by rain.

The idea is spreading and members of the Izaac Walton League, who sponsor it, hope it will gain national acceptance.

It started five years ago, and as a result, one big arroyo five or six feet deep and a mile long has grown up in grass, and others are showing improvement.

SIMPLE CASE OF MISTAKE IN IDENTITY

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—You can bet Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burroughs will inspect their Christmas cards carefully before mailing them out this season.

One year, the Burroughs ordered cards printed with their name. They mailed most of them without unfolding them for a look. When only a few cards remained to be sent, Burroughs opened one.

It was signed: "Browning Repair and Welding, Wheatland, Wyo."

You Can Always Give Europe Trip For Christmas

You can tuck all of Europe into a Christmas stocking.

A trip-to-Europe Christmas gift certificate is available from your local travel agent for any amount of money and for any length of holiday. The trip-to-Europe certificate may be used for visits at any time of the year to any or all of the 21 countries represented by the European Travel Commission.

The plan is flexible. The giver may simply designate the amount and let the recipient work out the details with his travel agent, or the giver may suggest an actual itinerary. In either case, the trip can be paid for in cash or, in most instances, in installments.

History Of Bells Dates To Romans

The Romans also used bells to discourage evil spirits. In early Britain — and in some parts of Europe today — bells were rung for an hour on Christmas Eve to announce the death of the devil.

Then at midnight, great joyous peals signaled the birth of Christ.

Family Christmas Spending Increases

Family Christmas spending is expected to continue high in 1962, with the average American family of four spending around $162.

This represents a slight increase in Chirstmas gift expenditures over last year and a 10 per cent increase over three years ago," says Sol Weiner, president of Chicago Printed String Co., which annually surveys the nation's gift buying.

Women buy most of the gifts for the family—24 out of 30—but men are bigger spenders. Nearly half the men spend under $5 for gifts but there are enough men who spend more than $100 per present to bring the male average up to $11.38 per gift. This is more than double the $4.58 the women spend per present.

According to the survey. Christmas is by far the single most important gift occasion, accounting for 43 per cent of the nation's yearly gift buying.

Weiner predicts, "The stock market gyrations of earlier in the year will not affect people's attitudes toward the established custom of Christmastime gift buying."

Dictionary Good Gift For Young Students

This Christmas may be the strategic time to present your favorite student with the gift of a big, new unabridged dictionary.

Getting the habit of looking up precise meaning of words, says the G. and G. Merriam Co., publishers of the familiar Merriam-Webster dictionary, can give the young student an important boost in his or her education.

CHRISTMAS MORNING PHOTO — Christmas is a busy holiday but you'll be glad in years to come that you took time to get out the camera.

Here Are Some Tips For Good Yule Photos

Amateur photographers anxious to record the family's Christmas on film can take a tip from the Hollywood professionals.

Well in advance of the holidays, write a rough shooting script so special moments won't go by unrecorded. Your master plan doesn't have to be too detailed. But if you make a note of forthcoming events, and film them as they happen, you'll have a much more complete record of the holidays.

Take your camera with you to picture your littlest one's expression when he visits Santa in the town park; to record forever your daughter's starring role in the school play; to film the family in neighborhood caroling on Christmas Eve.

Christmas pictures don't have to be limited to the obvious—the holiday dinner, the gifts around the tree, the bulging stockings hanging from the mantel.

Unposed action shots of members of the family absorbed in the many activities of the season tell a better story.

Snapshots can be planned to accompany thank-you notes to out-of-town relatives, if the photographer takes a picture of individual members of the family opening their gifts.

Camera experts say the ambitious amateur is prone to include too much in a picture, so the resulting print fairly swims with activity. The results will be far better if the photographer limits himself to an individual scene, shot at close range.

And when the children are being photographed, be sure to keep the camera low so it will be on the child's own level.

TROUBLED ABOUT SIZE OF TURKEY?

Troubled about what size turkey to buy for your Christmas dinner? It's simple: Match your turkey to your guest list.

Here's an easy guide: For two people, buy a 4 to 5 pound turkey; for four people a 6 to 8 pounder; for six people a 9 to 11 pound bird; for eight people a 12 to 14 pound turkey; for 10 people a 15 to 17 pounder, and to feed a dozen mouths a turkey weighing 18 or more pounds.

If you buy a frozen turkey, you'll need to allow some time for thawing: 8 to 12 hours at room temperature, or about two days in the lower part of the refrigerator.

Tree Decorations

More than a billion Christmas decorations will be used on American trees this year.

Christmas Seals

Christmas Seals were conceived in 1904 by a Danish postal clerk, Einar Holboell, to raise money for a tubercular children's hospital. The custom of selling seals to raise money for anti-TB measures is now world-wide.

Great Pretenders

Artificial fruits and flowers that look like the real thing make an unusual, festive gift.

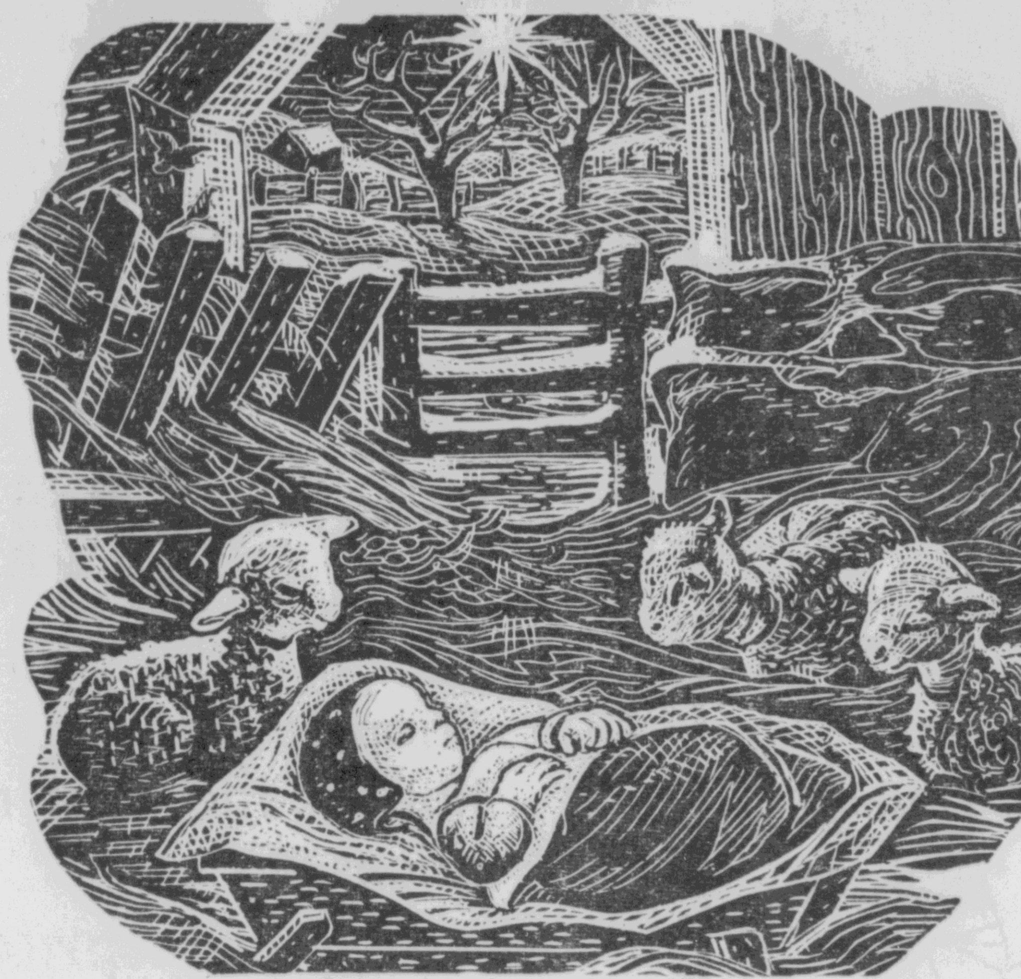
Town Has Real Yule Spirit

FEEDING MESSAGE—Lauren Ford (top) cares for her sheep at her home, "Sheepford" in Bethlehem, Conn. Here she is feeding the animals. Mrs. Jean Dropp (above) mails greeting cards that carry the real spirit of Christmas on them. They will have the postmark of Bethlehem, Conn. The town is named for the birthplace of Jesus.

ARTIST Lauren Ford, who lives in Bethlehem, Conn., creates in paints and ink the beauty of the first Bethlehem.

STEEPLED church of Bethlehem, Conn., wears a star at Christmastime.



A CHILD IS BORN—from the pen of Lauren Ford.

Labor Of Love For Children

Christmas is for children. But there is no reason why their participation in this gay holiday should be limited to opening presents on Christmas morning.

This year, why not let all the children — the the little ones—take some part in those exciting pre-Christmas preparations?

For instance, a preschooler would really enjoy trimming a window or mirror with "snow." This snow is actually suds-snow, manufactured by mother in the following manner: Put a big handful of packaged soap, detergent or scouring powder into an unbreakable bowl and add a little water, stirring the mixture until it forms a concentrated paste.

Newsy Gift—The I-J

A good gift that lasts the whole year round is a subscription to the Independent-Journal. Announce its arrival with a festive card.

Trees Once Banned At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The late President Theodore Roosevelt, an avid conservationalist, thought the cutting of evergreens for Christmas was a wasteful practice and forbade their use in the White House.

He later was assured by Gifford Pinchot, his advisor on conservation measures, that the supervised and proper harvesting of Christmas trees was good for the forests. Since then the White House has had a Christmas tree.

Christmas Baptizing

Saint Augustine celebrated Christmas Day, 598, in England by baptizing more than 10,000 Britons.

THAT DREAMY CHRISTMAS LOOK

This will be the look on the faces of little boys and girls all over America and the world on Christmas Eve as they watch for Santa to come with gifts for them. Jimmy Bachmann of Coral Gables, Fla., is shown with a dreamy Christmas look on his young face.

Good Gift Ideas For The Children

If your youngsters are having a difficult time matching gift ideas with their allowances, suggest they make the gifts.

Many nice ones can be made from old items found in every household. Here are some ideas:

Small juice cans when painted or wrapped with decorated construction paper become good pencil holders. Decorated sardine tins can be used to make gadget or ash trays. An old shoe box covered with a scrap of wallpaper makes a pretty recipe holder. Hand-printed labels for identifying the contents of kitchen jars, closet storage boxes, or the basement workshop are easily created from magazine cut-outs.

Stamp Collector Gift Suggestion

For beginners—All the major stamp companies put out stamp kits for youngsters. Most kits contain an album, tongs, magnifying glass, hinges and packets of stamps.

For established collectors — Most hobbyists specialize in one part of this enormous hobby. For them there are specialty albums and catalogues.

We Are

Let us be grateful for our heritage. For a little pride is the wellspring of courage. Let us endure unflinchingly whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make to defend our free institutions from the night of communism, which is bent on undermining our faith in ourselves. Let us rely not only on the gold in our vaults, but the iron in our blood. And let us cling like ivy to the faith of our fathers until, in God's good time, all men are free.

Keep Those Tiny Fingers Busy

A gift item to keep little hands busy and out of mischief may be a new type of modeling mixture.

It's a dough-like mixture which can be worked and twisted into many odd shapes. But unlike the dough the baker uses, Play-Doh will not stain furniture, rugs or clothing if a bit of the compound falls from the fingers of small fry. And it won't stain hands. The dough also stays soft in its air-tight container when not in use.

Also fascinating to young artists is that it comes in a variety of colors.

Why Not Sing Along With Your Children?

As every adult who pretends to understand children knows, youngsters love to sing.

When planning a Christmas "sing" party, first decide on the songs and assemble a group of records for the children to follow.

Good Gifts For Camera Bugs

There is no end to what a camera bug needs. New equipment is always appearing on the market.

For the novice a better camera, gadget bag, 35mm viewers, extra film and reel chests make fine gifts.

For the experienced photographer there are printing and developing outfits. More expensive photography gifts include projectors, screens, tripods and special lenses.

Big Family Has To Have Two Turkeys

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP)— At 9:30 Christmas morning, an eager line of 12 children, arranged by age from 10-month-old Peter to 24-year-old Jim, will be standing outside their living room door waiting to dismantle a roomful of presents.

Later on they'll consume two 20-pound turkeys, with the help of a few other relatives, enjoy a spot of champagne, and then relax while their father plays a parlor-size organ.

This massive maneuver is conducted annually by the children of Hilda and Walter Maloney, who merged their families after each had become widowed, and went on to add two more young Maloneys to bring the clan to an even dozen.

There are five youngsters in college, three teen-agers at home, and a primary group aged 9, 7 and 4—plus the baby.

In less competent hands, there might be utter chaos. But auburn-haired Hilda, who combines total efficiency with gentle charm, has long since developed ways to keep things under control.

Nothing can be left to the last minute, she says. She begins her Christmas shopping in August, trying to keep the pile of presents for each evenly balanced. "I ask each one what he wants, and fill the specific requests first. Some of the children find it hard to think that far ahead, and I do too.. Last year, Claire (a sophomore at college), needed a typewriter. Kathy (a high school junior) got luggage, and an evening dress for the holidays. Two of the younger ones wanted bikes. And mechanical things fascinate Walter Jr. (4 years old.)"

Mechanical things also unexpectedly fascinated friends of the college-age group, who spent one Christmas night playing war in the center hall with little Walter's gifts. The younger children could not get near them.

Who is going where and how and at what time is miraculously kept accurate in Hilda's mind at all times. "Walt says I should have a big calendar, but I don't. I seem to remember. Whoever asks for the car first, gets it. But last Christmas there were so many drivers home, we rented an extra car.

Whether it's holiday party time, or the more usual activities with friends the rest of the year, each member of the family checks with his mother on the way out, saying where he is going, how he'll get there and when he'll be home.

On return each checks in by tapping gently at his parents' door, and stating his arrival. Though this means being awakened three or four times during the late evening, Hilda and Walt prefer it to worrying.

With such a large number of brothers and sisters to remember at Christmas, the children often team up by pairs "to buy a little nicer present without depleting their funds," explains Hilda. All their present money comes from allowances and earnings, with the exception of 4-year-old Walter, who is likely to need financial subsidy.

Responsibility for setting up the huge tree that traditionally stands in the Maloneys' front hall is taken by the older boys. The top of the 15-foot evergreen stretches far up into the stairwell and is decorated annually with red balls, red lights and tinsel. Just before going back to college, the older boys dismantle it, because the others can't handle it.

In spite of the array of gifts confronting them on Christmas morning, the Maloney tribe looks forward with special interest to their stockings.

"One year I thought I'd cut down on preparations, and skip stockings for the older children. They raised such an outcry that Claire had to hunt around and fill some of them. And of all the gifts to buy, I find stocking gifts the hardest."

Here's Something In Candy Dept.

For an inimitable flavoring for ice cream, try topping your favorite flavor with a candy caramel sauce.

To make three-quarters of a cup of Caramel Sundae Sauce, combine one-half cup (about 12) caramels and one-half cup of undiluted evaporated milk in a saucepan.

Stir over a low heat until smooth. Then serve hot over your favorite flavor ice cream.

Santa's Helper Comes From Viking Story

Thank the Vikings for that jolly elf we know as Santa's Little Helper. In ancient times in Scandinavia, long before Leif Eriksen discovered America, little children were told stories of Jul Tomten, a little elf with long white whiskers, who saw to it that the earth gave abundantly of good food and that the animals and birds were taken care of.

When the Vikings became Christians, Jul Tomten became the giver of presents, just as our Santa Claus is today. Children would leave a bowl of porridge on the kitchen table for him, and he in turn would leave gifts for good boys and girls.

Over the years, travelers to the North brought back the legend of Jul Tomten, and eventually he became a part of our own Christmas tradition, as the busy little elf in Santa's workshop.

This Idea Rings True As Present

Rings are the oldest forms of jewelry. For many centuries rings were used to denote the station and rank of the wearer. This year, you can show your favorite guy just how he rates with you—just give him a ring this Christmas.

Rings have returned to fashion favor, reports the Jewelry Industry Council, and points out that there's a wide, wide variety from which to choose.

Your choice may be an insignia ring of his favorite business, fraternal or scholastic organization; a signet ring or ring bearing his initials in open letters or engraving; a birthstone, carved hemitie, onyx, star sapphire or ruby—or a diamond—all in rugged stylized settings.

Yule Tradition

Christmas would not be Christmas without the traditional wreath, fir, holly, evergreen, cedar leaves, ivy and mistletoe in and around the home.

POINSETTA LENDS SELF TO DECOR

The poinsetta, the flower of Christmas, lends itself to a host of decorating tricks.

A few buds can be arranged in a shallow bowl with a handful of evergreens. The trick is to sear the ends of the plant with candle wax right after cutting, to keep the sap from flowing.

To make a formal arrangement, put a thick candle symbolizing the light of the world in the center of a bowl of red and white poinsettias. Pine makes an ideal surrounding decoration for the outside of the bowl.

Present For Golfer

What golfer doesn't want a club that will chop a few strokes from his score? For a man who would keep his golfing eye all year around, an electric putt return may be just right.

PRESENT FOR WIFE

Personal Shoppers Store Helps Gift-giving Males

The American male shopper on the trail of an appropriate Christmas gift for his wife:

Is likely to spend more than he planned;

Has a very definite mental picture as to what is becoming to his wife (whether it is actually or not);

Thinks blue the best color;

Knows definitely what he doesn't like, but has more trouble deciding what he does like;

Is less likely to be talked into believing something is "just right" than his wife would be;

Steers clear of the exotic and the flamboyant;

Is a last-minute shopper.

This portrait of a gift-giving husband emerges from the sales experiences of personal shoppers in New York's oldest shopping service for men only, the 721 Club.

"We have some very unusual costume jewelry here," recalls one of the shoppers. "But will the men buy it? No, they stick to pearls.

"There's no use trying to convince them if they don't like your suggestion. They're likely to get very vehement.

"They're very specific. A man will come in and say he wants a lounging outfit for his wife to wear in the evening. He doesn't want anything else."

While jewelry and perfume rank high as choices, many men buy their wives dresses and suits. They also show a marked preference for Italian sweaters in pretty colors with pants to match.

"Of course," says the shopper, "some men would die if you suggested pants. But others go for them in a big way. Suede and leather jackets and coats are popular with them too."

Many men buy gifts in two categories, the expensive and the silly. They'll pick out an elegant alligator bag, and then choose a crazy stuffed toy for a joke gift.

The atmosphere at the shoppers' club makes gift selection more pleasant for the male anxious to get the job over with. Morning coffee and afternoon drinks are served at the store's expense. Models are used to show the clothes, since the men want to know how it will look. Often they wind up buying the jewelry, gloves, shoes and hat the model has on, in addition to their original choice.

A few more timid souls bring their business associates to bolster them up. Others carry long lists they want filled in a hurry. Christmas shopping is something they wish to have accomplished as quickly and painlessly as possible.

Clay Pots Best

Poinsetta plants will have a healthier root action if they are kept in a clay flower pot which permits excess water and harmful salts to escape and keeps roots and soil balls cool.

Astro-Sonic Stereo High Fidelity

This exciting new development exceeds all previous achievements in the re-creation of music.

(Imperial 18th Century English) $695.00

Incredible Fidelity—
No Tubes, No Heat, No Trouble

The Astro-Sonic has such great tonal dimension it can fill a concert hall like a full symphony orchestra—and in your home can "whisper" the full beauty of music or shake the walls with the crescendo of a great symphony.

The Astro-Sonic develops more than 100 watts of music power yet consumes no more current than the average light bulb—only about 1/10 of a comparable tube set.

Vacuum tubes and component-damaging heat—the sources of most service troubles—have been eliminated . . . parts are guaranteed for five years. Solid state circuitry provides greater stereo FM/AM radio performance and more audio power with greater efficiency than any tube set ever could.

A new MICROMATIC "60" record player completely eliminates pitch distortion—for the turntable speed is as accurate as your electric clock! The new pick-up plays at only 1/10 oz. touch—banishes record and stylus wear. The diamond stylus is guaranteed for ten years and your records can last a lifetime.

Astro-Sonic models are encased in your choice of a wide variety of beautiful furniture priced from $550.00. Other stereo high fidelity consoles from $149.50.

A thrilling demonstration of these superb instruments awaits you.

O. HENRY'S STORY

'Gift Of The Magi' Written For Yule

Just before Christmas, 1905, an ex-convict sat in a room in an old New York City brownstone and wrote of a woman named Della and a man named Jim. The real names were Athol and Will. The writer was O. Henry.

O. Henry was William Sidney Porter when he married Athol. His story, "The Gift of the Magi," was a thinly disguised tribute to her. The frail young woman had died eight years earlier, a few months before Will was sent to prison for embezzling.

It was prison and Athol that made a writer of him. They had eloped when she was still in her teens. With the faith of her years, Athol believed in her irresponsible husband. She struggled and sacrificed while he tried, on occasion, to sell a story or two.

Athol was ill throughout their short marriage. When she died of tuberculosis, Will lived only for their daughter, Margaret, and his promise to Athol. He had vowed to become the writer she'd always believed him to be.

Prison gave the young man time to write and kept him out of trouble. He sold his first stories from his prison cell. It was in prison, too, that he adopted his pen name, the name of a French pharmacist he'd chosen at random.

When O. Henry was released from prison he want to New York. He found it a frightening city with its elevated trains and rushing people, but he stayed.

He wrote for the magazine which had bought his stories from prison. And he quickly became a success. Soon the New York World hired him to do a story a week.

So it was that on this December day, O. Henry wrote, with pencil on yellow paper, of his wife. The story, published by the World, concerned a woman who sold her hair to buy a watch fob for her husband, who sold his watch to buy combs for her hair.

It ends:

". . . Here I have lamely related to you the uneventful chronicle of two foolish children in a flat who most unwisely sacrificed for each other the greatest treasures of their house. But in a last word to the wise of these days, let it be said that of all who give gifts these two were the wisest. . . They are the magi."

Yule Tree Origin

There are many stories about the origin of the Christmas tree. The one most frequently heard is that Martin Luther lighted the first Christmas tree in Germany about 1530 to memorialize the beauty of winter starlight.

Lions Take Gifts To Our Friends South Of Border

ONTARIO, San Bernardino County (AP)—One local man's compassion gave birth to an idea. And his unstinting efforts developed the idea into a vast welfare project.

This year Walter G. Schroeder and hundreds of his brothers in Lions International will trek to the Mexican sea coast city of Ensenada, loaded down with gifts. They will return empty handed as far as material goods are concerned but secure in the knowledge they have directly aided underprivileged people.

Schroeder had often visited Ensenada and because of his feelings for the poverty-stricken masses there, he became acutely aware of the need for any kind of help that could be given.

In the fall of 1957 he spoke at his Ontario Lions Club:

"Why don't we go down to Ensenada in a group and visit the Lions Club there. It can be a goodwill gesture on our part. We can learn something of their problems, something about their welfare projects and possibly we can develop a project to help the poor people in and around Ensenada."

In November 1957, 22 Lions left Ontario with a truckload of food, clothing and toys plus $150. The visitors were warmly welcomed by their brother Lions south of the border. The gifts, they were assured, would be distributed among the needy families.

As the calendar turned for 1958, Schroeder spread the idea to other clubs in the Lions Citrus Region of Southern California. His zealousness became a crusade and his unstinting work began to pay dividends.

In 1958 the Ontario Club again went to Ensenada with a large amount of supplies They were joined in 1959 by 22 Lions Clubs which gathered a total of four tons of food, clothing, medicines and medical supplies plus $800.

Among the larger gifts taken to Ensenada last year was a $1,000 incubator from the Pomona Lions, a $700 anesthesia unit from the Chino Lions and an ambulance from the West Fullerton Lions, all for a $60,000 hospital built by the Ensenada Lions Club.

Forty trucks and 500 Lions members made the Ensenada trip in 1961. The 50 tons of gifts included canned foods, 400 school desks and 200 chairs, clothing, medical supplies, toys, sewing machines, cooking utensils, furniture and 60 Little League uniforms.

This year the trip dates are Oct. 13, 14 and 15, early enough so that the Lions of Ensenada can make a distribution before Christmas. Emphasis again is on hospital supplies, school supplies, clothing, canned food and toys.

Schroeder says some 60 Lions clubs in Southern California have taken part in the Ensenada project or in similar ones to other Mexican cities.

He says, "I think we have supplied pencils and tablets for almost the entire Baja, California."

IT'S NEVER TOO EARLY on Christmas morning for little girls to jump out of bed and find dolls under the tree. Bright-eyed little sister, has discovered a cuddly doll that talks whenever she is squeezed. Big sister can talk to her big-girl doll (which has a built-in tape recorder) and then listen to a play-back of her own voice.

Dolls In Santa's Toy Pack More Like Human Beings

Dolls in Santa's 1962 toy pack are more like human beings than ever before; and, conversely, new arrivals in toyland's stuffed animal kingdom are more fantastic in concept than ever before.

Most conspicuous trend is the high incidence and rich variety of voices, reports Toy Guidance Council. Not so long ago a doll was considered especially talented if she said "mama." Thanks to electronics and other scientific marvels the gifted new dolls this Christmas not only will carry on extensive playroom-level chitchat, but also will narrate full length stories and present an extensive repertoire of songs.

One of the most remarkable arrivals on the toyland scene is a doll whose story telling is produced by a phonograph but who has no visible contact with the record player.

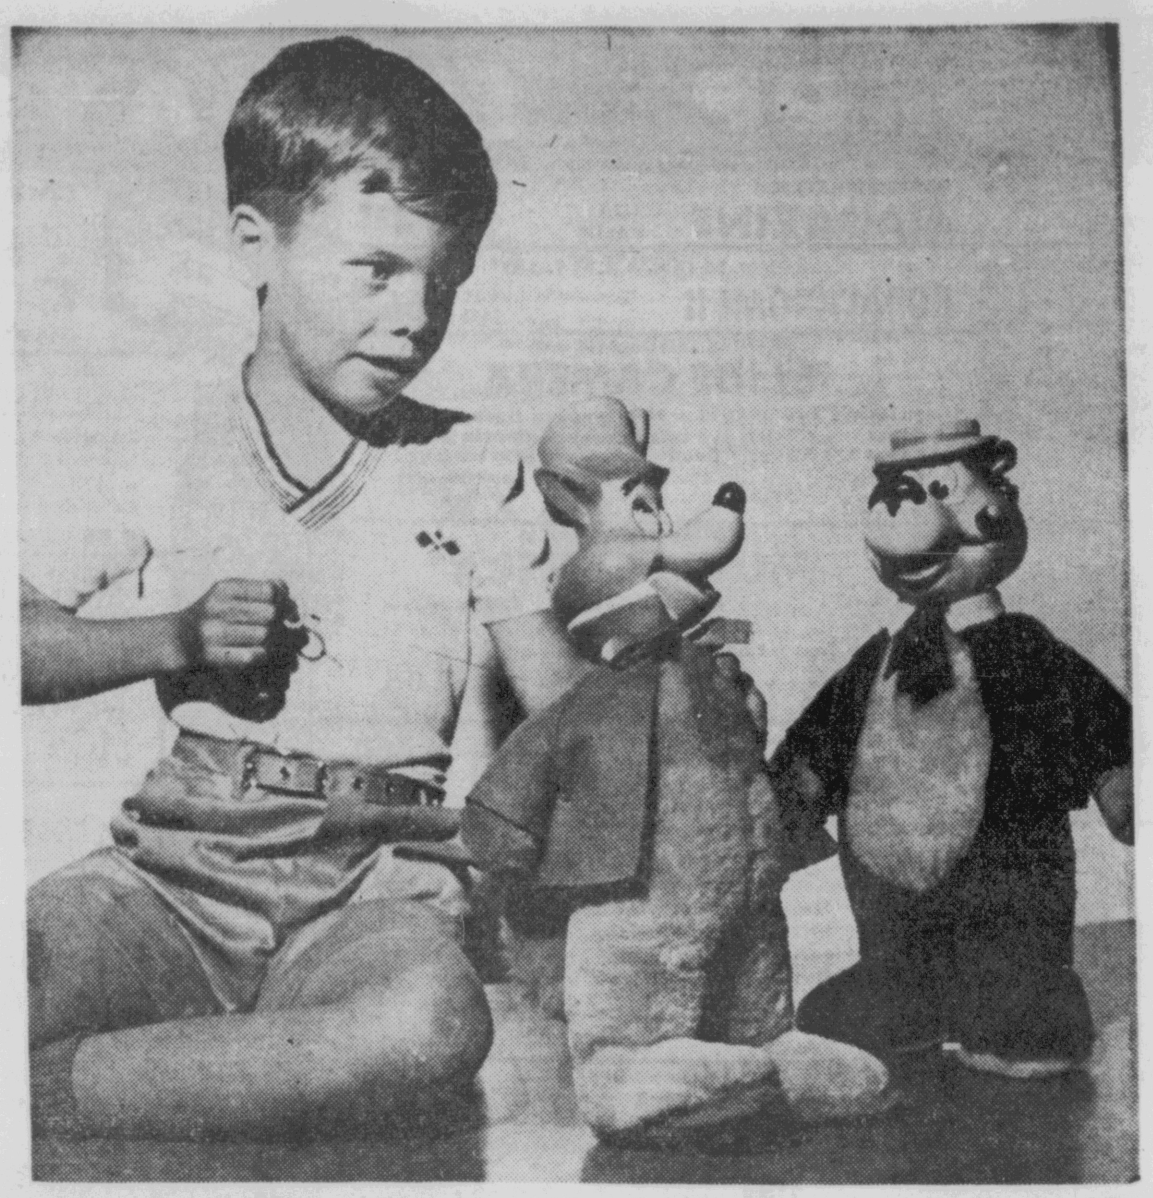
Another novelty sure to entrance doll lovers is an infant doll who opens her mouth wide and actually speaks baby talk accompanied by appropriate gurgles and coos when her stomach is pressed. New, too, in the toddler doll category is a diminutive walker who needs mother's helping hand to take those first difficult steps.

Quite as vocal as dolls are new stuffed animals, many of them modeled after TV cartoon characters and bearing only the remotest resemblance to real life animals.

Most unusual of this galaxy of fantastic animal characters is a seasick sea serpent, appropriately executed in a green hue. Assorted dogs, rabbits, bears and so on raise their voices in various intriguing ways. Many of the new talk-producing mechanisms require only a simple tug to start up conversation, a far cry from the old-fashioned music box with an easy-to-lose key.

The role of the teen-age doll in making children conscious of style points and grooming has been extended notably this Yuletide. The career girl takes the spotlight. New kits include complete wardrobes for the well dressed secretary, the nurse, airplane stewardess and the photographer's model.

Baby doll kits include the latest refinements in baby grooming and careful instructions on basic care of the infant. Well-designed wardrobes encourage neatness in storing the doll's elaborate wardrobe which may carry over to doll owners.



STRAIGHT FROM TV—When a cord is pulled, Calvin and the Colonel talk. They can say 11 sentences each. Models of the pair from television are on the market in smaller size and without built-in conversation.

Chop-It-Yourself Christmas Trees

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—A new wrinkle in the annual selection of Christmas trees by families is gaining in popularity.

This is the "you pick it" or "you chop it yourself" idea, a movement which probably stems from the old American family tradition of going into the forest to cut a Christmas tree and haul it home.

In New Jersey, about 300 farmers are engaged in growing Christmas trees. In many cases families drive to one of the tree plantations weeks before Christmas to inspect the crop. They make their choices and the trees are tagged with their names and the dates they intend to pick them up.

German Holy Night

The German word for Christmas is "Weihnacht" which means "the blessed (or holy) night."

Decorate Cones For Festive Air

For inexpensive Christmas table ornaments and accessories, nothing surpasses the decorated pine cone for ease in doing-it-yourself.

You'll need assorted sizes of pine cones, some florist tape and wire, white cement paste and sequins, glitter, beads, and, if you like, a can of artificial snow.

Christmas Custom In Swedish Homes

The entire family gathers in the kitchen in many Swedish homes on Christmas Eve.

Before the festival meal, each member dips a piece of bread into a kettle of broth in remembrance of a historic famine, when the only food available was dark bread and broth.

"Dear Santa, I want a diamond ring, bracelets, everything...!"

What you need, Sally Secretary, is a personal loan from Royce Finance Plan. You can borrow from $25.00 to $2,500.00 on approval of your credit. The first payment is not due for six weeks, no cosigners are necessary and you may take up to two years to pay. Or better yet... why not suggest one to HIM?

Town Of 12 Homes Jumps At Christmas

By TYLER WHITNEY

NOEL, Va. (AP)—The town of Noel, Va., usually pops into the news but once a year — at Christmastime.

The tiny Hanover County postal station serves only 12 homes and is virtually forgotten 11 months of the year. But in December it receives letters from across the nation and throughout the world.

It is Noel's Christmas-like name which prompts most people to send bundles of cards and letters to the tiny station so they might be stamped with the "Noel" postmark and the special catchet which the Post Office Department allows the station to use.

The red-ink catchet—a rubber-stamp mark which denotes special types of mail—consists of a pair of two-inch-high angels joyfully singing "Noel, Noel."

Since postmistress Mrs. Percie L. Anderson reached the government's mandatory retirement age of 70 a year ago April, the post office operates as a private contract station. It has had to cut out rural deliveries.

For Christmas card senders, however, nothing has changed.

"The government has been real nice to me," Mrs. Anderson says. "It lets me keep my catchet postmark and everything."

Little has changed in the post office either.

There is the old-style, postal hand-stamp with the less stylish but easier-to-read postmark. Mrs. Anderson, who is ambidextrous, can stamp cards at a rapid rate.

Mrs. Anderson continues to use the old handmade desk first used by her mother. Mrs. Anderson has been postmistress for 25 years and her mother was postmistress before that for 45 years.

The post office itself is located in a tiny chicken-wire cubicle in the hallway of the Andersons' old white farmhouse.

During the rush of the Christmas season, the post office expands into the front parlor of the farm home where Mrs. Anderson and her husband, Will, known unofficially as the "mayor of Noel," sort the mail.

A retired Chesapeake and Ohio Railway official, Anderson has helped his wife with the mail for many years.

Mrs. Anderson remarked that although Christmas is the only really busy season, she receives requests throughout the year, generally from school children, for a sample of the Noel postmark and the history of the little community.

The station, originally a part of the Noel plantation (Mrs. Anderson's mother was a Noel), served for many years as a C&O railway stop where trains took on water and, incidentally, mail.

The Christmas rush first was started in 1948 when an article appeared in a Richmond newspaper telling about the tiny community with the unusual Yule name.

Now, mail pours in from all over America.

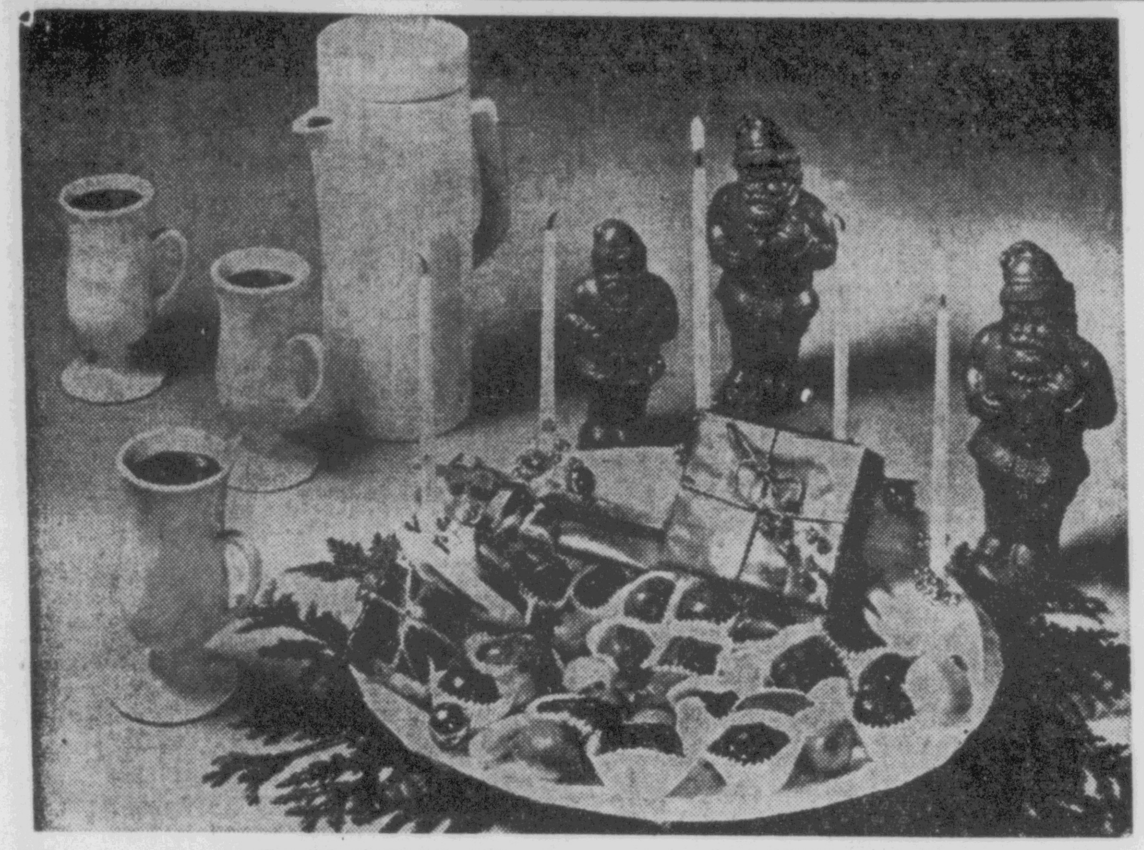
The mail often comes from the same people, each year, Mrs. Anderson says. Many even drive up from Richmond on the weekends to drop off their cards.

Does she like the extra work the name has caused?

Of course, she says.

"I meet new people each year, not to mention the other friends I have made."



CHRISTMAS EVE DESSERT IDEA

Decorative goodies form a dessert centerpiece for the Christmas Eve buffet. Holiday candies, marzipan and chocolates come out of their boxes, to be arranged on a large platter covered with spangled tissue paper. Tape the paper in place and use candles in small flat holders around the platter rim. Space miniature tree ornaments between the candles, and fill the platter with the candies of your choice. Good to look at, and delectable as dessert!

Suggested Books For Children

Every November and December since 1910 the New York Public Library has exhibited new books suggested as gifts for children.

On the golden anniversary of the practice, the library exhibited a selection from all the children's book exhibits during the past 50 years—from the books still enjoyed by children and still in print.

The library groups its books for exhibit largely by subject because of a belief that a child extremely interested in a particular subject will read books about that subject far beyond what might be considered his "age level."

This list then, is taken from the New York Public Library's 1960 exhibition of some 300 books that children love.

(Dates of publication are given.)

Holiday Glasses Should Be Gay

Whatever your choice of refreshments to serve holiday guests, it's fun to serve in gaily decorated glasses.

A new technique in glass-making has made possible a three-dimensional Christmas tree design on clear glass tumblers, stemware and matching shaker. Each bauble-laden tree gleams with color, as do the "gifts" heaped underneath.

Arrange the festive, gold-rimmed glasses on an open shelf or atop your buffet, as part of your holiday decor.

Tried Roasting Turkey This Way?

Have you tried roasting a turkey on a rotisserie?

If you have a rotisserie-equipped gas range, set the temperature at 325 degrees. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound for roasting time.

If you wish to add a dark glaze, baste the turkey with a mixture of soy sauce and honey every 10 minutes during the final 30 minutes of cooking. If you prefer a reddish glaze, use any barbecue sauce containing tomato and paprika.

'SUITING UP' FOR '62—Bill Blagg is known most of the year as His Honor the mayor of Dierks, Ark. But at Christmastime the children of southwest Arkansas have an even more exaulted title for him—"Santa."

Arkansas Children Have Their Own Santa

In southwest Arkansas children know Santa Claus as Bill Blagg of Dierks, who has dressed in a red flannel suit for over 50 years. His annual visits on Christmas eve have brought happiness to many people of the communities in this region.

All through the year folk say "Howdy Santa" to this genial retired mill man who is the mayor of Dierks.

Bill Blagg is now 73 and his own children are grown and have children of their own who enjoy seeing Santa each year.

It was back in 1909 when Bill Blagg moved from Red Water, Tex., to Arkansas. There was a Christmas program at the school and Bill had a friend make his first flannel suit.

He always enjoyed doing a Dutch dialogue stunt for programs of various kinds, for his grandparents were from Holland. The Santa Claus role was a new one, but from that year this Yuletide role has never been missed.

Mrs. Blagg says, "Daddy is getting too old but he is always anxious to get into his red suit and I know he won't quit as long as he lives."

Last year Bill Blagg gave away 1,500 packages for the Dierks Company to every child in the community.

Many holiday seasons this Santa has gone to more than one town and this Christmas eve he plans several trips, though individual houses are not on his list any more.

When a little child jumps up in his arms and says, "I love Santa," that is all the thanks he wants.

Yule Celebrated

In England during the Middle Ages, Christmas gradually developed into a feast of good-natured reveling. When the Puritans came to political power in 1642, they immediately outlawed celebration of Christmas.

Wrote Christmas Carol

The Christmas carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," was written by the great Methodist hymn writer, Charles Wesley, whose brother, John, founded the Methodist Church.

Kitchen Requires Yule Decorations

A spotless, orderly kitchen adds its charm to holiday entertaining. So sponge clean all cupboards and appliances well in advance of the shopping rush. Clean floors, too, using a long-handled sponge-type mop to save energy and use a rapid drying cleanser that doesn't need rinsing — all of which leaves you with more pep for holiday fun.

A few decorations in the kitchen, meanwhile, add continuity and a cheery note while doing the cooking. If you have a bulletin board, pin some colorful Christmas cards on it. Or put short pine branches in a bowl on the window sill or on a shelf and attach some tinsel, tiny Christmas balls or little bows, so that it looks like a miniature tree.

Match Boxes For Decoration

A spot of glue, some felt and a puff of decorator glitter transform penny match boxes into bright Christmas tree decorations.

With a little imagination each box, covered with red, white or green felt, turns into a colorful Christmas touch, especially when a miniature snowman, tree or caroler poses on top.

First glue the felt to the match boxes, covering all except the striking surface. Then put a daub of glue on the top to catch the decorator dust. Glue a Christmas figure on top. (Wreaths, carolers and trees can be purchased at artcraft shops and five-and-ten-cent stores.)

Say It With Plates

Using red or green water paints, draw one letter of a Christmas word in the center of a white plate. Then arrange a series of such plates on a mantel or buffet so they will spell something like "Merry Christmas," "Joy" or "Noel."

Gay Shades

You can transform your lampshades into holiday decorations by covering them with pleated gift-wrapping paper attached to the wire frame with ribbon.

Flame Pudding

For a flaming Christmas pudding, place sugar cubes dipped in lemon extract around the pudding, and light them just before serving.

Gifts Of Cash Good For Many

Comes Christmas time and it's the right time to remember the many folks who have served the family in some way or another throughout the year.

If you are going to give gifts of cash, make sure you secure crisp, new bills ahead of time—put them in a special cash folder or a friendly Christmas greeting card.

Folks you may wish to remember with cash include the postman, the grocery delivery boy, the newspaper boy, the service station attendant, the milkman, etc.

Non-cash gifts are more gracious to the baby-sitter, Junior's nursery school or grammar school teacher, a special nurse, etc.

Something Wonderful Happens In The Kitchen

Something wonderful happens in American kitchens at Christmas time.

Families dig into a variety of backgrounds and come up with a delightful assortment of holiday foods. French cake rolls, Scandinavian and German cookies, Danish coffee cakes, Italian chestnut concoctions and many other European specialties are likely to appear.

Cooks also borrow recipes for foreign delights, and so do we. The following rule for Pepparkakor comes from one of the most fascinating recent cook books, "Continental Flavor" by Nika Standen Hazelton (Doubleday).

Nika Hazleton was born and educated in Europe and now lives in New York. A superb cook and a lively writer, she knows an enormous amount about good food. Nika says that "Pepparkakor are made with slight variations in all Scandinavian countries. At Christmas they are decorated and hung on the tree, and they may be cut into any desired shape with a cookie cutter. They are very pretty if frosted in the colorful Scandinavian manner, but equally good when covered with a thin, tart lemon icing."

Some cooks are so adept at cookie rolling and cutting that they can handle the most temperamental dough. To make life easy for less experienced cooks, we give you the following new technique —worked out in our own kitchen by our helper, Mary Greene—for managing this dough.

When Mary makes these cookies she rolls them, a small batch of chilled dough at a time, on waxed paper. Then she cuts out the cookies but does not lift out the shapes. Instead the waxed-paper sheets of rolled-and-cut cookies, one sheet on top of another, go back into the refrigerator to chill. When the dough is very firm, the cutouts are lifted from their places, placed on cookie sheets and baked. The tag ends of dough are re-rolled, cut and chilled in the same manner.

Nika specifies that the almonds that go into these cookies be finely ground. Instead of getting out the food grinder for this chore, we grate the almonds fine, using a small hand-operated rotary grater.

A note about flavor. Nika's Pepparkakor are the pepperiest cookies we've ever tasted. So we made up a batch with the amount of pepper considerably diminished—but all our tasters objected! We give the pepper just as Nika includes it.

We advise you to make the cookies in time to serve with pitchers of milk at tree-trimming time. They'll give your tree trimmers spirit and energy!

A TOUCH OF SCANDINAVIA comes to Christmas with eggnog, real Scandinavian figurines and traditional Pepparkakor cookies.

NIKA HAZELTON'S PEPPERKAKOR
(Scandinavian Spice Cookies)

¾ cup butter
½ cup sugar
¼ cup corn syrup (preferably the dark kind)
2 tablespoons brandy
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon ground cardamon
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons ground ginger
½ cup blanched almonds, finely ground
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

Cream butter and sugar until fluffy; stir in corn syrup and brandy. Sift flour with salt, pepper, and spices. Add to creamed mixture gradually, with almonds and lemon rind. Work with hands into a smooth dough. The dough should be stiff. Chill overnight. Roll out as thinly as possible between two sheets of wax paper. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate (350 degrees) oven for about 8 minutes. Cool, and glaze with thin Lemon Icing.

(Food Editor's Note: We like these cookies without frosting: their flavor grows on you as you eat and eat. But if you want to follow Nika's suggestion for frosting, she makes her Lemon Icing by sifting confectioners' sugar into a bowl. For each cup, she gradually stirs in 2 tablespoons lemon juice, adding more sugar or liquid as needed.)

Here's Idea For Drop-In Guests

Disaster Lurks In Wings At Fete

By LYDIA BICKFORD

'Tis the week before Christmas and all through the land, small fry are busily being transformed into angels, Wise Men, shepherds, sheep, peasants, kings, animals of the forest, trumpeters, carollers and dramatic artists.

The season of the Christmas pageant is at hand, and few schools would think of closing on any other note than the theatrical.

Add to that the productions that Sunday Schools prepare, the children's choir programs which must be rehearsed, and there's no time at all left for some pleasant singing of "Good King Wenceslaus" around the piano.

For better or worse, mothers are inevitably involved in all these efforts. They must be willing and able to turn yards of cheese cloth and lengths of wire into angel wings. They must hear everyone's lines. They must calm the quaking actor, and give the proper pitch to the young singer.

Above all, they must be in attendance at all performances, outwardly serene, but inwardly terrified that something will go wrong and their offspring will suffer total public humiliation. ("If it has to happen, please let it happen to someone else's child!"

Regretably, it has happened too many times to my own. My daughter made a charming shepherdess as she came out on the stage wearing a French peasant costume that once had been mine. But I had little time to beam.

She was calling her sheep, and not a sheep appeared. After three tries, they finally got the signal, and came bounding out so animatedly that they ripped a hole in the back curtain, revealing interesting off-stage glimpses of characters at the moment half-child, half-animal.

On another occasion, I sat in a quonset hut gym while the rain poured down on the metal roof, completely drowning out every note of "The First Day of Christmas" performed by my child's class.

Strange things have happened in religious offerings too. One Christmas two angels moving in close quarters found their wings had become entwined, and they were forced to come onstage walking jerkily sidestep rather than at the gracious pace they had practiced at home.

The more ambitious the undertaking, the more likely there is to be near-disaster. My son's choir director decided to shoot for the stars, and ordered him to ascend to the church belfry, where at the appropriate time his boy soprano voice would ring out singing "Glory to God in the Highest."

Through some oversight, the trap door leading to the belfry hadn't been opened, and my son at the appropriate time was hunched on the narrow stairs sobbing with frustration.

But there have been successes in which I share vicariously. The triumph of all Christmas productions was the appearance of my young son in the starring role of "The Littlest Angel." His 52 speeches both he and I knew letter perfect.

Properly type cast as a frolicsome angel who was always getting into trouble and bounding about the stage throwing cotton snowballs at his superior angels, he and the audience were in seventh heaven.

That was both the beginning and the end of his stage career. He wisely chose to retire after a stellar performance, and thus cut down my attendance at Christmas performances from eight to seven a year.

'How-To's' For Cookie Makers

A cookie press is a wonderful time saver in making clever Christmas cookies, but there are a few hints to follow in order to assure success.

The cookie dough must be soft and pliable. Variations in flour and the size of eggs sometimes make it necessary to omit or add a tablespoon or three of flour When dough is too stiff, an egg white should be added.

When dough is mixed by hand, it may be necessary to use a bit less flour than the recipe calls for. Do not chill the dough.

Dye Tracer Shows Source Of River

PIKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —The Sequatchie River finally turned green, and old timers breathed "I told you so."

Greenish-yellow dye appeared in the Sequatchie six days after it was put in a spring across the mountain — in an effort to find the river's source. The experiments were conducted by geological engineers.

The results confirmed what old timers had contended all along.

Display Of Cards

For a pleasing Christmas card display, cut lengths of ribbon in various lengths, making a bow for the top of each one. Attach the bows to the wall and pin your cards along the length of the ribbons.

TALENT

They Bring Yule To Radio City

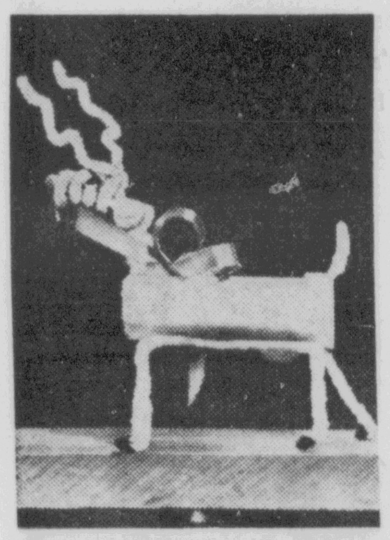
Thirty-six talented young dancers annually forego the pleasures of Christmas with the family to bring a holiday spectacular to the audiences who crowd into the Radio City Music Hall.

As animated candy canes, snow men, drummer boys or dancing dolls, the Rockettes are on stage four times a day, Christmas notwithstanding. Their own celebrations are tucked into those breaks when the audience is absorbed by the showing of a movie.

In their dressing room, mirrors are almost obliterated by gift-crammed stockings, Christmas cards, bows and wreaths. Many hours of association on the part of the "alley mates," the row of five girls in each line of the make-up tables, brings a kinship as close as in a family. So the holiday gift-giving is a personal matter, whether the choice is comic or lavish.

After the last show on Christmas night, the Rockettes' employers put on a party, complete with tree, gifts, and refreshments in gratitude for the many hours the dancers have spent working on the show.

But though the girls' lives are controlled by their stage appearances, there's time to slip out for Christmas dinner with the famliy or a special date. The dinner is likely to start promptly at 6:38 p.m. and end at 8:26 p.m., but this kind of life is normal to the dancers.



CANDY REINDEER makes a clever place card, package ornament or small gift for the neighborhood children.

Making A Sweet Reindeer

A small roll of candy covered in white paper makes the body of the reindeer.

Long pipe cleaners can be pasted together under the package and bent to form the legs and feet.

Two cleaners joined together with spool wire and wound around a pencil are then stretched and bent into the shape of a reindeer's head, antlers and neck.

Part of an additional pipe cleaner makes the tail.

A decorative ribbon bow and a few touches with a black pencil complete the reindeer.

Radio Station Rigs Talking Trash Can

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — To picture the expressions on Chatanoogans' faces, try to imagine how you would feel if you dumped a candy wrapper in a sidewalk trash container and it said, "Thank you."

The talking trash can was rigged up by personnel of radio station WDXB on a downtown sidewalk. Swinging its lid activates a recording.

Gift For Boatsman

A set of signal flags makes a colorful gift. For larger boats with cabins try a set of dishes or glasses with nautical designs. Fog horns, life preservers, and an extra boat light are all useful.

Lion Hunters Search Tunnel

CAMP VERDE, Ariz. (AP) — Two mining engineers from California rushed into this north central Arizona community and reported a mountain lion crouched in a nearby mine tunnel.

Ralph Monroe and Buddy Stephens, part-time lion hunters, went to investigate. They approached the mine entrance cautiously, rifles at ready.

Monroe turned his flashlight toward the dark tunnel while Stephens prepared to fire.

Inside was a sleeping porcupine.

Greeting Cards

If you don't get 13½ greeting cards at Christmas time, you are batting below par. At least that is the estimate of one greeting card manufacturer.

Atlantic City Keeps Light In The Window

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Owners of shops on Atlantic City's Boardwalk have been asked to keep their windows lighted at least until 11 p.m. during conventions.

A division of the Chamber of Commerce said the request is part of a campaign to give the Boardwalk a "cheerful look" and to give visitors a better impression of the resort.

Out Of The Frying Pan

SAN ANDREAS (AP) — Anne James found 11 quail eggs on a recent rock-hunting expedition and brought them back to her home in this Mother Lode town.

She put the eggs in a moist cloth and placed them in an electric frying pan turned down to its lowest temperature. For the next seven days, she carefully turned the eggs.

It wasn't a new recipe. The eggs eventually hatched and Anne was the unofficial mother of a flock of live and healthy baby quail.

Outdoor Christmas Decorating Centers On Lighting

Nearly all outdoor Christmas decorating is centered around planned lighting. That's because so many interesting night-time effects can be achieved with lights of various colors, sizes and shapes. But even strictly daytime arrangements can be enhanced with proper spotlighting of key points.

The streamer is the main standby for outdoor lighting of house outlines, windows, shrubs, trees and yards. A streamer is a number of lights strung on lengths of wire and spaced 12, 18 or 24 inches apart. Streamers are available at any store which sells the conventional indoor lighting sets. It is important that you doublecheck to be sure it is the outdoor type you are getting, since this variety is constructed of waterproof wire, with weatherproof sockets and gaskets to prevent rain from causing a short circuit.

The simplest and most popular way to use streamers is to string them around the house outlines. The first step is to nail "guy wires" along gable lines, beneath gutters, down the corners of the house and wherever the lights are desired.

Guy wires are merely wires to which the streamers are attached on small hooks. No. 20 size rustproof guy wires are practically invisible—and many families leave them up from one holiday season to another even when lighting sets are not attached to them. In attaching the wires to the house, use rustproof nails.

The guy wires are also useful to give uniform-shaped lighting to a ragged or lopsided tree. Run four regularly spaced wires from the top of the tree to wooden stakes driven into the ground. Then run lights either up and down the wires or around them.

Outdoor spotlights, or floods, can be used back of trees or shrubs to throw them in silhouette, or to add a touch of color to the front of the house

Color caps are available to clamp over the lamp and provide a variety of colors. Spotlights beamed at decorated doorways should be set so they do not shine into the eyes of persons going in or out.

From a safety standpoint, never use anything but outdoor fixtures and equipment. Weatherproof connections and flexible underground cables are only a small part of the vast amount of outdoor electrical material which has made an appearance on the market in recent years. There no longer is an excuse for using a makeshift arrangement outdoors.

Outdoor lighting at Christmas time puts an extra strain on your home's wiring system. If you contemplate outdoor lighting—and you already have some doubts about the adequacy of your wiring system—now's the time to have that electrical checkup you've been putting off.

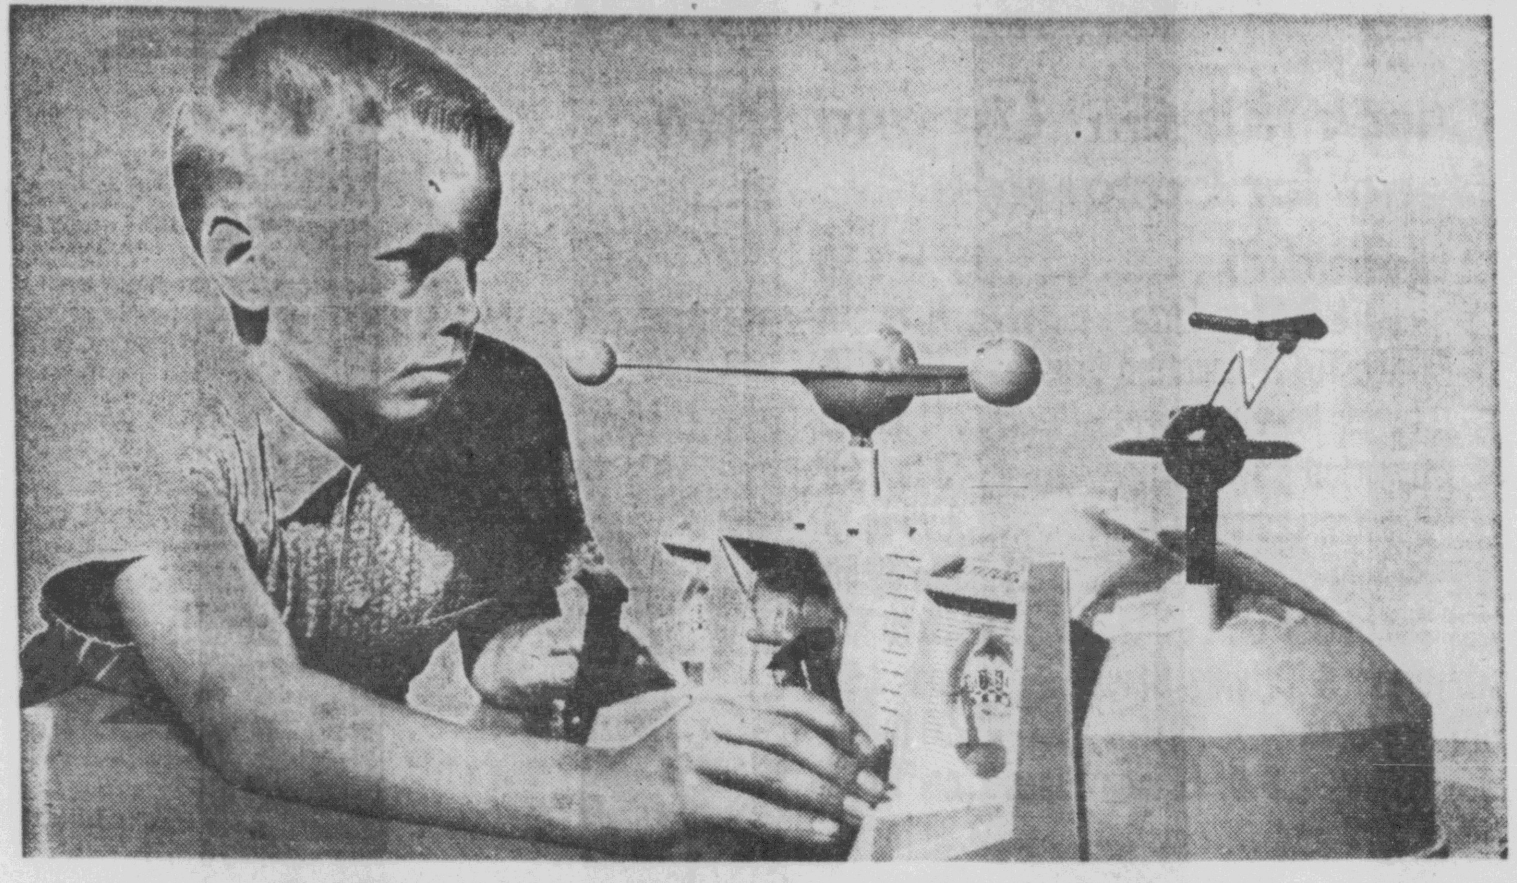
In addition to regular bulbs, there are many other kinds of lighting devices — Santa Clauses, reindeers, snowmen, etc. Here again you must exercise caution. Be sure the novelty you select is specifically made for outdoor use, since many of them are intended to be used indoors only.

If you have a table jigsaw, portable jigsaw or any type of saw which will cut through plywood or tempered hardboard, you can make delightful Christmas cutouts even if you have never had any woodworking experience.

Buy one of the full-size patterns available at lumber dealers, hardware stores or almost any other place that sells workshop equipment. Depending on the type of pattern, you either trace around it or transfer it to the wood with use of a warm iron. From there on it's merely a case of sawing out the design.

Most of the patterns are marked carefully to show you what color paint to use for each area to produce a Santa Claus or whatever the pattern represents.

Since the cutout will be outdoors in different kinds of weather, a coat of spar varnish —applied after the paint is thoroughly dry—will give it extra protection.



A YOUNG 'ASTRONAUT' AT PLAY

Coordination in space: With his left hand, a young "astronaut" revolves the solar system in this space-age toy, while his right hand controls the course of a rocket attempting to land on a planet.

Plan Teen-Age Decoration Party

If you have teen-ager friends or teen-agers in your family let them entertain their friends with a Christmas decoration party.

Provide them with a large table and plenty of materials such as red oilcloth, pasteboard boxes, Christmas balls, candles, glue, scissors, wrapping paper and the like. Invite them to come up with any sort of Christmas decoration or arrangement they can think of. You may be surprised how well they do.

Have on hand red apples, bottled soft drinks, Christmas cookies and candy. Then leave them alone.

When Dec. 25 Set

Dec. 25 was set as the day for the observance of Christmas in the sixth century.

First Christmas Cards In 1875

Christmas cards were first offered for sale to the public in the United States in 1875 by Louis Prang, a Boston lithographer and a native of Breslau, Germany.

Two billion greeting cards are mailed each Christmas in the United States. This is an average of about 50 cards per family.

When the greeting "merry Christmas" was first used, the word merry did not mean joyful or gay as it does now. In those days, it meant blessed, peaceful or pleasant.

Nativity Scene

Still the most popular theme for modern Christmas cards is the Nativity scene. Hundreds of interpretations have appeared, many of which are reproductions of the old masters.

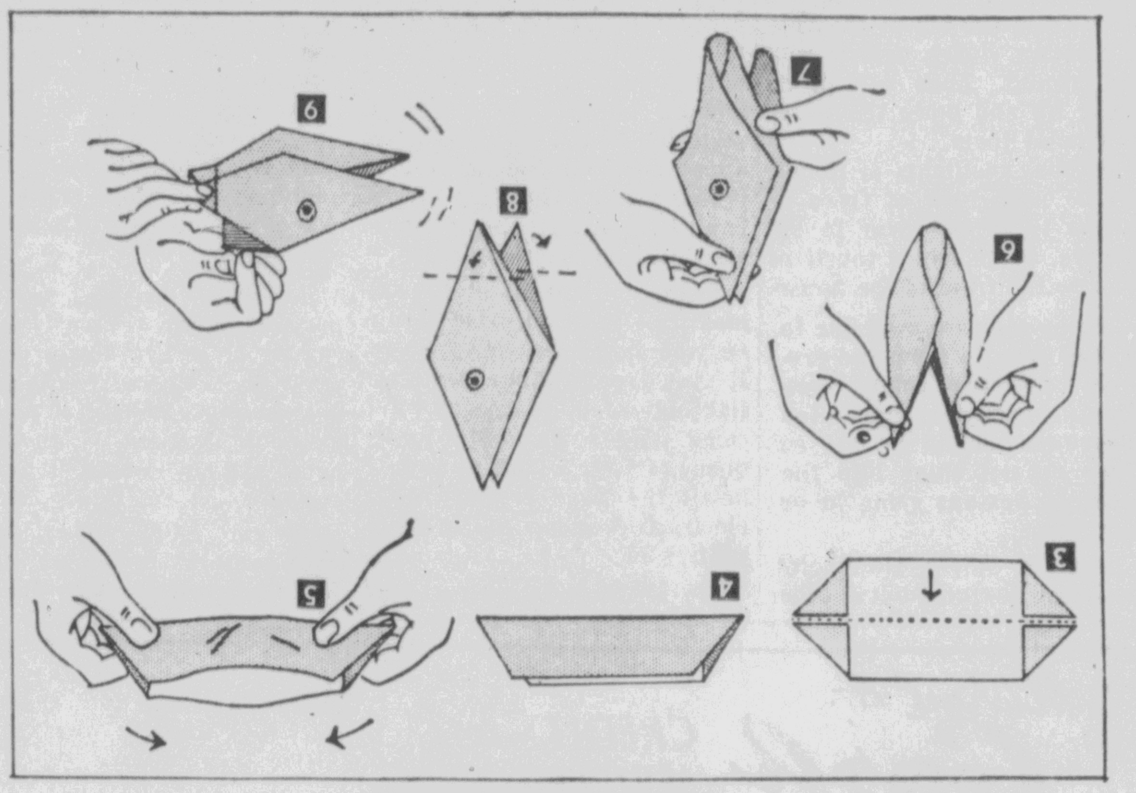
Children Can Work On Tree

Fold Fish For Good Decoration



If children want to make Christmas tree ornaments, TV children's entertainer Shari Lewis is all for it.

Let them make a decoration or two for the family tree, she says, or give them a small tree of their own to decorate completely.

Miss Lewis also is very enthusiastic about paper folding —which can be done whether a child is well or ill, rich or poor and which can result in paper toys, puppets, party favors, little gifts for other children and decorations for the Christmas tree.

She gives instructions for a mouth-moving fish, which can rest on a Christmas tree limb and come down from time to time to "talk." It's from her new book, "Folding Paper Puppets."

1. Start with half of a square.

2. Bring the lower edge of the rectangle to meet the upper edge. Crease sharply and open the paper.

3. Fold each of the four corners to the center fold, so that the rectangle now comes to a sharp point at each side.

4. Fold the bottom edge to meet the top edge. The center fold is now on the bottom.

5. With one hand at each corner, grasp the paper along the center fold. Roll your hands upward and toward one another, so that the center of the paper opens and the two points start to meet.

6. Slip the left point (and the two sides adjacent to the left point) into the right.

7. Grip these points (now one within the other) in your right hand. This is the fish's mouth, so pinch firmly to keep it shut. Place your left index finger on the round section, tap gently toward the points until you have made a distinct indentation. Place the fish carefully on the table. Wipe your extended left index finger over the entire fish from tip to tail, flattening it. Sharpen the tail folds.

8. The tail is divided into two fins. Fold back the very tip of the upper fin. Turn the fish over and fold the other fin the same way.

9. Grasp one of these tiny tail fins in each hand and when you pull your hands apart, the fish's mouth will open.

CHILD'S OWN TREE—Decorated with folded paper animals the child creates himself.

Give Neat, Simple Ties

Two words tell the story of neckwear for Christmas choosing—simplicity and neatness.

Those who are shopping for ties to brighten-up a man's wardrobe will discover "simple and neat" does not mean that new cravats are dull, uninteresting or prosaic. The new ties have a really fresh look via the orderly handling of their designs.

New popular panel fabrics have side borders created by either color or pattern—center panels have both bold and controlled motifs, and some ties carry just a hint of pattern working its way into the center section of the tie.

Ad Agency Named For Shop Center

The San Francisco-based advertising agency of De Grace and Associates has been named to promote services and facilities of stores in the Corte Madera Shopping Center complex.

"We are undertaking increased promotion and communication to our customers and the population of fringe marketing areas to emphasize the scope of our integrated shopping center," said Harry Kramar, Merchants Council president at the center.

He said that the objective for publicity during the next year will be "to tell the one-stop service story of our center."

Joe De Grace, owner and operator of the De Grace agency, lives in Corte Madera. He opened his service this year after serving as advertising representative for several national firms.

Consequences Of Error Are Hard

BALTIMORE (AP) — For the second consecutive year, a family gardener in suburban Rodgers Forge accidentally sprinkled powdered cement instead of lime on the family lawn.

The reasons were the same as last year: Two teen-age sons used the lime bucket to store cement; mother again forgot to verify the contents before dumping them onto the grass.

She swept it off the lawn in time, though, this year. Last year, a good rain soaked the lawn and gave the family an unplanned patio.

Archer Bags Deer On First Bow Hunt

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Paul Casper of Newton bought a new bow and arrow recently, and went deer hunting for the first time.

On his first shot he bagged a 140-pound deer.

Tri-State Peak

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP)—Tri-State Peak near here marks the convergence of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee. A disc has been imbedded in a rude stone and the letters "K," "V" and "T," have been cut into it to distinguish the three states.

Suspect Believed Accident Prone

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police suspect Benjamin Talmadge, 72, may be accident prone. Their suspicion is so strong they asked the court to revoke Talmadge's driver's license.

One day recently, police said Talmadge sideswiped a car at 9:30 a.m.; his right front door flew open and brushed two cars at 11:15 a.m.; he ran into the rear of a police cruiser at noon.

The night before, Talmadge backed into a parked car. Records showed he had two other minor accidents earlier this year.

Shoplifters Take 18-Foot Boat, Piano

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some shoplifters operate on a grand scale, Paul Brothers, an Akron store protection chief, says.

Brothers told Junior Chamber of Commerce members that one Akron store lost an 18-foot boat complete with equipment. And the store for which he works is "trying to locate" one of its concert grand pianos, he added.

Man May Be On Mars In 1970s

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Man is going to Mars—perhaps in the late 1970s.

Space scientists are as certain that manned exploration of the red planet will come to pass as they are that human beings one day will be shuttling between the earth and moon.

The United States now is committed to a multi-billion-dollar project to land the first American explorers on the moon in the decade of the 1960s.

The next grand space goal, scientists feel should be manned exploration of Mars, starting in the 1970s.

Mars is the obvious choice for expeditions beyond the moon, they say, because it is the only other planet in the sun's family believed likely to harbor life.

At the moment neither the United States nor Russia has the rocket power and the space skill to send men or even heavy robots to other planets.

But the power is coming and a bewildering variety of Mars ships already has come off the drawing boards.

James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), has said often it would be unthinkable for the U.S. space program to grind to a halt after landing men on the moon.

Proof that NASA is looking beyond the moon lies in the fact that it is developing NOVA, a super-booster generating 12 million pounds of thrust. It may be used in lunar exploration. But its main justification at present is the need for heavy load carriers to be used in deeper space.

In addition to ventures among the planets, Webb envisages giant space platforms in orbit around the earth even before conquest of the moon has been completed. The moon itself, according to NASA scientists, is destined to become a way station to the planets.

Harold B. Finger, director of the nuclear rocket program being pushed by NASA and the Atomic Energy Commission, believes atom-driven lunar ferries will some day be plying between earth and moon.

They will carry men, freight and equipment needed for the moon base. On the return trip they will carry crews on leave and perhaps lunar minerals of interest to earth.

Space platforms in orbits close to the earth, under the radiation zones, would be used to service and repair outward or homeward bound spacecraft and also as bases from which to launch space rescue missions.

Such stations also would serve as astronomical observatories capable of looking at the universe through the clear reaches of space above the obscuring atmosphere of earth, which has been likened to a dirty windshield.

Several U.S. firms have produced drawing board designs for huge stations capable of housing large crews and docking far-ranging spacecraft.

Establishment of a moon base will be a tough job. The first lunar explorers will have to seek shelter in tunnels or caves or crevices from the unremitting bombardment of solar radiation and meteorites and occasional intense showers of solar flare particles.

Spacesuits would permit only brief stays on the surface. Longer stays would have to be aboard shielded vehicles carrying the necessities of life. Later on, moon colonies under protective domes may come into existence.

Industrial firms and the Army Engineers have been designing scientists' conceptions of what a moon base would look like. A dozen different versions of the lunar vehicle also have been turned out. Some look like strange giant insects, others like huge balls, still others like Wellsian walking machines from Mars.

The utimate design will have to await word from robots and men as to what the lunar landscape is really like.

Before a lunar base can be built, a dependable transport service must be established between the moon and the earth. This appears to demand recoverable and reusable craft like Finger's space ferries. Industrial planners are working on concepts which envision use of such craft on missions as far as Venus and Mars.

Some would carry crews; others might be entirely automatic or responsive to directions from earth, space platforms or moon bases.

It is hard for a feet-on-the-ground layman to figure out where sense ends and fantasy begins in the space talk that's going around.

But Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of NASA, peddles neither fiction nor dreams. Recently he said:

"Only a few years hence, we hope to send spacecraft propelled by nuclear energy deep into the unknown on missions lasting for years."

As President Kennedy said even more recently, the United States for good or ill is sailing "into the uncharted sea of space."

BIG AID TO SHOPPERS

Expansion Of Parking Area

Wide motor throughways, engineered traffic flow lanes, new pedestrian walkways and other aids to shoppers with automobiles will be provided before the holidays at the Corte Madera Shopping Center as result of top priority accorded a major expansion project of the center's parking area.

A four-lane 40-foot main entrance is among the current projects. Similar enlargement of the subordinate entry and exit points in under way.

New and broadened throughways will expedite traffic flow within the parking areas and prevent delays even during the peak shopping hours, engineers say.

Work speed-up was ordered by members of the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council. Completion of the job is scheduled for no later than Dec. 2.

"We have decided," said council president Harry Kramar, "to set aside temporarily other objectives within our expansion and growth plan.

"Some difficulties have been experienced by our customers in the past. With anticipated record traffic before the approaching holiday season we concluded to give this top priority in order to settle this important matter once for all.

"The result should be that customers will be provided with the quickest, easiest way to park and shop."

With him are his wife, Glenda, their sons, Keith, 6, and Allen, 7, and their daughter, Barbara, 9. Betts is working for his bachelor of divinity degree at the seminary at Strawberry Point. Thanksgiving was observed throughout Marin today with church worship, traditional feasts, family reunions and other holiday activities. (Independent-Journal photo)

India May Not Accept Red China Cease-Fire

All Shooting Stops In Himalayan Area

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Shooting has stopped along the Himalayan frontier but informed sources said today India is not planning to accept Red China's terms for settlement of the month-old undeclared border war.

Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament: "So far as we know there has been an effective ceasefire." He made no mention of the Indian reaction but informants said the Indian army has been ordered to withhold its fire against Chinese troops who are observing a self-imposed cease-fire.

The lull left open the prospect of more fighting, informed observers in New Delhi said.

Nehru has not formally replied to Peking's declaration of a cease-fire to be followed by a Chinese withdrawal from their conquests during the last month.

The Indian government reportedly remains determined to drive out the Chinese rather than agree to their offer of a partial withdrawal that would leave the Communists in the strategic region of Ladakh.

A Defense Ministry spokesman was vague in his daily briefing on the fighting front.

While informed sources said Indian troops had been directed to fire only when fired upon, the spokesman said orders were a military secret and refused to disclose them.

Earlier Nehru told Parliament the Chinese had silenced their guns but he did not say anything about orders given Indian forces.

Peking, in announcing that Chinese troops put their cease-fire into effect at midnight Wednesday (11 a.m. EST yesterday), warned:

"The border conflict cannot be stopped by China's action alone.

"The cessation of the border conflict depends on the Indian side rather than the Chinese side, and now it depends particularly on whether or not the Indian government responds positively."

Marin Plan For Medical Care Going Before AMA Parley

By CHAPIN A. DAY

A Marin County plan for financing the cost of medical care on a nationwide basis goes before the American Medical Assn. convention which opens this weekend in Los Angeles.

The plan, developed by a committee of Marin doctors, was presented to the California Medical Assn. last August. Since then it has received the approval of Council of the CMA and the CMA itself. It will be introduced before the AMA convention in a series of resolutions aimed at getting approval for its basic policies. It would then be reassembled into proposed legislation for presentation to the Congress.

Basicly the Marin plan would provide a minimum of 75 per cent insurance coverage for all costs of medical illness, including doctor, hospital and other expenses. It would not include dental work.

County, state, even federal, aid would be possible through assistance with premium payments. In other words, government would provide financial aids for those not able to pay the cost of the insurance.

In the case of indigents or those with very low incomes, the government would pay the entire premium. For those with lower and medium incomes, a partial premium would be paid.

The plan proposes that the individual's gross net income, as reflected on his income tax return, be used to determine what proportion of the premium the government would pay.

Major advantage of such a plan, the Marin doctors point out, is that it completely retains a free choice by the patient of both his doctor and his insurance company.

The use of tax monies, from whatever level, implies, the doctors admit, that government will set regulations, requirements for the insurance companies and even a fee schedule for the doctors. This may cause some objections not only from some doctors but the insurance companies too. However, details can be worked out to make the proposed operation practical, they believe.

The Marin plan envisions:

1. Insurance which would cover indemnities as well as service and which would be available to individuals of all ages and income levels.

2. Insurance coverage would be by firms licensed by individual state governments.

3. At least a minimum of 75 per cent of total medical expenses incurred by an individual or his family would be covered; a higher percentage would be available.

4. The insured would be expected to pay for some portion of the medical costs whenever he is financially able. But indigents and very low income groups could get total medical coverage through their governmental agencies through existing health facilities or the purchase of additional insurance for them by the agencies.

5. A sliding scale of premium for the individual would be determined by his income; indigents pay nothing, families with adequate incomes

AIR RESERVISTS GIVING SPECIAL THANKS TODAY

Men of the 349th Troop Carrier Wing, Air Force Reserve, had special reason for thanksgiving today: they've been "deactivated."

The wing, known as the Golden Gate Wing, was called to active duty Oct. 28 as President John F. Kennedy demanded that Soviet missiles be removed from Cuba. Its 1,200 Bay Area members abandoned civilian pursuits to report immediately to Hamilton Air Force Base. Some arrived before they could even be reached with official notification.

Yesterday, the word came through from Headquarters, Tactical Air Command, to return the wing to its reserve status.

Deactivation is to be completed by Nov. 30, said Brig. Gen. Rollin B. Moore Jr., wing commander. But many of the 1,200 were already off the base, granted leave for Thanksgiving Day in advance of yesterday's order because of lessening tension over Cuba.

Army Alert Is Still On In Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nuclear bomber crews shifted to normal duty after a month on special alert. Destroyers, cruisers, carriers steamed home from the blockade. Air Force reservists prepared to become civilians again.

The United States was gradually uncoiling the buildup of its armed might which at one point in the crisis had appeared on the verge of being launched against Communist Cuba.

But in the southeastern United States, Florida in particular, there was no relaxation yet.

Thousands of Army troops, including tank forces, and hundreds of fast, rocket-armed jet fighters and powerful bombers stood ready—just in case.

Radar searched the skies in the direction of Cuba and anti-aircraft missiles were poised—the Soviets still have not pulled out their IL28 jet bombers.

U.S. reconnaissance planes kept watch—the need for this surveillance underscored by the recent discovery of 25-mile range Soviet bombardment missiles the United States had not known were in Cuba.

Three Hurt In Vehicle Accidents

Two men and a woman were hurt in two separate but almost simultaneous vehicle accidents in Marin County early today.

Major injuries were suffered by Holmes S. Norville of 126 Granada Drive, Corte Madera, a tool engineer employed in Berkeley, when his pick-up truck rammed a pole and fence on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 2:35 a.m.

Norville was returning home west-bound and after crossing the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge was 500 feet east of the east gate of San Quentin Prison

Solution On Bridge Is Sought

The Mill Valley City Council last night voted to instruct city engineer Stanley M. Bala to start plans and specifications for the most economic and permanent solution to the problem of the now closed Ethel Avenue bridge.

The bridge was ordered closed Oct. 17 by council after Bala declared it unsafe.

Vote on the motion, made by Councilman Michael Wornum, was 3-1, Councilman William E. Secor voting "no" and Councilman George D. Monardo absent.

Wornum said replacement might be a retaining wall or a bridge. "In the meantime," he said. "The council must find a way to see where funds for replacement will come from." Bala estimated cost of replacement last month at $7,000.

Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks announced that the "B streets report," linked by a number of citizens to the closing of Ethel, had been received last night by council from Bala. Too voluminous to take up at the meeting, Sheeks appointed Wornum, chairman, Councilman Secor, and city manager A. E. Almcrants as a subcommittee to go over the report. They are also to study other than "B" streets and, on completion, the council may hold a special meeting on it. Meeting date is to be set Dec. 5.

Almcrants said copies of the 76-page report will be available for citizens to see at both the city hall and public library.

Forty people attended the meeting. In the audience George V. Griffets called the barricaded road a "death trap."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Nation's Traffic Deaths Mount

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths mounted steadily today in the first hours of the long Thanksgiving holiday, with 10 persons killed in two violent crashes in Texas.

The number killed in motor vehicle accidents since 6 p.m. yesterday was 48. The count will continue until midnight Sunday.

Five persons were killed in one head-on crash of two cars early today near Livingston, Tex. The dead included three 19-year-old sailors stationed at Memphis, Tenn.

Five persons were fatally injured late last night near Weslaco, Tex., in the crash of a car and an ambulance carrying five injured persons. The five, injured in a two-car crash, were being taken to a hospital in Weslaco. One of the dead was Weldon Martin Weslaco mortuary owner who was driving the ambulance.

Highway 50 Traffic To Be Detoured

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The threat of huge boulders rolling onto the highway has forced the state to detour traffic on U.S. 50's Echo Summit beginning next week.

The detour over one and a half miles of the old Meyers Grade on the old highway will begin Nov. 28 or 29, depending on weather conditions, the Division of Highways said Wednesday. The detour is now being resurfaced.

The division said it will take up to four days to remove rock from above the regular highway.

Chief U.S. Marshal Surrenders

OXFORD, Miss (UPI)—Chief U.S. Marshal James P. McShane today surrendered on a warrant returned by a local grand jury charging him with "inciting" the riots that occurred last month at the University of Mississippi.

The burly federal law officer gave himself up to Lafayette County Sheriff Joe Ford.

He was to be brought before Judge Claude Clayton later today for a hearing.

Sticky Traffic

REDDING (UPI) — It was a sticky situation any way you look at it.

It happened when a truck-trailer rig lost its load — three huge bags of plywood glue—as it turned a corner at a major intersection in the middle of town yesterday.

One of the bags broke—spreading 2,000 gallons of glue "all over everything," said the city police report.

It took the city fire department three hours to clean up the mess. The truck was taking the glue from Santa Clara to Pacific Plywood Co., Dillard, Ore.

Ike's Winter Plans

PALM DESERT (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife plan to spend another winter in the desert.

The Eisenhowers are expected to arrive the day after Christmas, a Chamber of Commerce official said, and will occupy a cottage at Eldorado Country Club.

They have spent the last two winters here.

Germans Escape

BERLIN (UPI) — More than 13,000 East Germans have fled to the west since the Communists built their Berlin wall 16 months ago, it was reported today.

Ernst Lemmer, West German minister for All-German (Soviet Zone) affairs, said in a speech 13,000 refugees fled from Aug. 13, 1961 when the wall went up to last Oct. 1.

In July, 1961, the month before the wall was built, 30,000 left East Germany.

De Gaulle Is 72

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle marked his 72nd birthday today, quietly confident his political followers will smash the communists and emerge as France's leading party in Sunday's second round of national elections.

No birthday celebration was planned, because De Gaulle does not like them. Staff members were told it was to be a day like any other day, with business as usual.

Novato Country Club Plan Told

A plan that might save Novato's Silver Hills Country Club from voluntary bankruptcy was outlined Tuesday night to member-stockholders at a meeting at Cloud Five restaurant in Novato

Douglas Hertz of San Francisco, outlined his own plan for salvaging the club from voluntary bankruptcy, said Boris N. Ivanovsky, who was chairman of the meeting.

All members present were given the outline to study, said Ivanovsky. A vote on the plan is to be taken later.

Hertz has not been retained or hired by the club, but has done this on his own, Ivanovsky said. He would not disclose details of the plan.

Hub School District How Many Years Old?

The San Anselmo School District will celebrate the anniversary of its founding next month although nobody seems to know just how old the district is.

Trustees last night set Jan. 22 as the anniversary date for the district's 100th year—or maybe its 70th year, according to which records you prefer.

"We have minutes going back to Jan. 22, 1893," said Supt. Stephen L. Parodi, "but we understand there is a report of district business in an old Marin Journal for 1863."

Mrs. Paul Talbot, a district volunteer librarian, was appointed to investigate the history of the district to determine what anniversary should be celebrated.

Travel Data Request Written In Braille

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The request for Maryland travel information came from a little blind girl in Houston, Tex., who had written her letter in Braille.

Mrs. Betty Caldwell, mailroom clerk in the State Economic Development Commission, spent all weekend learning elementary Braille so the official reply to the little girl might be dispatched in her own mode of communication.

Spare Tire Stolen

Edmond C. Kagi reported to Mill Valley police Tuesday that someone had stolen a spare tire from the trunk of his car while it was parked at his home at 92 Elinor Avenue.

College To Teach Adults In Novato

The College of Marin will start teaching adult education classes in Novato High School with the spring semester.

Dr. Stephen Epler, president of the college, said this would be the start toward a North Marin campus of the college.

The college would offer from two to six courses, depending on the demand for them, he said. These would include American history, English, geology, American institutions, psychology, and group counseling.

All except group counseling could be taken either for college credit for or for noncredit, he said.

Novato High School also offers adult evening classes.

Later Life Should Be More Attractive

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Dr. Edward Bortz, senior consultant of Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, urged that "persons in their maturity make their lives attractive to young people." He spoke at an East Tennessee Conference on Aging.

"How," he asked, "can they look forward to growing old if they don't like the senior citizens with whom they come in contact? It's worse to have hardening of the heart and the mind than of the arteries."

Makes 'Who's Who'

James Lee Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gray, 582 Virginia Drive, Tiburon, was recently selected to be included in the 1962-1963 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." Graves is a senior at Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla.

Unification Committee Postpones Meeting

Meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization to discuss the future of the West Marin School District and set a date for the study of the San Rafael and Novato School districts has been postponed from last night until Wednesday night.

Not enough members were able to attend last night, Edwin L. Blackmore, coordinator of rural education for the county schools office, said.

The committee meeting will be held after a meeting of the Marin County Augmented Committee on School District Organization, studying re-organization in the Tamalpais High School District, concludes its meeting. This begins at 8 p.m. in San Clemente School, 330 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera.

The augmented committee will hear a report from Reed School District trustees recommending formation of a separate unified school district on the Tiburon Peninsula.

New York State has the largest Negro population of any state in the nation.

Lagunitas School Funds To Be Cut

Lagunitas School District trustees learned Tuesday night that the district can expect about $10,000 less next year from state funds.

Supt. Clifford L. Frye said the reduction in state money is the result of higher property appraisals in the San Geronimo Valley. The state assumes there is more money available locally due to increased property values.

"Most of our meetings from now until next year's budget decision will be concerned with financing," Frye said. "Our needs are great, and it appears we will get less and less from state funds."

Wife Files $150,000 Damage Suit In Death Of Husband

A San Francisco housewife, whose husband was killed in a head-on accident near Alto last June, filed a $150,000 damage claim in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Angelina Barretta of 520 Victoria Street, San Francisco, and her three children filed the suit for the death of Andrew H. Barretta, 49, a water company worker.

Both drivers died in the crash on June 11, on Highway 101 south of Alto intersection. The other driver was Mrs. La Rita S. Koenig, wife of A. A. (Dutch) Koenig of San Rafael.

Mrs. Barretta is suing for $150,000 general damages and $2,000 funeral expenses from Koenig and several John Does.

Enlists In Navy

Gordon Thomas Campbell, 20, a son of Mrs. Juanita Campbell, 25 Main Drive, San Rafael, and Edward Joseph Comes, 17, a son of John Comes, 25 Washington Street, Novato, enlisted this week in the Navy's Polaris Field electronics program and were sent to San Diego for 10 weeks of basic training.

Miller's Staff Still On Federal Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The legislative assistant and the field representative of the late Rep. Clem Miller are still on the federal payroll although they have been campaigning on the West Coast for several weeks, the congressman's office said here yesterday.

William J. Duddleson, the legislative assistant, left Washington weeks before the November election and took a major part in the campaign for Miller's posthumous election. Miller was killed in an airplane accident Oct. 7.

William F. Grader, the field representative, participated actively in the campaign and now has become a candidate to succeed Miller. He was endorsed last Saturday at the First Congressional District's Democratic endorsing convention in Santa Rosa.

The last payroll of Miller's office available to newsmen here shows that Duddleson receives $1,142 per month; Grader $1,084 per month. Others on the congressional office payroll include Phyliss I. Hinman, $625; Mary Margaret Burke $497; Marjorie N. Levitan, $375; Diana Bruce Eskin, $223; Murial S. Appenzeller, $200; Delyte A. Haule, $200; Ashley Hinman, $69 and Edward R. Harris, $69.

Hub City School Parents To Be Asked About Language

Parents in the San Anselmo School District may be asked soon what they think about the district's foreign language program in upper elementary grades.

Supt. Stephen L. Parodi suggested Tuesday night to trustees that a citizen committee be set up to survey parents' opinions on which languages should be taught in which grades. "French is taught in the seventh grade now," Parodi said, "and we would like to know how the community feels about the program."

Trustees will consider formation of the committee at the next regular meeting, Dec. 18.

Also scheduled for the next meeting is consideration of coordination of the libraries in four schools and possible hiring of a professional librarian or part-time clerks.

The board adjourned to Dec. 11, when bids will be opened for removal of five old houses on the district property for the new addition at the Wade Thomas School.

Fairfax School Ride Payments Out

Fairfax School District trustees declared Tuesday night that the district will not pay for the school transportation of children who live out of the way of school bus routes.

Trustees agreed there are too many homes in Fairfax more than a mile from bus stops for the district to pay for transportation in lieu of the bus.

Mrs. Mildred Kenny of Bolinas Road asked payment to transport her children. She said the way is too steep and long for them to walk to the bus stop.

A report from the League of Women Voters on unification of schools in the Tamalpais High School District was postponed to Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in Central School.

Twin Cities Jr. High Plan Dispute

About 150 Larkspur and Corte Madera residents at Tuesday night's Larkspur School District board meeting proved about equally divided as to whether all seventh and eighth grades should be put in a new junior high-type school.

Seventh and eighth grades are now at Neil Cummins, Larkspur-Corte Madera, and Henry C. Hall schools. The district's newest school, San Clemente, runs only through sixth grade.

Some citizens opposing a separate seventh-eighth grade school feared putting about 410 of the 12-and-13-year-olds in a single school would create more juvenile delinquency. Some Larkspur residents said they would not like their children to have to go to Corte Madera to school.

Reports by principals and teachers of the district favored the single school plan.

PROMOTED—Paul T. Quarneri of 335 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, has been made assistant manager at Crocker-Anglo National Bank's Mission office in San Francisco, a promotion from operations supervisor at another office.

Date Of Thanksgiving Changed Often

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN

Associated Press Staff Writer

Anyone searching for one more blessing to count this Thanksgiving Day might consider the absence of confusion which has attended the date of the observance through the years.

Thanksgiving was observed by Americans as a day of feasting, worshiping and family reunions on dates from January to December before becoming an annual fourth Thursday in November observance.

Popular tradition assigns the origin of the observance to the Pilgrims' harvest in Plymouth, Mass., in 1621. In 1789, President George Washington proclaimed the last Thursday of November as a day of general thanksgiving.

Since then, presidents have proclaimed Thanksgiving observances using dates in eight of the 12 months.

Washington allowed five years to lapse before he issued a second proclamation for a day of thanksgiving.

Andrew Jackson refrained for the sake of separation of church and state. Zachary Taylor left the matter up to the judgment of state governors.

February was the month Washington chose for his third proclamation in 1795.

April was singled out for Thanksgiving Day by President John Adams in 1799, by Madison in 1815, and by Lincoln in 1862. Adams chose May 9 in 1798.

In 1812, President Madison picked the third Thursday in August for the holiday. September had a Thanksgiving Day proclaimed by Madison to fall on the second Thursday of the month in 1813.

Madison designated Jan. 12 as Thanksgiving Day in 1814, and said the holiday should be a time of "public humiliation and fasting and prayer in appreciation of the abundant fruits of the season and other blessings."

A woman editor, Sarah Josepha Hale, waged a forceful 25-year campaign that finally caused Thanksgiving to become a regular recurring holiday.

Sarah, as editor of Lady's Magazine, wrote in 1827:

"We have too few holidays. Thanksgiving like the Fourth of July should be a national festival observed by all our people as an exponent of our Republican institutions."

President Lincoln proclaimed an August Thanksgiving in 1862, but came back three months later with another one in November—the month in which the holiday generally has been observed since.

President Johnson, taking over the White House after Lincoln's death, delayed Thanksgiving until the first Thursday of December 1865.

General Grant, in the first year of his presidency, appointed Nov. 18 for the Thanksgiving festival, but for the rest of his term followed the Lincoln tradition of setting it on the fourth Thursday in November.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt experimented by choosing the next-to-the- last Thursday in November for the holiday. But Congress decided in 1941 that Thanksgiving should be celebrated on the fourth Thursday—and its been that way since.

JOHN NANCE GARNER
A dry climate

Cactus Jack Hearty, Hale At 94

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Crusty John Nance Garner — Cactus Jack to thousands of cronies— received best wishes from the great, the near great and just folks today on his 94th birthday.

As birthday gifts, the former vice president got two new titles—those of admiral and colonel.

A few friends arranged to drop by the old white house where Garner lives to say hello.

Scores of others across the nation, including former President Harry S. Truman and many governors, sent greetings to the spry elder statesman.

Gov. Price Daniel commissioned Garner an admiral in the Texas Navy, and Gov. Bert T. Combs made him an honorary Kentucky colonel.

From Truman came a hope that "I will be in as good shape at 94 as you are today."

Reminiscing about his 46 years in public office, Garner said "I understand what it means to have the confidence" of the people.

"I'm proud of one record I set. I was speaker of the House at noon one day and vice president—presiding officer of the Senate—that same afternoon," he said.

After leaving the Texas Legislature he served 30 years in the House of Representatives, then won election as vice president:

Garner begins his 95th year in a house built in 1879 as servant quarters for the Garner mansion. Along with much of his fortune he has given the mansion away. It is now a city museum.

It was 72 years ago when he came to Uvalde to die. He was born in Texas' Red River County in 1868, three years after and he sought a dry climate when he learned he had tuberculosis.

Writer Of Worthless Checks Due Sentence

An unemployed salesman from Southern California, who wrote two worthless checks to buy a Cadillac and a Sprite in Marin last month, will be sentenced on Dec. 10.

He is Gerald Douglas Farrand, 34, who posed as "Capt. Edward Wynn" of the Air Force to buy one car from a San Anselmo man and another from a San Rafael auto firm.

Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. of Marin Superior Court yesterday found Farrand guilty of felony check passing after a court trial. The judge set 11:45 a.m. Dec. 10 as the time for a probation report and sentencing.

Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo arrested Farrand on Oct. 25.

Marin Bay Homes Off On Flying Start

A helicopter will land on the roof of a new home in Marin Bay at 10 a.m. tomorrow to introduce an "open house" tour.

Two hillside homes in the development, near Peacock Gap golf course, will be opened to the public for a tour to benefit Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Dante Bagnani, president of MARC, will land by 'copter on the steel-supported roof of the Harrison House. After the tour, the helicopter will take McCarthy to San Francisco Airport to catch a plane for Southern California.

The Harrison House, designed by architect David Thorne, is a steel-frame structure sponsored by Bethlehem Steel Co. and named for the company's late chief executive on the Pacific Coast.

Also to be open for inspection will be the Hanging Garden house designed by Richard Zahn and sponsored by the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn.

Front Windows Broken By Rocks

Rocks last night smashed plate glass front windows at the San Rafael homes of Clifford Bartlett, 19 Olive Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Mario Ferrario, 235 Belle Avenue, police said.

Bartlett told officers he heard a noise like a gunshot just before the rock smashed his window. Then he heard a car speeding away.

A few minutes later a rock crashed through the window of the Ferrario home, missing Mrs. Ferrario by inches and spraying her with glass fragments.

Roofer Falls 30 Feet, Breaks Arm

A Santa Venetia roofer fell 30 feet from the roof of the new Novato High School gymnasium Tuesday, suffering a broken left arm and other injuries.

Robert L. Johnson of 30 Vendola Drive was reported in fair condition today at Novato Hospital, where attendants said results of X-ray examination were not complete.

Hub Uncovers Shoplift Ring

San Anselmo police have broken a shoplifting ring of at least 10 teen-age girls and have recovered an estimated $500 worth of clothing stolen from Marin County stores, Chief Raymond Buchignani said today.

Patrolman Chester Orr, the department's juvenile officer, has traced stolen clothing to at least a dozen stores. Buchignani said it is not known yet for how long the girls have been stealing the goods.

The girls, ranging in age from 14 to 16, were not in custody today but will be issued juvenile citations. Orr is still investigating and expects to recover more stolen goods.

Marin Unions Defer Congress Endorsement

Marin County unionized labor has deferred endorsement of any candidate in the special Jan. 22 First Congressional District election after lengthy discussion of the present situation, according to an announcement by the Marin County Labor Council.

Its committee on political decisions decided to await a session of the equivalent body covering the whole congressional district, due to convene the first weekend in December.

100 per cent of the cost of the insurance.

6. With maximum participation, it would be possible to keep the premium at the lowest possible rate.

7. All premiums paid would be deductible for income tax purposes.

The plan envisions individual selection of his own insurance plan from approved private, competitive insurance companies; federal reimbursement to state governments on a matching basis; tax money should come from general funds, although studies of the plan in operation may point the way to other tax sources; local medical review committees would insure high quality medical care; regional boards would act to set the economic values of medical services provided in their own areas; federal aid to states would be determined on basis of need.

It is the hope of the Marin medics that such a program would eventually completely eliminate the numerous and overlapping categorical aid programs such as aid to the blind, to needy children, welfare medical aid, and the like.

There would be no "charity" patients for doctors would not know whether the patient paid all his premium himself or whether the government paid it for him.

The plan was organized by a committee of the Marin Medical Society headed by President Joseph J. Arons. It was presented to the CMA Council by Dr. Arthur R. Ablin.

Other members of the society who made up the committee are Drs. C. Ray Leininger, Calvin Plumhof, William A. Galeno, Warren L. Bostick, who as a delegate to the AMA may have some say on its eventual adoption, Duval B. Jaros, Robert L. Mills and Robert F. Schell.

At least one portion of this program is being considered in Marin County at present. The Board of Supervisors is conferring with the California Physicians Service on possibility of putting all types of categorical aids provided by the county under one insurance policy.

when he evidently attempted to take a curve too fast.

His truck skidded 21 feet to the left road shoulder, struck a power pole glancingly and rammed along 36 feet of fence with a pipe top which virtually scraped the cab off the vehicle and inflicted extensive face cuts and bone fractures on the driver.

Frederick Swain of 26 Chevy Chase Court, Larkspur, drove by a few minutes later and saw the truck balanced precariously with only the damaged fence holding it from a steep bank.

Norville stumbled out saying "I goofed on the curve."

The California Highway Patrol took Norville to the Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco where his condition was fair this morning.

Two cars leaving the northbound Highway 101 connector ramp for San Pedro Road collided at the foot of the ramp at 2:15 a.m. The patrol said preliminary investigation indicated that a sedan driven by Harry E. Finnerty of 401 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, struck another sedan driven by Harold F. Potter of 7 Hacienda Court, San Rafael.

Potter and a passenger, Jeannette Trenchard of 99 Octavia Street, San Rafael, suffered minor cuts and bruises but both declined hospitalization.

Riot In Africa

PAARL, South Africa (UPI) — A vengeance riot by more than 100 African natives wielding cane-handled machetes killed seven persons and turned this showpiece wine-growing center into an armed camp today.

The natives stormed into the city late last night, hacked to death two young Europeans, stoned business establishments and surrounded the police station in a night of terror which ended when police gunfire killed five demonstrators.

The mob sought to free seven natives jailed for a wave of machete murders in their territory over the past eight months, police commission spokesman said.

Rene Coty Dies

LE HAVRE, France (AP) — Rene Coty, former president of France, died last night of heart complications following an attack of the flu. He was 80.

Coty served as president of the French Republic from December 1953 until January 1959, when he was succeeded by Charles de Gaulle.

Coty was the last president of the Fourth Republic and was instrumental in bringing De Gaulle back to power after the May 1958 uprising of Europeans in Algiers.

Under the Fourth Republic, the post of president was largely honorary.

Coty, born in this channel port city, was a lawyer before he entered public life and became a deputy in the National Assembly in 1923. He was a minister of reconstruction and urbane affairs in three governments in 1947 and 1948.

One Convict In Slaying Due Trial

One of two San Quentin convicts convicted of a Dec. 12 prison slaying will get a new trial, but the second man lost his plea and faces death in the gas chamber.

Alfred J. Jimenez, 25, Los Angeles robber, got another chance yesterday when Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court granted a new trial. Robert B. Dorado, 26, a Los Angeles drug offender, was denied a new trial.

On Oct. 2, a jury found both men guilty. Jiminez was convicted of first degree murder. Dorado was found guilty of fatal assault by a life termer, which means automatic death.

Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarion contended that the two had killed Abel A. Neveraz, 26, a Los Angeles drug offender.

Yesterday, Howard K. Morehouse and David J. Costamagna, pleaded for a new trial for Jimenez, arguing that the evidence was not sufficient to convict Jimenez of first degree murder. The lawyers contended that an alleged "confession" by Dorado was introduced into evidence by prosecutor Vallarino. No confession of any kind was made by Jimenez, but the jury would have been influenced by Dorado's "confession," the defense lawyers contended.

Both men are scheduled to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday morning. A new trial date will be set for Jimenez, and Dorado will be sentenced at that time.

Cash Balance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State controller Alan Cranston today said the state general fund held a cash balance of $12,900,061 at the end of the first four months of the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Cranston said the cash balance at the same time last year totaled only $3,027,056.

General fund revenues through October totaled $476,154,270, an increase of 15 per cent. Government expenditures amounted to $603,494,488, up 11 per cent.

State sales taxes accounted for most of the income, totaling $234,389,012 during the period, an increase of 7.25 per cent.

Pastor, Friend Found

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. Daniels, pastor of the Christal Farms Baptist church in Tatum, Tex., disappeared Nov. 2. He was found yesterday in Wichita where he had been living since Nov. 3 with Flora Jean Cole, 16, of Tatum.

A former honor student at Tatum High School, Flora Jean had been the lead singer in the choir at Daniels' church.

Daniels, 27, was arrested on a Texas charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He waived extradition. Officials said Daniels had been married four months at the time of his disappearance.

Daniels has been working as clerk in a liquor wholesale house since Nov. 9.

The accident occurred when one train ran into the rear of another on the section between Victoria Railway Station and the St. James's Park subway station. The scene is within a few blocks of Buckingham Palace and the houses of parliament.

Blast Kills Brothers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A 55-foot fish boat carrying five tons of dynamite for a seismological survey operation blew up in Cook Inlet late Tuesday and two brothers were "blown to smithereens."

Dead were Robert and Allen Roehl, Homer, Alaska. They were setting dynamite charges from the vessel Ketovia, under charter by the United Geophysical Corp. of Pasadena.

An eyewitness said that apparently the brothers got their signals mixed and set off a charge prematurely as it was just beyond the berth of the vessel.

"They must have been blown to smithereens," the eyewitness said.

Chavez Buried

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)— Sen. Dennis Chavez, was buried yesterday following services attended by thousands of persons whose votes kept him in Congress for more than a quarter of a century. He was 74.

The Democratic senator died Sunday at Washington of a heart attack after a long battle with cancer.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, one among many national dignitaries at graveside, called Chavez "the champion of the least among us."

"Sen. Chavez was concerned with unity of the hemisphere, and he became the outstanding spokesman for unity and progress in the Western Hemisphere," Johnson said.

Cubans Indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three Cubans were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for conspiring to sabotage U.S. defense installations. Mill Valley Treasurer Gets Secretary Fund

Mill Valley city treasurer William G. Rutherford was allocated $50 per month for the remainder of fiscal 1962-63 by city council last night for secretarial help. The money is to be disbursed by city manager A. E. Almcrants.

Additional funds requested from time to time above Rutherford's $300-a-month salary have long been a thorny problem to the council, and the new request was argued back and forth. Councilman George Blackwell suggested the $50 be given to finance director Thomas T. Behnke and that his department handle necessary secretarial help for Rutherford.

Alcrants said all three men in the finance department have full time jobs and were too busy to take the added task, and the council voted 4-0, Councilman George D. Monardo absent.

The council also:

1. Heard second and final reading on an ordinance changing zoning in Enchanted Knolls IV from 10,000 to 15,000 square foot per unit as a minimum.

2. Approved the 1962-63 capital improvement program of $151,800.

3. Authorized a raise in salary from $450 to $550 per month to City Atty. Leland H. Jordan and commended him on doing "an outstanding job."

4. Voted to up sewer connection fees in the city from $100 to $175 and out of city from $800 to $875.

5. Extended many happy returns to Councilman William E. Secor who celebrated his 36th birthday yesterday.

6. Referred to planning commission and Jordan a proposal for acquisition of Ezekiel property, adjacent to city hall on the north, the property being offered for sale at $50,000.

7. Set Jan. 2 for a hearing to amend master plan relating to riding and hiking trails.

8. Decided to leave the membership of parks and recreation commission at seven instead of reducing it to five.

9. Adopted a resolution authorizing a stop sign on Evergreen Avenue at Miller Avenue.

10. Continued to Dec. 5, pending further revision of map by the boundary commission, a request from Doud-Oehler interests to annex 79 acres to the city after hearing that Marin Municipal Water District alleges to own one-half of Fern Canyon Road, thus taking that portion off the annexation.

Sanitary Boundary

Boundaries of a minor annexation to Novato Sanitary District were confirmed at a meeting of the Marin County Boundary Commission yesterday. The area to be annexed is off Tamalpais Avenue. It is to be used for a rest home operated by Lydia Yanke.

Car Hits Stairs

Carl Questell Thielman, 51, of 98 La Brea Way, San Rafael, was held overnight for observation at San Rafael General Hospital after his car hit the stairway of a house at 1447-B Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael. Thielman suffered minor contusions of the face and chest.

Houseboat Fire

A houseboat at Waldo Point near Sausalito was reportedly destroyed by fire early today. The Marin County Fire Department said the ark was unoccupied at the time, but no details on the fire were available this morning.

SEEING CITY AT WORK — Mike Dillon (left), a Coro Foundation intern who is spending three weeks observing San Rafael city departments in action, studies an assessment map for the Bret Harte drainage district with W. C. Cornwell, deputy city clerk.

Coro Foundation Intern Finds San Rafael Government Unique

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

A nine-month field trip in public affairs may reshape the career of Mike Dillon, 23-year-old Coro Foundation intern who is in the middle of a three-week study of San Rafael city government.

Dillon, a business administration graduate from Chico State College, had planned to go into business management. Since starting his tour with Coro, however, Dillon has taken an interest in city management or possibly elective public office.

His purpose in coming to the city hall every day is not to learn the work that city employees do, but to watch how they operate in their jobs and with each other, and why.

"San Rafael has a unique form of city government, with the elective offices—which it appears may be changed," said Dillon.

"It's informal; there's a closeness among the departments, and good coordination."

Coro students must be ready for new assignments at any time. They receive these from the foundation staff by mail. On Monday, for example, Dillon and other Coro interns held a discussion in San Francisco on the feasibility of a borough system of government for Marin County.

Since beginning his internship in September, Dillon has spent time with the State Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco, taken a brief tour of State administrative offices in Sacramento and helped in a political campaign.

Although it is non-partisan, Coro considers party political activity good experience for the students. Dillon helped campaign for Assemblyman Phil Burton of the 20th District. (Burton was re-elected.)

Non-profit Coro, which each year divides 24 interns equally between the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas, is devoted to development of responsible future public leaders by helping them to learn better moral and ethical principles of politics, Dillon said.

More than 60 per cent of Coro graduates are in professional public affairs in either elected or appointed positions, according to Dillon. He said that Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Gatov, former U. S. treasurer, is a 1952 Coro graduate.

Dillon comes from Napa and now lives in San Francisco, commuting to San Rafael each day. For the rest of his internship he will be on the move much of the time. He expects next to observe community organizations, then communications media (newspapers, radio, television), the state legislature in session, business management and labor unions.

The students also will engage in a special study project, the nature of which Coro purposely does not disclose very far in advance because this might tend to prejudice the students' thinking.

Coro interns, who are selected from among the more active and promising college graduates, receive scholarships of from $2,250 to $2,750, depending on their marital status.

The program is financed by private contributions from individuals, business, labor and by foundation grants, all of which are administered under a non-profit trust.

Warning Systems To Be Installed At Novato Schools

Novato Unified School District trustees Tuesday night voted to install a bell and light disaster warning system of a type approved by the Federal Office of Civil Defense in schools throughout the district.

The trustees also voted to install a central switchboard at the administration building to handle incoming telephone calls for all schools in the district.

The alert system will cost $125 to install and $5.25 per month to operate, Supt. James Bunker said. Half of this is reimbursable by civil defense.

The trustees adopted a handbook of job regulations and definitions for non-teaching employees.

The teamsters union was denied permission to hold a business meeting in a school building. District policy is against use of school buildings for meetings not open to the public, trustees said.

Mrs. Diane Farley, third grade teacher at Rancho School, was granted maternity leave.

County Makes Good With Deal In Steel

TUCSON, Ariz (AP)—The Pima County Board of Supervisors was offered a real deal when Mrs. Lucy Palermo said she'd sell them 5,000 pounds of steel for just $600.

Mrs. Palermo bought the steel for $100 when the county auctioned it for unpaid taxes.

NEW POST—Perry T. Joy of Larkspur, assistant manager of the California Bankers Assn., has been elected 1963 president of the California Society of Association Executives. Election was at a meeting in San Francisco.

Associated Builders Director Is Named

Ruben Kaehler, San Rafael contractor, is the new Marin member of the board of directors of the Associated Home Builders.

He was elected Tuesday night at the annual meeting at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club.

Re-elected to the board were William Parnow, San Rafael; John L. Novak, Novato, and George Goheen, Mill Valley.

Wadi Halfa, Sudan, had no rain for 19 years.

Second Yule Essay Contest Is Slated

The Sausalito Chamber of Commerce has announced its second essay contest for school children in the Sausalito School District. Subject of the essay will be: "The Best Christmas I Remember."

Details will be given out by the schools Dec. 7, said Victor E. Hecht, chamber executive secretary. Students from 15 classrooms will have from Dec. 10 to 17 to submit essays of 50 to 100 words. Prizes will be awarded.

The board decided to request the city council to postpone its Nov. 27 public hearing on the proposed new sign ordinance, saying merchants, busy with the holidays, would not have time to study the ordinance nor attend the hearing.

For the first time in this century, the U.S. is growing more wood than is being removed from the forests by harvests, insects, disease and fire combined.

Bank Draft No Breeze

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—A businessman instructed his secretary to write a letter to a South American branch, explaning a bank draft was being inclosed.

The secretary then was to translate the letter to Spanish.

She looked up the Spanish word for draft and got "corriente de aire," or a breeze. The letter came back from South America, asking for a clarification.

Two Mill Valley Boys Find 'Enchanted' Pile Of Money

Enchanted Point proved to be most enchanting for two Mill Valley boys when they stumbled onto a heap of nickels, dimes and quarters there Monday afternoon. Their treasure: $44.30.

The boys, Michael Davi, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Davi of 100 Longfellow Road, and Craig McCauley, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. McCauley of 149 Shelley Drive, spent an hour picking up the money, which had been scattered by a bulldozer, then took it to Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich in paper bags.

They told Terzich the money had apparently been buried, and the bulldozer unearthed it.

"Boy! Were they excited," said Davi's dad.

Terzich said the money will be held, and if no claimant appears, will be given to the boys.

The first Southwest passage was navigated by Ferdinand Magellan in 1519-1521.

Builder Is Trying To Muffle Noise

NEW YORK (UPI)—Amid the clatter of New York's billion-dollar construction boom, there is one builder trying to muffle the noise.

Fisher Brothers, now putting up a 40-story office building here, has replaced rivet guns with high tension bolts and has padded the slides of the dirt chutes with plywood and foam rubber.

Armed Truce

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Mrs. Carl Borrensen has three pets in the house — a cat, dog, and a squirrel, all keeping their distance from each other.

At least 16 Italian towns regard Columbus as a native son. Spain, Portugal, France and Corsica also claim him.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

By HARRY CRAFT

Way To Dress Up Block Walls: Artistically Designed Mosaics

A new way to dress up the monotony of haydite block walls with mosaic work is the recently adopted business pursuit of Wayne Rawlings of Bayside Acres. Mrs. Nellie A. Rucker of Kentfield is collaborating with him—she does the art work.

Mrs. Rucker sketches in the design; Rawlings applies brownstone aggregate to sand finished haydite with the same type of mastic used to fasten raised traffic markers on surfaced streets and roads.

You can see a display of the work at McNear's haydite and brickyard offices on Point San Pedro Road, but after this week it will be removed to Salinas for installation at the Los Padres High School—their first large scale job.

MORE NEW HOMES OPEN. Recently completed and placed on the market are the Loma Verde homes of Paul W. Trousdale and Associates near the Marin Golf and Country Club. These are on property separate from that which was sold to the Seabreeze Construction Co.

Homes offer three and four bedrooms with two baths, family rooms, large glass areas, outdoor patios—also wall to wall nylon carpeting and all-electric built-in kitchens.

Turn off the Redwood Highway at the Marin Golf and Country Club entrance in Ignacio and follow the directional signs.

NEW CAR SALES in October—728,700—were the highest ever recorded for one month and exceeded output by 30,000. The surge has caused some auto industry analysts who predicted a decline in 1963 to reappraise their estimates.

The month was supposed to have run its course about Oct. 20, but continued heavy sales in the final third shoof forecasts off balance. Orders are still running at a higher rate than expected. On the strength of this, some manufacturers have increased their planned outputs for November and December.

There are still forecasters, however, who believe that the steeper the sales incline, the faster they can roll downhill next year—and require downshifting into low gear.

Strawberry Park Unit Won't Buy Adjoining House

Strawberry Recreation District directors decided Tuesday night not to purchase a three-bedroom house adjoining Strawberry Park on 100 Belvedere Drive, deeming the cost of $15,500 too high.

The State of California had given the district first chance, prior to public auction, to purchase the building and its 5,600-square foot lot. The board had considered it might use the house to hold small community meetings and for equipment storage.

Directors learned the district has been placed on the list for a surplus aircraft by the Alameda Naval Air Station. The plane is to be used at Strawberry Park for youngsters.

A total figure of $59,122 was accepted as cost of the swim facility. Of this, according to secretary Patricia M. Gowen, $1,323 covers other than actual pool costs.

Bombed Out Churches Get New Windows

By DON McKEE

CONYERS, Ga. (AP) — Silent monks, garb and ritual little changed in centuries, have extended brotherly kindness across their monastery walls to span one of the widest gaps in Christendom.

Cistercian monks at a nearby monastery, 25 miles from Atlanta, decided to make stained glass windows for the rebuilding of two Negro Protestant churches burned last summer by arsonists in south Georgia.

The decision by the cloistered monastic community was made before the convening in Rome of the Catholic Ecumenical Council to discuss Christian unity.

"We didn't like what happened and we wanted to make some gesture — not just as Catholics—for this is our part of the country now," said Father Charles, 45, a World War II veteran who left a journalistic career to enter the monastery.

Although they don't get newspapers and only a few are permitted to speak, the monks learned of the church burnings which came as a climax to prolonged racial troubles in Albany, Ga.

"When we heard about this, a number of us felt there should be some kind of expression from us as members of the same community," Father Charles said.

"Our love of our neighbors is very deep rooted," he said.

"And, you see, we took a vow of stability—that is, we will stay here until we die. So we feel very much a part of this area."

The church windows, which haven't been started yet pending completion of architectural design for the church building, will be tediously and meticulously put together in the glass shop of the monastery.

In the glass shop Father Charles pointed to inch-thick pieces of colored glass which the monks will cut and chisel into artistic designs. The windows will go to Mount Mary and Mount Olive Baptist churches near Dawson.

Hundreds of persons from over the country visit the monastery every month. It was completed only three years ago and an open house attracted 70,000 to 100,000 visitors, mostly from the surrounding area.

It wasn't that way when the first 21 monks set up temporary quarters 14 years ago in a huge barn—with the cows on the ground floor — on the 2,000-acre farm that was bought by the religious order.

"When we first came there was actually a grand jury investigation," laughed Father Charles. "Each monk was asked if he was being held against his wishes."

Residents of the area have accepted the monks now and are mostly friendly, Father Charles said.

He Looks In Volcano, Sees Gentle Rain

By JERRY BUCK

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Louis D. Rubin is probably the only man in the world who can look at a fire-spitting volcano and think of a gentle rain or a swirling snowstorm.

To Rubin the awesome energy generated by the more than 500 active volcanoes on earth acts merely as a thermostat to regulate the world's weather.

An eruption on some lonely volcanic isle sets up a chain of events, according to this 67-year-old amateur, that eventually brings snow or rain or cool weather to temperate zones 10,000 miles away.

Rubin theorizes these volcanoes spew ash into the upper atmosphere where it spreads out into invisible continent-size clouds that soak up a fraction of the sun's radiation. This causes the air beneath the clouds to cool and create periods of "unsual weather."

With only limited education and some dreafully complicated calculations he charts the course of the clouds and predicts their locations months ahead of time.

What lifts Rubin and his theory from the thunder machine category is that he publishes his predictions in newspapers far ahead of time—and hits them with an accuracy that both puzzles and irritates professional forecasters.

The professionals and Rubin do agree on one thing: Last winter was an unusually severe one and this winter will likely follow the same pattern.

But there he parts company with the experts. Rubin puts the blame squarely on the 60 days of volcanic eruptions that forced the evacuation of the Isle of Tristan da Cunha in the South Atlantic Ocean.

These eruptions, he says, caused the heavy snows last winter and the Ash Wednesday Atlantic coast storm—which he pinpointed to the day months ahead.

A Japanese eruption in July 1953 brought—as predicted at the time by Rubin—severe cold weather that dumped 15 inches of snow on New York City and seven inches on Richmond.

When an Indonesian volcano erupted on Oct. 29, 1953, Rubin figured the East Coast would have unusual weather on April 1. As an April Fool's gag Richmond had four inches of snow and a severe cold wave staggered the Atlantic seaboard.

Rubin figures the volcanic clouds circle the earth from west to east at speeds between 1,000 and 2,000 miles a month. As they circle they also gradually move toward the north pole.

By calculating when the cloud will be over the East Coast Rubin picks his dates of unusual weather. He gives himself a leeway of 12 hours either way and makes no attempt to say just what this unusual weather will be. It could be rain or snow or a thunderstorm or just a few degrees drop in temperature.

If, as happens with about one out of every eight predictions, the sun shines brightly, he offers no apology. He says his theory could be wrong, but adds he has hit 85 per cent of his predictions over a 10-year period, so he doubts it.

Rubin has been the Cumulo-Nemesis of the Weather Bureau since he first expounded his volcano theory 10 years ago. Forecasters scoff at his predictions but admit volcanoes may effect the weather in some way yet unknown to man.

In another field of weather, however, he is an undisputed authority. His "International Cloud Chart" is reputed to be the only compilation of colored photographs of clouds in existence.

The cloud chart is published in five languages around the world and in this country is used by the U. S. Coast Guard and Navy and various state aviation agencies.

Rubin, who left school in his native Charleston, S.C., while only 13, began his study of the weather in 1931 when he was partially paralyzed. He had nothing to do, he says, but look out the window at the sky.

His casual observations turned into a full-time hobby.

False Vocal Cords Sometimes Get Mixed Up With True In Throat

NEW YORK (UPI) — In addition to true vocal cords there are false ones in every human throat, and when the false gets mixed up with the true it can only cause trouble as in other fields of activity.

Medical science has had its attention called to this fact by Dr. Herbert L. Fred of Baylor University, Houston, Tex. The trouble is a persistent hoarseness which can be mistaken for laryngitis.

Physicians make this mistake often, he said. It is easy to make. He told of one man who had been speaking with his false cords for 20 years and had been hoarse all that time.

The false cords are actually the "ventricular bands" of the throat. They're bands of elastic connective tissue intermingled with a few muscle fibers.

The act of speaking bring them toward one another while it is bringing the true cords together in front of the amplifying sound box, the larynx.

If these bands should come together, they'll vibrate and give off sounds for the larynx to send forth. In this way they can take over from the true vocal cords. When they do the results can be voice-cracking and occasional momentary inability to form words, in addition to hoarseness.

Fred noted that this unhappy condition has been recognized from time to time. It even has a name — "dysphonia plicae ventricularis."

In most cases, he continued in reporting to a technical organ of the American Medical Assn., the cause of this strange switch from the true to the false is unknown.

There must be psychological things at work which permit some people to learn to use these bands to form their words rather than using the cords designed for that purpose, he said. What these are is unknown.

He lumped them under the term, "psychologic stress." Abuse of the voice could do it, too—too much talking at too high a pitch without pause for vocal-cord rest. And a co-existing disorder of the larynx could cause some cases.

He urged physicians to find out if the false was being used for the true when ever they look down the throat of a hoarse person. It can be done with that familiar mirroring medical instrument called the laryngoscope.

With the instrument in place, you have the hoarse person say, E-E-E-E-E-E. Then you can see the false cords come together while the true cords do not meet. In normal speaking it works the other way.

To return the person to the true way of speaking from the false, voice rest may be enough, he said. Retraining in speaking techniques often helps.

HERO WORSHIPPED—Young baseball fans surround Mickey Mantle, named as the 1962 Most Valuable Player in the American League, at a dinner Tuesday in Chelsea, Okla. The dinner honored Mantle's New York Yankee teammate Ralph Terry, a native of Chelsea, but Mantle, who is from Commerce, Okla., not far away, got plenty of attention from the youngsters seeking autographs. He was still just a bystander at the dinner, though, as Terry drew praise and gifts. Mantle called Most Valuable selection the biggest thrill of the three such awards he's won. (AP Wirephoto)

Major Bowl Grid Games Are Virtually Signed And Sealed

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Jan. 1 bowl program is virtually signed, sealed and delivered today in most quarters and, pending official announcements, it shapes up like this:

Rose Bowl—Southern Cal vs. Wisconsin.

Sugar Bowl—Mississippi vs. Arkansas.

Cotton Bowl— Texas vs. L.S.U.

Orange Bowl — Alabama vs. Oklahoma.

The usual routine is to wait until the teams have completed their regular schedules, but this time it has been settled earlier than usual and no less than three of the teams involved in these major contests already have done everything but bank the money.

These eight teams all are in the U.P.I. board of coaches ratings of the nation's top 10 teams. The two who miss the gravy boat are Minnesota, ranked fifth in the UPI rankings, and Penn State, which is rated ninth.

NO RETURN

Minnesota, even if it should win the Western Conference crown, is phecluded from competing in the Rose Bowl because it played there last year, and Big 10 regulations prohibit a team from going two consecutive years.

But Penn State may not have finished out of the money yet.

Officials of the Gotham bowl, to be played in New York's Yankee Stadium on Dec. 15, list Penn State as one of seven teams still under consideration.

Others being eyed for this game are Miami, Oregon, Oregon State, Georgia Tech, Nebraska and Missouri.

BIG GUARANTEE

"We will guarantee each team $100,000," said Gotham Bowl director Bob Curran today.

Nor are the Gotham Bowl promoters dismayed by the fact that Saturday's Army-Pittsburgh contest, even with the hypo of a Cadet corp parade, drew only 23,917 spectators. Or that the game last year, between Baylor and Utah State, attracted a mere 15,000 fans.

"This is for the March of Dimes and will be an all-out effort," Curran said. "A lot of people stayed away from Army-Pittsburgh on the theory that tickets couldn't be had."

Curran would not speculate on what two teams might finally be selected or accept, but there was a feeling that the Gotham Bowl might prefer Penn State vs. Miami.

Meanwhile, the four big New Year's day attractions all looked like winners.

Southern Cal, unbeaten in eight games and ranked first nationally, will face a tartar in Wisconsin, which lost only to Ohio State in eight appearances and is ranked third nationally by the UPI. USC still meets UCLA and Notre Dame while Wisconsin faces Minnesota.

Mississippi, unbeaten in eight and yet to face Mississippi State, is ranked second nationally. Arkansas is rated seventh and takes an 8-1 mark into its finale against Texas Tech.

Texas, tied only by Rice in nine games, is ranked fourth and has only the Texas Aggies left. LSU, rated eighth, is 7-1-1 and can pad that against Tulane in its closing contest.

Alabama, which by one point sustained its only loss in nine games, engages Auburn before it announces its Orange Bowl appearance. The sixth-ranked Tide will get all it can handle from Oklahoma. The 10th ranked Sooners face a chore against Nebraska and then Oklahoma State, but their current 6-2 mark is deceiving. They've won five in a row and pitched four shutouts.

All in all, every game shapes up as a winner.

Cal-Stanford Game Always A Thriller

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Shucks, it seems like only yesterday that a couple of fellows forgot to bring the football to the first "Big Game" and the hostilities between Stanford and California were delayed.

But that was way back in 1892 and since then a lot of water, plus 64 football games, have passed down memory lane.

There have been a lot of thrills in college football but possibly none in the West to compare with the chill that goes down the spine when the huge rooting sections from either school lets loose with that "give 'em the axe" yell. It stuns visitors, shocks the innocent—and inspires the men on the field.

The "Big Game" used to be a chummy little affair featuring the two largest universities in the West. In the early days, the crowds ran from 10,000 to 27,000.

But in 1921 Stanford completed its stadium and for that year and the next the game was played there before 60,000 fans—the limit at the time.

In 1923 Cal finished its big memorial stadium and for the next two years the games were played there before crowds of 73,000 and 77,000. The two schools kept enlarging their stadia until by 1937 they were playing to 90,000 in Stanford stadium and by 1938 there were 82,000 in the California Memorial Stadium.

That has been cut back at Cal now to about 76,000—but it's always a sellout, even when the teams are mediocre, as they are this year beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Since the completion of the two stadiums the average attendance has been 77,000 per game. Through the long history, the attendance has been 3,451,000—and that's enough to pay quite a few doctor's bills.

When old grads get together they talk about the time Jackie Jensen tossed a 100-yard pass (actually it was a 15-yarder to Paul Keckley, who ran 65 yards more) in the 1947 Cal victory; or the year Stanford walloped California 41-0 (1930) just three eyars before the "Vow Boys" came to Stanford and whipped the Old Blues three times in a row.

But actually, scoring has been light in this classic. California has averaged only 12.4 points per tilt against 11.6 for the Indians. And California has been shut out nine times, Stanford 14 times.

However, it's a thriller-diller from the opening whistle.

MANTLE ALL SQUARE WITH MARIS NOW

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — This was last summer and Bob Scheffing, manager of the Detroit Tigers, sat in the dugout at Yankee Stadium discussing the most valuable player award.

"Give me the guy who hits only 30 home runs but goes for the good high average and plays consistently," said Scheffing. "That's why I thought Mickey Mantle deserved the award over Roger Maris."

Well, Mantle is all square today with his third most valuable player award.

Almost traditionally, the award goes to a member of the pennant winner, although this is not truly binding. And there was a feeling in baseball quarters that this time it would go to Bobby Richardson, the little second baseman who made the final putout in the Yankee World Series triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

YANK SPARKPLUG

Richardson was a sparkplug and a workhorse for the Yankees this season. He played in 161 games and hit a consistent .302 with a great deal of his production in what baseball buffs call "the clutch," meaning when it counted most.

But now you have to go back to what Ralph Kiner observed when he was chided once about his depressing batting average during the era in which he was clouting clusters of home runs for the Pirates.

"I don't worry about the average too much," he observed. "It's the home run hitters who ride in Cadillacs."

BIG AVERAGE

A combination of that—plus the big average—gave Mantle the payoff.

He appeared in only 123 games but hit 30 home runs while maintaining a .321 average that was only five points below that with which Pete Runnels of Boston won the league batting championship.

Roger Maris captured the M.V.P. the last two years despite averages of .283 and .269 respectively. In 1960 he led the league with 112 runs batted in and 39 homers. That beat Mantle out on his 94 runs batted in and 40 homers because of Mantle's lowly .275 average.

HOMER BINGE

Maris took it last year because of that 61 homer binge, even though Mantle tied him in runs scored, hit only seven less homers and had an average 48 points higher than that of Maris. There was slight doubt that Maris was the M.V.P. at the box office, anyhow, in those last weeks.

This time around, Maris didn't get a single vote although he played in 34 more games than Mantle, delivered three more home runs and drove in 11 more runs. His .256 average, which was 65 points below Mantle, had to cost him his third award in a row.

"Personally," Mantle observed at season's end when the M.V.P. award was mentioned, "I think Richardson should get it."

In the final analysis, Scheffing—and Kiner—had the answers.

Cal To Seal Doom For Curtice; New Champ In Apostoli Family

With the annual "Prep Panic" coming to a screaching halt with the playing of this morning's final games, we can now turn our attention to somewhat bigger game coming up this weekend—THE Big Game over at Berkeley, Cal vs. Stanford.

Past records would indicate a Stanford victory, but we think Cal's Marv Levy, Craig Morton & Co. will come up with an upset and certify Jack Curtice's death warrant as coach down on the Farm. Let's pick the Bears by 2 points.

Our season record to date is 93 right and 28 wrong, a fair-to-middlin' .769 average.

In other big college games along the coast, here's how we pick'em:

USC over UCLA by 13 and another big step for the great Trojan machine toward the national championship and the Rose Bowl.

Washington over Washington State by 13 as the Huskies continue to come back strong from their loss to USC.

Oregon State over Oregon by 2 in a great individual duel between State's Terry Baker and the Webfoots' Mel Renfro.

On the pro scene, the 49ers should make it two in a row by beating St. Louis by 10 while those poor rag-a-muffin Oakland Raiders should lose their umpteenth straight, this time to the Dallas Texans.

AFTER LIVING in the shadow of his mother's and father's sports accomplishments all his life, 24-year-old Frank Apostoli finally came home a winner last weekend with a glittering trophy to show mom and pop.

Frank won the Berkeley Aquatic Park's speedboat races Sunday in a Rayson-type, Chrysler-powered craft. His average of 84.50 m.p.h. led all competition in the 80-85 m.p.h. class.

Frank's dad is Freddie Apostoli, the former middleweight champion of the world. His mom is Yolanda Apostoli who has won more golf tournaments than you can shake a putter at. Yo once fired a 69 at Peacock Gap. And anyway you look at it 69 is quite a round.

A HAPPY Thanksgiving to all of you. And, you can eat all the white meat, mother, because father's coming home after dark.

Warriors Lose; Wilt Misses Free Throws

The old Wilt Chamberlain bugaboo of missed free throws has the San Francisco Warriors 1½ games off the pace in the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division.

Chamberlain poured in 61 points last night but he missed eight of 15 free throw attempts and the Warriors lost to Cincinnati 143-139 in San Francisco.

The loss in the opener of a six-game home stand left the Warriors 8-8, 1½ lengths behind the co-division leaders, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

Cincinnati led at the end of each period, but the score was tied 12 times before Oscar Robertson rattled off five of his 40 points to put the Royals on top to stay.

Chamberlain brought the Warriors within two points with 49 seconds to play, but San Francisco guard Guy Rodgers fouled Adrian Smith twice in a vain effort to get the ball. Smith sank four foul shots and the Royals were out of reach.

San Francisco has now lost five of its last six games.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
IJ Fish and Game Writer

Here's A Tip On How To Get Rid Of Gamey, Fishey Taste In Ducks

STEVENS

I'm wondering how many people there are who have had the experience of a lady reader of San Rafael. She sent an SOS to me yesterday. Said her son was lucky and had brought home his limit of ducks. Only trouble was that the birds had such a "gamey" taste that she had to throw them away. By gamey, I assume the good lady meant "fishy." It is true that the birds taken in the upper San Pablo Bay, the Suisun Bay and on the Napa marshes tend to have a gamey or fishy taste. That might spoil some folks' pleasure in eating them.

My correspondent asked if anything could be done to get rid of the bad taste. Well, there is, and I suggest you try it if there is any doubt in your mind. Try the following: Place a small, peeled carrot inside the bird and parboil it before roasting. It is said that will eliminate the fishy taste. Okay?

I HAVE been often asked if there is any way to rid the occasional striped bass from the taste of oil. I wish I could give a recipe on that but, frankly, I have never been able to learn of any method to eliminate the oily taste of some bass — particularly those caught in the upper San Pablo Bay. Personally, I never fry, boil, or roast a striped bass without first testing it for oil. I cut a piece from the belly and test it by taste. If the oiliness is severe you can frequently smell it from the small piece of the belly. If I am not quite sure, I fry that small piece and the odor will usually tell its state.

SO LONG AS WE are on the subject another hazard in eating freshly caught salmon is that in the inland waters (never in the ocean) an occasional fish will have a disagreeable, muddy taste. It is claimed that if you will soak the salmon you catch in the back country waters in fairly strong SALT WATER over night, most or all of the muddy taste will disappear. You note I said "it is claimed." Personally, I have never tried it, but several of the ranchers in the Delta Region have insisted it works.

SPEAKING OF salmon — while the season in the ocean is closed, if you hook a salmon in the S.F. or San Pablo Bay don't throw it back, it's legal to catch and keep such fish. (To my knowledge, no one has been successful actually fishing for salmon in those waters, most are caught by accident while trolling for bass.)

AS TO chances for a limit of bass, trolling the Racoon Strait, Richardson Bay and California City and Red Rock, or bass fishing in practically any section of the Bay or Delta region are better than fair now that the winds have blown themselves out. You can about pick your spot, locally or in the back country.

ABOUT EATING striped bass—Few people realize that the striped bass is one of the finest tasting fish when eaten raw. Most folks shudder when it is suggested, yet they will eat oysters raw. A piece of striped bass with a bit of Soy sauce, or only salt and pepper is actually as tasty as an oyster. Close your eyes sometime and try a piece, you may discover a mighty fine new way of serving or eating striped bass.

Gilliam Must Pay Support For Wife

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Los Angeles Dodger infielder Jim Gilliam yesterday was ordered to pay his estranged wife, Edwina, $425 monthly support pending her divorce suit.

Superior Court Commissioner Glenn M. Pfau ordered the 32-year-old baseball player to pay $300 for his wife's support and $125 for that of their daughter, Yvette, 22 months.

Mrs. Gilliam said her husband had a violent temper and had threatened to strike her.

Gilliam, charged with extreme mental cruelty, was ordered to move out of the family home in two weeks.

STANFORD LINEBACKERS

Victim Of The Wild Card

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford's Ed Cummings might be called a victim of the wild card in college football.

Termed one of the finest linebackers in the nation by some opposing coaches, Cummings stands little chance of post-season recognition because defense is his forte.

UNIT SYSTEM

He's one of many in the same spot across the nation because of the unit system and wild card substituting prevalent in the collegiate ranks.

The 195-pound senior from Anaconda, Mont., seems least unhappy about the situation, saying, "I prefer defense to offense. I'd much rather be the hunter than the hunted."

Because of Cummings' excellence on defense, Coach Jack Curtice frequently sends in a substitute fullback when the Indians go on the offensive.

That probably will be the case when Cummings winds up his collegiate career Saturday in the Big Game against traditional rival California at Berkeley.

Voted Stanford's most valuable player as junior a year ago, Cummings this season has made 48 unassisted tackles and assisted in 79. He has blocked one pass and intercepted one for 129 defensive points in the rating system here—more than twice the total of the second best man on the team.

ONE LOSS

Offensively, naturally, his statistics aren't so impressive. He's carried the ball 31 times for 107 yards and a 3.45 average. In three years he has gained 248 yards and during his career has been thrown for a loss only once—for one yard.

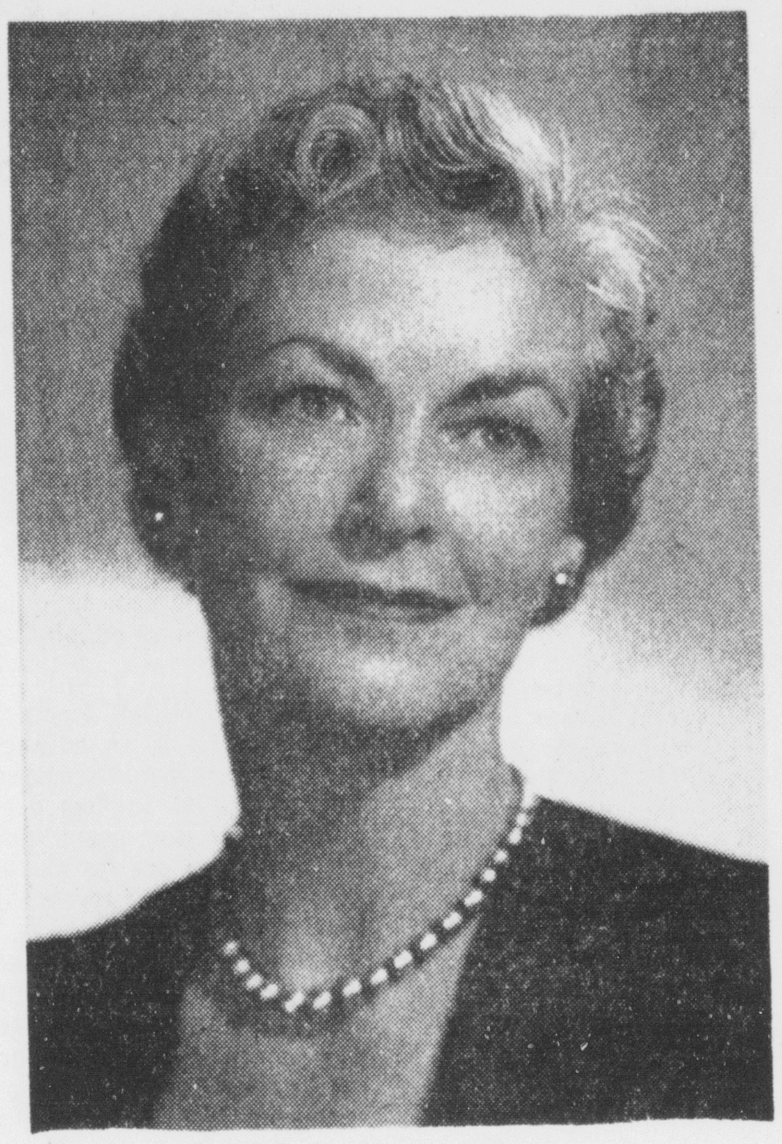
Marin Women

Christmas Lore, Decor Topic For Lawyers' Wives Program

Christmas lore and holiday decorations will be discussed by Mrs. Cargill Hall when she addresses Lawyers' Wives of Marin on Wednesday, at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.



MRS. CARGILL HALL

Members of the Womens' Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society have been invited to join the Lawyers' Wives group at the noon luncheon.

Mrs. Hall, a Kentfield resident, is the mother of five children and grandmother of three. For many years she has been noted for her stories of Christmas traditions and has spoken before a number of groups during the holiday season on "Bringing In Christmas." Mrs. Hall was associated with the Katherine Branson School for several years and is now at Dominican Convent. She studied architecture in college and has worked as an interior decorator.

Fifteen new members will be welcomed into the ranks of Lawyers' Wives. They are Mesdames Joseph Bari Jr., Albert Bianchi, James Blumborg, Jasper De-Dobbeleer, Seymour Ellison, Sterling Hilen, Jay Jackson Jr., Phillip Kennedy, Gilbert Pavlosky, Kenneth Rosenthal, Elliot Seymour, Peter Sloss, Thomas Storer, Gary Thomas and Haskell Titchell.

Standing committee chairmen for 1962-63 announced by president Mrs. William H. MacKay are Mrs. Westerdahl Gudmundson, notices; Mrs. James McKenny, ways and means; Mrs. Roger Garety, publicity and Mrs. Arnt Tjensvold, new member of the Board of Directors.

The Theater Of The Absurd Program At Tennis Club's Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Wayne W. Deatsch, new chairman of women's activities of the Mill Valley Tennis Club, was introduced by outgoing chairman Mrs. Robert Huber at Tuesday's luncheon meeting of women members.

Mrs. Deatsch then announced her appointments to the executive board. They were Mesdames Robert Ryan, vice chairman; Eugene Aureguy, social chairman; Ehrling Carlsen, secretary; Samuel Farber, treasurer; Ralph Tierney, women's tennis on Tuesday; Samuel Farber and Andrew Castle, women's tennis on Wednesday; David Allen, swimming; W. W. Hendricks, publicity; and Mrs. Huber, hospitality.

Co-chairmen for Junior Tennis will be Mesdames Melvin H. Klyce, Warren Hodgdon, Fred Vandyke and William Kennedy, and heading the telephone committee will be Mrs. Castle and Mrs. James Bennett.

General chairman Mrs. Francis Walsh planned the luncheon and Mrs. John Laurie the decor in a "Beatnik-Bistro" theme in keeping with the day's program on "The Theater of the Absurd," which was presented by Mrs. George Pritzker, a club member.

Absurd with reference to the theater of the absurd really means different, Mrs. Pritzker explained, for anything that is different strikes us as absurd or ridiculous.

In avant-garde theater, she said, "Unusual patterns of speech, colorful, poetic language and expressive body movements are combined to give an image of what the playwright experiences inwardly, and the great excitement comes when you feel at one with the playwright. You feel you have discovered something for yourself instead of having it all spelled out for you.

"The theater of the absurd brings a new approach to morals and ethics to replace traditions of the past."

In watching this new kind of theater, she said, there are two things to remember (1) What is happening on the stage is more important than the words of the characters, and (2) The playwright is trying to express reality, but he will not tell a story but give an impression."

Mrs. Pritzker illustrated her points on a simply set stage by reading excerpts from "The Sand Box" by Edward Albee, and impersonating all the characters.

During the meeting that preceded the program, Mrs. Richard Rider was welcomed as a new member and presented with a corsage.

Resek Pupils Hold Social Gathering

A group of vocal students of Mme. Bella Resek had a social gathering Saturday at her home in Mill Valley and entertained each other with singing.

Those present were Cathleen Crain, Sandy Vandyke, Adria Michelsen, John Golden, Barbara Baldridge, Jan McCready, Peggy Freitas, Patricia Young, Raine Priest, Carol Berry and James Hantzsche. Also present was Sally Champlin, who is now attending San Francisco State College.

Virginia Claims First Thanksgiving

Small Band Of Colonists Mark Day At James River In 1619

BERKELEY PLANTATION, Va. (AP)—At about the time the Pilgrims were wondering if the Mayflower was safe to travel in, 39 colonists knelt on the sandy banks of the James River here to offer the first Thanksgiving.

It was Dec. 14, 1619, and the small band had just arrived in the struggling colony of Virginia after a 2½-month journey aboard the ship Margaret from Bristol, England.

WITH BREASTPLATES glinting in the low autumn sun and halberds at the ready, the colonists watched as Capt. John Woodleaf opened the company's charter and read its instructions.

"Impr wee ordaine that the day of our ships arrivall at the place assigned for the plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perputually keept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

This is the view held in Virginia, a state rarely known to be modest about its history.

In proclaiming Thanksgiving this year Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. ignored the long-accepted Plymouth Rock version and said the day would serve as a memorial to the Virginians "who gathered at Berkeley near Richmond in 1619 to observe America's first Thanksgiving ceremony."

VIRGINIA'S claim on the first Thanksgiving has been raised only in recent years, although the landing and the services at Berkeley are documented.

As an annual holiday, the state has celebrated Thanksgiving only for the past 77 years. In the years before and after the Civil War Virginia was only too happy to give all the credit to New England and ignore the whole affair.

Historians believe the settlers at Berkeley Hundred commemorated the landing again in 1620—the year the Pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock—and again in 1621.

CORRESPONDENCE from the parent company in England reminded the colonists in August 1620 that the Thanksgiving was to be observed each year.

Plans for a fourth observance were ended by Chief Opechancanough when he led an Indian uprising on Good Friday in 1623 and slew 350 settlers along the James.

The Virginia General Assembly set aside the date of the colony's deliverance from the "bloudie massaker" for commemoration and it was observed for a number of years.

THEREAFTER followed another series of Thanksgivings in Virginia's history. Between 1692 and 1705 the legislature proclaimed nine days of Thanksgiving for events ranging from survival of a caterpillar plague to English victory at Blenheim.

Essentially, historians noted, Virginia's Thanksgivings were religious in nature and had little of the social overtones found in the Pilgrim holidays.

IN THE LAST century, particularly for a time when Thanksgiving became linked with the abolition of slavery, Virginia rejected the observance completely.

The first Virginia governor to call upon the state to observe Thanksgiving as a national holiday was Gov. Gilbert C. Walker, who served from 1869 to 1874.

The Richmond Dispatch noted at the time "there was with many a feeling of indigination that in the light of then recent events he Gov. Walker was trying to set this New England plant in our sacred soil."

THANKSGIVING was not celebrated in the state again until 1885, when the Dispatch reported that a gubernatorial proclamation was enthusiastically received.

Even without a claim on the first Thanksgiving, the Berkeley plantation has a firm place in the nation's history. Here was born Benjamin Harrison V, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and his son, President William Henry Harrison.

Benedict Arnold sacked the mansion for the British in the Revolutionary War and burned the portraits of the Harrisons on the front lawn.

IN THE Civil War it became the birthplace of Taps and headquarters of Union Gen. George B. McClellan. President Abraham Lincoln came here in 1862 to see McClellan and he landed at approximately the same place as did the 39 colonists 243 years earlier.

And, in one of those quirks of history, it was President Lincoln who set aside the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

If You Don't Believe In God Whom Do You Thank Today?

We often wonder to whom people who don't believe in God offer thanks on Thanksgiving Day.

It must be a strange feeling, unbelievably looking at the bounty of the fields, explaining away in materialistic terms the mystery of life, of love and of birth. Is life the accidental coming together of materials in proper proportion? Then why would not they accidentally also produce bananas on an apple tree or grapes on the roots of a potato?

We who believe in God don't have to answer these questions. If there is a plan, apples will appear on apple trees and grapes will grow on grape vines.

We should acknowledge regularly this miracle which is life. We don't do it daily, at least most of us don't. But taking our cue from the Pilgrim Fathers once each year we set aside a day on which we acknowledge our dependence on our God and offer him thanks for the bounty which he has provided for us.

Often we do not even do this consciously. In some of our homes our laden tables today will be decimated without a vocal word of thanks. But it will be there. Even the name our holiday denotes our appreciation. And no one yet has been able to be thankful without offering that thanks to someone.

Still, the miracles of abundance we know in this country are at least in some small part our own doing. You may recall the story of the Negro farmer who was working his small field of cotton when the minister walked by. "That's certainly a nice field of cotton you and the Lord have there," said the minister. "Yas, suh," said the Negro, "but you ought to have seen the mess it was in when He was working it by Himself."

So as we offer our thanks to God for making all this possible, we might also remember the men who took the riches of our nation, flavored them with freedom, mixed them with hard work, and produced a nation and a culture never before equaled on this earth.

Thank you, God, for all the things you have bestowed upon us, and thank you too, for the men, their vision, their dedication, their energies and their abilities which have made our nation strong. May we be as able to hand on to others the advantages you have given to us.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Republicans Split Wide Apart By Battle Over Assembly Leadership

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

It is strange how much the legislature has changed in the last five years. I'm not referring to the 34 new assemblymen (out of 80) who will make the Assembly floor resemble a game of "What's My Name" next January. Newsmen are thinking of putting district numbers on legislators' backs and selling programs with the names and numbers of all the players.

That wasn't the change I referred to, however.

Just five years ago, or was it six, Marin's Assemblyman Richard McCollister had the job of "Republican floor leader." It was a job so insignificant at the time that McCollister's name and title didn't even appear on the Assembly's publications. He fixed that by having a resolution passed putting the floor leaders' names on all of them.

The reason it was an insignificant job was that there was practically no party politics; legislators worked together as northerners or southerners or as rural or city dwellers, or some other classifications. Seldom did they vote as Democrats and Republicans.

Now this has changed. The party has become of major importance. The floor leader's job is now a major one. Not only that, but the party caucus chairman has become important and even the job of party whip has some stature.

RIGHT NOW the Republicans are infighting over the job of floor leader. There aren't many Republicans to lead, only 28. And there isn't a single one of the party leaders from last session back on the Assembly floor.

Last session Joseph Shell was floor leader; he ran for governor and lost. John Busterud was the caucus chairman; he ran for state treasurer and lost. Bruce Sumner was party whip; he retired.

So a fight shapes up.

And it shapes up on lines similar to those which are rocking the top echelons of the party, that is, whether the conservatives or the moderates will lead.

THERE ARE THREE or four groups involved.

The so-called moderates, which include Marin Assemblyman William T. Bagley, would like to see Robert T. Monagan of Tracy at the GOP helm. Basically they believe the party needs young, progressive leadership if the party is to survive.

The second group favors Charles J. Conrad of Sherman Oaks, one-time speaker pro tem of the Assembly. He has the backing of Joe Shell and is seen as Shell's hope for a wedge to get himself into party leadership.

A third is Howard J. Thelin of Glendale, considered more of a compromise candidate. But Thelin was generally accepted as being Richard Nixon's spokesman in the Assembly and, as such, has lost supporters.

THE FOURTH group is a half dozen veteran legislators, considered uncommitted now but who have voted on occasion with the Democratic majority. Three of them hold committee chairmanships which they preumably would not like to lose when Speaker Jesse Unruh of Los Angeles shuffles the appointments at the start of the 1962 session. Democrat Unruh hasn't indicated his preference for GOP floor leader.

Then there are the newcomers who may well control the party leadership.

A PROBLEM of the moderates is that with Monagan from Tracy, another northerner, Don Mulford of Oakland, a fringe member of their group wants to be caucus chairman. Anyone familiar with operations of the legislature will urge that any two top positions be split between north and south. Two southerners might succeed with difficulty in influencing legislation. Two northerners would raise southern hackles and defeats.

In any even, the battle is as interesting as it is intense.

THE DEMOCRATS? That's no question. Unruh will be speaker again and Jerome Waldie of Antioch floor leader. No contest.

A NATION GIVES THANKS

Every President of the United States has set aside one day each year to thank God for blessings on our nation.

On November 8, 1890, President Benjamin Harrison, for instance, officially designated the national observance of Thanksgiving Day with the following proclamation:

"By the grace and favor of Almighty God, the people of this nation have been led to the closing days of the passing year, which has been full of the blessings of peace and comforts of plenty . . .

"Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, 27th day of the present month of November, to be observed as a day of prayer and thanksgiving; and I do invite the people upon that day to cease from their labors, to meet in their accustomed houses of worship, and to join in rendering gratitude to our beneficent Creator for the continuance of His protection and grace for the future."

"In all things give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus regarding you all." (1 Thesalonians 5:18)

Thanks to You, O bountiful Creator, for the blessings of time and eternity.

Council Negates Need For A City

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Following is part of a letter dated Sept. 14, 1962, which was sent to the Mill Valley City Council. To date I have no acknowledgement.

"I was not aware, when I recently bought a home in Mill Valley, that I was attaining Class B citizenship. I refer to the effort of the city council to abandon its maintenance of Janes Street, after many years of bare upkeep.

"My concept of a city is that people form such a unit for their mutual benefit—and not on a selective basis. Hence, I gladly contribute taxes to many community services, e.g., some 40 per cent of the tax money for schools, improving Miller Avenue, and even boxwood trees for downtown. Fine.

"On the other hand, I do not take happily to the notion that the city has no responsibility for MY street—Furthermore, classifying streets with the eventual aim of "A" status does not seem reasonable in this area. I, for one, do not want a 40-foot roadway and concrete curbs in front of my house. A great deal of the charm and pleasure of living here lies in the semi-rural atmosphere—."

It seems to me that in attempting to force the maintenance of some 38 streets in Mill Valley upon individual property owners, with the concommitant formation of some 38 separate assessment districts, and the resulting interminable legal proceedings, that the Mill Valley City Council is effectively negating the need for a City.

Worker Must Go To Court

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have been interested in reading in your paper over the past few months the accounts of the actions taken by the various county authorities in the case of Miss Stella Hughes. As a former civil service (federal) employee, myself, I know only too well what damage the innocent person can sustain when her good name and her professional reputation have been impugned.

In the case of a career civil service worker, such as Miss Hughes, this practically debars her from future employment in any governmental position.

It seems rather strange that three of the county supervisors should disregard consistently the findings of both the County Personnel Commission and the County Grand Jury. Their legal right to do so is not questioned. Their common sense, good judgment and sense of fair play is.

It also seems probably that the two fact-finding bodies mentioned above were in a better position to determine all the facts in the case than the supervisors. Certainly, two of the supervisors thought so.

It seems unfortunate that Miss Hughes must be forced to the expense of action in a court of equity in order to obtain some reparation for the harm done her.

Apparently there is no other recourse for her or for any other county employee, about whom the findings of the Personnel Commission have been disregarded.

Now Smog People Have Full Time Man In Marin Watching For Smoke

These are hard times.

Ross has rats. Fairfax has a parking ordinance. Terra Linda is fighting a losing battle to incorporate. Now the whole county is being threatened by smog.

You may not have noticed, but the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has moved a full-time man into the area to police smog producers.

IT'S AN OMINOUS action, as though he is an advance man for anticipated troubles. There may be anxious days ahead while the smog man keeps a sharp eye for clouds of smudge drifting across the bay.

The advent of a smog officer did not take place without some preparation. His way was paved by an elaborate briefing in the cozy surroundings of Deer Park Villa at a meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

This super council, a quasi-official body, is itself a strange outfit. It supposedly exists as a means of sharing common city council hopes and fears.

THE MEETINGS, always including a large banquet (which is really the central event), seem at a glance to be little more than a collection of city council meetings, all busily violating the Brown Act.

But these gatherings are generally harmless, and of course a reporter is always invited to tag along. The particular event at which smog was discussed provided a convivial atmosphere for the introduction of new pollution control schemes.

As Supervisor William Gnoss, district member for Marin, put it, the metting mollified any hard feelings which may exist between the district and the various city fire departments.

It seems that local firemen want to eliminate smog, but they have never been sure how effective the district can be in preventing the sort of fires that produce smog.

"We are not supposed to be policemen," the firemen say. If all the incinerators in the county are furiously blazing and adding to the haze, the firemen have not the time or maybe even the authority to order a stop.

THE PEOPLE from the district say they have the law on their side, and will be delighted to curb unwanted fires as long as the fire departments cooperate.

"Just let us know when somebody refuses to stop burning," the smog men say.

Regardless of the difficulties of preventing large-scale trash burning, Marin is faced with the questions: How bad is the smog and how much worse will it get?

There seems to be a general assumption that we're not responsible for most of our smog. We just happen to be in the way of polluted air blowing in from the East Bay and San Jose.

BUT ONE VETERAN fire chief, A. T. Henrich of Ross, says all the busy gardeners in Marin probably cause the "biggest collection of debris in the Bay Area." And all those hedge trimmings and lawn cuttings must be burned. And the smog district people say they can't stop a single householder from burning his own trash.

I, for one, will be happy to stop burning leaves as my contribution toward a smog-free county. I've never cared for gardening, and I would just as soon sit and watch the squirrels, gophers and deer carry off whatever remaining vegetation happens to appeal to them.

Khrushchev Securing His Rear So He Can Turn His Wrath On China

WASHINGTON— After the ejection of all possible friends of the Chinese in the Bulgarian Party Congress, there are hints that a similar purge will take place at the Czechoslovakian Party Congress beginning next month. Thus is Nikita Khrushchev striking back at bitter and open denunciation from his Chinese "brothers."

Even the Czech party's durable neo-Stalinist First Secretary Antonin Novotny may be in some danger.

The other Eastern European satellites—except for the odious Walther Ulbricht's East Germany—are already firmly in the hands of Khrushchev's supporters; and East Germany can be dismissed as under effective Russian military occupation.

IF THE CZECH purge occurs on schedule, in sum, Khrushchev's European rear will be fully secured. He can then turn his full wrath against the Chinese without fear of having to fight his intra-party war on two fronts.

How Khrushchev will vent his wrath is anyone's guess. For the first time, the clear possibility of an open, total Chinese-Soviet break, on the pattern of the break between Stalin and Tito, is admitted by the great majority of demonologists. A few think a clean break is downright probable.

KHRUSHCHEV HAS other things he can do to the Chinese if he does not want to go so far as an open break.

At least 35 per cent of all petroleum products consumed in China still come from Russia, for instance. Thus, if petroleum deliveries are withheld, the Chinese Communist army will either be dangerously immobilized at home or crippled in its Tibetan-Indian operational sphere.

What is plain, in any case, is that Khrushchev can hardly avoid making some sort of riposte to the gross provocations he has received from Peking.

BEYOND MUCH doubt, the right kind of riposte will be the topic of excited debate at the crucial meeting of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, which is now on in Moscow.

The Chinese obviously hope that Khrushchev will run into very bad trouble inside the Soviet party, either at this Central Committee meeting or later on. That can never be absolutely ruled out. But if Khrushchev himself does not run into trouble, worse trouble between Russia and China may now be expected.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Abraham Lincoln liked to tell about a pernickety horse owned by a neighbor in Springfield, Ill. The neighbor was riding it down the main street one morning when without warning the nag began kicking vigorously, and got his hind hoof tangled in the left stirrup.

Lincoln's neighbor saw what was happening and hastily declared, "Dawgone, if you're gittin' on, I'm gittin' off!"

When 9-year-old Tricia volunteered to check hats and coats at her parents' anniversary reception, they indulgently accepted her offer. Unobserved, she then sequestered a china saucer from the pantry, put a quarter in it, and left it on a table next to the coat closet.

When the party was over, the parents were astonished to discover their daughter counting the profits — something over 11 dollars!

In New London, Conn., they're telling about the near-sighted whale who fell in love with a U.S. submarine and followed it clear around the world. Every time the sub fired a torpedo, the proud whale passed out cigars.

Mrs. Thompson had a dim opinion of the way her neighbor kept house. "I'll tell you what a mess her place is in," reported Mrs. Thompson to her husband. "While I was having a cup of coffee with her yesterday afternoon, her telephone rang — and she couldn't find it!"

LOGS HARVESTED—Huge logs are harvested near Dunsmuir and hoisted by crane onto a logging truck. About 48,000 board feet of cedar move daily from this stand to a sawmill 12 miles away.

Modern Paul Bunyans Must Use Teamwork On The Job

DUNSMUIR, Siskiyou County (AP)—Teamwork is important to many endeavors but to a logging crew operating in tall and heavy mountain timber, it's not only important, it's a matter of life and death.

That's the experienced judgment of Harland Sattler, a logging supervisor for the Castella, Calif., division of the Kimberly Clark Co.

Once under way, Sattler says, the vastness of the forest, the ruggedness of the terrain and the noise of the bulldozers and saws make it impossible to discuss the next move.

"We not only have to understand each other, we have to like each other," Sattler explained. "Woods safety has made vast strides in the past few years but this is still a dangerous occupation and if a crew member isn't constantly aware of the dangers to himself and his fellow workers, we just have to hire another man before we have to bury one."

Sattler's office is a pickup truck and he must keep in touch with as many as 15 men spread over six square miles of northern California mountains, each man engaged in his own logging specialty.

Kimberly Clark recently closed its lumber mill at Castella but it did not break up its experienced, well-knit Castella logging crew. Now they use Castella as a base of operations for activity in Shasta and neighboring counties.

For example, Sattler's crew harvested a stand of cedar near Dunsmuir, a community north of Castella. Then the crew finished its job by hauling the harvest 12 miles farther north to a plant at Mount Shasta.

"We've gotten so we coordinate without even thinking about it," Sattler said. "After the company forester cruises, that is surveys, a timber stand and the timber itself is evaluated and marked for cutting, we don't require any lengthy conferences. We just move in, with precision born of experience."

It's all done amid a bedlam of noise: the roar of a bulldozer "skidding" a load of logs along a mountain road, hauling them from where they were felled, the whir [illegible]

The screams of the saws, in fact, tell a [illegible] actly what is going on without his having to bother to check. The noise of a chain saw used to fell a tree is different from the sound of a trimmer saw. Each man must atune himself to these sounds.

While all this is in the interest of safety, it is also in the interest of production.

The members of a logging crew know their jobs depend on getting the logs to a mill within a period of time that can be allowed by the market's cost range.

On the slopes above Little Castle Creek near Dunsmuir, that meant a daily objective of moving 48,000 board feet of cedar logs from the tree state to the logging pond.

This operation included cutting the trees, trimming the trees, building roads to reach the logs, skidding or hauling them to the loading areas and having them ready for the four round trips daily of two truck drivers.

West cashed two top clubs and then led the jack of clubs. East discarded the ten of diamonds, and South ruffed.

DREW TWO

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, got back to his hand with the ace of hearts and gave up a trump trick to the queen.

East got out safely with a low heart and waited for his diamond trick to defeat the contract. Down one.

Not much doubt about the criminal, is there? But where did he go wrong?

STARTS EARLY

South was, of course, the criminal since he should have made four spades. He started early on his life of crime.

After ruffing the third club, South should immediately lead out the ace of hearts.

Now South leads a trump to the ace and ruffs a heart. He leads another trump to the king, discovering the bad trump break, and ruffs still another heart.

FINALLY

Finally, South gives up a trump trick to East. With only red cards left in his hand East cannot make a safe return.

If East returns his last heart, South ruffs and gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds to cash the jack of hearts.

And if East returns a diamond, dummy gets a free finesse.

Only a hardened bridge criminal would draw trumps without playing for the hearts as well.

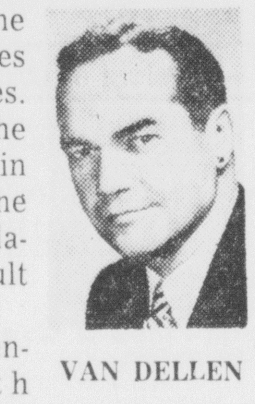
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Scientists Are Looking For Clues To Reasons Babies Are Malformed



VAN DELLEN

Scientists are sifting the ashes of the thalidomide tragedy for additional clues relative to congenital abnormalities. There is speculation that some of the fathers may have been responsible in that defect was transmitted through the sperm of those taking the German sedative. This is speculative and difficult to prove.

There are many reasons for congenital defects and the experience with thalidomide is stimulating more research. We know the damage must occur during the early months of pregnancy when the organs are developing. The embryo is extremely sensitive to changes in the oxygen content of the blood, toxins from infections, and certain chemicals.

THESE FACTORS arrest the development of the extremities, heart chambers, bones, brain, eyes, ears, and other structures without bringing about death of the child or sickness in the mother. In other words, the substance must be taken at the right time and in the right amounts.

It is well known that German measles has an adverse effect on the fetus, when the disease occurs during the first three months of pregnancy. Other infections such as syphilis or toxoplasmosis, unsuccessful attempts to induce abortions with drugs, and the use of certain agents to avoid miscarriages may do the same. Smoking during pregnancy is under investigation as a possible cause of oxygen deficit.

AN EXPECTANT mother, from the first indication of her pregnancy, should try to lead as normal a life as possible. She ought to get enough rest, eat properly, and do everything in her power to avoid infections.

These suggestions are made so she can lessen the need for medicines and reduce her chances of getting a disease that might produce abnormalities in the child. But she must not foolishly refuse medications needed to cure serious illnesses.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

POLIO VACCINES

A. C. B. writes: How do you feel about changing from Salk to Sabin?

REPLY

Wonderful because it represents an innovation of historical significance. This is the first time man has been able to become immune to a disease by swallowing a few drops of vaccine. The concept may revolutionize the way vaccines are given, by making the project community-wide. It must prove to be safe, however, before it receives universal acceptance.

DENTAL X-RAYS

G.B.N. writes: My dentist takes X-rays of the mouth every three years. Is this dangerous?

REPLY

No. The amount of radiation is so small there is no need for concern. In addition, it is so far away from the reproductive organs there is no need to worry about creating mutations in future generations.

STIFF GAIT

Mrs. K. writes: A few months ago our 28-month-old child began walking in a stiff manner, particularly after he awakens from a nap. Please advise.

REPLY

There are several bone and joint disorders capable of doing this. Consult your physician so he can pinpoint the cause after X-rays and other tests.

NERVES AND VITAMINS

J.M. writes: Are vitamin B-12 shots helpful in nervous exhaustion?

REPLY

Large doses (1,000 mcg.) are of value in some cases. But physicians are divided in their opinion about the value of the vitamin for this purpose. Is it a true tonic or are the good effects psychological?

RED AS A BEET

R.B.S. writes: I'm extremely fond of garden beets and notice my urine has a reddish color for two days after eating them. Is this due to a kidney disorder?

REPLY

No. Blame the beets.

Today's Health Hint—Faulty eating habits are a common cause of overeating.

CHILDREN'S TEMPERATURE RISE

Mrs. K. writes: Do infants and children normally run a higher temperature when ill than adults?

REPLY

Yes, in general. But much depends upon the nature of the illness. If a boy of three and a man of 33 were to develop a cold of equal severity, the child's temperature would be higher.

ABDOMINAL PAIN

Mrs. A. writes: Do you advise the application of heat or ice packs to relieve the pain of acute diverticulitis?

REPLY

We usually recommend drugs that relieve spasm and sterilize the infected part of the bowel. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on diverticulosis.

HARELIP IN THE FAMILY

S. F. writes: What causes harelip? Is it hereditary?

REPLY

A hereditary background is noted in 20 to 30 per cent. About the end of the third month after conception, the two sides of the upper jaw and hard palate unite. When this fails to happen, and a cleft remains, the child is born with harelip or cleft palate.

Today's Health Hint — Mortality rate is 50 per cent higher among those 25 per cent overweight.

All of said work is to be done at the places and in the particular locations, of the forms, sizes and dimensions and of the materials, and to the lines and grades and at the elevation as shown and delineated upon the plans, profiles and specifications made therefor and preliminarily approved by said Board on November 13, 1962.

Payments will be made in cash by said County to the Contractor on itemized estimates duly certified and approved by the Engineer of Work, based on labor and materials incorporated into said work during the preceding month by the Contractor. However, notice is given that the cost and expense of said work and improvements is chargeable upon said above described Improvement District and that payment will be made only from assessments levied upon property in said District pursuant to Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and the proceeds of the sale of bonds secured by unpaid assessments pursuant to said Act and the Improvement Act of 1911, and further that if cash collections are insufficient to meet monthly estimates, there will be a delay in making such payments until money is received from the sale of the bonds issued upon the unpaid assessments. County shall retain ten percent (10%) of each such estimates, and the accumulation of said amounts so retained from said progressive payments will be paid to said Contractor thirty-five (35) days after the completion and acceptance of said work by said Engineer and said County.

Notice is hereby given that on November 13th, 1962 the Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages to be paid to the various craftsmen and laborers required to construct said improvements, a copy of which wage scale is contained in and made a part of the specifications for said work, to which reference is hereby made for further particulars.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check payable to the order of the County, amounting to ten per cent (10%) of the bid, or by a bond in said amount and payable to said County signed by the bidder and a corporate surety, or by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer on oath, in double said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions. Said check shall be forfeited or said bond shall become payable to said County in case the bidder depositing the same does not, within fifteen (15) days after written notice that the contract has been awarded to him, enter into a contract with the County.

Contractor shall furnish to County a faithful performance bond and labor and material bond as required in said specifications.

Said sealed proposals shall be delivered to the County Clerk of said County on or before 4:00 o'clock P.M. of the day of December 18, 1962, at the regular meeting place of said Board, Supervisors' Room, County Court House, San Rafael, California, said time being at least fifteen days from the time of publication of this notice. A copy of the plans and specifications may be obtained from KENNETH FROST ASSOCIATES, 1610 Tiburon Blvd., Tiburon, California upon payment therefor of $10.00 refundable, if plans and specifications are returned in good condition.

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, by its resolution entitled "Resolution Appointing Engineers", adopted on the date of adoption of this resolution, appointed KENNETH FROST ASSOCIATES, Engineers in Marin County, California, as Engineers to do and perform all engineering work necessary in and for said proceedings, including all preliminary surveying, preparation of plans, profiles, specifications, estimate of costs, diagram, assessment, setting grade stakes and supervision of work; and

WHEREAS, the public interest and convenience require the construction and acquisition of said proposed acquisitions and improvements;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, as follows:

1. The foregoing recitals are true and correct and the Board of Supervisors so finds and determines.

2. The Board of Supervisors hereby finds that said petition has been signed by the owners of all of the property subject to assessment for the proposed acquisitions and improvements hereinafter described and hereby grants said petition and hereby determines that the situation described in clause (3) of Section 2804 of the Streets and Highways Code exists and that Division 4 of the Streets and Highways Code shall not apply to the proceedings hereinafter provided for.

3. The public interest and convenience require the installation and acquisition of the proposed acquisitions and improvements hereinafter described.

4. It is the intention of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin to order the following work to be done and acquisitions and improvements to be made in the County of Marin in an assessment district (hereinafter provided for) designated "Marinero Residence No. 1 Unit 2 Improvement District", the exterior boundaries of which are hereinafter specified and described in paragraph 6 hereof, said work to be done and said acquisitions and improvements to be made being briefly described as follows:

Description of Work and Improvements

Excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Lyford Drive from the beginning of work at the northerly line of Marinero Residence No. 1, 650 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, engineered fill, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Phyllis Dr. beginning at its intersection with Lyford Drive 400 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Sugar Loaf Drive from its intersection with Lyford Drive 850 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Heathcliff Drive from its intersection with Sugar Loaf Drive 450 feet more or less to the termination of work; excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court and St. Gabriele Court for their entire lengths, a combined total of 800 feet more or less, drainage facilities, specifically culverts, catch basins, inlet structures, outlet structures and ditches relating to the improvement of Lyford Drive, Phyllis Drive, Sugar Loaf Drive, Heathcliff Drive, Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court and St. Gabriele Court; water facilities in connection with the improvement of Lyford Drive, Phyllis Drive, Sugar Loaf Drive, Heathcliff Drive, Bartel Court, Santa Ana Court, and St. Gabriele Court, including transmission lines, piping, valves and service connections; sanitary sewer lines and laterals, gas transmission lines, pole risers, underground electrical and telephone ducts and service connection boxes, transformer pads, street signs and survey monuments within and appurtenant to the above mentioned streets; water transmission lines, pumping station, water storage tanks and access road thereto.

Description of Acquisitions

Excavation, grading, paving, curbs and gutters, fire hydrants and appurtenances on Lyford Drive from a point 800 feet northeasterly of the easterly line of Marinero 700 feet more or less to the beginning of work at the northerly line of Marinero Residence No. 1; offsite water transmission lines, valves and appurtenances. Easements for drainage purposes.

Except as in this resolution otherwise specifically provided, all of said work, acquisitions and improvements shall be made and done pursuant to the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913.

5. Notice is hereby given of the fact that in certain cases the work of grading and surfacing of streets will bring the finished surfaces of the improved streets to grades different from the surfaces of such streets as they now exist or as formally established by the Board of Supervisors. Said Board of Supervisors does hereby adopt and establish as the official grades for said work, the grades and elevations shown on the Report of the Engineers hereinafter directed to be made and filed, as hereafter adopted, confirmed and approved by this Board of Supervisors, to which Report reference is hereby made for a description of said grades and elevations.

6. Said Board of Supervisors hereby declares that the territory within the boundaries hereinafter specified and described is the district to be benefited by said work, acquisitions and improvements and to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof; that the expense of said work, acquisitions and improvements is hereby made chargeable upon said district; and that the exterior boundaries of said assessment district are hereby specified and described to be as shown on that certain map now on file in the office of the County Clerk of the County of Marin entitled "Marinero Residence No. 1 Unit 2 Assessment Diagram", which said map indicates by a boundary line the extent of the territory included in said proposed district and shall govern for all details as to the extent of the assessment district. A copy of said map is attached hereto marked "Exhibit A" and made a part hereof.

7. All public streets, alleys, easements and ways and all publicly owned property in said assessment district in use in the performance of a public function shall be omitted from said assessment hereafter to be made to pay the cost and expenses of said work, acquisitions and improvements.

8. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares and notice is hereby given that serial bonds payable to bearer to represent unpaid assessments of $50 or more and to bear interest at a maximum rate of not to exceed 6% a year payable semiannually will be issued hereunder in the manner provided by Division 7 of the Streets and Highways Code, the Improvement Act of 1911, and said bonds shall extend over a period not exceeding fourteen years from the 2nd day of January next succeeding the next September 1st following their date. The Board of Supervisors hereby elects to have the redemption provisions of each of said bonds provide a premium of five (5) per cent of the unpaid principal thereof.

9. The Board of Supervisors hereby finds and determines that if the assessment herein proposed results in a surplus in the improvement fund to be provided in the proceedings hereafter to be taken pursuant to this resolution, after the acquisitions and improvements are completed, said surplus shall be refunded or credited pro rata to the parties assessed, unless the Board of Supervisors of said County hereafter otherwise provides by resolution, all in accordance with the provisions of Section 10427 of the Streets and Highways Code.

10. The Board of Supervisors hereby refers said proposed work, acquisitions and improvements to Kenneth Frost Associates, Engineers in Marin County, California, and hereby directs said Engineers to make and file with the County Clerk of the County of Marin a Report in writing containing the matters specified in Section 10204 of the Streets and Highways Code.

11. It is the intention of the Board of Supervisors of said County that the proposed improvements comprising underground electric distribution facilities, including pole risers, underground electrical conduits, service connection boxes, transformer pads and electrical services for providing electricity and electric service within said district, shall be sold to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company without calling or advertising for bids.

Said improvements for providing electricity and electric service are more particularly set forth in said Engineer's Report to be filed in the office of the County Clerk on the day of the adoption of this Resolution of Intention and prior to the publication of this Resolution of Intention as provided below.

The Board of Supervisors hereby finds and determines as follows: That said improvements for supplying electricity and electric service so proposed to be sold cannot be economically and efficiently operated and maintained by the County of Marin, and the Board of Supervisors proposes to sell the same as aforesaid for the reason that said County has no facilities, personnel or ability for the operation and maintenance of said improvements for providing or supplying such services, or any of them; that said Pacific Gas and Electric Company is the only utility, or person or corporation that has the facilities, personnel and ability for the operation and maintenance of said improvements for providing electricity and electric service; and that calling or advertising for bids prior to said proposed sale, would be futile and useless under the circumstances and would not result in competitive bidding and that the public interest will be furthered by the sale of said improvements as herein provided without first calling or advertising for bids.

Said improvements so proposed to be sold as aforesaid are useful and necessary for the rendition of services to the Marinero Residence No. 1 Unit 2 Improvement District within said County, and the sale thereof shall be conditional upon the purchaser thereof maintaining and operating such improvements for the purpose of providing the service for which it was intended to be used.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Tuesday, the 18th day of December, 1962, at the hour of 4:00 o'clock P.M., in the meeting room of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, County Courthouse, San Rafael, California, are hereby fixed as the time and place when and where persons objecting to said proposed sale of said improvements may appear before the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin and show cause why said proposed sale shall not be made. At said time and place any owner of property assessed or being assessed to pay for the acquisition, construction or installation of said improvements proposed to be sold may appear before said Board of Supervisors and object to the sale. At any time not later than said time set for hearing objections, any owner of property assessed or being assessed to pay for the acquisition, construction or installation of said improvements proposed to be sold may make and deliver to the County Clerk of said County a written protest against the proposed sale. Failure to object in writing at said time will constitute a waiver of all objections to the proposed sale and a bar to any subsequent attack on the validity of such sale.

The County Clerk of said County is hereby authorized and directed to cause this Resolution of Intention to be published once a week for two (2) successive weeks in the INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, a newspaper of general circulation in the County of Marin.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this 13th day of November, 1962, by the following vote:

AYES: Supervisors William D. Fusselman, Peter H. Behr, George H. Ludy, William A. Gnoss, Walter Castro.

Hunter Gets It Between The Eyes

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Hunting under a special permit, Albert Little of Germantown, Ohio, bagged a raccoon near here. The 'coon also got Little.

The 29-year-old hunter said the raccoon fell from the tree where he cornered it, hitting him right between the eyes.

"I was out like a light for about five minutes, I guess," Little said. "When I came to, my dog was licking my face."

Rare Minnow Found In Pond

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP)—A species of fish never before reported east of Montreal in Canada has been found in a small pond on Newfoundland's west coast.

The find was reported by the biology department of Memorial University here which says attempts are being made to find more of the rare fish.

One specimen of the umbra lima—a species of mud minnow—was found in Noels Pond on the Earnest Harmon United States Air Base by U.S. divers working voluntarily with the university in its marine studies.

Yule Season Takes On International Air At Campus

Joyeux Noel . . . Frohe Weihnachten . . . Feliz Navidad . . . Merrie Christmas.

At Christmas, an air of internationalism floats across the campus of Scripps College in Claremont as the 300 women students stage celebrations in each of the five residence halls to which they invite the families of the college faculty and staff.

For the holiday parties which climax months of planning, one hall maintains a traditional ceremony started 25 years ago while the newest hall on the campus still seeks a "tradition."

Pages, dressed in costumes of medieval England, deliver parchment scrolls which invite guests to enjoy a 16th Century evening at Grace Scripps Residence Hall. The guests are welcomed with wassail and enjoy the arrival of the Yule Log, carried by some rather attractive "druids."

Following the trumpeter's opening of the festivities, guests are led by the squire, his lady and his court to the dining room.

The jester leads the way as a procession of waitresses parade platters of flaming plum pudding, a boar's head resplendent with the traditional bright red apple in his mouth, and other delicacies of Merrie Old England.

During the feast, tumblers and minstrels vie with the jester for the attention of the visitors.

At another residence hall, guests will be welcomed by a Danish Christmas scene as they enter the lobby, for Dorsey Hall celebrates with a traditional Danish party.

St. Lucia, dressed in a long white gown and wearing a crown of burning candles, serves the first dessert, "Lusch Torte," a part of the Danish holiday celebration. The torte promises a special good future to those finding an almond in their serving.

As an added charm for lucky almond recipients, the guests will be asked to float walnut shells with tiny candles blazing in the hall pool. The ones whose candles float the longest are assured a joyous future.

On the door of each girl's room, a cat, a bowl or an elf tells the story of the whimsical brownie, Jule-Nissen, who must be left a bowl of porridge on Christmas Eve as a bribe to control his mischief for another year.

As guests cross the campus to approach Browning Hall, the light coming from hundreds of "Luminarios" placed along the walks and across every part of the rooftop announce that Old Mexico lives again within the walls.

(Luminarios are candles centered in sand placed within common paper bags. The glow of the candle's flame through the paper casts a golden light.)

Senoritas and senors sing gay fiesta songs of the Mexican people and dancers swirl around the floor to the nation's celebration music.

A dramatic matador challenges a somewhat unusual looking bull each year and always succeeds in mastering the animal.

Climaxing the Mexican fiesta, candy cascades from a pottery pinata which is smashed by the guests. The treats are rapidly gathered by the youngsters delightedly attending the Mexican party.

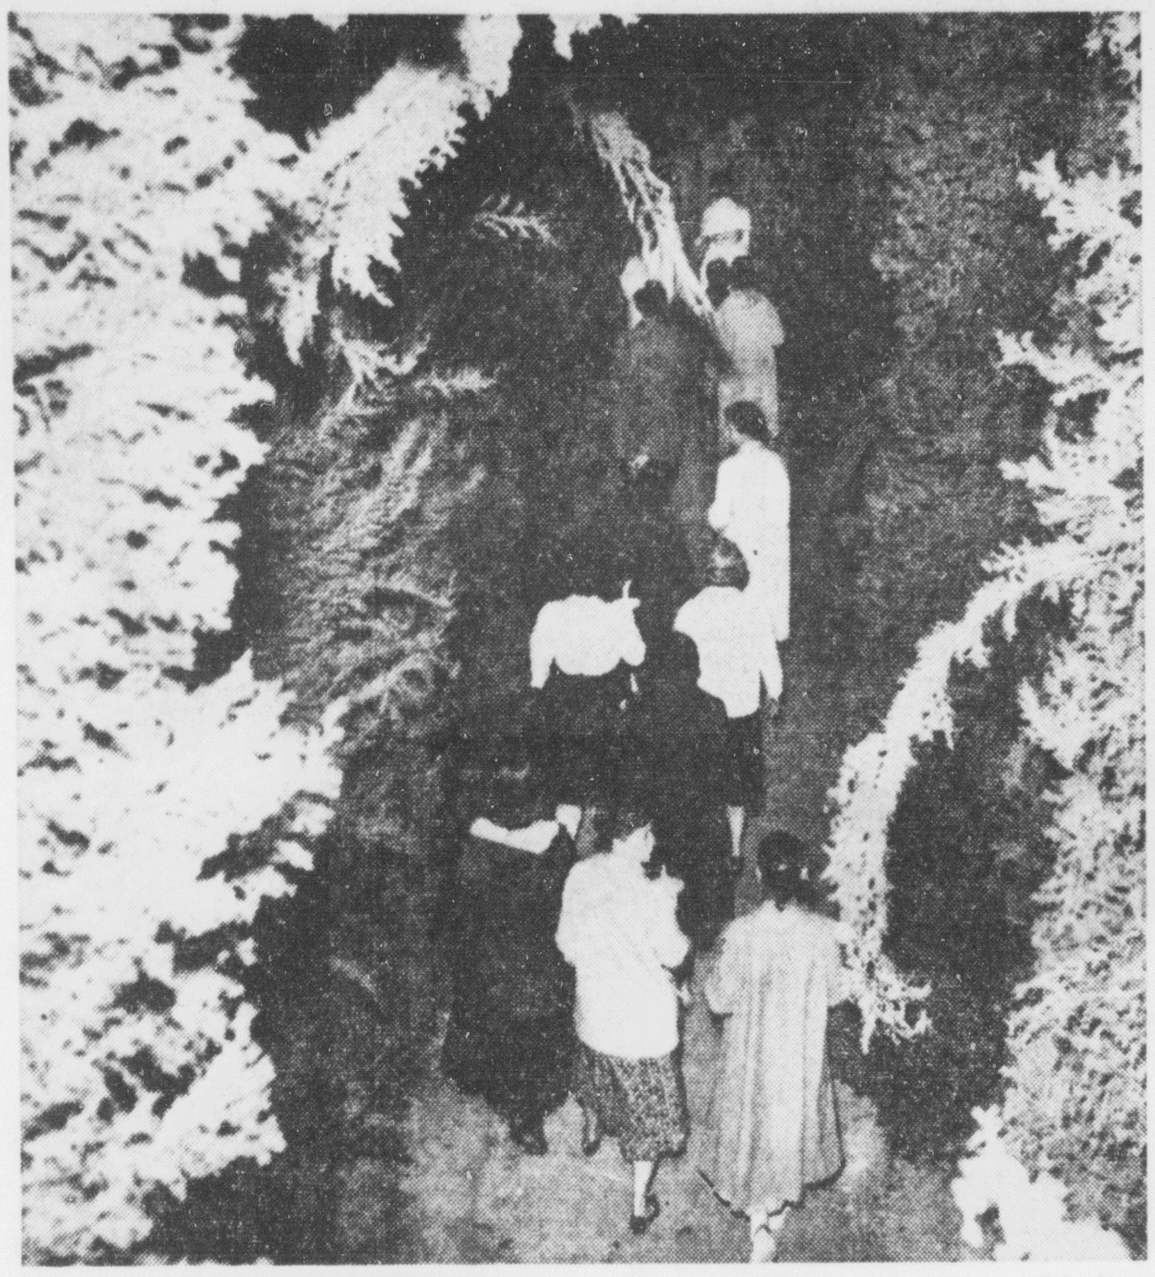
A complete Scandinavian dinner with plum and apple-stuffed turkeys, red cabbage and applecake will be served the members of the Scripps College faculty and staff and their families at another campus hall. Here, singers in the masks of farm animals entertain the guests.

As guests sit in the light of the Christmas tree they will be entertained by traditional Danish dances. Each year, the tree is decorated with strings of popcorn, cranberries and handmade paper ornaments.

In the newest residence hall, Mary Kimberly, the college students have yet to establish a specific holiday party theme. During their first year in the new hall, they presented "The Nutcracker Suite."

As the evening draws to a close, carols sung by the Scripps choir call the guests from each of the halls to join a candlelight procession. They wind their way across the campus, located at the foothills of the majestic San Bernardino Mountains, seeking a Madonna which has been secreted in an appropriate setting on the grounds.

The finding of the Madonna by the more than 500 procession members closes "l'affaire internationale" at Scripps College.



CANDLELIGHT PROCESSION wends its way along a cypress-lined walk on the Scripps College campus in Claremont searching for a Madonna and Christmas tableau. Finding the tableau always is the climax of an evening in which each of the college residence halls has given a traditional Christmas party.

NEW-BORN SAVIOUR

No Treasure Chest Rich As Christmas

By REV. FRANKLIN CLARK FRY
President, Lutheran Church in America

Greetings, in the name of our new-born Saviour, to all who are waiting for the coming King!

He is the One of whom St. Paul spoke in his second epistle to the Corinthians, the eighth chapter and the ninth verse, when he wrote: "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich."

DR. FRANKLIN FRY
World church leader

No treasure chest is so rich and full as Christmas. Peace is in it and joy and hope and love and patience and a true sense of values. Peace is declared between man and God in this King. He was born to reconcile even the rebellious soul, the soul that hates God and actually in its insanity tries to destroy God, who is its Maker.

Joy to the world the Lord is come. Behold, said the angel, I bring you glad tidings of great joy! Hope has its perfect symbol in the newborn child. When God became a baby, he turned away from the past. He entered our life at the stage, infancy, that has only one tense, the future.

The child Jesus draws out our love. The mighty God who so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son compels it. Patience is reasonable and becomes sane in the light of this manger.

God has given us a pledge, a hostage, in His Son. If he had ever intended to desert Him in this world, He would never have permitted His best beloved to be born.

Purity, humility and love are the three virtues that are most typical of Christmas.

When the spotless Son of God was born on Christmas, He was laid in an earthly manger, right in the midst of a sinful and oppressive world. He was so sparkling clean that everybody soon saw the contrast!

The pure Saviour will not live today in human hearts that will not repent and be cleansed.

Christmas is equally the festical of humility. The all-powerful Son of God was so humble that he became a helpless child!

(The center door of the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, His birthplace, is so low that all pilgrims have to bend their backs to enter it.)

In so doing He has given courage and confidence to all other helpless ones since His time. Men who are full of pride can never welcome this newborn King, who stooped to be born.

Above all, the Saviour's birth shows the Father's love. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

We Christians are worthiest of the little Jesus when Christian love for our fellow men makes us resent and resist every injustice which in inflicted upon our fellow men.

As Martin Luther said, in our dealings with our neighbors each of us must become a kind of Christ to them.

MESSAGE OF FAITH FOR YULE

Rev. Franklin Clark Fry, one of the most influential leaders in world Protestanism, is chairman of the policy-making Central Committee of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Fry is president of the new 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America and for 18 years served as president of the United Lutheran Church in America. He also is president of the 50,000,000-member Lutheran World Federation.

He was born Aug. 30, 1900, in Bethlehem, Pa.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, "Fear not for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

Christmas At First Rejected Yule Trees

Holly and evergreen come from the Roman Saturnalia. By trimming their homes with this greenery, the Romans believed they could keep out evil spirits.

The Christians at first rejected the custom, but later adopted it reluctantly because an untrimmed house marked them as Christians and next in line for the gladiators.

Creamy Coconut

Fireproof Hair For Santa Claus

Whiskers and wigs make the Santa! And wise Mrs. Santas choose sets made of nylon "hair" which is fireproof—and can be kept fluffy and sanitary by washing in warm suds and rinses.

These sets can even be machine-washed and dried if put in a protective mesh bag.

When dry, brush or comb both wig and whiskers to keep Santa well-groomed.

The kids will never recognize "you know who" in these snowy, fluffy head and chin trimmings.

Diamond Dip For That Gift

Ladies who receive diamonds in their stockings will want to keep their gems sparkling. Using a tea strainer, immerse the gems in sudsy water with ammonia added.

Bring the suds to a boil. Cool under running warm water and drain them on tissue. Finally, dip them into alcohol and let them dry.

Restore Ornaments

Tarnished Christmas tree ornaments will serve once more when painted with colored nail polish.

World Bible-reading Class Started By Marine In War

"The biggest Bible-reading class anywhere," was the Kansis City Star's description of the Thanksgiving-to-Christmas Bible reading program sponsored by the American Bible Society.

The program, which now is worldwide, traces its beginning to a Marine overseas in World War II who suggested that he and his family at home read the same Scripture verses on the same day.

Now bookmarks, listing suggested Bible readings for each day of Advent, are printed for distribution round the world in English, Spanish, Korean, Japanese, Chinese, Thai, Portuguese, Greek, Turkish, German, French, Dutch and Arabic.

The Bible Society (450 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y.) also publishes "Unto You a Savior" to be read at Christmas time. It is the story of the birth and childhood of Jesus as told in the Gospel of Luke, King James version; printed in small booklet form, in large type.

These booklets are distributed free at hospitals, homes for the aged, rescue missions, correctional institutions, YMCAs, YWCAs, hotels, motels and on individual request.

They also are published in German by the Biblemission in Deutschland and in Japanese by the Japan Bible Society.

"Unto You a Savior" also is used by the "biggest Bible-reading class," as the reading for Christmas Eve.

Much Romance In Christmas Legend, Myths

There are many charming traditions about love and lovers connected with the Christmas holidays.

In northern England, young maidens place holly under their pillows with the verse, "Good St. Thomas, serve me right, and send me my true love tonight."

In the Swiss Alps, when a young woman accepts a gift of edelweiss, it is traditionally understood that she also accepts the young gentleman who offers it.

And of course the custom of kissing under the mistletoe, as an expression of everlasting love, is one which dates back centuries. Although still a part of our Christmas tradition, it is now more of a "fun" custom rather than a sentimental one.

Yule Customs Of Mexico On Display

CLAREMONT (AP)—Christmas customs of the Mexican village are displayed in the United States each year, during the eight-week run of "Las Posadas" on the stage of the Padua Hills Theater in California.

Carolers, representing Mary and Joseph going from door to door in Bethlehem seeking posada (shelter) before the birth of the Christ Child, sing from door to door in Mexican villages for nine evenings before Christmas.

They are denied admission everywhere until Christmas Eve when a prearranged home invites the singers in for a fiesta. At midnight someone announces that the Holy Child is born and the hand-carved image of the Child is discovered, dressed and placed with the other images in the family nacimiento (manger scene).

These customs, and that of the Pinata, are woven into the first scene of the Padua Hills play.

In the play, Ramon, caretaker of the church, has been given the collection from the poor box to take to the padre's room. He lays the money down while he prays and it is stolen. The barefooted thief stops by Ramon's house on his flight into the mountains and Ramon's son gives him his father's shoes. The man decides to leave the money and hides it in the family pinata, an elaborately decorated clay jar full of candy, fruits, nuts and small gifts.

When Ramon's daughter dons a blindfold and gaily breaks the pinata, the padre is present. He sees the coins rain down and believes Ramon had hidden the money.

But Ramon is vindicated when the posada singers come to his home for the fiesta. The beautiful image of the child they find at midnight was obviously left by an image maker who is a notorious ne'er-do-well.

The second half of the play concerns the dream of Ramon's son about the images in the nacimiento. It is a nativity play still done in Mexico—not in Mexican, Spanish or even Holy Land clothes, but in the costumes of medieval central Europe.

Herman Garner, who has been chairman of the board of Padua Institute since its beginning, believes the play was passed from central Europe to France, to Spain, then to Mexico.

The scene begins with an angel telling Mary of the coming birth. Then the angel tells a group of dancing shepherds and shepherdesses to go find the manger at Bethlehem. The devil, portrayed as a dragon, comes out to tempt the shepherds and shepherdesses, but they manage to resist him and arrive at the manger.

The las posadas songs, which differ somewhat by region, in this play are as sung in La Canada de Caracheo in the state of Guanajuato.

The theater is built on a foothill of the Sierra Madre Mountains, north of Claremont, and has in conjunction with it a dining room and shops where pottery is made, decorated and sold.

Seven plays are given a year, some in English, some in Spanish, but all aimed toward English-speaking audiences. Actors are Mexican, more than half from Mexico, the rest second-generation Americans.

Garner says, "The theater was built in 1930 for the Claremont Community Players, with Mexican entertainment in the dining room. We tried these entertainers out in the theater and found them talented. We also found that people who came here with prejudices discovered a culture that was quite appealing. We found they dropped their prejudices.

"We discovered more by accident than by design that the audiences feel the emotions of the people on stage. And once you've felt that, they never seem so foreign again."

BREAKING THE PINATA — The blindfolded daughter in the Mexican family tries to break the gayly decorated pottery pinata while her mother uses a pulley to try and jerk it out of her reach. Father plays music and brother is ready to catch the Christmas goodies which fall from a broken pinata.

MANGER SCENE comes to life in "Las Posadas," the Christmas play of Mexico given at Padua Hills Theater in California. The nativity play which is part of "Las Posadas" is given yearly in Mexican villages.

Choose Tree By Its Color

Buying a tree? Select a bright green one. That way you will get a better looking tree and also avoid the fire hazard inherent in one with pale or brown needles.

When you get it home, take a diagonal slice off the butt, an inch or two from the end. This will expose green wood that will absorb water when placed in a pan.

Be sure the stand permits you to set the butt in a water container.

Avoid placing the tree near stoves, fireplaces, hot air ducts, radiators, television sets and other heat sources.

Christmas Was Once Time Of Pagan Rites

The season that we now know as Christmas was originally a time of pagan rituals. In ancient times, Dec. 25 was the day of the Sun Festival and the 12 days following were devoted to the expulsion of all evil.

During this time, torches were lighted, bells jangled and kettles clattered in a great hue and cry that rose to ear-splitting proportions in order to drive out all wandering witches, ghosts and demons.

PRETTY BIRDS in rainbow hues pose a difficult decision for these two little boys in search of a singing Christmas present. The more beautiful the color, the more expensive the bird.

Christmas Means Many Invitations For Bachelors

Consider the poor bachelor this Christmas—but don't insist he come to dinner.

Chances are he'll want very much to accept so he won't have to spend the festive day sulking at home over a burned hot dog and warm beer.

Chances are, also, that yours will be one of several invitations he receives — and he'll likely try to keep them all.

This can spell disaster.

Take the case of a young gent last year who was too far from home to consider making the day a family affair. Friends took due note of his plight and invitations were forthcoming.

"Stop by for some Christmas cheer . . ." "Drop up; we're having martinis before dinner . . ." "I think maybe you'll find a little something under the tree."

"You can't spend Christmas alone. Plan to have dinner with us."

"You've got to sample my new egg nog . . ."

Somehow the idea seems prevalent that bachelors and booze are synonymous. Perhaps wedded ones reason the poor soul wants to forget that he has no family of his own to cheer him on this family day.

The bachelor, on the other hand, after cracking his toe on a piece of electric train, playing innumerable games with the host's small fry and recovering from a session of indoor football and a backyard snowball war, might be thinking his lucky stars that such blessings have thus far been denied him.

It may even prove such a trauma that he's afraid to talk with the beautiful young bachelar girl his thoughtful hostess inevitably tries to pair him with.

Going alone to a family affair produces other perplexing moments—the countless questions from the smallest youngsters present:

"Where's your wife?"

"I don't have a wife."

"Why not?"

"Well, I . . . you see, it's . . . how would you like to play a snappy game of electronic baseball?"

Bachelors, having no children of their own, are always the ones to don the Santa suit and distribute gifts to everyone else's little ones. This isn't bad—if only the beard didn't itch and the kids didn't grab.

Often to avoid this reminder of their family-less state, members of the single set will band together in "pot luck" Christmas dinners, with girls supplying their cooking skill and guys their moral support and advice.

These sessions can be friendly and easy-going. But somehow they're just not quite like the good old days at home, with Mom in the kitchen, Dad in front of the fire, toys scattered across the room, and you—at the tender age of 6—asking questions of that funny man sitting alone nursing a cracked toe and muttering something about a backyard snowball war.

Yule Tree Comes In Categories

When the head of the house goes forth to choose a Christmas tree, he is likely to buy one that most closely duplicates the tree of his childhood. And the tree of his childhood probably was a Douglas fir.

Also of appeal to the buyer is the fact that the fir is a good, middle-of-the-road purchase. It's true there are cheaper trees, particularly red cedar and Virginia pine, but for all-round good looks, the fir is more appealing. In the more luxurious price brackets are ranged the blue spruce, the white spruce and the Scotch pine.

Members of the American Christmas Tree Council take a practical approach to tree buying. They suggest that the area where the tree is to be placed is first measured exactly: both ceiling height and width. Guesswork is difficult when the buyer is facing a lot crowded with hundreds of trees.

If the tree is to be tucked into a corner, the buyer can save money by choosing a tree with an imperfect side, since trees are price-tagged primarily according to species, height and quality.

Or if the tree is to be viewed from all sides, he can look for a perfect tree that is shorter than ceiling height, and therefore less expensive.

According to U. S. standard grades for marking Christmas trees, the categories are:

1. U. S. Premium: Fully branched trees, dense and symmetrical.
2. U. S. No. 1 (Select): Fairly dense branching, symmetrical, with three complete faces.
3. U. S. No. 2 (Standard): Sparsely branched, with long clear stem area between whorls of branches, but symmetrical.
4. Culls: Trees with major defects.

Select and standard trees are adequate for a corner location. And any minor defects can be easily hidden by ropes of tinsel and dripping strands of silver foil.

Many Gifts For Man Who Hunts

The latest style rifle would be a major gift. More modest: a cartridge belt designed to hold a large supply of ammunition.

A hunter's clothing is as important as his gun and an alpaca-lined safari jacket with extra large pockets for gear may be just the thing.

Consider Giving Pet When You Are Shopping For Child

Most popular gift under the Christmas tree is likely to be one that can't be wrapped in sparkling paper.

A pet for the children, carefully chosen with due respect to the youngsters' ages and the kind of living the family prefers, is likely to be the star of the holiday.

In the easy-to-care-for category are the pets content to spend most of their time in cages. These may be hamsters, guinea pigs, parakeets or canaries. Undemanding as they are, they seek only an occasional airing, need be fed only once a day, and harbor their food for later meals if they're not hungry.

Tropical fish are another popular selection because their tank takes up little room. Stores selling tropical fish advise, however, that the purchaser begin in a small way with the nearly indestructible guppy, since the more colorful tropical fish are harder to raise. Problems of correct water temperature and tank cleaning may prove too difficult for young children caring for the more delicate fish.

Later, if the hobby catches on and the young naturalist proves equal to the task, angel fish, gold fish, and Zebras can be added.

Handsome as the white rabbit looks in his cage, the gift giver would do well to give his care a bit of thought in advance. Ideally, he belongs outdoors in a large hutch, for he is a notoriously untidy animal. And he must also be protected against marauding dogs when he's given his airing.

Dogs and cats still rank as the most popular animal gifts at Christmas. The pet may be picked up for free from a pound, or may be a highly pedigreed Norwegian elk hound or Siamese cat.

The size and disposition of the dog, as well as local laws concerning leashing, must all be considered in choosing a suitable pet. Large dogs, such as Dalmatians, Great Danes and collies, need a great deal of exercise, and shouldn't be given a second thought in a built-up neighborhood. Cockers, boxers, dachshunds and many other smaller dogs make suitable companions in limited quarters.

ST. NICHOLAS VISIT

The Story Behind Famed Yule Poem

Had a language professor not been sent to the butcher shop on Christmas Eve, 1882, chances are we might not have our best-known and best-loved Christmas poem.

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore wrote "A Visit from St. Nicholas" while picking up the traditional turkey. The sometime poet had been trying to think of a surprise for his six children. A poem was the logical solution.

On the way back from the shop, his mumbling may have been something like this: "On Christmas Eve and everywhere — h m m — On the night before Christmas — ah — Twas the night before Christmas and . . . all through the house!"

Dr. Moore was a well-to-do language professor living in the Chelsea section of New York City early in the 19th Century. He was also, apparently, a speedy writer. By the time he reached his estate in what is now a crowded part of the great city he had composed the entire poem. His children, ranging from 8 months to 7 years, were properly surprised and delighted.

Respectable scholars and translators such as Dr. Moore did not publish such flippery in those days. It took much passing around of copies among relatives before the poem reached the desk of the Sentinel, a Troy, N. Y., newspaper, just in time for the following Christmas.

The Sentinel published the poem with a preface claiming it had no idea who had written it. This was to protect the professor's reputation. Later, other newspapers picked it up, and Dr. Moore's Christmas Eve present was secure in American folklore.

Moore did not invent Santa Claus. Nor did he introduce the jolly figure to this country. Santa Claus had been central in ecclesiastical controversy since Pilgrim days. The Puritans flatly outlawed any celebration of Christmas, solemn or otherwise. Other groups thought otherwise. The Dutch, particularly, would not give up their St. Nicholas, or Sinterklaas, who came originally not on Christmas Eve but on Dec. 5.

By Dr. Moores' time, Santa Claus had been evolved to something not unlike the jolly old elf in the poem.

The St. Nick of "A Visit" had a human model — "a portly, rubicund Dutchman living in the neighborhood of Chelsea," as Dr. Moore wrote a friend. It was typical of Moore to gather all the lore already existing, then add touches of his own, such as the Dutchman, and a sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.

"A Visit from St. Nicholas" has been translated into nearly every language. There are more than 40 editions of the poem in the Library of Congress.

Model Builder Gift Suggestion

An excellent gift for a builder of wooden models is a knife chest.

Such chests come in many sizes and the larger ones include more than 20 different cuttting blades and tools. There are numerous accessories for HO scale railroad enthusiasts such as bridges, tunnels and special type cars.

Popular with the boys are boat and plane kits with motors and propellers. For the girls there are doll and carriage assembling outfits.

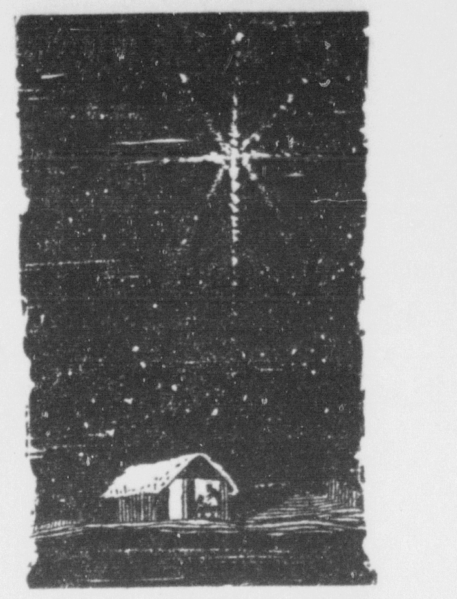
How Famed Yule Song Started



"Silent Night" was written for a church that was all too silent.

The church mice had chosen to eat the organ bellows for their Christmas Week feast. There was neither money nor time to repair the bellows, so it looked as if there would be no music for Christmas Day.

The Rev. Joseph Mohr pondered the problem while returning from a sick call on Christmas Eve, 1818.

Striding across the Austrian Tyrol he might have wondered why a priest ordained at the famous Benedictine Abbey of St. Peter's in Salzburg should suddenly find himself in Oberndorf, shepherd of one of the poorest flocks in Austria. He probably did not think of this for long.

For as he looked around, he saw the candles his parishoners carried as they walked to Midnight Mass. He thought they looked like stars, sparkling against the snow on this silent and holiest of nights.

The words of the now-famous carol must have come to Father Mohr at that moment. Struggling with additional lines, he finally reached the church.

Immediately after the service, Father Mohr ran to the house of the village schoolteacher, Franz Gruber. Together they worked through the night, Mohr adding verses to "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht" and Gruber writing the music.

The following morning, the two young men introduced parishoners of St. Nicholas Church to "Silent Night."

Worshipers were treated to the sight of a priestly singer accompanied on an Italian guitar by a bleary-eyed schoolteacher.

A short time after this first performance, enough money was scraped together to pay an organ repairman. Gruber chose to test the newly repaired organ with the new carol. The organ man was entranced with the song and returned to his own village humming it. Soon his village was singing the song and from there it spread throughout Austria.

People from Oberndorf did not travel very much. No one from the village realized that the song had become famous.

It was noted first as an "anonymous folk song" and then "probably written by Michael Haydn." Many years later, a choirmaster decided to find out who had really written the song.

He found Franz Gruber who, quite angry to discover that other hands had changed the key and metre of his composition, immediately wrote out the song and sent it to the Emperor. This manuscript has been preserved.

CHILDREN OF HONOLULU stare through a store window at Christmas toys in coconut snow—the only kind of snow Hawaii knows.

Hobby For Boys Becomes Big Business

Boys Republic, residence of boys from broken homes, will produce more than 30,000 Della Robbia wreaths for the doors of family homes this Christmas.

Boys Republic, located on a 250-acre farm near Chino, was organized as a home and school for boys in 1907. The boys have been in the wreath business since 1947. The enterprise is now large enough to gross about $300,000 each year, paying about half of the school's operating expenses.

The job of making wreaths, once a hobby for the boys, is now such a production that the 140 residents and staff cannot handle it. Now approximately 150 men and women are hired to assemble the wreaths during the three-week production and mailing period.

The list of persons ordering the wreaths from across the nation is like reading "Who's Who." Each year the White House door is hung with a complimentary Della Robbia wreath.

The project of making the wreaths from living materials is a year-long task. Materials for the wreaths are gathered all during the year with the boys collecting foliage and pods throughout the entire Southern California area.

The first step in the production is the making of a heavy wire frame. Redwood foliage shipped from northern California is placed on the frame. Then 15 varieties of seed pods, cones, lemons, apples, other fruit and nuts are attached.

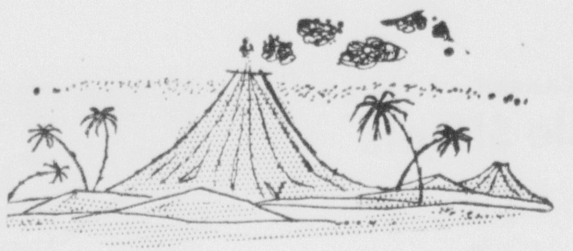
Each wreath is sprayed, touched up with gold, silver and bronze gilt and resprayed with preservative.

When the wreaths are dry, a conveyor belt carries them into a boxing room where they are packaged for shipping from the big tent post office set up temporarily at Boys Republic.

Wreaths are in two sizes, 20-inch and 30-inch.

The Della Robbia wreath gets its name from the ceramic pieces sculptured by the Della Robbia family in Florence, Italy.

Hawaiians Defied Pagan Goddess



By JACK SCHREIBMAN

HONOLULU (AP)—The pagan Hawaiians could not have known that 45 years after killing Capt. James Cook they would embark on the road to the white man's Christ.

Today, the Hawaiian celebration of Christmas is not very different from the way Christians celebrate it elsewhere in America.

Hawaii businessmen hang their Christmas decorations too early, just as is done from California to Maine.

Before Christmas, white-whiskered, jolly fat men, ho, ho, ho-ing in the accepted fashion, distribute free candy to good little keikis (children) in all sections of the city.

Supermarkets are awash in turkeys, as are newspapers in ways to cook them. The Salvation Army suddenly finds itself in the spotlight for feeding the poor, anonymously done the rest of the year.

The department stores are furiously cashing in on the holiday spirit by giving, while churchmen toil to intersperse the heavy commerce with the light of the Christ Child.

They go to the beach in Hawaii on Christmas Day, as temperatures flirt in the mid-80s. Tourists from the north stare glassy-eyed at the sand and sparkling surf, suddenly homesick for the accustomed snowy signs of Christmas.

Jack Frost is forever banned here at the 21st degree of latitude.

Hawaii residents delight in their special place in the American community of states. Their four counties are separated by many miles of open ocean. The 50th state is the most isolated in the union, 2,400 miles from California and at least 4,000 miles from other major land masses.

They are most proud of the intermingled bloods that built Hawaii. They say "Merry Christmas" in many ways in the beautiful green islands:

You're likely to hear "Shuku Kulisimasu" from the Japanese; "Kung Ho Sen Dan" from the Chinese; "Maligayang Pasco" from the Filipino, "Ku Ju Sung Tun Meng Jul" from the Korean and "Mele Kalikimaka" from the Hawaiian.

Their festive Yule boards groan from the usual gobblers—but also kim chee, bucayo, laulau, sukiyaki and mow goo gai.

And when you jump in the island holiday shopping crush, in there pitching with you you'll find the Lees, Gimas, Matsumotos, Hans, Kealohas, Smiths, Mayers and Saguritans. Americans all.

The dawn of Christianity in Hawaii was a monumental and wrenching experience for the Hawaiian savage of 1824.

This naked Polynesian child of the sun lived in a world of kapus (taboos), which to break meant death. He lived in a whirl of pagan gods—Lono of fertility; Anuenue of rainbows; Ku-ula of fishermen; Kane of living water; Kanaloa of the sea.

He lived in constant fear of the wrathful goddess Pele, woman of fire and volcano, womb of all the islands.

Legend and history say it was in this time that high chiefess Kapiolani of Kaawaloa felt moved by white man's learning to lead her people out of the dark ages into the light of Christianity.

On Dec. 22, 1824, four years after the arrival of the first missionaries from Massachussetts, Kapiolani defied the terrible Pele on the rim of the boiling cauldron of Kilauea Volcano, on Hawaii Island.

She camped there all night, determined to prove that the god of the missionaries was stronger than Pele. Kapiolani's subjects trembled, their anguished faces reflecting the glowing red liquid that boiled beneath them.

They waited, certain that an enraged Pele would snuff out their lives with one terrible convulsion of blazing lava. But nothing happened. In the morning, Kapiolani hurled this challenge:

"Jehovah is my God. I fear not Pele. Should I perish by her anger, then you may fear her powers. But if Jehovah saves me, then you must fear and serve Jehovah."

Decorate Tumblers

Inexpensive glass tumblers will lend a gay touch to holiday parties when they are decorated with spray glitter or snow and brightly colored tape. Or you can paint them with red fingernail polish to make Santa Claus faces. Add color-tinted ice cubes for sparkle.

Toyland's Creations Up To Date

Toy designers have gone to astonishing lengths this Christmas to translate today's fast-paced developments into purposeful play activities for children.

Toyland's creations are painstakingly accurate and up-to-the-minute. Little ones who wish to play store will find a deluxe supermarket giving trading stamps. Junior gardeners can have a hey-day with a kit which provides materials for landscaping an entire lakeside resort.

Most spectacular of all perhaps is an analog computer, which math-minded students construct from scratch. After they have built transsistors, an audio-indicator, oscillators and amplifiers, their mechanical creation will come up with the answer: to a battery of questions.

Thanks to the booming world of electronics, there's almost no end to the projects children can launch in the playroom, says Mel Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council.

There is equipment for orbiting to the moon, a telephone that conducts a conversation and a radio set that makes it possible to transmit voice or code to the home radio without wires.

This season's toys are meant to be put to use, rather than being relegated to the gadget category. A telescope with a camera attachment makes it possible for a young astronomer to photograph the moon. Microscopes are more high-powered than ever, one having a projector attachment for group viewing of specimens. Power tools may be miniatures of Dad's, but they cut plastic "wood" accurately and safely.

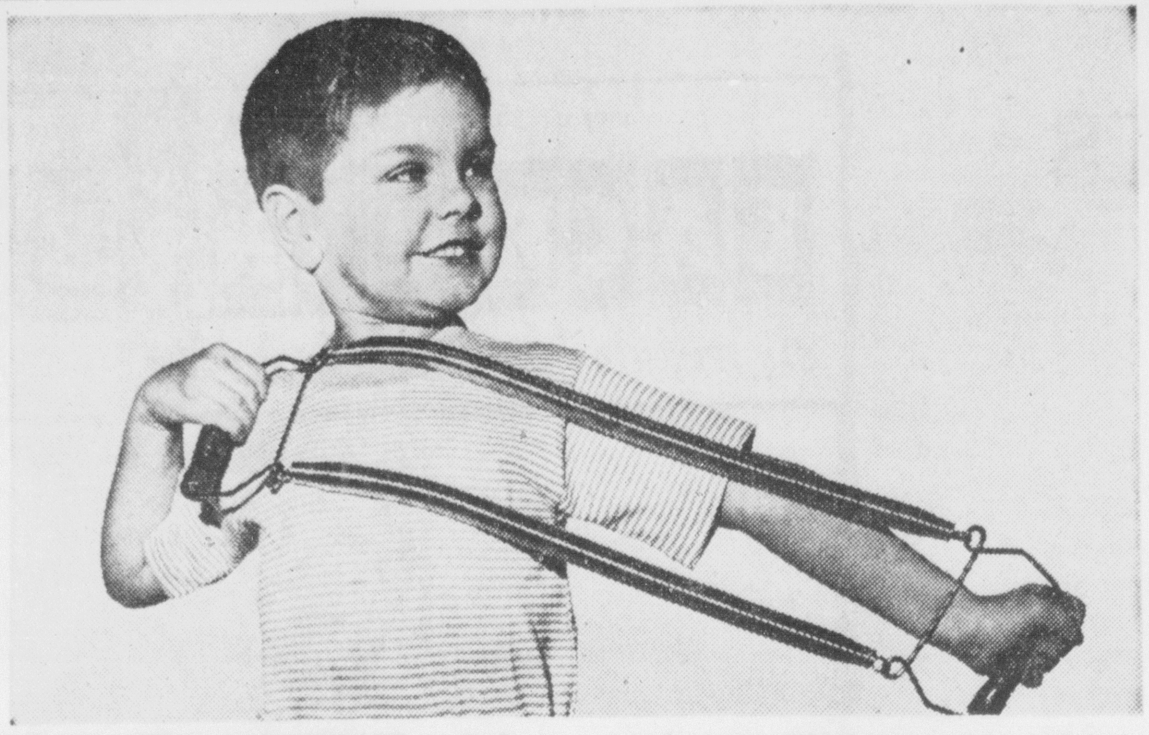
Freud points out that toyland's age appeal is significantly broadened this year, because of the heavy increase in science kits, hobby sets and games planned to interest the teenager.

At the same time, he points out, there is increased simplification of building toys, science kits, games and home-making equipment to fit the capabilities of the small fry.

Name a hobby, and there's an appropriate kit to match. Young children may study shells, rocks or butterflies with the aid of a beginner's kit. Teen-agers with medical leanings can learn anatomy putting a skeleton together, or building a plastic human heart which is equipped with a bulb-popping action to show how the blood circulates.

But despite the purposefulness of such kits, there's fun and whimsy in Christmas, too. More nonsense games than ever before are on the market. Stuffed animals are pleasantly zany, and more likely than not to make appropriate noises when pulled or punched.

All kinds of creative play may be inspired by an animal-equipped plastic barn and a garden in which flourish colorful plastic vegetables.



GAMES WITH A PURPOSE include this device to build bigger and bigger muscles. This young do-it-yourselfer works out with a chest pull, part of a line of physical fitness inventions scaled for children 6 to 16.

TRANSPORTATION BEAUTIES — past and present, can be built from scratch from the handsome model kits that are bigger and better this Christmas. Demonstrating the best of both worlds, this youngster aims his Mercury capsule heavenward, while his finished clipper ship offers picturesque background.

A SCIENTIFIC VIEW of the world is made possible with this model microscope, which magnifies 750 times. Others may study the findings through an audience viewer, which either projects on a screen or can be used for group

Wrapping Gifts Takes More Than Paper And String

There's more to Christmas gift wrapping than just paper and string! A little imagination and a wide range of attractive materials go a long way towards making your packages look especially bright and festive.

First of all, start with a gaily colored wrapping paper that is the right size for the package. Too much paper results in bulkiness. Shape the corners neatly and smoothly. Scotch tape, plain or in a holiday design, will help. Add novelty touches with such items as sequins, tinsel and glass beads.

Try a shopping bag for gifts that would require an unusually large container. Decorate it with gilt, tinsel or color and crown the whole creation with a big ribbon bow.

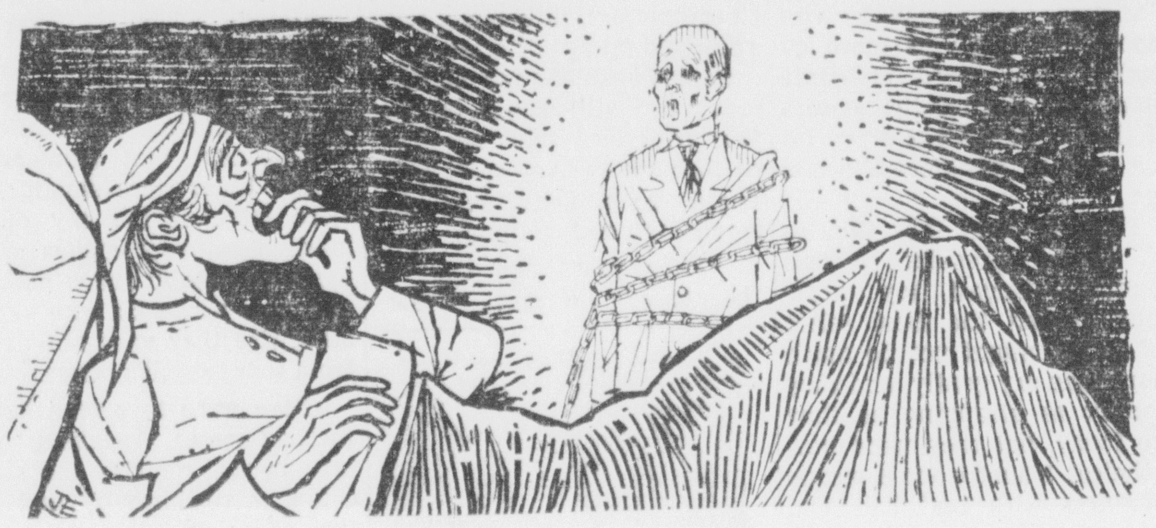
Dickens Believed Christmas Is Time Of Redemption

A time of redemption for all the evils of the year—this was Charles Dickens' Christmas.

Dickens knew the evils firsthand. As the second child in a closely knit nomadic English family of 10, he had gone to work before reaching his teens. His father, an habitually unlucky clerk, had been thrown into Debtor's Prison. While Mrs. Dickens operated a school in Camden Town, the young Charles worked in a warehouse, tying and labeling pots of blacking. His father was finally released, but Charles' formal childhood ended when he went to work. He never returned to it.



Wanderings in search of a career led him to journalism. On assignment, he wrote a series of stories. These were so successful that he stopped reporting. His career as an author was launched.

Dickens became a social critic. Some of his villains were amusing, misguided men, but those drawn from the days of his youth were drawn relentlessly. The Debtor's Prison was the height of absurdity; those men who lived solely for financial gain were completely evil.

Dickens was the champion of the poor and the humane. He believed in Christmas as their season. He fought against the puritan sects in England for the right of the people to their Christmas. The poor, he said, had the right to joy to lift their burdens. And the people had the right to the season.

When he wrote "A Christmas Carol," Dickens was a popular author but, like his father, he had no talent for managing money. The story was written just before the Christmas season of 1843, when he was 31. Soon afterward, Dickens and his family left for Italy, where living was cheaper.

"A Christmas Carol" was the embodiment of all his ideals of Christmas. It marked the end of the venomous young social crusader. Scrooge, certainly, was an inhumane man. But Dickens understood him. Scrooge had taken a wrong turn somewhere along the way. The three spirits of Christmas showed him the wrong turn and the results, both present and future. Scrooge woke on Christmas morning, a new man—redeemed

What made life the marvel it was, was the possibility of redemption. And the redemption came most often at Christmas time. Dickens believed this all of his days, and after "A Christmas Carol," he wrote more of redemption than of sin.

During the years following, "A Christmas Carol" was reprinted countless times. On his lecture tours, especially through the United States, Dickens became used to his reputation as "the man who wrote A Christmas Carol." It was the most requested of all his works.

When he died, at the age of 58, a little English boy cried: "Is Mr. Dickens dead? And will Father Christmas die too?"

Blankets Made For Indians!

HARBOR CITY, Los Angeles County (AP)—There is a lady here who makes blankets for Indians.

"I got my hand in a washing machine ringer 15 years ago," Mrs. Ralph Smith explains, "and I promised God if my hand got well, I'd use it very day of my life to do something for someone less fortunate than I."

As a result of the pledge, Mrs. Smith has been forced to add a room to her house to accommodate the Christmas gifts she stitches year round.

Her first project was to dress dolls for children in the Sister Kenny polio clinic at El Monte, Calif.

"I kept the toy cupboard full," she says. "Then I began to make things for old people at a county home."

Later, she added Indians and TB patients to her Christmas gift list.

Using donated scraps that range from curtains discarded by a Baptist Church to a roll of plastic a disgusted manufacturer dumped in her front yard after his furniture business collapsed, Mrs. Smith makes slippers, baby clothes, head rests, blankets (which are really more like quilts), and many other things.

Most of the slippers are made from heavy, serviceable material, but a few each year are made of bright taffeta and go to girls in a tuberculosis hospital.

Realizing that the spirit as well as the body may need healing, Mrs. Smith also sends 25 beautifully dressed dolls to mothers at a TB hospital who can't Christmas shop but who would like to send presents to their children.

"The dolls," Mrs. Smith says, "are my luxury item. I never start dressing them until last."

Mrs. Smith's husband, a merchant mariner, helps dress the dolls when he's at home. His main contribution is to string beads. Many of the dolls wear necklaces, flowers in their hair or other ornaments.

"The other day," Mrs. Smith says, "I got some fur scraps, so I made stoles."

Mrs. Smith makes an enormous investment of time (from 10 to 14 hours a day) in her work but very little of money.

"People give me dolls for Christmas and my birthday," she says, "because they know I need them to dress."

With the help of a friend who has a station wagon, she delivers almost all her gifts herself (2,000 is her goal for 1962). A missionary whom she's known more than 20 years picks up the gifts for the Indians.

Doesn't Mrs. Smith get tired from so much sewing?

"Well," she says, "when you promise something, you like to do it. God didn't promise me anything. I promised Him. When I'm not working—like right now—I feel funny."

Gifts Of Food Are Inexpensive

If you are looking for inexpensive gifts, why not give food?

A working girl will appreciate quick-breakfast makings — instant coffee, strawberry preserves, a coffee mug. Everyone likes snacks — crackers, cheese, mixed nuts, or a salami and a loaf of rye bread.

For your sweet-tooth friends, there are many varieties of fancy cookies (bake them yourself, or buy them), or fruit cake, or candies.

For those with a spirit of adventure, give a combination of jars or mixes of salad dressings, or a collection of exotic canned spreads and tidbits.

Mistletoe Symbol

In ancient times, mistletoe was regarded as a symbol of hope and peace. When enemies met under the mistletoe, they would drop their arms and embrace. It is thought that the custom of kissing under the mistletoe grew out of this ancient practice.

THESE TOYS ARE LIGHT

Light as a feather are these giant interlocking building blocks. The largest weighs one and one-tenth ounces; the smallest, four-tenths of an ounce. If the walls come tumbling down, there are no hazards with these new plastic foam building materials.

New Toys Are Up To The Minute And Old Standbys Still Popular

Though the toy stores this Christmas are packed with fascinating creations more ingenious and more elaborate than ever before, the staples of the toy world are every bit the same as they were 50 years ago.

Then, as now, says Charles W. Veysey, president of the country's largest toy store, dolls headed the best seller list. They might not do much more than cry gently, and they weren't as strapping as they are today, but they were nevertheless handsome bisque creatures with real hair and blue eyes that closed in sleep.

Referring to a catalogue of the F. A. O. Schwarz Co. 50 years back, Veysey points out standard categories in toys have not changed.

"Costumes popular then are big items for us now," he notes. "Policemen and firemen outfits always star. Toy soldiers always sell well. They were made of lead then. Now they're plastic."

To prove his thesis, row on row of British units march across a counter of the store, the Coldstream Guards and the Camel Corps alike beautifully outfitted.

Veysey points out the do-it-yourselfers had a crystal radio set to assemble 50 years ago. Now they've advanced to nuclear reactors, in keeping with a stepped-up age of science.

Games designed for children today are still based on the four principles which have lasted through the years, he says. There are strategy, dexterity, psychology and spelling.

"Fifty years ago it was bagatelle," he says. "Now there's a new one known as quintelle which is exactly the same."

Nor has the barnyard changed during the half-century, except that animals of earlier times were smaller, as were most of the toy offerings. Tea party dishes were more delicate in times past — and more breakable — but otherwise they vary not at all from today's doll's dinnerware.

There were toys on wheels, rocking horses, "speaking" picture books, vehicles the child could drive himself, and all the other favorites that enchant today's youngsters.

And faithful of all is the Teddy Bear, beloved of all children from the moment he was created in 1902. If his coat is worn from too much loving, and his ears are a little tattered, his replacement waits on the toy shelves, marking him as the greatest stuffed toy ever made.

Some Suitable Gifts For Bird Watchers

A pair of binoculars is a fine gift for the bird watcher; the 7x35 or 7x50 size is suitable.

Also, field guides, birdcalls birdhouses and feeding stations are appropriate.

Peterson's illustrated eastern and western bird guides are often recommended.

Cuff Links Rate High Among Gifts

An exciting, greater-than-ever collection of cuff links is waiting to bring an extra touch of elegance to the discriminating man's wardrobe.

Then, of course, there are tie clasps to match. A visit to a men's store will show you a never-ending variety of jewelry for the man on your list. Look for matching belt buckles, key chains, too.

Good Carrying Sack Essential For Hiker

It is essential for a camper or hiker to have a good carrying sack. There are many types, each designed for a special purpose. One of the most useful is the Indian pack board. It is excellent for carrying bulky objects.

Pocket warmers, lanterns and pocket compasses are handy items.

TRADITIONAL BREAD — Mrs. Ramiro Dutra, who came to America from Portugal, continues to make the traditional Portuguese bread, "massa sovada," for her friends at Christmas.

Portuguese Housewives Exchange Sweet Breads

If you were to visit a friend in Portugal during the Christmas holidays, "massa sovada" and coffee would probably be served.

To carry on the tradition of her native land, attractive young Mrs. Ramiro Dutra, who now lives in Pomona, Calif., has been busy making the delicacy for her friends in Pomona Valley.

Massa sovada is a sweet bread which is as traditional among the Portuguese as turkey at Thanksgiving is here.

In a custom dating back centuries, the housewives in Portugal exchange gifts at Christmas. Usually they exchange loaves of the sweet bread. A similar bread, only with hard-cooked eggs on the top of loaves, is given as gifts at Easter.

Due to its ingredients, the bread will stay fresh at least a week. It is served with coffee or tea at breakfast, lunches or when guests drop in.

Mrs. Dutra's husband is a professor of chemistry at California State Polytechnic College. They both are from Ponta Delgada, Portugal. The couple have a daughter, Grace Helen, who was 2 on Oct. 22.

In discussing other Christmas customs in Portugal, Mrs. Dutra describes the large and elaborate Nativity scene which is constructed in each home.

"Some are so large they fill more than half of the living room," she says.

It is a custom to give beautifully made Nativity scenes as gifts, not just as Christmastime but throughout the year, she explains.

The Portuguese feel that the Christmas tree and Santa are too commercial, and they are rarely seen, she adds.

Other Christmas customs in Portugal, in addition to the sweet bread, are the serving of numerous homemade liqueurs made from fruits and herbs which are collected during the year.

Codfish — which can be served 100 different ways—is also used in traditional holiday dishes.

One of the most important holiday traditions, Mrs. Dutra says, is attending Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve, then having a supper.

To make about eight loaves of massa sovada, sweet bread, Mrs. Dutra tells her recipe. The loaves can be any size or shape, she explains.

Five pounds of flour are sifted into a large pan. Add 10 eggs and 3 cups of sugar. Dissolve 1½ cakes of yeast in 1 cup of warm water and add to flour and egg mixture. To this, add 1 full cup of dry powdered milk and 1 teaspoon of salt.

The doughwill be very sticky. Add 1 cup of margarine or butter (or part each). If dough is still very sticky, add a little warm water until it is plastic enough to knead.

After kneading well, let rise in large pan until it about doubles in volume. Then put into pans and let rise another hour. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

To retain its moisture for a long period of time, coat the top of each loaf with corn syrup while it is still warm. The syrup adds a shiny crust to the loaves.

HOLIDAY PARTIES BLOOM

Plan Floral Scheme For Festivities

Your holiday parties will bloom if a bit of time is taken to plan an over-all floral scheme for the festivities.

It needn't be elaborate. In fact, florists this year recommend several small bouquets using the same flowers throughout the house.

Red carnations, set off by a touch of greens, can stand in small bowls on the buffet table, in the front hall and even on coffee table.

When Christmas dinner makes its appearance, and there's little room for large decorations on the table, attach a single carnation for each guest to a ribbon running to your centerpiece. The guests are free to admire or to wear their flowers.

If Christmas traditional reds and greens clash with your holiday-best china, adjust your flowers to your dinnerware pattern. You may prefer yellow tea roses or fluffy white chrysanthemums as more effective.

Your brightly polished silver candlesticks can be twined with one or two blossoms to add gaiety and grace to the holiday setting.

Whatever kind of flower arrangement you create, be sure to keep it low enough so your guests can talk to each other without an annoying obstruction. Some hostesses float flowers in a low bowl, or use a few blossoms in each of two or three glass fruit dishes, standing them on a tray or mirror.

And since the holiday time often includes overnight guests, the feted ones can later express their pleasure by wiring flowers to their hostess, having first noted her special taste in decorations.

Robin Favored On Yule Cards

The robin, now considered a harbinger of spring, a century ago, was a favorite Christmas motif on cards and for decorative effect.

Legend connected the robin with Christ, and thus with Christmas.

The legend states that the bird, in trying to ease Christ's suffering on His way to the crucifixion, pulled a thorn from the crown. In so doing, a drop of blood fell on the robin's chest and remained there forever.

Comic robins, perky robins and robins in all types of poses were pictured by the thousands on Christmas cards in the late 19th century.

Wide Array Of Gifts For Those Fishermen

There is a wide array of rods, reels, flies, tackle boxes and fresh and salt water accessories. A space saving telescopic spinning rod would make an ideal gift for a traveling man. A six-foot rod made of beryllium copper collapses into a 15-inch cork handle.

A canvas rod roll may be the right thing to solve the equipment-carrying problem.

Electric Trains Full Of Surprises

Electric trains are full of surprises to delight young railroad buffs on Christmas morning.

There is a sheriff-outlaw car. One ducks as the other one bobs up.

Sure to be a conversation sparker, is a Fort Knox car jam-packed with simulated gold bricks, reports the Toy Guidance Council.

Conversation Piece For Yule Decoration

For a Christmas decoration that will be a conversation piece, make some candle lighting pixies. With a darning needle pierce holes in the ends of some peanut shells.

Poke pipe cleaners through for arms and legs. Daub on warm sealing wax for caps, hands, shoes and trousers. Set the pixies to climbing candles, matches in hand.

Deck The Walls With Yule Cards

Christmas Spirit Seen By Guests

Want your drop-in holiday guests to feel a real Christmas spirit in your home even before the tree is up?

Then deck the walls—with framed Christmas cards. And serve snacks on a Christmas tray, advises Mrs. Peggy Gilbert, design studio head at Norcross Gift Wraps.

To frame cards, first collect ¼-inch-thick plywood pieces (about 9 by 12 inches), Christmas cards, a spray can of gold or silver paint, cheese cloth, a wire suede brush, fine sandpaper and gold cord.

(Cigar box tops or flat pieces of cork can be substituted for the plywood.)

Sandpaper plywood pieces all over. Sand edges until smooth and slightly beveled. Spray with gold or silver paint, rubbing excess off with cheese cloth before it gets sticky. Allow to dry thoroughly. Cut picture portion off card and rubber cement it in middle of plaque. Brush surrounding wood with small wire brush (such as a suede brush) to raise grain of wood slightly.

To hang, make a loop of gold cord and tape to back of plaque.

To make the Christmas tray and coaster set, equip yourself with an inexpensive picture frame, a roll of Christmas wrapping paper and shirt cardboards.

Remove the cardboard backing from the frame. Cover with wrapping paper and insert under the glass. Bend clamps into place.

For coasters cut six 3½-inch circles from shirt cardboard. Cut twelve 3½-inch circles from the gift wrap. Center design of paper on each cardboard circle and rubber cement to both sides of cardboard circles.

BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS CARDS are mounted for display. Use plywood pieces, cigar box tops or pieces of cork antiqued in gold or silver for inexpensive mounts.

INEXPENSIVE PICTURE FRAME serves as the base for a Christmas tray. Coasters are cut from shirt cardboard. They're made to match with snowflake-design Christmas wrapping paper.

First Yule Cards

Soft Drinks In Cans Can Save Holiday Space

Space in your refrigerator Is at a premium at Christmas time.

That's why smart homemakers do everything possible to conserve storage space. One valuable tip is to buy your soft drinks in cans.

They store much more easily —and if unexpected company arrives and depletes your stock of the canned drinks, you'll find that extra cans popped into the refrigerator will be ready for drinking in a remarkably short time. That's because the canned drinks chill much more quickly.

The fact that the cans won't break and that they don't have to be returned for redemption of a deposit are just two other reasons why women have found the canned drinks to be so convenient.

Birds Remembered

In Sweden and Norway both, birds are given special remembrance. A choice sheaf of grain is placed on a pole or a fence post . . . bits of suet are hung on the trees—for a gala Christmas treat for the birds.

Hang Memories On Your Tree

The Rev. and Mrs. K. L. Engelman of Appleton, Wis., hang their memories on their Christmas tree.

Each year, the Englemans hang a tiny symbol of the year's most treasured experience on the tree. This year they will add their 12th.

"For our first year," says Mrs. Engelman, "there hangs a plain gold wedding ring. This one was found on my parents' farm and so has the added value of reminding us of happy childhood days."

There are, among others, a snapshot of their first church in Kirkland, Ill., a toy car symbolic of the "many hours we spent traveling to and from the seminary," a tiny pottery doll for their first child, Ann, and a toy house for the summer cottage acquired at a nearby lake.

Here's Something For Man Of House

If winter after winter, Dad faces the familiar sidewalk battle of clearing off the snow —the family's gift to him could very well be a deluxe snow thrower.

This time- and labor-saving device has a 3 h.p. engigne, handle-mounted controls and a reversible discharge chute. It'll be a welcome gift for the family's snow shoveler, says the Dura Corporation, makers of Moto Mower equipment.

Market For Records Really Spins This Time Of Year

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is the flood tide in the record business.

On great waves of publicity, the great bulk of any manufacturer's output is floated down stream toward the waiting Christmas market.

Traditionally, record firms save the best works of their best artists for the winter log jam, hoping that their best timber will make a splendid crash among the forest of bewildered customers.

Customer bewilderment stems from the fact that there is so much available to choose from and so much of it is so good.

Already at this early stage in the great winter record deluge there are some splendid albums that are destined to appear on many Christmas lists.

Capitol, just for openers, has packaged the movie sound tracks of three Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway hits into one attractive album that is doubly appealing because one of the selections is "The King and I." This rapturous rendition of a modern classic has the distinction of being one of the few movie sound tracks that is superior to the original Broadway cast version. The other shows, both starring Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones, are "Carousel" and "Oklahoma!"

RCA Victor also has an enticing multiple record album that packs a lot of nostaglia into its micro grooves. "Ten Great Bands," a musical evocation of the Thirties, presents the bands of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw, Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Larry Clinton, Louis Armstrong, Hal Kemp, Lionel Hampton and Benny Goodman in a four-hour concert that encapsulates a lot of musical history. In all, five records or 10 sides of wonderful old standards taken off the original masters and faithfully restored with loving engineering care.

In addition to its excellent "Curtain Up" series, which was the subject of a recent column here, Mercury has a winner in its F:35 Perfect Presence Sound recordings, which feature stunning audio performance taken directly from 35 millimeter tape. One of the best in the series is "African Sounds," with Carl Stevens and his orchestra giving the Afrikaan treatment to a number of exotic tunes against a background of lush sound effects. The brilliantly decorated album liner rates as one of the most artistic of the year.

Verve also is hitting the market with ab ig one: "Ella Fitzgerald Sings the Harold Arlen Song Book." The first lady of blues, backed up by Billy May's arranging and conducting, is at her best with such first-rate material as "Old Black Magic," "Stormy Weather," "Blues in the Night" and "My Shining Hour." The best part of all is that the jacket proclaims this as Volume One, meaning more of the same is in store for Ella fans at some future date.

Aiming solidly at the real hi fi fan, the guy who knows his woofer from his tweeter, MGM is introducing 21 Channel Sound, another technological breakthrough done with 21—count 'em—microphones. Among the records employing the new technique, we recommend "Leroy Anderson Concert," recorded in Germany by Kurt Wege and his orchestra. Late Show addicts are already familiar with composer Anderson's delightful Syncopated Clock" and they and everyone else will enjoy the ultra hi-fi renditions of "Fiddle Faddle," "Blue Tango," "Sleigh Ride" and other Anderson sound excursions.

CUGIE AND ABBIE

He Buys Gag Gifts; She Goes Expensive

Christmas shopping for Abbe Lane and Xavier Cugat is a matter of extremes.

Abbe likes to go wild with impractical, extravagant gifts. Her band-leader husband specializes in cheap, comical gifts, adorned by his well-known caricatures of the recipients.

But they think alike when it comes to Christmas cards. Cugat dreams up a comical design, and after it's printed, Abbe fills in with water color and paints the message, usually one of high hilarity.

The cards go to special friends, but presents are confined to members of the family. The Cugats suggest friends contribute to an orphanage in Rome rather than giving them personal gifts.

"You never know what Cugie will think of next," exclaims red-haired Abbe. "I collect carved elephants, and one Christmas when I was in a Broadway show, I came out the stage entrance to find a live baby elephant standing there, with a pink velvet coat saying Merry Christmas. I wanted to take him home, but we couldn't get him in the apartment, and he wouldn't leave the stage entrance. So Cugie phoned for his mother, who led him away.

"Cugie gave me the first animal I ever had, even if it wasn't an elephant. It was a white chihuahua.

But this Christmas Cugie really has his work cut out for him. You know I had six fur coats stolen from the apartment. They weren't insured either. I wonder what he'll do about that?"

Exuberant, wise-cracking Abbe also reveals her more serious feelings about the holiday season. "I always try to be home in New York by Christmas Eve. But I've missed three times. Once when I was in Rome I went to Christmas Mass at the Vatican. That was beautiful. But other times I was in Bangkok and Las Vegas. It was horrible to have Christmas at Las Vegas—all that dice cracking all the time."

As if Christmas excitement was not enough, Abbe's birthday comes on Dec. 14 and her husband's on New Year's Eve. So celebrations combine in a series of open houses from Christmas to New Year's.

Since the Cugats have recently remodeled their apartment in New York to add a terrace, Abbe plans to have her Christmas tree outside this year. Basically, she is traditional. "None of those blue trees for me. I like the kind of decorations everybody else likes. Lots of little balls, and red and green throughout the house."

Abbe has no trouble believing in Santa Claus. "I married him. He's Cugie."

Fantasy, Realism Toyland Trends

Both fantasy and realism are significant trends in the stuffed animal section of Toyland.

Youngsters may fondle replicas of their favored pedigreed pooches or felines, or cuddle up to fantastic animals inspired by cartoon characters or sheer imagination on the part of designers.

DESIGNING MUSICIANS take pen in hand to create their own Christmas cards. Xavier Cugat, known for his clever caricatures as well as his rhumba beat, annually prepares a fun-poking collection with the aid of his wife, Abbe Lane.

Dressy Casuals For Your Man

If you know your man well enough to select a suit for him —look into the new country suits. These usually consist of a coat, vest and trousers, some with two pair of slacks — one to match and one to harmonize.

These smart suits may be in a solid color with a patterned vest, or vice versa.

Animals At Zoo Celebrate Yule

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The animals at Crandon Park Zoo celebrate Christmas, too.

Christmas means an extra large fish for Whitie the polar bear. The monkeys and apes get an extra orange. And the camels, zebras, giraffes, antelope and fallow deer get extra carrots.

YOU CAN BE SANTA WITH PAINT BRUSH

Tenderfoot Santas can work toward their first-class badge with a brush and a little paint.

Look around the house for toys that you can liven up with a coat of paint and either give to a child in a hospital or orphanage or pass down to one in the family.

Remember two things when choosing the paint:

First, that it be non-toxic paint. This cannot be stressed too much for children love to pop things into their mouths. By no means use regular house paint.

Secondly, keep in mind that youngsters love bright colors. Gay reds, yellows, greens and blues are their favorites.

Before painting, give the toys a soap and water scrubbing and let dry.

Wooden toys should be sanded to remove any highly glossy areas on the previously painted surface. If you plan to remove the old paint finish entirely, use paint or varnish remover. Then before applying your new top coat, give the wood a primer of enamel undercoat. If there are any cracks or dents, you can quickly repair them with water putty. Sand the repaired areas smooth with sandpaper.

Before repainting metal toys, first remove any rust by rubbing with steel wool. Then wipe the surface with a clean cloth and prime the bare metal spots with a coat of rust-inhibiting primer. Then apply a top coat of quality enamel.

Bright colored enamel is recommended for repainting children's furniture. However, children love the polka-dot effect, and this can quickly be provided by the attractive multicolor spray paints.

Here Are 10 Suggestions For Christmas

1. Think first of others.
2. Shop early so you won't be too tired when the day arrives.
3. Mail packages early for the benefit of all concerned.
4. Have the oldest and the youngest of the family help you decorate the home.
5. Emphasize the religious significance of the season.
6. Attend religious services together.
7. Help your children guard against greed.
8. Do something especially nice for someone who cannot return it.
9. Spend wisely so as not to be burdened with foolish debts.
10. Make your biggest gift to Him whose birthday we will celebrate.

Creches Tribute To Francis Of Assisi

The Christmas creches in homes and yards all over the country this season are a tribute to the good saint, Francis of Assisi.

His efforts ended a centuries old ban on Nativity scenes.

Of all traditional Christmas trappings, the creche may have had the hardest time of it. The first creche was the stable in which the Child was born. As Christianity began to flourish, creches were often part of stage settings for religious plays. The church periodically outlawed anything connected with drama, so the creche had to fight for survival.

Sixteen years before St. Francis constructed history's second most famous creche, Pope Innocent III dispatched a letter scoring liturgical dramas and, by inference, all dramatic props. St. Francis was forced to seek special permission to construct a small creche for his parishioners. He was unhappy at the staleness of religion among the simple folk and he thought a creche might renew the vitality of their faith.

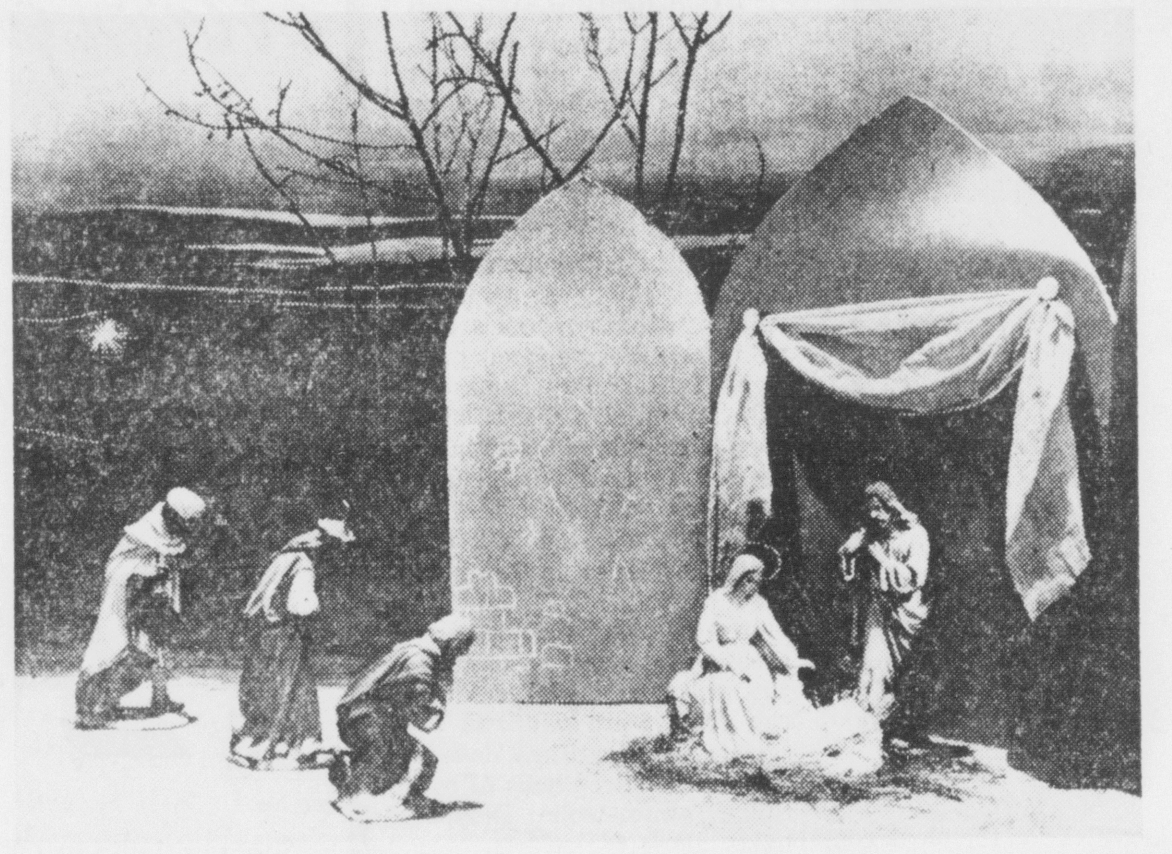
He opened his first creche to the people of Greccio on Christmas Eve, 1223. The life-size structure was simply a sketchy stable with a manger, or trough, and a live ox and ass. Most believe that there were no figures. At that epochal Christmas celebration, the tradition of caroling was begun. St. Francis sang the service.

The good saint accomplished more than he had set out to do. Not only did the peasants accept the creche enthusiastically, but the gentry joined them as well.

Creches became medieval status symbols. Kings tried to outdo each other for the most glorious creche of the continent. Figures were added until during the Renaissance there were so many characters that the stable itself could hardly be seen. St. Francis' wood and straw structure gave way to stables made of gold.

Today there are two types of creches. One emphasizes the main actors in the Christmas drama — Mary, Joseph and the Child. The other type, those who came to worship. The popularity of both types continues to grow.

Basic elements of the creche are those used by St. Francis at Greccio. Figures of the Family can be added, then the wise men and the shepherds. All sorts of worshipers can throng to the scene, animals, carpenters, fisherfolk and tradesmen. Finally, angels can be suspended above, with the star of Bethlehem.



VENEZUELAN FAMILIES have a tradition of constructing creches, called nacimientos, in their homes. The three kings are first placed some distance from the manger. As the days pass, they are moved closer and closer until on Jan. 6 they reach the Christ Child to present their gifts. The Infant Jesus is placed in the manger at midnight on Christmas Eve. The nacimiento often is placed in a front window, visible to passersby.

Make Fruit Cake Tasty

For a rich, moist fruit cake, baking time and temperature are just as important as the ingredients. Dry, crumbly, flavorless cakes are caused by too-high temperatures or over-baking.

According to Margaret Spader, home service editor for the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association, a 2-lb. fruit cake (baked in a 1-lb. coffee can) should bake at 300 degrees for 2¼ hours in a gas oven.

A one pound cake should bake at 250 degrees for 2½ hours. Individual cakes baked in muffin pans will take 30 minutes at 250 degrees.

Christmas Carols Traced To Assisi

We trace the original Christmas carols to St. Francis of Assisi.

Hymns were a part of the early Christian ceremonies, but St. Francis believed in moderate Christmas gaiety and introduced sprightly carols which were modeled on the chorale, a French form of song and dance.

Candle Holders

Empty thread spools dipped in silver or gold lacquer make perfect holders for tiny Christmas candles. You can sprinkle the spools with sequins before they dry.

How Story Started About Woman Who Brings Gifts

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeature Writer

The old woman was sweeping the dust in front of her cottage when the three men rode down the old caravan road.

At first she watched them indifferently, for many men traveled the caravan road and few found time to speak to an old woman.

But these men were different.

They halted their camels in front of the cottage and dismounted. The old woman noted with interest that they were foreigners.

The men wanted directions, she learned from their gestures. They sought a place called Bethlehem. But the old woman could only shake her head.

The strangers thanked her, nevertheless, and one of them explained through signs that they had been following a star by night to bring gifts to a child who had been born in Bethlehem.

The old woman watched them until they vanished over a hilltop. She felt a curious urge to follow them and beg to be allowed to accompany them.

Later, as night fell over the little cottage, the old woman had another visitor. He was a shepherd boy and he seemed surprised to find the old woman at home.

"Are you not going to Bethlehem?" he asked in astonishment. "Have you not heard what they are saying; that the King, the Son of God, has been born there? Come, old woman, togther we will find the Babe."

But the old woman hesitated. She knew she must go and look upon the new-born King. But it was night and she she didn't like to travel in the dark. She would go in the morning. The shepherd continued on alone.

The night was fliled with strange happenings. At times, the clouds seemed bright as day and, to the old woman they assumed the form of angels. She could not sleep. At last she knew what she must do.

Quickly she gathered up some ancient toys, mementos of another child who had once been hers. They were poor gifts to bring to a King but they were gifts just the same.

The old woman packed her presents with tender care and doused the light and locked her door. As she stood in the road in front of the cottage she was struck with a dismaying thought.

She did not know which way to go!

Desperately, she questioned everyone she could find. But no one had seen the three strangers from the East or the shepherd boy and no one knew the way. The old woman had started too late.

For, according to this tradition, the old woman still wanders the world, entering the bedrooms of children by night and leaving a small gift in the forlorn hope that the child may be the one she missed on that momentous night so many years ago.

Christmas Is Great Feast Day For Alaska

SANTA visits a child of Alaska.

BARROW, Alaska (AP)— The round, brown faces of Alaska's native children shine just as brightly with anticipation as those of youngsters in the South 48 when Santa Claus time rolls around.

In Barrow, the world's largest Eskimo village, Christmas is the third great feast on the Eskimo calendar. The other two are the spring feast of Nalukatuk, the celebration of whale catching, and the feast of Thanksgiving.

Last year's Christmas feast, held the afternoon of Christmas Day, after church services, drew some 700 to 750 persons to Utkeagvik Presbyterian Church alone. As the Rev. Edward G. Holborow, interim pastor, describes the feast:

"There was much whale meat and muktuk. There was frozen fish, hot caribou stew and rice and a rice dish with raisins. There were also breads, rolls, cakes, tea, coffee and cocoa for the children."

Each year, the church also has a Christmas party for the young people and many gifts, received from churches throughout the nation, are passed out.

The school, too, has a Christmas party for the youngsters and the children participate with adults of the village, portraying the story of the Nativity, in native Eskimo dress.

Sometimes, Santa Claus, using only Dancer and Prancer—he is close to his North Pole home and there is little need for additional reindeer power—drives his sled into Barrow across the ice of Elson Lagoon.

Christmas in the other Eskimo villages which ring the Arctic Ocean, the Chukchi Sea and the Bering Sea is celebrated in much the same way.

Artificial trees are substituted for the real item in many areas of the Arctic, where there are no trees to break the broad expanse of northern tundra country.

The Rev. Segundo Llorente, a Jesuit missionary at Alakanuk, near the mouth of the Yukon River on the bleak coast of the Bering Sea, describes a Yukon Delta Christmas this way:

"Yes there is a Santa Claus, of course!

"In the mission schools as well as in the government schools there is a grand Christmas program complete with a fat and jolly Santa Claus who dances and carries a heavy sack of prizes, toys and candy.

"There is also a Christmas tree, either real or artificial.

"A Catholic Eskimo will go to any extreme or sacrifice to attend the midnight Mass on Christmas Day, some traveling a good many miles by dogteam. The Protestants would not miss services on Christmas for anything.

"In some villages, after the midnight Mass, the men fire volleys with their rifles after wild handshaking and greetings of 'Merry Christmas'."

In the mission church at St. Mary's, devout Eskimos, dressed in traditional church robes, act out the story of the birth of the Savior and celebrate His birth in song and prayer.

In Alaska's metropolitan areas, Christmas is observed just as it is in any large American city. Store windows and streets are beautifully decorated and the silver bells of song tinkle away while shoppers hurry along the streets.

Christmas in Alaska, then, is a season of happiness and of thankful prayer—celebrated in parkas and mukluks.

Carol To Those Last-minute Shoppers

By LYDIA BICKFORD

An infinite host of American women face the complexity of holiday preparations with serene countenance and unruffled disposition.

They are the competent ones, bless their hearts, who buy their gifts in September, prepare their fruit cake in October, have their cards addressed by Thanksgiving at the latest, and long before it's time to buy a tree, have thoughtfully checked the light bulbs for performance and the ornaments for adequacy.

I am happy not to be a part of this efficient group.

I belong instead to the helter-skelter clan, always short of sufficient Christmas cards, wrapping paper and party food, but long on spontaneity and high bubbling gaiety.

How can a shopper possibly think of appropriate Christmas gifts when the children have just gone back to school and it's still tennis weather?

What is the point of addressing Christmas cards before you know who's going to send them to you this year? Think of the social agony created by the early arrival of my card in the house of an acquaintance who has finally brought herself to cross me off her list?

The "mail early" devotees never know the joys of those long lines in the post office containing friends you have not seen in months, and with whom you can catch up while the line slowly shuffles forward.

And the infinite delights of last-minute meal planning. The day before Christmas and not a turkey to be found at the 'butcher's. But the goose is just as fine, bringing forth compliments for the cook and much quoting of Tiny Tim's similar enthusiasms.

The pleasure of Christmas Eve shopping, because the stocking gifts have been forgotten. No agonies of decision over the appropriate for little Susie. The counters have long since been stripped nearly bare. The box of jacks will have to do.

Last-minute shortages pay off in fantastic ingenuity. Not a shred of Christmas paper, so the package wrapper goes wild with aluminum foil, and a bit of a Christmas green.

Some of the balls have no hangers, so they're arranged on snow batting under the tree. Gift cards have long since been used up, so the family sits on the floor creating jingling doggerel on note paper.

Would an efficient Christmas be this much fun?

Candles Derive From An Old Irish Custom

Candles derive from an old Irish custom of putting a lighted candle in the window on Christmas Eve to light the Holy Family's way.

The candles denote a house where the Holy Family would have been welcomed, not turned away as at the inns in Bethlehem.

Editor's Note: Miriam McGaw Benade, born in India of Presyterian missionary parents, went to live in the city of Lahore in 1923. She was married there to Martin Benade, physics teacher at Forman Christian College. Before the couple retired to Chicago in 1958, Mrs. Benade taught religion, English and domestic science at Forman Girls School, Kinnaird College for Women and Forman Christian College. She writes of one Christmas in Lahore.)

By MIRIAM BENADE

Gentle and petite, Cousin Laila was the first Christmas caller. She came through the door calling out, "Bara Din mubarak ho,"—the Great Day be blessed! The boys deserted the pungent smelling tamarisk Christmas tree and their new tinker toys and rushed to welcome her.

She gave them packages wrapped in colored tissue paper and tied with tinsel gota. There was a toy elephant made of wood lacquered in bright gold, green and red. There was a toy drum cart. Its frame was of bamboo, its wheels of clay, as was the drum covered with a membrane. Artfully attached to this were two small bamboo sticks which beat a delightful tattoo when the cart was pulled across the floor.

Smiling she said, "At Christmas I like to go to Kasera Bazaar and Anarkali to find little, little, things to give children."

She was "little little" herself, but her slight figure always expressed dignity and grace. Her complexion was that of pale gold ripe wheat, the ideal of all women of the Indian sub-continent. Her delicate features were enlivened by glowing dark eyes; her black hair was combed back smoothly off the face. There was always a dainty freshness about her fine white cotton sari.

Cousin Laila was hailed far and wide as a special friend. She took with her not only small objects to cheer those she might visit, but even more importantly, she shared with them the gift of warm friendship.

Of mornings, sitting demurely in her ricksha, she was taken to Hira Mandi, the Diamond Market, really the place of prostitutes and humble sweeper scavengers of the city.

The sweepers were despised as out-castes. It seemed strange and incongruous for Cousin Laila to be in such a neighborhood, but she went regularly and devoted herself to helping folk to rise above the scorn of people. She taught them ways of self respect. Lame old Khair Din, who lived there, was sad because his American friends would not provide him with 'brondy,' but he was glad that Cousin Laila showed his daughter how to knit and how to read her Testament.

Cousin Laila was shepherdess to many in that forlorn community.

She was guide and counselor also in many homes of wealth and prestige. Begum-sahibas, ladies of leisure who spent time pampering their beauty, directing servants of the household or facing personal problems, welcomed her gracious cheer.

Here a lesson in English, there some sewing taught, and always talk, the talk of women, during which she would share some precious comfort with her friend.

Over in the great government hospitals, patients looked forward to the arrival of Cousin Laila with books and magazines and quiet friendliness.

When someone was sick in her neighborhood, Cousin Laila would be there to help change sheets, give baths or interpret doctors orders to distraught mothers of small patients. Frequently she would stay all night to help with the nursing.

In one way or another she brought comfort and cheer. Physically so small, in spirit so stalwart a support. "All the doctors know her," said one. Indeed they knew her and respected her.

Her exquisitely neat little home was a sanctuary of hospitality and peace. Her little garden, her flower arrangements, expressed order and beauty. These were shared always with others. Yesterday she gave you a spray of lady-of-the-night; today you receive a rose and fragrant motia.

Born a Christian, she had inherited many aristocratic Brahman traditions. Her first marriage was arranged by her parents with a man much her senior. "I honored and respected him, but I did not know how to talk with him," she said once. Alas, within two years her husband died. She had to seek work as a teacher, leaving her baby son with her mother-in-law.

After some time another act opened in her life's drama, when she married a girlhood playmate and admirer, who once smuggled little notes to her in church.

For a while there was well being and happiness in her life in Lahore, Pakistan. But death struck again. The young widow, now mother of two more children, struggled to support them.

Work, poverty, death, once more were in her pattern of existence. Just as he was entering young manhood, her elder son died of tuberculosis; a few years later his half sister followed him. She was beautiful and was doing very well in college when she died.

Trouble and sorrow had made Cousin Laila's heart tender with sympathy. Unselfishly she shared her courage and inner happiness with those who had been stricken as she had been. Unobtrusively, to these she went and to many others, rich and poor, Hindu, Muslim and Christian. Often in her hands were "little, little things," carefully selected tokens of love; and always in her heart, good will, something precious, made sacred at Christmas and celebrated by her throughout the year.

Good cheer had doubled after Cousin Laila arrived at the bungalow. The toy elephant and the toy drum were making gay with the tinker toys.

Everyone was talking merrily. Soon came the sound of the church bell, summoning people to Christmas morning service. The church would overflow with folk, children and all, dressed in their best, united in worship and in celebrating the birthday of Jesus. The rhythm of tabla drums and the resonance of sitar strings would lead the singing. The theme of the day would be repeated in the Punjabi gazal:

Aya Isa yar sade pas. . .
Jesus our friend has come,
Showing us his face. . .

Cousin Laila would be there, singing the carol, absorbing into her very being the joy of Christmas, preparing once more to take that joy to share with all whom she would meet in the year ahead.

Straws Are Stars For Christmas

You Can Make These In About Three Hours

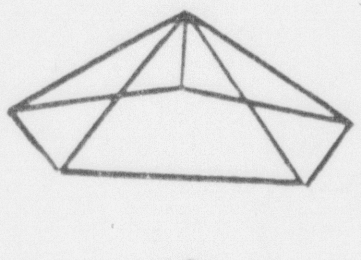
Mrs. Joe Webb Jr. finally got around to following directions she had been saving for years.

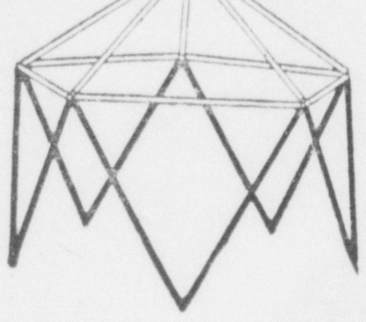
The result?

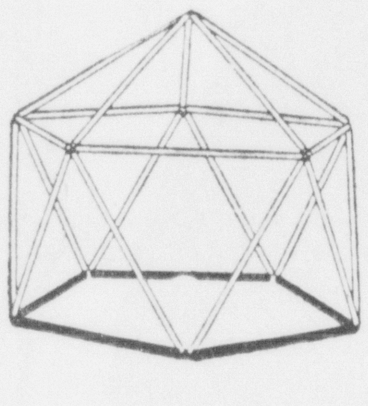
She has straws—beg pardon—stars in her eyes.

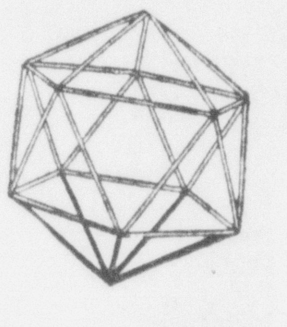
Mrs. Webb is a shining example of the fact that women eventually do find the time and energy to use all the odds and ends they save.

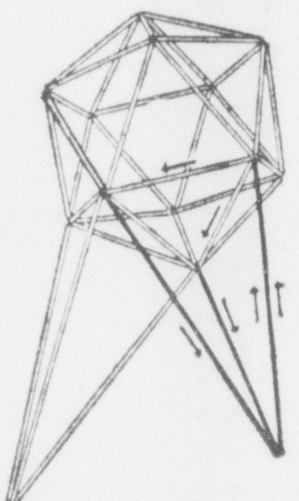
Years ago she ran across directions for making gigantic decorative stars out of soda straws strung together.











The design was based on the lovely natural straw stars that the Swiss delight in stringing together each Christmas.

But the directions were complex. Mrs. Webb was working in the daytime and going to school at night. No time. Then she was busy marrying Mr. Webb, keeping house, having baby Wendi. No time.

How did she finally find time?

"By neglecting other things," she replies.

She has stars all over her house now, in different colors and sizes. They are as lovely as she anticipated.

"You need a box of straws for each star. You need matching crochet cord or embroidery thread. And you need a needle made of florist wire, slightly more than twice the length of a straw," she advises.

"To make the needle, bend the wire double; twist the ends together leaving an eye for your thread."

Mrs. Webb already had the embroidery thread in all colors; she'd been saving it since high school. She figured she'd find a use for it some day.

If you want to make stars, too, here's how Mrs. Webb does it.

Start with 75 straws. Cut 15 of these in half. Pass needle and thread through three half-straws to make a triangle. Tie thread.

Attach more half-straw triangles by rethreading until the straws form the shape of wedges of a pie. Leave out the last wedge. Pull the structure together and fasten. The resulting five triangles will form a tent-like shape.

Continue using half-straws. Attach two to each joint around the base of the tent structure. Join the ends of these new straws so that they will form triangles, pointing down. The tent now rests on the points of the new triangles. Thread a half-straw between each of these base points, like a stretcher.

Turn it upside down. You will see that your base straws form the same shape as the base of the original tent. Construct a second tent on these straws, using the rest of the half-straws.

Unless you've goofed, you now have a jewel-like shape consisting of 20 triangles. Each of these gets a long star point made of three full-length straws.

Mrs. Webb says that if you're adept, you can make a star in two and a half to three hours.

STARS IN THEIR EYES—Mrs. Joe Webb Jr. and daughter Wendi of Atlanta admire the Christmas stars Mrs. Webb made from soda straws.

Soap Suds Decoration Quick As Santa's Wink

Unusual centerpieces don't have to be expensive.

For example, you can mix packaged soap or detergent with a little water in a bowl and have yourself a snowy table decoration as quick as Santa's wink.

Beat your mixture with an egg beater or electric mixer until you have a clay-like consistency suitable for molding. There's no exact formula—just add more soap or water as required.

Wet your hands to prevent sticking, then roll the thick suds into snowballs or any size desired. Let them dry until they begin to "jell," then you can sprinkle them with glitter or add a sprig of holly. Inserting a candle makes the no-melt snowball a candleholder. And you can roll a few more snowballs, insert name cards and have placecards to match your centerpiece.

Do-It-Your-Selfers

A power drill with different bits and blades is a must if the hobbyist doesn't have one. A paint sprayer, a portable electric say or any needed tool will do well also.

Christmas Trees Help Save Soil

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—Christmas trees live a double life in this erosion-plagued region.

Having served to brighten homes during the Yuletide season, they are trucked out into the country, dumped into arroyos, and packed down to provide traps for soil being washed away by rain.

The idea is spreading and members of the Izaac Walton League, who sponsor it, hope it will gain national acceptance.

It started five years ago, and as a result, one big arroyo five or six feet deep and a mile long has grown up in grass, and others are showing improvement.

SIMPLE CASE OF MISTAKE IN IDENTITY

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—You can bet Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burroughs will inspect their Christmas cards carefully before mailing them out this season.

One year, the Burroughs ordered cards printed with their name. They mailed most of them without unfolding them for a look. When only a few cards remained to be sent, Burroughs opened one.

It was signed: "Browning Repair and Welding, Wheatland, Wyo."

You Can Always Give Europe Trip For Christmas

You can tuck all of Europe into a Christmas stocking.

A trip-to-Europe Christmas gift certificate is available from your local travel agent for any amount of money and for any length of holiday. The trip-to-Europe certificate may be used for visits at any time of the year to any or all of the 21 countries represented by the European Travel Commission.

The plan is flexible. The giver may simply designate the amount and let the recipient work out the details with his travel agent, or the giver may suggest an actual itinerary. In either case, the trip can be paid for in cash or, in most instances, in installments.

History Of Bells Dates To Romans

The Romans also used bells to discourage evil spirits. In early Britain — and in some parts of Europe today — bells were rung for an hour on Christmas Eve to announce the death of the devil.

Then at midnight, great joyous peals signaled the birth of Christ.

Family Christmas Spending Increases

Family Christmas spending is expected to continue high in 1962, with the average American family of four spending around $162.

This represents a slight increase in Chirstmas gift expenditures over last year and a 10 per cent increase over three years ago," says Sol Weiner, president of Chicago Printed String Co., which annually surveys the nation's gift buying.

Women buy most of the gifts for the family—24 out of 30—but men are bigger spenders. Nearly half the men spend under $5 for gifts but there are enough men who spend more than $100 per present to bring the male average up to $11.38 per gift. This is more than double the $4.58 the women spend per present.

According to the survey, Christmas is by far the single most important gift occasion, accounting for 43 per cent of the nation's yearly gift buying.

Weiner predicts, "The stock market gyrations of earlier in the year will not affect people's attitudes toward the established custom of Christmastime gift buying."

Dictionary Good Gift For Young Students

This Christmas may be the strategic time to present your favorite student with the gift of a big, new unabridged dictionary.

Getting the habit of looking up precise meaning of words, says the G. and G. Merriam Co., publishers of the familiar Merriam-Webster dictionary, can give the young student an important boost in his or her education.

Here Are Some Tips For Good Yule Photos

Amateur photographers anxious to record the family's Christmas on film can take a tip from the Hollywood professionals.

Well in advance of the holidays, write a rough shooting script so special moments won't go by unrecorded. Your master plan doesn't have to be too detailed. But if you make a note of forthcoming events, and film them as they happen, you'll have a much more complete record of the holidays.

Take your camera with you to picture your littlest one's expression when he visits Santa in the town park; to record forever your daughter's starring role in the school play; to film the family in neighborhood caroling on Christmas Eve.

Christmas pictures don't have to be limited to the obvious—the holiday dinner, the gifts around the tree, the bulging stockings hanging from the mantel.

Unposed action shots of members of the family absorbed in the many activities of the season tell a better story.

Snapshots can be planned to accompany thank-you notes to out-of-town relatives, if the photographer takes a picture of individual members of the family opening their gifts.

Camera experts say the ambitious amateur is prone to include too much in a picture, so the resulting print fairly swims with activity. The results will be far better if the photographer limits himself to an individual scene, shot at close range.

And when the children are being photographed, be sure to keep the camera low so it will be on the child's own level.

TROUBLED ABOUT SIZE OF TURKEY?

Troubled about what size turkey to buy for your Christmas dinner? It's simple: Match your turkey to your guest list.

Here's an easy guide: For two people, buy a 4 to 5 pound turkey; for four people a 6 to 8 pounder; for six people a 9 to 11 pound bird; for eight people a 12 to 14 pound turkey; for 10 people a 15 to 17 pounder, and to feed a dozen mouths a turkey weighing 18 or more pounds.

If you buy a frozen turkey, you'll need to allow some time for thawing: 8 to 12 hours at room temperature, or about two days in the lower part of the refrigerator.

More than a billion Christmas decorations will be used on American trees this year.

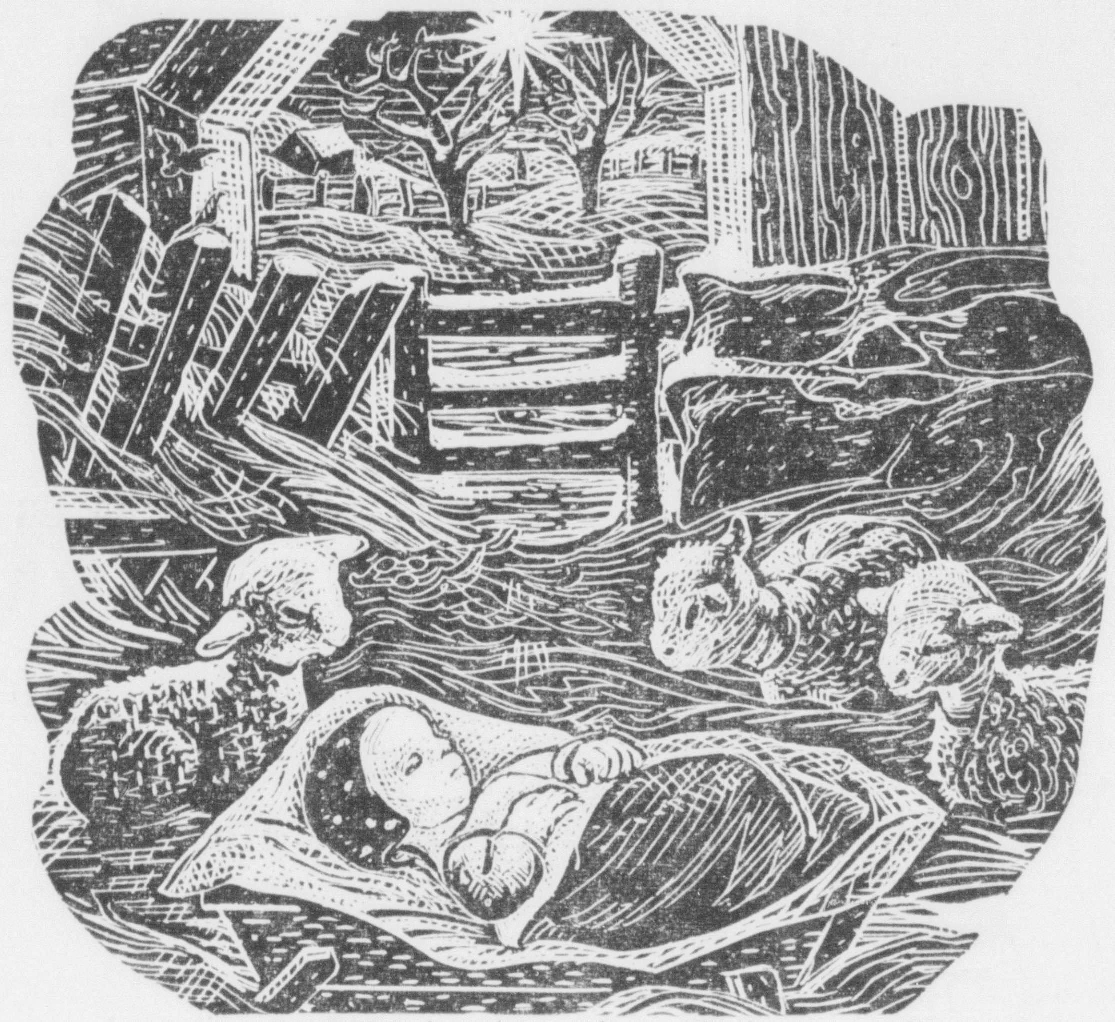
Town Has Real Yule Spirit

FEEDING MESSAGE—Lauren Ford (top) cares for her sheep at her home, "Sheepford" in Bethlehem, Conn. Here she is feeding the animals. Mrs. Jean Dropp (above) mails greeting cards that carry the real spirit of Christmas on them. They will have the postmark of Bethlehem, Conn. The town is named for the birthplace of Jesus.

ARTIST Lauren Ford, who lives in Bethlehem, Conn., creates in paints and ink the beauty of the first Bethlehem.

STEEPLED church of Bethlehem, Conn., wears a star at Christmastime.



A CHILD IS BORN—from the pen of Lauren Ford.

Labor Of Love For Children

Christmas is for children. But there is no reason why their participation in this gay holiday should be limited to opening presents on Christmas morning.

This year, why not let all the children — the the little ones—take some part in those exciting pre-Christmas preparations?

For instance, a preschooler would really enjoy trimming a window or mirror with "snow." This snow is actually suds-snow, manufactured by mother in the following manner: Put a big handful of packaged soap, detergent or scouring powder into an unbreakable bowl and add a little water, stirring the mixture until it forms a concentrated paste.

Newsy Gift—The I-J

A good gift that lasts the whole year round is a subscription to the Independent-Journal. Announce its arrival with a festive card.

Trees Once Banned At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The late President Theodore Roosevelt, an avid conservationalist, thought the cutting of evergreens for Christmas was a wasteful practice and forbade their use in the White House.

He later was assured by Gifford Pinchot, his advisor on conservation measures, that the supervised and proper harvesting of Christmas trees was good for the forests. Since then the White House has had a Christmas tree.

Christmas Baptizing

Saint Augustine celebrated Christmas Day, 598, in England by baptizing more than 10,000 Britons.

THAT DREAMY CHRISTMAS LOOK

This will be the look on the faces of little boys and girls all over America and the world on Christmas Eve as they watch for Santa to come with gifts for them. Jimmy Bachmann of Coral Gables, Fla., is shown with a dreamy Christmas look on his young face.

Good Gift Ideas For The Children

If your youngsters are having a difficult time matching gift ideas with their allowances, suggest they make the gifts.

Many nice ones can be made from old items found in every household. Here are some ideas:

Small juice cans when painted or wrapped with decorated construction paper become good pencil holders. Decorated sardine tins can be used to make gadget or ash trays. An old shoe box covered with a scrap of wallpaper makes a pretty recipe holder. Hand-printed labels for identifying the contents of kitchen jars, closet storage boxes, or the basement workshop are easily created from magazine cutouts.

Stamp Collector Gift Suggestion

For beginners—All the major stamp companies put out stamp kits for youngsters. Most kits contain an album, tongs, magnifying glass, hinges and packets of stamps.

For established collectors — Most hobbyists specialize in one part of this enormous hobby. For them there are specialty albums and catalogues.

Who
We Are

Let us be grateful for our heritage. For a little pride is the wellspring of courage. Let us endure unflinchingly whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make to defend our free institutions from the night of communism, which is bent on undermining our faith in ourselves. Let us rely not only on the gold in our vaults, but the iron in our blood. And let us cling like ivy to the faith of our fathers until, in God's good time, all men are free.

Keep Those Tiny Fingers Busy

A gift item to keep little hands busy and out of mischief may be a new type of modeling mixture.

It's a dough-like mixture which can be worked and twisted into many odd shapes. But unlike the dough the baker uses, Play-Doh will not stain furniture, rugs or clothing if a bit of the compound falls from the fingers of small fry. And it won't stain hands. The dough also stays soft in its air-tight container when not in use.

Also fascinating to young artists is that it comes in a variety of colors.

Why Not Sing Along With Your Children?

As every adult who pretends to understand children knows, youngsters love to sing.

When planning a Christmas "sing" party, first decide on the songs and assemble a group of records for the children to follow.

Good Gifts For Camera Bugs

There is no end to what a camera bug needs. New equipment is always appearing on the market.

For the novice a better camera, gadget bag, 35mm viewers, extra film and reel chests make fine gifts.

For the experienced photographer there are printing and developing outfits. More expensive photography gifts include projectors, screens, tripods and special lenses.

Big Family Has To Have Two Turkeys

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP)— At 9:30 Christmas morning, an eager line of 12 children, arranged by age from 10-month-old Peter to 24-year-old Jim, will be standing outside their living room door waiting to dismantle a roomful of presents.

Later on they'll consume two 20-pound turkeys, with the help of a few other relatives, enjoy a spot of champagne, and then relax while their father plays a parlor-size organ.

This massive maneuver is conducted annually by the children of Hilda and Walter Maloney, who merged their families after each had become widowed, and went on to add two more young Maloneys to bring the clan to an even dozen.

There are five youngsters in college, three teen-agers at home, and a primary group aged 9, 7 and 4—plus the baby.

In less competent hands, there might be utter chaos. But auburn-haired Hilda, who combines total efficiency with gentle charm, has long since developed ways to keep things under control.

Nothing can be left to the last minute, she says. She begins her Christmas shopping in August, trying to keep the pile of presents for each evenly balanced. "I ask each one what he wants, and fill the specific requests first. Some of the children find it hard to think that far ahead, and I do too.. Last year, Claire (a sophomore at college), needed a typewriter. Kathy (a high school junior) got luggage, and an evening dress for the holidays. Two of the younger ones wanted bikes. And mechanical things fascinate Walter Jr. (4 years old.)"

Mechanical things also unexpectedly fascinated friends of the college-age group, who spent one Christmas night playing war in the center hall with little Walter's gifts. The younger children could not get near them.

Who is going where and how and at what time is miraculously kept accurate in Hilda's mind at all times. "Walt says I should have a big calendar, but I don't, I seem to remember. Whoever asks for the car first, gets it. But last Christmas there were so many drivers home, we rented an extra car.

Whether it's holiday party time, or the more usual activities with friends the rest of the year, each member of the family checks with his mother on the way out, saying where he is going, how he'll get there and when he'll be home.

On return each checks in by tapping gently at his parents' door, and stating his arrival. Though this means being awakened three or four times during the late evening, Hilda and Walt prefer it to worrying.

With such a large number of brothers and sisters to remember at Christmas, the children often team up by pairs "to buy a little nicer present without depleting their funds," explains Hilda. All their present money comes from allowances and earnings, with the exception of 4-year-old Walter, who is likely to need financial subsidy.

Responsibility for setting up the huge tree that traditionally stands in the Maloneys' front hall is taken by the older boys. The top of the 15-foot evergreen stretches far up into the stairwell and is decorated annually with red balls, red lights and tinsel. Just before going back to college, the older boys dismantle it, because the others can't handle it.

In spite of the array of gifts confronting them on Christmas morning, the Maloney tribe looks forward with special interest to their stockings.

"One year I thought I'd cut down on preparations, and skip stockings for the older children. They raised such an outcry that Claire had to hunt around and fill some of them. And of all the gifts to buy, I find stocking gifts the hardest."

Here's Something In Candy Dept.

For an inimitable flavoring for ice cream, try topping your favorite flavor with a candy caramel sauce.

To make three-quarters of a cup of Caramel Sundae Sauce, combine one-half cup (about 12) caramels and one-half cup of undiluted evaporated milk in a saucepan.

Stir over a low heat until smooth. Then serve hot over your favorite flavor ice cream.

Santa's Helper Comes From Viking Story

Thank the Vikings for that jolly elf we know as Santa's Little Helper. In ancient times in Scandinavia, long before Leif Eriksen discovered America, little children were told stories of Jul Tomten, a little elf with long white whiskers, who saw to it that the earth gave abundantly of good food and that the animals and birds were taken care of.

When the Vikings became Christians, Jul Tomten became the giver of presents, just as our Santa Claus is today. Children would leave a bowl of porridge on the kitchen table for him, and he in turn would leave gifts for good boys and girls.

Over the years, travelers to the North brought back the legend of Jul Tomten, and eventually he became a part of our own Christmas tradition, as the busy little elf in Santa's workshop.

This Idea Rings True As Present

Rings are the oldest forms of jewelry. For many centuries rings were used to denote the station and rank of the wearer. This year, you can show your favorite guy just how he rates with you—just give him a ring this Christmas.

Rings have returned to fashion favor, reports the Jewelry Industry Council, and points out that there's a wide, wide variety from which to choose.

Your choice may be an insignia ring of his favorite business, fraternal or scholastic organization; a signet ring or ring bearing his initials in open letters or engraving; a birthstone, carved hemitie, onyx, star sapphire or ruby—or a diamond—all in rugged stylized settings.

Yule Tradition

Christmas would not be Christmas without the traditional wreath, fir, holly, evergreen, cedar leaves, ivy and mistletoe in and around the home.

POINSETTA LENDS SELF TO DECOR

The poinsetta, the flower of Christmas, lends itself to a host of decorating tricks.

A few buds can be arranged in a shallow bowl with a handful of evergreens. The trick is to sear the ends of the plant with candle wax right after cutting, to keep the sap from flowing.

To make a formal arrangement, put a thick candle symbolizing the light of the world in the center of a bowl of red and white poinsettias. Pine makes an ideal surrounding decoration for the outside of the bowl.

Present For Golfer

What golfer doesn't want a club that will chop a few strokes from his score? For a man who would keep his golfing eye all year around, an electric putt return may be just right.

PRESENT FOR WIFE

Personal Shoppers Store Helps Gift-giving Males

The American male shopper on the trail of an appropriate Christmas gift for his wife:

Is likely to spend more than he planned;

Has a very definite mental picture as to what is becoming to his wife (whether it is actually or not);

Thinks blue the best color;

Knows definitely what he doesn't like, but has more trouble deciding what he does like;

Is less likely to be talked into believing something is "just right" than his wife would be;

Steers clear of the exotic and the flamboyant;

Is a last-minute shopper.

This portrait of a gift-giving husband emerges from the sales experiences of personal shoppers in New York's oldest shopping service for men only, the 721 Club.

"We have some very unusual costume jewelry here," recalls one of the shoppers. "But will the men buy it? No, they stick to pearls.

"There's no use trying to convince them if they don't like your suggestion. They're likely to get very vehement.

"They're very specific. A man will come in and say he wants a lounging outfit for his wife to wear in the evening. He doesn't want anything else."

While jewelry and perfume rank high as choices, many men buy their wives dresses and suits. They also show a marked preference for Italian sweaters in pretty colors with pants to match.

"Of course," says the shopper, "some men would die if you suggested pants. But others go for them in a big way. Suede and leather jackets and coats are popular with them too."

Many men buy gifts in two categories, the expensive and the silly. They'll pick out an elegant alligator bag, and then choose a crazy stuffed toy for a joke gift.

The atmosphere at the shoppers' club makes gift selection more pleasant for the male anxious to get the job over with. Morning coffee and afternoon drinks are served at the store's expense. Models are used to show the clothes, since the men want to know how it will look. Often they wind up buying the jewelry, gloves, shoes and hat the model has on, in addition to their original choice.

A few more timid souls bring their business associates to bolster them up. Others carry long lists they want filled in a hurry. Christmas shopping is something they wish to have accomplished as quickly and painlessly as possible.

Clay Pots Best

Poinsetta plants will have a healthier root action if they are kept in a clay flower pot which permits excess water and harmful salts to escape and keeps roots and soil balls cool.

O. HENRY'S STORY

'Gift Of The Magi' Written For Yule

Just before Christmas, 1905, an ex-convict sat in a room in an old New York City brownstone and wrote of a woman named Della and a man named Jim. The real names were Athol and Will. The writer was O. Henry.

O. Henry was William Sidney Porter when he married Athol. His story, "The Gift of the Magi," was a thinly disguised tribute to her. The frail young woman had died eight years earlier, a few months before Will was sent to prison for embezzling.

It was prison and Athol that made a writer of him. They had eloped when she was still in her teens. With the faith of her years, Athol believed in her irresponsible husband. She struggled and sacrificed while he tried, on occasion, to sell a story or two.

Athol was ill throughout their short marriage. When she died of tuberculosis, Will lived only for their daughter, Margaret, and his promise to Athol. He had vowed to become the writer she'd always believed him to be.

Prison gave the young man time to write and kept him out of trouble. He sold his first stories from his prison cell. It was in prison, too, that he adopted his pen name, the name of a French pharmacist he'd chosen at random.

When O. Henry was released from prison he want to New York. He found it a frightening city with its elevated trains and rushing people, but he stayed.

He wrote for the magazine which had bought his stories from prison. And he quickly became a success. Soon the New York World hired him to do a story a week.

So it was that on this December day, O. Henry wrote, with pencil on yellow paper, of his wife. The story, published by the World, concerned a woman who sold her hair to buy a watch fob for her husband, who sold his watch to buy combs for her hair.

It ends:

". . . Here I have lamely related to you the uneventful chronicle of two foolish children in a flat who most unwisely sacrificed for each other the greatest treasures of their house. But in a last word to the wise of these days, let it be said that of all who give gifts these two were the wisest. . . They are the magi."

Yule Tree Origin

There are many stories about the origin of the Christmas tree. The one most frequently heard is that Martin Luther lighted the first Christmas tree in Germany about 1530 to memorialize the beauty of winter starlight.

Lions Take Gifts To Our Friends South Of Border

ONTARIO, San Bernardino County (AP)—One local man's compassion gave birth to an idea. And his unstinting efforts developed the idea into a vast welfare project.

This year Walter G. Schroeder and hundreds of his brothers in Lions International will trek to the Mexican sea coast city of Ensenada, loaded down with gifts. They will return empty handed as far as material goods are concerned but secure in the knowledge they have directly aided underprivileged people.

Schroeder had often visited Ensenada and because of his feelings for the poverty-stricken masses there, he became acutely aware of the need for any kind of help that could be given.

In the fall of 1957 he spoke at his Ontario Lions Club:

"Why don't we go down to Ensenada in a group and visit the Lions Club there. It can be a goodwill gesture on our part. We can learn something of their problems, something about their welfare projects and possibly we can develop a project to help the poor people in and around Ensenada."

In November 1957, 22 Lions left Ontario with a truckload of food, clothing and toys plus $150. The visitors were warmly welcomed by their brother Lions south of the border. The gifts, they were assured, would be distributed among the needy families.

As the calendar turned for 1958, Schroeder spread the idea to other clubs in the Lions Citrus Region of Southern California. His zealousness became a crusade and his unstinting work began to pay dividends.

In 1958 the Ontario Club again went to Ensenada with a large amount of supplies They were joined in 1959 by 22 Lions Clubs which gathered a total of four tons of food, clothing, medicines and medical supplies plus $800.

Among the larger gifts taken to Ensenada last year was a $1,000 incubator from the Pomona Lions, a $700 anesthesia unit from the Chino Lions and an ambulance from the West Fullerton Lions, all for a $60,000 hospital built by the Ensenada Lions Club.

Forty trucks and 500 Lions members made the Ensenada trip in 1961. The 50 tons of gifts included canned foods, 400 school desks and 200 chairs, clothing, medical supplies, toys, sewing machines, cooking utensils, furniture and 60 Little League uniforms.

This year the trip dates are Oct. 13, 14 and 15, early enough so that the Lions of Ensenada can make a distribution before Christmas. Emphasis again is on hospital supplies, school supplies, clothing, canned food and toys.

Schroeder says some 60 Lions clubs in Southern California have taken part in the Ensenada project or in similar ones to other Mexican cities.

He says, "I think we have supplied pencils and tablets for almost the entire Baja, California."

IT'S NEVER TOO EARLY on Christmas morning for little girls to jump out of bed and find dolls under the tree. Bright-eyed little sister, has discovered a cuddly doll that talks whenever she is squeezed. Big sister can talk to her big-girl doll (which has a built-in tape recorder) and then listen to a play-back of her own voice.

Dolls In Santa's Toy Pack More Like Human Beings

Dolls in Santa's 1962 toy pack are more like human beings than ever before; and, conversely, new arrivals in toyland's stuffed animal kingdom are more fantastic in concept than ever before.

Most conspicuous trend is the high incidence and rich variety of voices, reports Toy Guidance Council. Not so long ago a doll was considered especially talented if she said "mama." Thanks to electronics and other scientific marvels the gifted new dolls this Christmas not only will carry on extensive playroom-level chitchat, but also will narrate full length stories and present an extensive repertoire of songs.

One of the most remarkable arrivals on the toyland scene is a doll whose story telling is produced by a phonograph but who has no visible contact with the record player.

Another novelty sure to entrance doll lovers is an infant doll who opens her mouth wide and actually speaks baby talk accompanied by appropriate gurgles and coos when her stomach is pressed. New, too, in the toddler doll category is a diminutive walker who needs mother's helping hand to take those first difficult steps.

Quite as vocal as dolls are new stuffed animals, many of them modeled after TV cartoon characters and bearing only the remotest resemblance to real life animals.

Most unusual of this galaxy of fantastic animal characters is a seasick sea serpent, appropriately executed in a green hue. Assorted dogs, rabbits, bears and so on raise their voices in various intriguing ways. Many of the new talk-producing mechanisms require only a simple tug to start up conversation, a far cry from the old-fashioned music box with an easy-to-lose key.

The role of the teen-age doll in making children conscious of style points and grooming has been extended notably this Yuletide. The career girl takes the spotlight. New kits include complete wardrobes for the well dressed secretary, the nurse, airplane stewardess and the photographer's model.

Baby doll kits include the latest refinements in baby grooming and careful instructions on basic care of the infant. Well-designed wardrobes encourage neatness in storing the doll's elaborate wardrobe which may carry over to doll owners.

STRAIGHT FROM TV—When a cord is pulled, Calvin and the Colonel talk. They can say 11 sentences each. Models of the pair from television are on the market in smaller size and without built-in conversation.

Chop-It-Yourself Christmas Trees

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—A new wrinkle in the annual selection of Christmas trees by families is gaining in popularity.

This is the "you pick it" or "you chop it yourself" idea, a movement which probably stems from the old American family tradition of going into the forest to cut a Christmas tree and haul it home.

In New Jersey, about 300 farmers are engaged in growing Christmas trees. In many cases families drive to one of the tree plantations weeks before Christmas to inspect the crop. They make their choices and the trees are tagged with their names and the dates they intend to pick them up.

German Holy Night

The German word for Christmas is "Weihnacht" which means "the blessed (or holy) night."

Decorate Cones For Festive Air

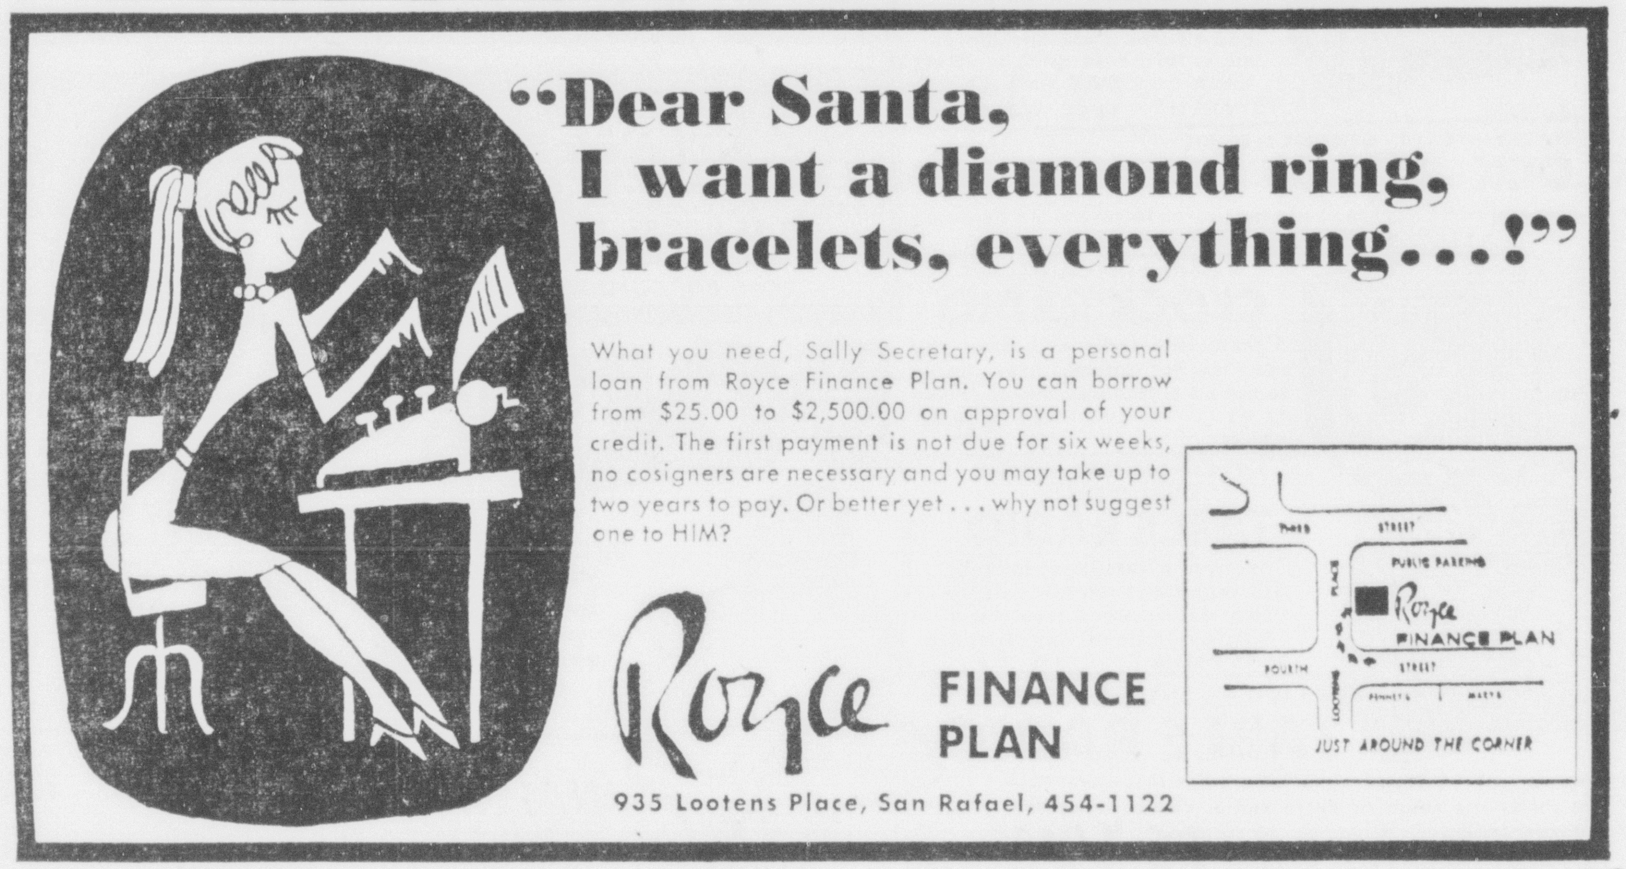
For inexpensive Christmas table ornaments and accessories, nothing surpasses the decorated pine cone for ease in doing-it-yourself.

You'll need assorted sizes of pine cones, some florist tape and wire, white cement paste and sequins, glitter, beads, and, if you like, a can of artificial snow.

Christmas Custom In Swedish Homes

The entire family gathers in the kitchen in many Swedish homes on Christmas Eve.

Before the festival meal, each member dips a piece of bread into a kettle of broth in remembrance of a historic famine, when the only food available was dark bread and broth.



"Dear Santa, I want a diamond ring, bracelets, everything...!"

What you need, Sally Secretary, is a personal loan from Royce Finance Plan. You can borrow from $25.00 to $2,500.00 on approval of your credit. The first payment is not due for six weeks, no cosigners are necessary and you may take up to two years to pay. Or better yet . . . why not suggest one to HIM?

Town Of 12 Homes Jumps At Christmas

By TYLER WHITNEY

NOEL, Va. (AP)—The town of Noel, Va., usually pops into the news but once a year — at Christmastime.

The tiny Hanover County postal station serves only 12 homes and is virtually forgotten 11 months of the year. But in December it receives letters from across the nation and throughout the world.

It is Noel's Christmas-like name which prompts most people to send bundles of cards and letters to the tiny station so they might be stamped with the "Noel" postmark and the special catchet which the Post Office Department allows the station to use.

The red-ink catchet—a rubber-stamp mark which denotes special types of mail—consists of a pair of two-inch-high angels joyfully singing "Noel, Noel."

Since postmistress Mrs. Percie L. Anderson reached the government's mandatory retirement age of 70 a year ago April, the post office operates as a private contract station. It has had to cut out rural deliveries.

For Christmas card senders, however, nothing has changed.

"The government has been real nice to me," Mrs. Anderson says. "It lets me keep my catchet postmark and everything."

Little has changed in the post office either.

There is the old-style, postal hand-stamp with the less stylish but easier-to-read postmark. Mrs. Anderson, who is ambidextrous, can stamp cards at a rapid rate.

Mrs. Anderson continues to use the old handmade desk first used by her mother. Mrs. Anderson has been postmistress for 25 years and her mother was postmistress before that for 45 years.

The post office itself is located in a tiny chicken-wire cubicle in the hallway of the Andersons' old white farmhouse.

During the rush of the Christmas season, the post office expands into the front parlor of the farm home where Mrs. Anderson and her husband, Will, known unofficially as the "mayor of Noel," sort the mail.

A retired Chesapeake and Ohio Railway official, Anderson has helped his wife with the mail for many years.

Mrs. Anderson remarked that although Christmas is the only really busy season, she receives requests throughout the year, generally from school children, for a sample of the Noel postmark and the history of the little community.

The station, originally a part of the Noel plantation (Mrs. Anderson's mother was a Noel), served for many years as a C&O railway stop where trains took on water and, incidentally, mail.

The Christmas rush first was started in 1948 when an article appeared in a Richmond newspaper telling about the tiny community with the unusual Yule name.

Now, mail pours in from all over America.

The mail often comes from the same people, each year, Mrs. Anderson says. Many even drive up from Richmond on the weekends to drop off their cards.

Does she like the extra work the name has caused?

Of course, she says.

"I meet new people each year, not to mention the other friends I have made."

CHRISTMAS EVE DESSERT IDEA

Decorative goodies form a dessert centerpiece for the Christmas Eve buffet. Holiday candies, marzipan and chocolates come out of their boxes, to be arranged on a large platter covered with spangled tissue paper. Tape the paper in place and use candles in small flat holders around the platter rim. Space miniature tree ornaments between the candles, and fill the platter with the candies of your choice. Good to look at, and delectable as dessert!

Suggested Books For Children

Every November and December since 1910 the New York Public Library has exhibited new books suggested as gifts for children.

On the golden anniversary of the practice, the library exhibited a selection from all the children's book exhibits during the past 50 years—from the books still enjoyed by children and still in print.

The library groups its books for exhibit largely by subject because of a belief that a child extremely interested in a particular subject will read books about that subject far beyond what might be considered his "age level."

This list then, is taken from the New York Public Library's 1960 exhibition of some 300 books that children love.

(Dates of publication are given.)

Holiday Glasses Should Be Gay

Whatever your choice of refreshments to serve holiday guests, it's fun to serve in gaily decorated glasses.

A new technique in glassmaking has made possible a three-dimensional Christmas tree design on clear glass tumblers, stemware and matching shaker. Each bauble-laden tree gleams with color, as do the "gifts" heaped underneath.

Arrange the festive, gold-rimmed glasses on an open shelf or atop your buffet, as part of your holiday decor.

Tried Roasting Turkey This Way?

Have you tried roasting a turkey on a rotisserie?

If you have a rotisserie-equipped gas range, set the temperature at 325 degrees. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound for roasting time.

If you wish to add a dark glaze, baste the turkey with a mixture of soy sauce and honey every 10 minutes during the final 30 minutes of cooking. If you prefer a reddish glaze, use any barbecue sauce containing tomato and paprika.

'SUITING UP' FOR '62—Bill Blagg is known most of the year as His Honor the mayor of Dierks, Ark. But at Christmastime the children of southwest Arkansas have an even more exaulted title for him—"Santa."

Arkansas Children Have Their Own Santa

In southwest Arkansas children know Santa Claus as Bill Blagg of Dierks, who has dressed in a red flannel suit for over 50 years. His annual visits on Christmas eve have brought happiness to many people of the communities in this region.

All through the year folk say "Howdy Santa" to this genial retired mill man who is the mayor of Dierks.

Bill Blagg is now 73 and his own children are grown and have children of their own who enjoy seeing Santa each year.

It was back in 1909 when Bill Blagg moved from Red Water, Tex., to Arkansas. There was a Christmas program at the school and Bill had a friend make his first flannel suit.

He always enjoyed doing a Dutch dialogue stunt for programs of various kinds, for his grandparents were from Holland. The Santa Claus role was a new one, but from that year this Yuletide role has never been missed.

Mrs. Blagg says, "Daddy is getting too old but he is always anxious to get into his red suit and I know he won't quit as long as he lives."

Last year Bill Blagg gave away 1,500 packages for the Dierks Company to every child in the community.

Many holiday seasons this Santa has gone to more than one town and this Christmas eve he plans several trips, though individual houses are not on his list any more.

When a little child jumps up in his arms and says, "I love Santa," that is all the thanks he wants.

Yule Celebrated

In England during the Middle Ages, Christmas gradually developed into a feast of good-natured reveling. When the Puritans came to political power in 1642, they immediately outlawed celebration of Christmas.

Wrote Christmas Carol

The Christmas carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," was written by the great Methodist hymn writer, Charles Wesley, whose brother, John, founded the Methodist Church.

Kitchen Requires Yule Decorations

A spotless, orderly kitchen adds its charm to holiday entertaining. So sponge clean all cupboards and appliances well in advance of the shopping rush. Clean floors, too, using a long-handled sponge-type mop to save energy and use a rapid drying cleanser that doesn't need rinsing — all of which leaves you with more pep for holiday fun.

A few decorations in the kitchen, meanwhile, add continuity and a cheery note while doing the cooking. If you have a bulletin board, pin some colorful Christmas cards on it. Or put short pine branches in a bowl on the window sill or on a shelf and attach some tinsel, tiny Christmas balls or little bows, so that it looks like a miniature tree.

Match Boxes For Decoration

A spot of glue, some felt and a puff of decorator glitter transform penny match boxes into bright Christmas tree decorations.

With a little imagination each box, covered with red, white or green felt, turns into a colorful Christmas touch, especially when a miniature snowman, tree or caroler poses on top.

First glue the felt to the match boxes, covering all except the striking surface. Then put a daub of glue on the top to catch the decorator dust. Glue a Christmas figure on top. (Wreaths, carolers and trees can be purchased at artcraft shops and five-and-ten-cent stores.)

Say It With Plates

Using red or green water paints, draw one letter of a Christmas word in the center of a white plate. Then arrange a series of such plates on a mantel or buffet so they will spell something like "Merry Christmas," "Joy" or "Noel."

Gay Shades

You can transform your lampshades into holiday decorations by covering them with pleated gift-wrapping paper attached to the wire frame with ribbon.

Flame Pudding

For a flaming Christmas pudding, place sugar cubes dipped in lemon extract around the pudding, and light them just before serving.

Gifts Of Cash Good For Many

Comes Christmas time and it's the right time to remember the many folks who have served the family in some way or another throughout the year.

If you are going to give gifts of cash, make sure you secure crisp, new bills ahead of time—put them in a special cash folder or a friendly Christmas greeting card.

Folks you may wish to remember with cash include the postman, the grocery delivery boy, the newspaper boy, the service station attendant, the milkman, etc.

Non-cash gifts are more gracious to the baby-sitter, Junior's nursery school or grammar school teacher, a special nurse, etc.

Something Wonderful Happens In The Kitchen

Something wonderful happens in American kitchens at Christmas time.

Families dig into a variety of backgrounds and come up with a delightful assortment of holiday foods. French cake rolls, Scandinavian and German cookies, Danish coffee cakes, Italian chestnut concoctions and many other European specialties are likely to appear.

Cooks also borrow recipes for foreign delights, and so do we. The following rule for Pepparkakor comes from one of the most fascinating recent cook books, "Continental Flavor" by Nika Standen Hazelton (Doubleday).

Nika Hazleton was born and educated in Europe and now lives in New York. A superb cook and a lively writer, she knows an enormous amount about good food. Nika says that "Pepparkakor are made with slight variations in all Scandinavian countries. At Christmas they are decorated and hung on the tree, and they may be cut into any desired shape with a cookie cutter. They are very pretty if frosted in the colorful Scandinavian manner, but equally good when covered with a thin, tart lemon icing."

Some cooks are so adept at cookie rolling and cutting that they can handle the most temperamental dough. To make life easy for less experienced cooks, we give you the following new technique—worked out in our own kitchen by our helper, Mary Greene—for managing this dough.

When Mary makes these cookies she rolls them, a small batch of chilled dough at a time, on waxed paper. Then she cuts out the cookies but does not lift out the shapes. Instead the waxed-paper sheets of rolled-and-cut cookies, one sheet on top of another, go back into the refrigerator to chill. When the dough is very firm, the cutouts are lifted from their places, placed on cookie sheets and baked. The tag ends of dough are re-rolled, cut and chilled in the same manner.

Nika specifies that the almonds that go into these cookies be finely ground. Instead of getting out the food grinder for this chore, we grate the almonds fine, using a small hand-operated rotary grater.

A note about flavor. Nika's Pepparkakor are the pepperiest cookies we've ever tasted. So we made up a batch with the amount of pepper considerably diminished—but all our tasters objected! We give the pepper just as Nika includes it.

We advise you to make the cookies in time to serve with pitchers of milk at tree-trimming time. They'll give your tree trimmers spirit and energy!

A TOUCH OF SCANDINAVIA comes to Christmas with eggnog, real Scandinavian figurines and traditional Pepparkakor cookies.

NIKA HAZELTON'S PEPPERKAKOR
(Scandinavian Spice Cookies)

¾ cup butter
½ cup sugar
¼ cup corn syrup (preferably the dark kind)
2 tablespoons brandy
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon ground cardamon
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons ground ginger
½ cup blanched almonds, finely ground
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

Cream butter and sugar until fluffy; stir in corn syrup and brandy. Sift flour with salt, pepper, and spices. Add to creamed mixture gradually, with almonds and lemon rind. Work with hands into a smooth dough. The dough should be stiff. Chill overnight. Roll out as thinly as possible between two sheets of wax paper. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate (350 degrees) oven for about 8 minutes. Cool, and glaze with thin Lemon Icing.

(Food Editor's Note: We like these cookies without frosting: their flavor grows on you as you eat and eat. But if you want to follow Nika's suggestion for frosting, she makes her Lemon Icing by sifting confectioners' sugar into a bowl. For each cup, she gradually stirs in 2 tablespoons lemon juice, adding more sugar or liquid as needed.)

Here's Idea For Drop-In Guests

Here are some possibilities in tinned meats: Chicken, deviled ham, tuna, corned beef, roast beef.

Or you can provide a good meal by adding a salad and bread to these easily prepared canned items: Spaghetti and meat balls, beef stew, chop suey, and chicken and noodles.

Disaster Lurks In Wings At Fete

By LYDIA BICKFORD

'Tis the week before Christmas and all through the land, small fry are busily being transformed into angels, Wise Men, shepherds, sheep, peasants, kings, animals of the forest, trumpeters, carollers and dramatic artists.

The season of the Christmas pageant is at hand, and few schools would think of closing on any other note than the theatrical.

Add to that the productions that Sunday Schools prepare, the children's choir programs which must be rehearsed, and there's no time at all left for some pleasant singing of "Good King Wenceslaus" around the piano.

For better or worse, mothers are inevitably involved in all these efforts. They must be willing and able to turn yards of cheese cloth and lengths of wire into angel wings. They must hear everyone's lines. They must calm the quaking actor, and give the proper pitch to the young singer.

Above all, they must be in attendance at all performances, outwardly serene, but inwardly terrified that something will go wrong and their offspring will suffer total public humiliation. ("If it has to happen, please let it happen to someone else's child!"

Regretably, it has happened too many times to my own. My daughter made a charming shepherdess as she came out on the stage wearing a French peasant costume that once had been mine. But I had little time to beam.

She was calling her sheep, and not a sheep appeared. After three tries, they finally got the signal, and came bounding out so animatedly that they ripped a hole in the back curtain, revealing interesting off-stage glimpses of characters at the moment half-child, half-animal.

On another occasion, I sat in a quonset hut gym while the rain poured down on the metal roof, completely drowning out every note of "The First Day of Christmas" performed by my child's class.

Strange things have happened in religious offerings too. One Christmas two angels moving in close quarters found their wings had become entwined, and they were forced to come onstage walking jerkily sidestep rather than at the gracious pace they had practiced at home.

The more ambitious the undertaking, the more likely there is to be near-disaster. My son's choir director decided to shoot for the stars, and ordered him to ascend to the church belfry, where at the appropriate time his boy soprano voice would ring out singing "Glory to God in the Highest."

Through some oversight, the trap door leading to the belfry hadn't been opened, and my son at the appropriate time was hunched on the narrow stairs sobbing with frustration.

But there have been successes in which I share vicariously. The triumph of all Christmas productions was the appearance of my young son in the starring role of "The Littlest Angel." His 52 speeches both he and I knew letter perfect.

Properly type cast as a frolicsome angel who was always getting into trouble and bounding about the stage throwing cotton snowballs at his superior angels, he and the audience were in seventh heaven.

That was both the beginning and the end of his stage career. He wisely chose to retire after a stellar performance, and thus cut down my attendance at Christmas performances from eight to seven a year.

'How-To's' For Cookie Makers

A cookie press is a wonderful time saver in making clever Christmas cookies, but there are a few hints to follow in order to assure success.

The cookie dough must be soft and pliable. Variations in flour and the size of eggs sometimes make it necessary to omit or add a tablespoon or three of flour When dough is too stiff, an egg white should be added.

When dough is mixed by hand, it may be necessary to use a bit less flour than the recipe calls for. Do not chill the dough.

Dye Tracer Shows Source Of River

PIKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —The Sequatchie River finally turned green, and old timers breathed "I told you so."

Greenish-yellow dye appeared in the Sequatchie six days after it was put in a spring across the mountain — in an effort to find the river's source. The experiments were conducted by geological engineers.

The results confirmed what old timers had contended all along.

Display Of Cards

For a pleasing Christmas card display, cut lengths of ribbon in various lengths, making a bow for the top of each one. Attach the bows to the wall and pin your cards along the length of the ribbons.

University of South Gets More Per Student

SEWANEE, Tenn. (AP) — The University of the South reports it had the most income per student of any men's college in the nation.

Sewanee received $1,832,083 in gifts during the year, an average of $2,666 per student. Amherst was a close second with $2,651.

TALENT

They Bring Yule To Radio City

Thirty-six talented young dancers annually forego the pleasures of Christmas with the family to bring a holiday spectacular to the audiences who crowd into the Radio City Music Hall.

As animated candy canes, snow men, drummer boys or dancing dolls, the Rockettes are on stage four times a day, Christmas notwithstanding. Their own celebrations are tucked into those breaks when the audience is absorbed by the showing of a movie.

In their dressing room, mirrors are almost obliterated by gift-crammed stockings, Christmas cards, bows and wreaths. Many hours of association on the part of the "alley mates," the row of five girls in each line of the make-up tables, brings a kinship as close as in a family. So the holiday gift-giving is a personal matter, whether the choice is comic or lavish.

After the last show on Christmas night, the Rockettes' employers put on a party, complete with tree, gifts, and refreshments in gratitude for the many hours the dancers have spent working on the show.

But though the girls' lives are controlled by their stage appearances, there's time to slip out for Christmas dinner with the famliy or a special date. The dinner is likely to start promptly at 6:38 p.m. and end at 8:26 p.m., but this kind of life is normal to the dancers.

CANDY REINDEER makes a clever place card, package ornament or small gift for the neighborhood children.

Making A Sweet Reindeer

A small roll of candy covered in white paper makes the body of the reindeer.

Long pipe cleaners can be pasted together under the package and bent to form the legs and feet.

Two cleaners joined together with spool wire and wound around a pencil are then stretched and bent into the shape of a reindeer's head, antlers and neck.

Part of an additional pipe cleaner makes the tail.

A decorative ribbon bow and a few touches with a black pencil complete the reindeer.

Radio Station Rigs Talking Trash Can

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — To picture the expressions on Chatanoogans' faces, try to imagine how you would feel if you dumped a candy wrapper in a sidewalk trash container and it said, "Thank you."

The talking trash can was rigged up by personnel of radio station WDXB on a downtown sidewalk. Swinging its lid activates a recording.

Gift For Boatsman

A set of signal flags makes a colorful gift. For larger boats with cabins try a set of dishes or glasses with nautical designs. Fog horns, life preservers, and an extra boat light are all useful.

Lion Hunters Search Tunnel

CAMP VERDE, Ariz. (AP) — Two mining engineers from California rushed into this north central Arizona community and reported a mountain lion crouched in a nearby mine tunnel.

Ralph Monroe and Buddy Stephens, part-time lion hunters, went to investigate. They approached the mine entrance cautiously, rifles at ready.

Monroe turned his flashlight toward the dark tunnel while Stephens prepared to fire.

Inside was a sleeping porcupine.

Greeting Cards

If you don't get 13½ greeting cards at Christmas time, you are batting below par. At least that is the estimate of one greeting card manufacturer.

Atlantic City Keeps Light In The Window

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Owners of shops on Atlantic City's Boardwalk have been asked to keep their windows lighted at least until 11 p.m. during conventions.

A division of the Chamber of Commerce said the request is part of a campaign to give the Boardwalk a "cheerful look" and to give visitors a better impression of the resort.

Out Of The Frying Pan

SAN ANDREAS (AP) — Anne James found 11 quail eggs on a recent rock-hunting expedition and brought them back to her home in this Mother Lode town.

She put the eggs in a moist cloth and placed them in an electric frying pan turned down to its lowest temperature. For the next seven days, she carefully turned the eggs.

It wasn't a new recipe. The eggs eventually hatched and Anne was the unofficial mother of a flock of live and healthy baby quail.

Outdoor Christmas Decorating Centers On Lighting

Nearly all outdoor Christmas decorating is centered around planned lighting. That's because so many interesting night-time effects can be achieved with lights of various colors, sizes and shapes. But even strictly daytime arrangements can be enhanced with proper spotlighting of key points.

The streamer is the main standby for outdoor lighting of house outlines, windows, shrubs, trees and yards. A streamer is a number of lights strung on lengths of wire and spaced 12, 18 or 24 inches apart. Streamers are available at any store which sells the conventional indoor lighting sets. It is important that you doublecheck to be sure it is the outdoor type you are getting, since this variety is constructed of waterproof wire, with weatherproof sockets and gaskets to prevent rain from causing a short circuit.

The simplest and most popular way to use streamers is to string them around the house outlines. The first step is to nail "guy wires" along gable lines, beneath gutters, down the corners of the house and wherever the lights are desired.

Guy wires are merely wires to which the streamers are attached on small hooks. No. 20 size rustproof guy wires are practically invisible—and many families leave them up from one holiday season to another even when lighting sets are not attached to them. In attaching the wires to the house, use rustproof nails.

The guy wires are also useful to give uniform-shaped lighting to a ragged or lopsided tree. Run four regularly spaced wires from the top of the tree to wooden stakes driven into the ground. Then run lights either up and down the wires or around them.

Outdoor spotlights, or floods, can be used back of trees or shrubs to throw them in silhouette, or to add a touch of color to the front of the house

Color caps are available to clamp over the lamp and provide a variety of colors. Spotlights beamed at decorated doorways should be set so they do not shine into the eyes of persons going in or out.

From a safety standpoint, never use anything but outdoor fixtures and equipment. Weatherproof connections and flexible underground cables are only a small part of the vast amount of outdoor electrical material which has made an appearance on the market in recent years. There no longer is an excuse for using a makeshift arrangement outdoors.

Outdoor lighting at Christmas time puts an extra strain on your home's wiring system. If you contemplate outdoor lighting—and you already have some doubts about the adequacy of your wiring system—now's the time to have that electrical checkup you've been putting off.

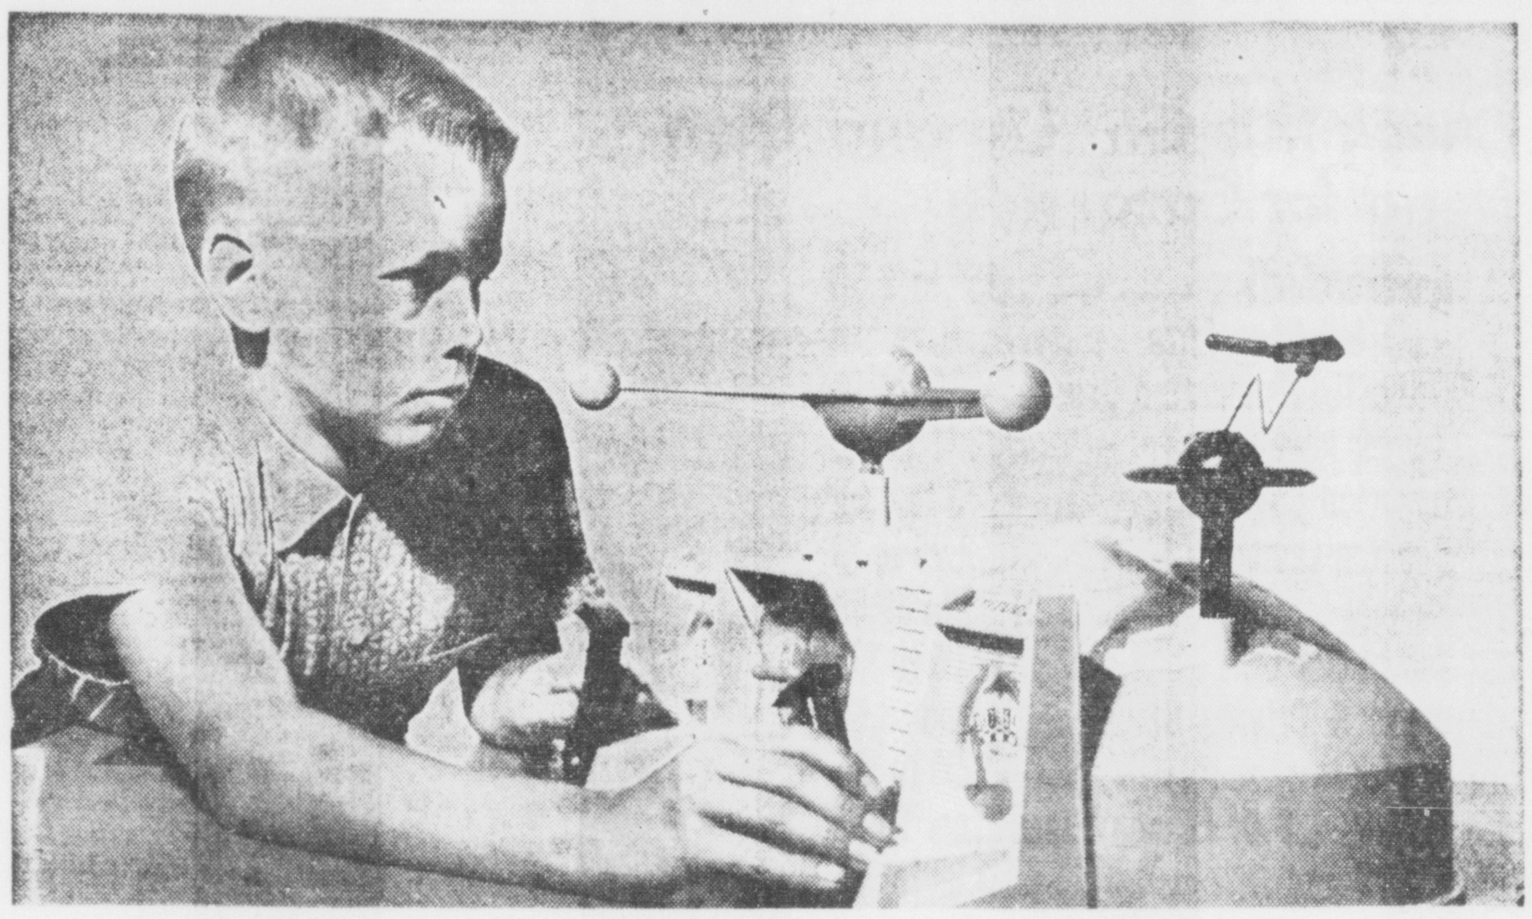
In addition to regular bulbs, there are many other kinds of lighting devices — Santa Clauses, reindeers, snowmen, etc. Here again you must exercise caution. Be sure the novelty you select is specifically made for outdoor use, since many of them are intended to be used indoors only.

If you have a table jigsaw, portable jigsaw or any type of saw which will cut through plywood or tempered hardboard, you can make delightful Christmas cutouts even if you have never had any woodworking experience.

Buy one of the full-size patterns available at lumber dealers, hardware stores or almost any other place that sells workshop equipment. Depending on the type of pattern, you either trace around it or transfer it to the wood with use of a warm iron. From there on it's merely a case of sawing out the design.

Most of the patterns are marked carefully to show you what color paint to use for each area to produce a Santa Claus or whatever the pattern represents.

Since the cutout will be outdoors in different kinds of weather, a coat of spar varnish —applied after the paint is thoroughly dry—will give it extra protection.



A YOUNG 'ASTRONAUT' AT PLAY

Coordination in space: With his left hand, a young "astronaut" revolves the solar system in this space-age toy, while his right hand controls the course of a rocket attempting to land on a planet.

Plan Teen-Age Decoration Party

If you have teen-ager friends or teen-agers in your family let them entertain their friends with a Christmas decoration party.

Provide them with a large table and plenty of materials such as red oilcloth, pasteboard boxes, Christmas balls, candles, glue, scissors, wrapping paper and the like. Invite them to come up with any sort of Christmas decoration or arrangement they can think of. You may be surprised how well they do.

Have on hand red apples, bottled soft drinks, Christmas cookies and candy. Then leave them alone.

When Dec. 25 Set

Dec. 25 was set as the day for the observance of Christmas in the sixth century.

First Christmas Cards In 1875

Christmas cards were first offered for sale to the public in the United States in 1875 by Louis Prang, a Boston lithographer and a native of Breslau, Germany.

Two billion greeting cards are mailed each Christmas in the United States. This is an average of about 50 cards per family.

When the greeting "merry Christmas" was first used, the word merry did not mean joyful or gay as it does now. In those days, it meant blessed, peaceful or pleasant.

Nativity Scene

Still the most popular theme for modern Christmas cards is the Nativity scene. Hundreds of interpretations have appeared, many of which are reproductions of the old masters.

Children Can Work On Tree

Fold Fish For Good Decoration

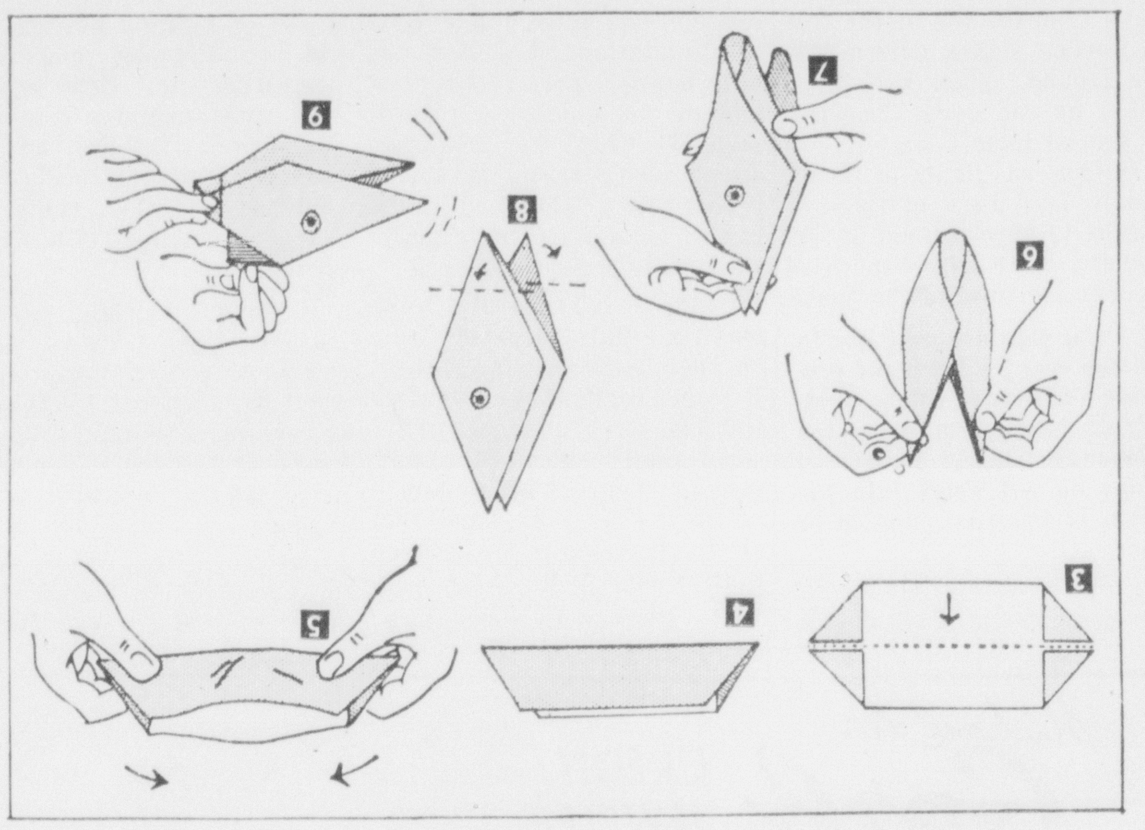
If children want to make Christmas tree ornaments, TV children's entertainer Shari Lewis is all for it.

Let them make a decoration or two for the family tree, she says, or give them a small tree of their own to decorate completely.

Miss Lewis also is very enthusiastic about paper folding—which can be done whether a child is well or ill, rich or poor and which can result in paper toys, puppets, party favors, little gifts for other children and decorations for the Christmas tree.

She gives instructions for a mouth-moving fish, which can rest on a Christmas tree limb and come down from time to time to "talk." It's from her new book, "Folding Paper Puppets."

1. Start with half of a square.
2. Bring the lower edge of the rectangle to meet the upper edge. Crease sharply and open the paper.
3. Fold each of the four corners to the center fold, so that the rectangle now comes to a sharp point at each side.
4. Fold the bottom edge to meet the top edge. The center fold is now on the bottom.
5. With one hand at each corner, grasp the paper along the center fold. Roll your hands upward and toward one another, so that the center of the paper opens and the two points start to meet.
6. Slip the left point (and the two sides adjacent to the left point) into the right.
7. Grip these points (now one within the other) in your right hand. This is the fish's mouth, so pinch firmly to keep it shut. Place your left index finger on the round section, tap gently toward the points until you have made a distinct indentation. Place the fish carefully on the table. Wipe your extended left index finger over the entire fish from tip to tail, flattening it. Sharpen the tail folds.
8. The tail is divided into two fins. Fold back the very tip of the upper fin. Turn the fish over and fold the other fin the same way.
9. Grasp one of these tiny tail fins in each hand and when you pull your hands apart, the fish's mouth will open.



CHILD'S OWN TREE—Decorated with folded paper animals the child creates himself.

Give Neat, Simple Ties

Two words tell the story of neckwear for Christmas choosing—simplicity and neatness.

Those who are shopping for ties to brighten-up a man's wardrobe will discover "simple and neat" does not mean that new cravats are dull, uninteresting or prosaic. The new ties have a really fresh look via the orderly handling of their designs.

New popular panel fabrics have side borders created by either color or pattern—center panels have both bold and controlled motifs, and some ties carry just a hint of pattern working its way into the center section of the tie.

The San Francisco-based advertising agency of De Grace and Associates has been named to promote services and facilities of stores in the Corte Madera Shopping Center complex.

"We are undertaking increased promotion and communication to our customers and the population of fringe marketing areas to emphasize the scope of our integrated shopping center," said Harry Kramar, Merchants Council president at the center.

He said that the objective for publicity during the next year will be "to tell the one-stop service story of our center."

Joe De Grace, owner and operator of the De Grace agency, lives in Corte Madera. He opened his service this year after serving as advertising representative for several national firms.

OPEN MON., WED., FRI. 'TIL 9

EVERYBODY HELPS—Starting Dec. 3, the Corte Madera Shopping Center will be open every evening until 9 p.m. to help purchase of holiday gifts. Above is a family which started shopping early to avoid the rush — Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Mattos of Fairfax, their son Mark half-hidden behind a shopping bag, and baby Loreen out of view but looking after a few carriages in her private buggy. (Independent-Journal Photo)

They Pay To Have Names Misspelled

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP)—Telephone directory listings are sometimes complicated.

For instance the directory spells Dr. Hart Odom's name correctly in one place and has it Odum in another.

Gordon MacGregor pays for an extra listing as McGregor so automobile customers can find his number and attorney Wesley Wraggs has his name also listed as Raggs ... in case of a case.

Consequences Of Error Are Hard

BALTIMORE (AP) — For the second consecutive year, a family gardener in suburban Rodgers Forge accidentally sprinkled powdered cement instead of lime on the family lawn.

The reasons were the same as last year: Two teen-age sons used the lime bucket to store cement; mother again forgot to verify the contents before dumping them onto the grass.

She swept it off the lawn in time, though, this year. Last year, a good rain soaked the lawn and gave the family an unplanned patio.

Archer Bags Deer On First Bow Hunt

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Paul Casper of Newton bought a new bow and arrow recently, and went deer hunting for the first time.

On his first shot he bagged a 140-pound deer.

Tri-State Peak

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP)—Tri-State Peak near here marks the convergence of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee. A disc has been imbedded in a rude stone and the letters "K," "V" and "T," have been cut into it to distinguish the three states.

Suspect Believed Accident Prone

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police suspect Benjamin Talmadge, 72, may be accident prone. Their suspicion is so strong they asked the court to revoke Talmadge's driver's license.

One day recently, police said Talmadge sideswiped a car at 9:30 a.m.; his right front door flew open and brushed two cars at 11:15 a.m.; he ran into the rear of a police cruiser at noon.

The night before, Talmadge backed into a parked car. Records showed he had two other minor accidents earlier this year.

Shoplifters Take 18-Foot Boat, Piano

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some shoplifters operate on a grand scale, Paul Brothers, an Akron store protection chief, says.

Brothers told Junior Chamber of Commerce members that one Akron store lost an 18-foot boat complete with equipment. And the store for which he works is "trying to locate" one of its concert grand pianos, he added.

Man May Be On Mars In 1970s

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Man is going to Mars—perhaps in the late 1970s.

Space scientists are as certain that manned exploration of the red planet will come to pass as they are that human beings one day will be shuttling between the earth and moon.

The United States now is committed to a multi-billion-dollar project to land the first American explorers on the moon in the decade of the 1960s.

The next grand space goal, scientists feel should be manned exploration of Mars, starting in the 1970s.

Mars is the obvious choice for expeditions beyond the moon, they say, because it is the only other planet in the sun's family believed likely to harbor life.

At the moment neither the United States nor Russia has the rocket power and the space skill to send men or even heavy robots to other planets.

But the power is coming and a bewildering variety of Mars ships already has come off the drawing boards.

James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), has said often it would be unthinkable for the U.S. space program to grind to a halt after landing men on the moon.

Proof that NASA is looking beyond the moon lies in the fact that it is developing NOVA, a super-booster generating 12 million pounds of thrust. It may be used in lunar exploration. But its main justification at present is the need for heavy load carriers to be used in deeper space.

In addition to ventures among the planets, Webb envisages giant space platforms in orbit around the earth even before conquest of the moon has been completed. The moon itself, according to NASA scientists, is destined to become a way station to the planets.

Harold B. Finger, director of the nuclear rocket program being pushed by NASA and the Atomic Energy Commission, believes atom-driven lunar ferries will some day be plying between earth and moon.

They will carry men, freight and equipment needed for the moon base. On the return trip they will carry crews on leave and perhaps lunar minerals of interest to earth.

Space platforms in orbits close to the earth, under the radiation zones, would be used to service and repair outward or homeward bound spacecraft and also as bases from which to launch space rescue missions.

Such stations also would serve as astronomical observatories capable of looking at the universe through the clear reaches of space above the obscuring atmosphere of earth, which has been likened to a dirty windshield.

Several U.S. firms have produced drawing board designs for huge stations capable of housing large crews and docking far-ranging spacecraft.

Establishment of a moon base will be a tough job. The first lunar explorers will have to seek shelter in tunnels or caves or crevices from the unremitting bombardment of solar radiation and meteorites and occasional intense showers of solar flare particles.

Spacesuits would permit only brief stays on the surface. Longer stays would have to be aboard shielded vehicles carrying the necessities of life. Later on, moon colonies under protective domes may come into existence.

Industrial firms and the Army Engineers have been designing scientists' conceptions of what a moon base would look like. A dozen different versions of the lunar vehicle also have been turned out. Some look like strange giant insects, others like huge balls, still others like Wellsian walking machines from Mars.

The utimate design will have to await word from robots and men as to what the lunar landscape is really like.

Before a lunar base can be built, a dependable transport service must be established between the moon and the earth. This appears to demand recoverable and reusable craft like Finger's space ferries. Industrial planners are working on concepts which envision use of such craft on missions as far as Venus and Mars.

Some would carry crews; others might be entirely automatic or responsive to directions from earth, space platforms or moon bases.

It is hard for a feet-on-the-ground layman to figure out where sense ends and fantasy begins in the space talk that's going around.

But Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of NASA, peddles neither fiction nor dreams. Recently he said:

"Only a few years hence, we hope to send spacecraft propelled by nuclear energy deep into the unknown on missions lasting for years."

As President Kennedy said even more recently, the United States for good or ill is sailing "into the uncharted sea of space."

BIG AID TO SHOPPERS

Expansion Of Parking Area

Wide motor throughways, engineered traffic flow lanes, new pedestrian walkways and other aids to shoppers with automobiles will be provided before the holidays at the Corte Madera Shopping Center as result of top priority accorded a major expansion project of the center's parking area.

A four-lane 40-foot main entrance is among the current projects. Similar enlargement of the subordinate entry and exit points in under way.

New and broadened throughways will expedite traffic flow within the parking areas and prevent delays even during the peak shopping hours, engineers say.

Work speed-up was ordered by members of the Corte Madera Center Merchants Council. Completion of the job is scheduled for no later than Dec. 2.

"We have decided," said council president Harry Kramar, "to set aside temporarily other objectives within our expansion and growth plan.

"Some difficulties have been experienced by our customers in the past. With anticipated record traffic before the approaching holiday season we concluded to give this top priority in order to settle this important matter once for all.

"The result should be that customers will be provided with the quickest, easiest way to park and shop."
